New Theatre Building Up In February

Contracts in 37 States Total $2,369,000

The record of theatre building contracts awarded in February shows an upswing from January. The valuation of new and major alteration projects reported for last month for the 37 states east of the Rockies totaled $2,369,000.

The figures are reported by the Dodge Reports division of the F. W. Dodge Corp. In a grouping of all theatre construction for which actual contracts were awarded in February, Dodge finds 67 projects, including 255,000 square feet of floor space.

A similar resume by Dodge for January shows 43 projects, with 153,000 square feet, valued at a total of $1,187,000.

The February figures are approximately at the same average level of theatre construction in 1937, when

20th-Fox Lists 52 Films; 22 Titles Are Announced

KANSAS CITY, March 31.—Fifty-two features will be produced on the coast by 20th Century-Fox for 1938-'39 release, it was said here today by John D. Clark, vice-president in charge of distribution, on the eve of the company's sales conference which starts officially tomorrow. Titles were announced for 22.

These will be in addition to the six films announced for production in England by Robert T. Kane. No outside production is scheduled.

"Alexander's Ragtime Band," originally on the 1937-'38 list, will start off the new season's releases. This film is now in production. In a telegram to be read at the convention, Darryl F. Zanuck, in charge of coast production, said that the coming year's program would be "the most ambitious in the company's history," with elaborate musicals and dramatic and romantic spectacles planned.

A departure will be the use of color in Hollywood production, two Technicolor features being announced, "Kentucky" and "Jesse James." Outdoor action films, currently being supplied by Sol Lesser, are not scheduled.

Shirley Temple is down for three films, as this year, the titles being "Sunnyside Up," "Susannah of the Mounties" and "Little Princess." Sonja Henie will make two, "They Met in College" being one. The three Ritz Brothers will appear in "Straight, Place and Show," "Moonstruck" and Alexander Dumas' "The Three Musketeers."

Other titles announced are "Suez," "Stanley and Livingstone," "King of the Khyber Rifles," "Splinter Fleet," "The Life of Alexander Graham Bell," "Ellis Island," "Falling Star," "Dance Hall," "Night Before the Divorce," "He Married His Wife," "Song of the Island," "What the Public Wants." In addition there will be a Dionne Quintuplet musical, a football musical, four Jane Withers films, three "Charlie Chan" productions, three in the "Mr. Moto" series, four "Jones Family" pictures, three True Stories, three Sports Dramas, four in the Romantic Adventures series and three others which are not yet set.

The new program, as announced, represents a reduction from the current year's 66 features, 52 of which Must Amount to $600,000 For Distributor of 52 Features

A major American distributor who seeks to sell 52 features in England, under the new Films Act which became effective today, will be faced with the necessity of distributing a total of eight pictures of British origin, computation based on the new quota percentages indicates. Under the quota regulations, this total of eight pictures must represent a total minimum negative cost of $600,000.

This is based on the distributor quota percentage which starts today at 15 per cent, but which also is based on that phase of the new legislation which is considered most drastic for American companies, the minimum cost clause. That clause provides that a film, to be eligible under the distributor quota, must have entailed a labor cost of £7,500 ($37,500). The labor cost is reckoned as one-half of the total negative cost of each feature. In other words, each quota film of British origin must represent a total cost of approximately $75,000.

Under the law just expiring, there was no minimum cost requirement on quota product.

Mary Pickford Off For London Talks

Mary Pickford sailed on the Normandie yesterday to attend a meeting in London at which, it was said, the United Artists partners will discuss reorganization of their participating interest in the company. The move was proposed by Samuel Goldwyn and is designed to give active producers a larger return as well as meet Alexander Korda's objections to the revenue he is obtaining from this country, it is understood.

This will be the first time that the partners have held a meeting outside the United States. Goldwyn arrived

Variety Deal

Broadway rumor reports that the publishers of Esquire are negotiating for the purchase of Variety.

Hays Meeting Monday

An adjourned meeting of the M.P.P.D.A. board is scheduled for Monday to transact business which remained unfinished at the end of the annual meeting last Monday.

Theatres' Meet Starts

Introductory discussions were on the agenda at the National Theatres divisional managers' meeting which started here yesterday with Spyros Skouras. Today the conferences will take up specific matters of product and operation. Six division managers and others are attending.

Canada Holds RKO Lead

With the Ned E. Depinet Drive conducted by RKO now past its halfway mark, M. Plottel's Montreal branch continues to hold first place, while Vancouver, under the direction of W. S. Jones, is still in second position. The Canadian territories are followed in order by San Francisco, Buffalo, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Washington and Seattle.

Expect 1,000 Will Attend ITOA Dance

Arrangements have been made for an attendance of 1,000 at the fifth annual dinner and ball of the I.T.O.A. tomorrow night at the Hotel Astor. In addition to industry representation, many tickets have been sold to the public for the first time.

Six plaques, emblematic of the six "best pictures of 1937" selected by fans in the Daily Mirror contest, as well as five cups to individual stars, will be awarded. The cups will go to Paul Muni, selected in the poll as "most popular hero"; Myrna Loy, "most popular actress"; Hugh Herbert, "most popular comedian"; Joan Davis, "most popular comedienne," and Basil Rathbone, "most popular villain."

Eddie Cantor will be master of ceremonies and present the trophies. Also scheduled to appear are Jack Pearl, Milton Berle, Block and Sully, Ted Lewis, Allan Jones, Irene Dunne, Bill Robinson and others.

Eli Dantzig's orchestra and Godoy's Cuban-Rhythm Band will play for dancing. The film companies have taken boxes. Cocktails will be served in the lounge before dinner. Doors will open at 10 P. M.

Dave Weinstock is chairman of the ball committee and Maurice Fleischman chairman of the program committee.

Rosenberg Calls for Allied Buying Delay

Pittsburgh, March 31.—"Notwithstanding that theatre grosses are off from 20 to 35 per cent and the fact that most of the producing companies are cutting down their studio expenses, all of the film distributing companies have initiated their 1938-'39 sales drives by demanding as much or more money for their new product," M. A. Rosenberg, general chairman of the National Allied Convention, declared today.

"Exhibitors will save themselves money if they will withhold signing any contracts for next year's product until after the National Allied Convention, May 17 to 19, at which time we will all have a better line on what business conditions will be during the next year," Rosenberg declared.

Chairman Rosenberg stated that all indications point to a well attended convention. The convention headquarters will be at the William Penn Hotel, and a number of large manufacturers of theatre equipment and accessories have made arrangements to display their product at the building show which will be held in conjunction with the convention.

Set Night Club Pact

The American Federation of Actors' first contract for night club performers since being awarded jurisdiction over that entertainment field several weeks ago was signed with Billy Rose's Casa Manana during an open meeting of A.F.A. members at the Edison yesterday.

Set Another Gable-Loy

Hollywood, March 31.—M-G-M will co-star Myrna Loy and Clark Gable in "Too Hot to Handle" following completion of "Test Pilot." Jack Conway will be director; Lawrence Weingarten, producer.

Pennsylvania Chain Tax Case Reopened

Harrisburg, March 31.—The state chain stores and theatre tax case, which was believed closed, was reopened in the Dauphin County Court today to admit testimony offered by three theatre circuits affected by the act which imposes a license fee of from $1 to $500 on each store or theatre of a chain, dependent on the number of units.

The testimony today was offered in behalf of the Stanley Co. of America, Warner Brothers Theatres and Warner Brothers Pictures. There are 187 theatres controlled by the Stanley and Warner companies in Pennsylvania, the testimony showed, 99 of which are owned by the companies, and 88 are leased. Three others are leased to Warner Brothers Pictures. Figures were submitted on seating capacity, receipts and expenditures in an effort to show that the tax is unjust and unequal, and would be particularly unjustifiable in the case of smaller theatres, most of which are leased.

Judge William M. Hargest revealed that so far he has received only one brief, although argument ended Feb. 17. There will be no argument on the testimony submitted today.

High Court to Hear Dallas Case Monday

The U. S. Supreme Court will hear the distributors' appeal from the Dallas Federal Court decision in the Interstate Circuit case on Monday, home office attorneys were told yesterday.

Indications are that the case will be the first one called on the court's calendar Monday morning. The court's decision is expected to be handed down in three to seven weeks after the hearing. The case involves the right of distributors to regulate subsequent run admission prices and prohibit double featuring by means of contract clauses.

Lowered Quebec Age Limit Off for Year

Toronto, March 31.—The film industry's drive to secure a reduction under 16 years in the Quebec ban on the attendance of juveniles at theatres has met a temporary setback, according to word received here by Famous Players Canadian Corp.

Premier J. A. Duplessis of Quebec has stated that he had intended to urge a reduction in the age limit because films are a fine educational medium, but the problem is so complicated that it has been decided to postpone action for a year.

In the meantime juveniles are seeing "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" when accompanied by an adult outside of school hours.

Music Suit Against Erpi Dated April 25

Federal Judge John C. Knox yesterday set April 25 as the date of trial of the suit of John G. Paine as assignee and trustee of approximately 100 music publishing houses against Erpi. The suit is for $149,949 for alleged failure to pay royalties on a contract whereby the music publishers had licensed Erpi to reproduce various songs in pictures.

The London meeting will officially open the company's new six-story building in Soho Square.

The foreign delegation also includes Edward F. Lomba, Hutchinson's assistant; Irving A. They had it easy until the experts among the eastern delegation adjusted themselves to the five-suit variation.

New Theatre Building Up In February

Dodge reported, for 12 months, 885 projects valued at $27,225,000.

A comparison of the two-month period of this year with that of 1937 makes an interesting disclosure, says the reporting company. In 1938 fewer theatre projects, for new and major alteration work, with a smaller total area, had a higher total contract valuation than was recorded for the two months of 1937.

The Dodge Corp. shows this in the following table:

	2 Months 1938	2 Months 1937
No. of projects.. (New and major alteration work)	110	118
Sq. ft. floor area.	408,000	412,000
Total contract valuation	$3,556,000	$3,393,000

These figures, as indicated, are for 37 states. Figures for the 11 Pacific slope states are not available from the reporting company.

Aylesworth founded NBC about 12 years ago and became its first president. During his tenure he was credited with contributing much to the present healthy status of commercial broadcasting through network development and his success in interesting national advertisers in the sponsorship of programs. In 1931, when he was serving as chairman of the board of NBC, he was elected to the same post in RKO and occupied the dual positions until 1935. In that year he resigned from NBC to give his entire time to RKO, which he continued to do until early last year when he withdrew to join the Scripps-Howard organization.

The aerial attack on Barcelona opens the World Events division of this issue. The Duke of Gloucester follows presenting a new flag to the Inniskilling Dragoons and the big moment comes with the Army Day celebration at Fort Benning, Ga. It is a varied lead with plenty of interest and action.

The rest of the reel offers Herbert Hoover talking on the danger of a heavy armament race, a number of clever Vyvyan Donner compositions in which Eve Symington, the night club singer, models and sings in Easter hat fashions; the 17th Attack Squadron maneuvers over the Yosemite Valley and Lew (Fresh Bait) Lehr frolics vocally as Del Monte, Cal., girls play at being fish while anglers try to land them on the banks of a swimming pool. A sequence on the Grand National showing Battleship winning the English turf classic will be sent out separately. Running time, 8 mins. P.

Excitement in military maneuvers, the havoc of war, a bit of novelty and a laugh are all blended in this issue. Army Day sham battle at Fort Benning, Ga., was filmed with spectacular success. The action, noise and excitement involved in this sequence give it plenty of audience appeal.

News snapshots offers noseprinting of dogs, a demonstration of a new life-saving device for swimmers and shots of students at Harrow, an English school, parading in ludicrous straw hats. The Barcelona bombing is made vivid by the insertion of stock shots. The running of the Grand National at Aintree will be shipped separately. Running time, 7½ mins.

Paramount News

Issue No. 69

(Paramount)

The war games staged at Fort Benning, Ga., will be a highlight in the week's screen excitement. They provide more than the necessary thrills for this issue. The bombing of Barcelona occupies the lead. It is good camera reporting, but there is little action. There are many glimpses of destruction and death.

There is a comical note in the shots of a new game now the rage in London. Contestants blow darts at a target. Herbert Hoover says a brief piece on the occasion of his return from Europe and the King and Queen of England inspect a new low-cost housing development. A sequence on the recently run Grand National will be sent out today.

A varied assortment of items makes for an interesting issue. As reviewed, it lacked the clip on the Grand National Steeplechase in England which Battleship, an American-owned horse, won. Army maneuvers in Georgia pack a powerful wallop. This is an outstanding piece of photography.

Shots of the havoc caused by Rebel bombing planes in Spain, Herbert Hoover's report on conditions in Europe, the pro and con on the reorganization bill battle in Congress and how a town in Maine beat the depression complete a lively reel. The Grand National clip was due on the Bremen last night and was to have been shipped to accounts shortly thereafter. Full running time, 8½ mins. F.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 10, No. 645

(Universal)

The war show put on at Fort Benning, Ga., for the benefit of the President with tanks, bombs, machine guns, charges, crossing of foot bridges under fire and planes sweeping low is a pictorial humdinger. Hollywood producers could get ideas from the officer who staged this show.

A novel feature of the prison break scenes from Petros, Tenn., is a sketch showing the relation of the adjacent coal mine to the side hill from which the prisoners tunneled.

Herbert Hoover, just back from Europe, discusses democracy and dictatorships with his customary animation. Fishermen may get a spring kick out of seeing trout dished into a Connecticut stream. A humorous note—also seasonal—is an attempt by six fishermen standing at the end of a pool to reel in six girl swimmers to which their lines have been attached. They do it.

In the sports division a youngster does some amazing things with a cue on a billiard table, and the hockey game between the Americans and Black Hawks is exciting. A notation on the continuity sheet says the Grand National race at Aintree will be included later. Running time, without the race, 6½ mins. J.

Leon Levy, Philadelphia, also a Columbia director, disposed of 250 shares of Class A stock during the month and at the end of February held 37,850 shares of Class A and 44,900 shares of Class B stock, it was reported.

Fog Delays Arrival Of Newsreels' Film

Newsreel shots of the running of the Grand National at Aintree, England, were not made up with the rest of the reel by the various companies because of a dense fog in lower New York Bay which caused the Bremen to anchor. At a late hour yesterday no definite time had been set for the ship to dock.

Newsreel offices reported the sequence will go out as soon as it can be printed and shipped.

Honor Pitt, Pergola

A bronze plaque in memory of William Harold Pitt, Pathe News editor, and James Pergola, cameraman, who were killed in an air crash in the west on Oct. 17, has been placed in the Pathe Building lobby on West 45th St. The plaque, which was obtained by the newsreel employes' subscription, bears the likeness of the two men in relief and the inscription: "In life and death they brought honor to Pathe News." Pergola was the reel's oldest cameraman in point of service.

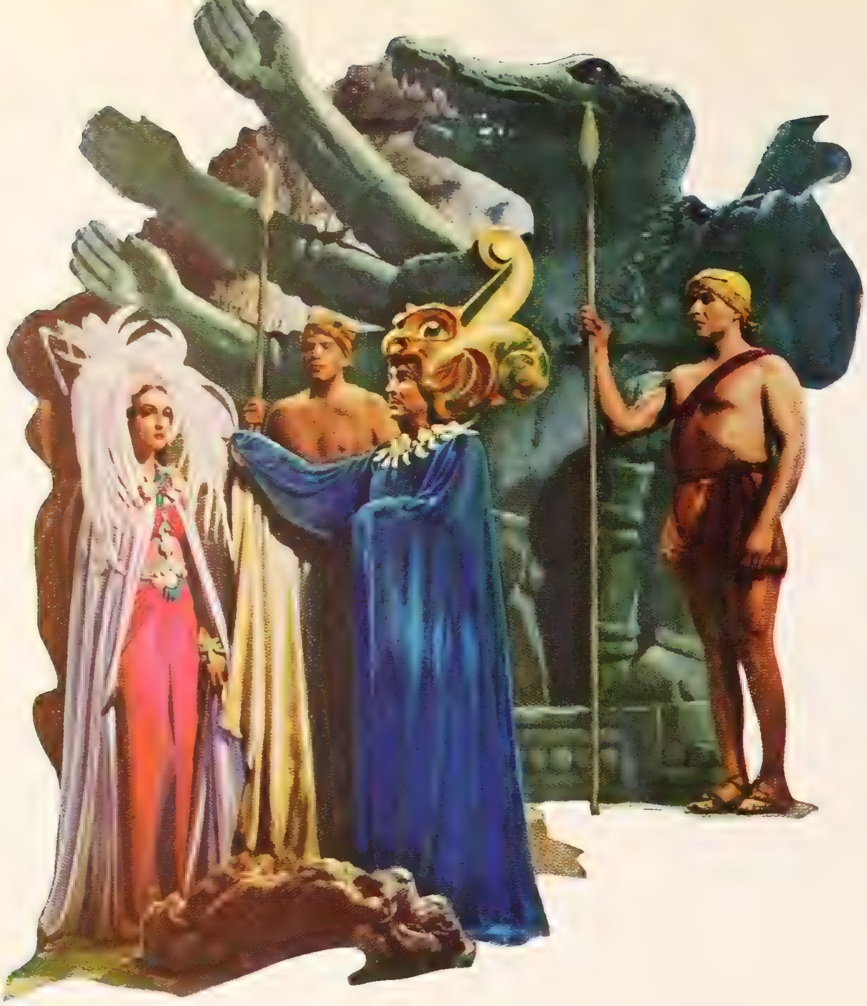
"HER JUNGLE LOVE"

JUNGLE ROMANCE One of the thrilling scenes in Paramount's Technicolor drama, "HER JUNGLE LOVE," starring DOROTHY LAMOUR, RAY MILLAND with Lynne Overman.



Mysterious White Goddess of the Jungle bares her Heart!

Better than any true story, with more punch, more box-office sock even than Paramount's "The Jungle Princess," which, overnight, made a star of Dorothy Lamour. For, added to a terrific thrill-packed script which has all the suspense, the spine-tickling thrills that audiences demand of this kind of picture, it has glamorous characterizations by Miss Lamour and by fan-popular Ray Milland, plus really impressive production-value (don't miss seeing the great earthquake sequence) and a love interest which means a hit in any language including the Malayan.

Add to all this the fact Paramount gives you "HER JUNGLE LOVE" in Technicolor, and you will understand why preview audiences insist this is another one of Paramount's parade of sure-fire box-office hit pictures.

Quota Costs High, Study Demonstrates

was the general feeling in distributor circles here yesterday that the new [illegible] regulations, at least insofar as starting percentages are concerned, are not too serious a problem for those companies which can take advantage of the double and triple quota and reciprocity clauses, but is much more serious for the majority of all companies sending product to England.

It was pointed out also that the quota will result in a considerable migration of finances to England from Hollywood. In other words, a large amount of money now spent for production in Hollywood will be spent in England under the new Films Act.

Quota Doubled, Tripled

Under the double quota provision, a film costing £22,500 for labor may count for two features under the distributor quota, and one with £37,500 labor costs may count for three under the same quota. Likewise under the reciprocal provision, where an American distributor is entitled to credit if he takes a British film for distribution anywhere else in the world, he gets single reciprocal credit if the film he takes totals £22,500 in labor cost, and double reciprocal credit if the film's labor cost amounts to £$37,500. In the case of the single reciprocal credit the distributor also must pay £20,000 for foreign rights, and in the case of the triple reciprocal credit a foreign rights' total of £30,000 must be paid.

In all cases where advantage is taken of these provisions, not more than 50 per cent of the distributor's total quota requirement must be satisfied through the use of them.

Blind Booking Forbidden

The law also provides that films available for the distributors' quota are also available for the exhibitors' quota, but the converse is not true. Likewise, the law prohibits blind and advance booking and sets heavy penalties for violation of the clauses. Booking agreements are prohibited before the trade showings of the pictures involved. Bookings are limited to six months in advance of playing under heavy penalties which are applicable to distributors only.

The distributor and exhibitor quotas both operate under a graduated scale, increasing to highs of 30 and 25 per cent for features, respectively, in the last two years of the 10 years of the new law. The new distributor quota went into effect today, the old having expired yesterday, while the exhibitor quota will not become effective until October 1, the present exhibitor quota running until September 30. However, the exhibitor quota had been lowered from the previous 20 per cent to 15 per cent during the current season and until expiration of the old schedule.

"Up the Ladder"

Mary Pickford, sailing for London yesterday, said she would take advantage of the ocean voyage to start her autobiography, which she has planned for a long time. Reporters asked what the title would be. "Anything but 'My Life'," she responded. "Have you any suggestions?" The reporters had none. Then she confided she probably would call it "Up the Ladder."

Fight Looms Over Grading Proposal

London, March 31.—The threat of a decisive battle between distributors of the Kinematograph Renters' Society and the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association was seen in informed quarters here as the result of the reported decision of the distributors not to agree to any plan aimed at cutting the length of theater programs which would interfere with their claimed right to book on percentage.

The London Branch of the C.E.A. was addressed yesterday by Ken Nyman, president, and other officials who issued a call for action in the matter.

The official organ of the C.E.A. yesterday contained a plea that exhibitor members place all their bookings with 20th Century-Fox, General Film Distributors, Pathe and Associated British Pictures, as the four distributors not imposing the plan of classifying or grading films to which the C.E.A. objects.

At the last joint conference on the problem between representatives of the C.E.A. and K.R.S., the distributors were at variance on the grading plan.

producer labor contact, today said that inability of the conferees to set a time when all would be free to discuss the annual wage scale and working condition problems was responsible for the delay. However, it was definitely ascertained that the officers of the teamsters, carpenters, electricians and musicians internationals want the pact meetings delayed because of the current slump in production and the recession in box-office returns, both of which would hurt their chances of obtaining increases and possibly might force a reduction in the wage scales.

Harold Smith, local officer of the I.A.T.S.E., today said that the delay was due to the press of other business for George Browne, international president.

It was reported in other quarters that the I.A.T.S.E., which obtained an agreement for the Screen Actors Guild last year, wants the Guild to go ahead with its own discussions on the pact and to engage in the jurisdictional battle in which the I.A.T.S.E. claims actors and all other film crafts having to do with production.

Guild officers and producers are preparing for conferences on the actors' agreement. The producers will meet this week to name a committee to negotiate with the actors.

in London with Douglas Fairbanks on Monday. After a talk with Korda Monday night he called Miss Pickford by transatlantic telephone and asked her to attend the meeting.

Charles Chaplin will be the only one of the five partners missing from the conferences. He will be represented by proxy given either to Fairbanks or Miss Pickford.

Miss Pickford yesterday confirmed that all negotiations with David Selznick, either for purchase of a partnership interest in United Artists or to continue as a producer, "have been stopped."

Miss Pickford said the London conferences "definitely do not" concern the sale of three-fifths' stock interest to Goldwyn and Korda. She indicated, however, that the possibility of a sale at some future time has not been entirely closed.

Will Visit Paris

Miss Pickford said she expected the London meetings to last a week and then she would visit in Paris for a few days, probably returning here with Goldwyn and David Rose in about three weeks. Buddy Rogers, her husband, was on the pier to see her off, as was Arthur W. Kelly, U. A. general foreign manager. Miss Pickford told reporters she planned the production of a feature in England next summer in which Buddy would be starred.

M. A. Schlesinger, president of General Talking Pictures, sailed on the Normandie for conferences at the London office of the Schlesinger enterprises, which control the large share of the film business in South Africa. He said he would return in about two weeks. Karl Macdonald of Warners' foreign department saw him off.

Beatrice Lillie, another passenger, will have the lead in a C. B. Cochran revue in London.

Points Out Schools As Shorts' Market

Methods of cultivating the cooperation of schools in exploiting pictures are discussed in an article in the current issue of M-G-M Shortstory, published by the company's shorts department. The article is by Dr. C. M. Koon, formerly senior specialist in visual education in the U. S. Office of Education and author of "Motion Pictures in Education."

Dr. Koon says that "if exhibitors neglect to enlist the support of the American schools, they are missing a plus audience of 33,000,000 potential patrons."

Many shorts are suitable for exploitation through schools, Dr. Koon points out, and declares, "In preparation for his approach to schools, the exhibitor should familiarize himself with the organization and policies of the school system."

In releasing its calendar of sports events to be broadcast this summer, NBC was guilty of a lot of wishful thinking and writing.

NBC's release started by saying it would broadcast the North American zone Davis Cup matches, the Interzone Davis Cup matches and the Davis Cup challenge round.

It won't—because CBS has exclusive rights to all United States Lawn Tennis Association matches.

Also in tennis, NBC said it would have the National Singles. In the light of the preceding paragraph, NBC of course will not be able to broadcast this match either.

In golf, NBC claimed it will broadcast two of the three outstanding championships, the National Amateur and the National Open.

NBC won't have these matches, because CBS has an exclusive agreement with the United States Golf Association.

In rowing, NBC claimed the Poughkeepsie regatta, the biggest crew event. NBC will broadcast this one all right, but CBS will have the only microphone aboard the boat train which follows the crews, and will also have shortwave connections with the judges' boats, both of which are closed to NBC.

It was all accomplished by ambiguous phrasing. NBC said it would "describe or summarize" the U.S.L.T.A. and U.S.G.A. matches. Actually, and for the record, NBC will be able only to give a report of the matches in the form of a summary after the events are over. CBS will give the on-the-scene, play-by-play accounts of the games.

Other reports recommended the denial of applications of J. T. Griffin for an 880-kilocycle, 1,000-watt day station at Fort Smith, Ark.; WDNC, Durham, N. C., for change of frequency from 1,500 to 600 kilocycles and increase of power from 100 to 1,000 watts, and KTSM, El Paso, for change of frequency from 1,310 to 1,350 kilocycles and increase of power from 100 watts night, 250 watts day, to 500 watts night and day.

FCC Reports Favor Four Applications

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Granting of four broadcasting applications has been recommended by examiners of the Federal Communications Commission in reports submitted to the commissioners.

Examiner George H. Hill recommended the granting of the applications of WKAR, East Lansing, Mich., for an increase of power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts, and WDZ, Tuscola, Ill., for an increase of power from 250 to 1,000 watts.

Turbulent NAB Meet Ends; Board Reticent

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Members of the executive board of the National Association of Broadcasters refused to discuss their proceedings in detail following the close here today of their two-day session, but indications were that the discussions of the organization's future were heated and that a number of the smaller stations are highly dissatisfied with the situation.

Other members sought to ease the tension in order that the association might present united front during the chain investigation which the Federal Communications Commission has initiated.

During yesterday's session, the N.A.B. board voted to continue Philip G. Loucks as special counsel, pending the setting up of a permanent administration. At Wednesday's opening meeting, Mark Ethridge, president of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times and president of WHAS, was elected president pro tem of the N.A.B to serve without pay until a permanent administration can be selected.

Transradio Not for Sale, States Moore

"Transradio is not for sale at any price," was the way Herbert Moore, president of the news service, yesterday scotched a report that control of Transradio Press Service may be bought by a national network.

Moore admitted that Isaac Levy of CBS recently had offered to buy a small block of Transradio stock if it could be obtained. "Up until this time," Moore said, "it has not been possible to make any stock available to Levy's group. Although we do not need financing, and have never had to borrow a single cent, we wish to have it clearly understood that if we can accommodate Levy's group, we will certainly do so, for our good and the general good of the radio industry." Levy is a director of CBS, and an executive of WCAU, Philadelphia.

The general position of Transradio is good, Moore said. He admitted, however, several losses in certain sections of the country but pointed to noteworthy gains. The controlling stock of Transradio is held by Moore and two associates.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Suggested mposition by Congress of strict regulatory supervision over the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and a proposal that all telephone rates might be slashed by 25 per cent without impairing the utility company's present arning standard, were embodied in a entative report of the Federal Communications Commission today by Commissioner Paul Walker.

Clark Reports Record Sales For 20th-Fox

Contracts 600 Over Last Year at This Time

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—More than 10,000 contracts were sold by 20th Century-Fox during 1937-'38—a record year for the company, John D. Clark, vice-president in charge of distribution, told the delegates at the opening session of the annual sales conference here today.

The 1938-'39 selling season, which started in January, has produced 600 more contracts than were sold by this time last year, Clark said.

Attendance at the two-day convention has been boosted to 105. Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board, and Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief, telegraphed that the new season's program would contain a larger percentage of big pictures. Schenck's message also said that the exchange improvement program will continue during the next two years and that new projection equipment will be installed in all branches.

Convention Told Two-Reelers Out Because of Duals

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—The double billing situation has impelled 20th Century-Fox to reduce the number of shorts for distribution in the new season, convention delegates were told here today. At last year's sales meeting a program of 100 shorts was announced, including 42 two-reelers. For next season the company will have only one-reelers.

Truman H. Talley will have executive supervision over shorts production with Lew Lehr as producer of the 26 shorts the company will make itself. There will also be 26 TerryToon cartoons, at least six in color.

The "Magic Carpet" and "Adventures of a Cameraman" series will be continued, with six of the former and four of the latter scheduled. The "Magic Carpets," with Lowell Thomas as commentator, will be in magazine feature style, dealing with topics of current interest. Several may be in color.

Also scheduled are six "Sport Re-

KENT REITERATES NEELY BILL STAND

Replies to Myers; Says Allied Bulletin Was "Personal Attack"

Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, reiterates his statements that the Neely Bill would force the sale of completed pictures only, and at increased rentals, in a letter to Abram F. Myers, chairman of Allied States Association, yesterday, replying to the latter's recent bulletin to Allied members.

"If this bill simply stated that pictures should be sold hereafter one at a time, and be bought hereafter one at a time, I would not oppose it," Kent declares. His letter reviews his record of service in the interest of industry trade practices and challenges statements contained in Myer's bulletin which Kent says he regards as "a personal attack upon me and my good faith."

"I said," Kent's letter to Myers states, "that I thought that our company could survive a bill which required pictures to be sold only after they are made. There are companies in this industry, however, who cannot afford to take the same position that

"Although the independent exhibitors of Kansas City are in desperate need of relief, the Neely-Pettengill bill would not give the desired results. We exhibitors feel that we must be assured of a continuous supply of product which this bill would disrupt."

The organization voted against asking patrons for contributions to the Will Rogers Memorial Fund.

crisis which will require action at a special session of the Legislature in the near future, Representative Lody Huml, one of the House leaders in relief legislation, told the group that when a special session is called he will introduce a five-point relief program which would include increasing the admissions tax by 10 per cent.

Curb on AT & T Asked in Probe Report to Congress

tentative form, was approved only by Walker, and by no other member of the F. C. C. Walker indicated that the report "suggested" the commission's position in the matter.

Recommendations of the report, in addition to those applying directly to telephone company financing, operation, etc., include:

Amendment of the Communications Act to prohibit discrimination not only of services and charges in connection with the use of wires in chain broadcasting or incidental to radio communication of any kind, but also of practices, classifications, regulations and facilities, which would assist the F.C.C. in dealing with any future discriminations in the use of wires in chain broadcasting or radio communication.

Limitation of Scope Asked

The granting to the commission of jurisdiction and authority to limit the scope of Bell System activities to the communications field, including the power to prohibit any company from devoting its assets and energies to commercial exploitation of non-communications fields when it appears that such activities may be detrimental to the public interest.

In submitting the report, Chairman Frank R. McNinch, reviewing the investigation, which began in 1935 and continued until last June, pointed out that the activities of the commission bore concrete fruit even while the investigation was going on, citing, among other things, the revision of wire service charges to radio stations, effecting savings calculated at $530,000 a year and removing certain discriminations, and liberalization of licensing policies in non-communications fields by Erpi and Western Electric to permit others to manufacture such equipment.

The report points out that the Bell System controls "practically all wire facilities used in radio program transmission" and "with the exception of wire and radio telegraph service, communication by wire and wireless, including transmission of broadcasts (but not the operation of radio stations) is now a monopoly" controlled by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Film Activities Recounted

"A large number of the most important motion picture producers in the United States have depended, since 1927, upon Western Electric sound recording equipment," it continued. "In addition, a large number of motion picture houses use sound reproduction equipment manufactured by Western Electric and leased through a subsidiary, Electrical Research Products, Inc. The Bell System divides this business with Radio Corporation of America. In addition to the manufacture, lease, and servicing of recording and reproducing equipment for picture exhibition, Erpi has engaged directly or through subsidiaries, in the consulting business with reference to technical problems in motion picture production, has serviced reproducing equipment in theatres, and has undertaken to promote and finance industrial and educational pictures. In some notable instances, it has also advanced millions of dollars of funds to producers and exhibitors of sound motion pictures using Western Electric equipment."

The telephone company early engaged in research in the radio field and in these efforts, the commission charges, was shaping its research policy to "afford it a controlling patent position in radio." Television work began in 1926 and as yet has had no practical application in the Bell System and, the report charged, "although officials of the American company have testified that their company is at present interested solely in the transmission of television rather than the production of sending and receiving apparatus, by far the largest part of the expenditure has been its project No. 33089, on 'Systems of Television,' largely devoted to television sending and receiving apparatus." This effort constituted about 65 per cent of the total television research expense; approximately another 15 per cent was expended in demonstration of the advances accomplished, and some 12 per cent directly concerned the wire transmission of television, it was said.

Called Television Factor

"Through its radio telephone developments it exercises a strong influence upon the present radio industry, in which other blocks of private capital are invested," it was pointed out. Its future influence in television, as that industry eventually develops, may be considerable, and will rest in no small degree upon its present research activities, which are underwritten by the Bell System's wire telephone subscriber."

License agreements with producers and exhibitors have been the chief device in effecting the Bell System's exploitation of the sound film field, the report charged. Various revenue figures of Erpi are listed, and mention is made of the sale by Erpi of theatre service contracts to Altec Service Corp. last December. With that sale and the granting of non-exclusive patent licenses to General Theatres Equipment and Motiograph, Inc., the commission said, it appears that Erpi is restricting rather than extending its direct exploitation of the sound film field.

Erpi Criticised

"Confinement of the resources of the Bell System to the rendition of communications service does not mean necessarily that such resources may not be used in part for purposes of improvement in the art in fields related to wire communications, such as perhaps television, because the transmission of images may eventually become a necessary part of improved telephony.

"It does mean, however, that attempts by the Bell System to control or exploit, through research and the activities of Electrical Research Products, Inc., or other subsidiaries, and patent protection activities, developments in non-communications fields should be prevented."

tentative form, it was disclosed in a statement by Commissioner T. A. M. Craven, was decided upon because partial information concerning its contents "has reached a limited number of persons including a part of the public press" while at the same time "members of Congress, which appropriated the funds to conduct the investigation, have not been permitted to receive such information, despite repeated individual requests therefor."

Craven, not a member of the commission during the investigation, criticised it for denial to the telephone company of the right of cross-examination and rebuttal, and disclosed that he did not agree with some of the recommendations in the report.

It was made clear by Chairman McNinch that the "proposed report is not a report by the commission" and that the formal report, as has been predicted, would be submitted later.

Kent Repeats Stand Against Neely Measure

am taking with regard to individual [illegible], and I do not wish to inflict ships upon producers now strug- ing to make both ends meet. The gument has been advanced that I ould not oppose this bill because it ould probably throw more business r way. That argument is short- ghted. I don't want that kind of siness or any business that comes to e as a result of legislation of this nd."

Myers' bulletin was issued in answer a letter sent by Kent to 20th Cen- ry-Fox's exhibitor accounts on arch 10 setting forth Kent's reasons r opposing the Neely bill, detailing e harm he believed would result om its enactment and urging those hibitors who agreed with him to dress their senators in opposition to e measure. The Myers' bulletin nied that the Neely bill would force stributors to sell pictures only after ey were completed, and at higher ntals. It stated that it was neces- ry "to test out the statements" made Kent "in the light of his past per- rmance" and because he has taken upon himself "to carry the fight of e major distributors against the eely bill."

Letter to Accounts Only

He points out that his letter was dressed solely to his company's cus- mers and "only incidentally carried e fight of those who, with me, elieve in the viciousness of the Neely ll and its harmful effect upon those ith investments in the industry." ent denies that there is any contra- iction in his testimony before the ouse committee on the Pettengill bill 1936 and in statements made in his tter to the company's exhibitor ac- ounts. He points out that he stated both instances that he preferred the nglish anti-block booking law to the eely bill, which he regards as "twice s drastic" as the former.

Kent states that he recalls that yers, as a Federal Trade Commis- oner, endeavored to get the industry adopt a principle of a 35 per cent ifferential between what could be aid for a picture sold in a group and hat could be asked for the same icture sold individually.

Defends Own Record

"It is my firm belief," Kent observes Myers, "that you, yourself, are not nxious to kill block booking because ou have always tried to preserve the rinciple of the wholesale price at- ached to the individual picture. In ther words, you want to strangle lock booking on one hand but have ne benefit of a wholesale price on the ther."

This, Kent asserts, is impossible nder the Neely bill.

Defending his own record in ex- ibitor-distributor efforts at trade ractice regulation, Kent declares that the main reason" voluntary programs ere not adopted in the past "was the elief of other distributing companies hat the anti-trust laws presented in- uperable obstacles." As to his personal opposition to legislative efforts sponsored by Allied under Myers' leadership, Kent says they were due to his belief that such measures were "unworkable, punitive in intent and not in furtherance of the best interest of all those who had investments in the industry. They were bills presented to 'ham-string' the producers and distributors, while giving nothing to the independent exhibitors along the line indicated by the sponsors."

Charges Tactlessness

Kent declares that the establishment of 20th Century-Fox as a dependable source of product has been "as important to the independent exhibitors of this country as anything that you (Myers) have accomplished for them during the past five years." Recalling other services in the interest of exhibitors "rendered on a no-pay basis," Kent remarks that "I do not see where you, of all persons, who get paid for your services, have any right to complain and point out a lack of results on my part. I could just as consistently, and just as fairly challenge your record of accomplishment throughout all these years, for which you did get paid."

Replying to Myers' advancement of the "moral issue" as an argument for passage of the Neely bill, Kent observes that if the argument is advanced sincerely, "Why should you object to imposing the same penalties of fine and imprisonment to prohibit any exhibitor from buying and booking any pictures until he has seen the picture screened and really knows what it is all about? Why doesn't your law, under the same criminal penalties, require the exhibitor to publish this synopsis in the local newspaper so that the community can know just what the picture is before they pay admission to the theatre to see it?"

Cites Responsibility

"Of course," Kent states, "I have no objection to your pointedly reminding the exhibitors of the country to bear in mind for future use my opposition to the Neely bill. I have likewise pointed out in my letter where the responsibility will have to rest for what I deem to be the harm that will be caused them and the rest of the industry if the bill is enacted."

consideration of this important measure in circumstances which will permit freedom of debate."

In the House, the block booking legislation is tied up in the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, with no indication that efforts will be made to pry it loose during this session of Congress.

Ken Stowman of WCAU in Philadelphia phoned this department yesterday with the following statement made by Leon Levy, president of WCAU, concerning the naming of Mark Ethridge as president pro tem of the N. A. B.:

"The board of directors of the N. A. B. is to be commended upon its ability to induce Mark Ethridge to become its temporary president. Ethridge is a sound business man and is awake to the problems of the N. A. B. It is now imperative that all stations join the N. A. B. and support Ethridge."

We think it fine that the Levys, Leon and Isaac, or "Ike" as the latter is known in the business, are once more actively in the ranks of the N. A. B., bending every effort to boost the organization. It wasn't so long ago that the Levys were bitter antagonists of the N. A. B., because they deemed it a supine, helpless organization. The N. A. B. could use more members with as much spirit as they have.

No grass grows under the feet of Bill Schudt, general manager of WBT, the CBS station in Charlotte, N. C. Bill has met the attack of southeastern newspaper publishers against radio as an advertising medium in their area with a brochure called "Here Are the Facts." Because of obvious space limitations this department cannot go into the contents of the brochure, but it quite effectively spikes the guns of the publishers.

We particularly admire the good taste of Bill's foreword. He states: "The purpose (of the brochure) is not to 'build up a case' for radio. It needs no buildup. Nor is it our purpose to 'tear down' any other medium. . . We merely seek to throw light on statements recently made, in bitterness, by southeastern newspapers. In our opinion, these statements are destructive to all business because they are destructive to advertising . . . and harmful to the southeast because, through distortion of facts, they create a picture of our section that we who live and work here know to be untrue."

The New Yorker again has attempted to reach William S. Paley for a profile, but the CBS president still is personal publicity shy.

The company, engaged in the [illegible] screens in the U. S. and abro alleged by the commission, in advertising in circulars and catalogs, wit representing that certain sound screen were flame-proof and of top quality whereas in fact, according to scientifi authority, they were neither.

J. A. Tanney, president of Sales-on Sound Corp., said yesterday that th matter has been pending about tw years and that the company filed stipulation agreeing to discontinue th "flame-proof" description more than year ago. He said further tha S-O-S is merely a distributor of th screens and relied on manufacturers statements as to their qualities.

There was no intent to defraud, he said, and while the company is willing to file another stipulation concerning the advertising, it will contest the allegation of fraudulent intent. The complaint resulted from a controversy in the trade over the meaning and origin of the descriptions complained of, which are considered to be ambiguous, he said, and he expressed the opinion that the F. C. C. ruling will apply to similar advertising by other companies.

Oscar Strauss Sued

A $20,000 suit against Oscar Strauss was revealed yesterday in N. Y. Supreme Court when Select Theatres Corp., the plaintiff, filed application to examine Strauss before trial. Select brought suit as assignee of Jacob J. Shubert, charging that Strauss breached a contract in which he granted exclusive rights to Shubert to present "Marietta" for five years in the United States and Canada. Select alleged that at the time when Strauss sought to grant the rights to Shubert, Les Editions Salabert and not he was the true owner.

Paramount Cash on Hand Increases to $12,000,000

With consolidated cash and marketable securities of approximately $12,000,000 now on hand, the cash position of Paramount Pictures, Inc., is better currently than it has been at any time during the past year, Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee, stated yesterday. Cash at this time a year ago amounted to $10,782,171.

An improvement in the company's current cash position amounting to approximately $3,500,000 has been recorded since last September, Griffis reported. The current improved cash position is after the payment last Friday of the first quarter dividends on the company's six per cent first and second preferred stocks, amounting to $300,000. The results noted are credited to fiscal planning and the revision of general operations to contend with lower theatre receipts which have prevailed for some months past.

Taking cognizance of current reports, Griffis said that no executive changes are contemplated in Paramount, either at the studio or in the home office. The terms of all members of the board of directors expire in June, necessitating the election of 15 directors at the annual meeting, which is set by the company's bylaws for June 21. Indications are that all or most of the present directorate will be reelected.

Union Pact to Tip Exchange Cost Heavily

An increase of approximately $400,000 a year in exchange operating costs for the eight major companies is estimated by a distributor home office official on the basis of the contracts in effect with the Film Exchange Employes' Union. A basic agreement implementing the local pacts is soon to be ratified by the film companies and George E. Browne, president of the I.A.T.S.E.

The estimate of costs, made by an executive who attended the protracted conferences, is calculated on the employment of 3,000 persons in the

Myers Calm on Kent Claim of Rent Increase

Washington, April 3.—Abram F. Meyers, chairman of Allied States Association, asserts in a letter sent to Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, made public on Saturday, that Allied leaders "have not been greatly concerned by the claims that the Neely bill would disturb or destroy the price structure of the industry because it would entail pricing on the basis of groups less than the total block."

One of Kent's principal contentions, in his opposition to the Neely bill, has been that the measure would force

Sale of Cochrane's Stock Is Set Back

Negotiations for the purchase of several syndicates of R. H. Cochrane's stock holdings in Universal Pictures have been delayed indefinitely because of prevailing conditions in the securities market, a spokesman for one of several syndicates formed to negotiate a purchase stated on Saturday.

Cochrane returned to New York late last week from a vacation in Arizona. He is now reported to be studying several proposals which have been submitted to him for resuming activities in this industry and allied fields. It is also said that he may return to advertising agency work in association with his brother, P. D. Cochrane.

Insiders' Outlook

LONDON insiders pass along to this department some gossip in Wardour Street that the patent infringement suit against Western Electric and RCA, which was filed in Federal court at Wilmington, Del., in January, by the Gaumont British wholly owned subsidiary, British Acoustics Films, Ltd., has more to do with coloration (of the right kind) of a distressed financial picture than with serious litigation. The chatter points out that no harm is done, especially in times like these, by the addition of $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 of contingent assets to a financial statement even though it is based upon as nebulous a foundation as an unadjudicated damage claim. Figures like that can cast a lot of sunshine on an otherwise beclouded financial picture.

However that may be, Western Electric officials here state flatly that "this is one damage suit which we will not settle." A reply to the British company's complaint making general denials of all allegations will be filed by the defendants in the near future and the case will be left to British Acoustics Films to prosecute, it was said.

This, in itself, is a significant deviation from Western Electric policy of the past year which has been to settle or otherwise dispose of all actions for damages based on alleged infringement of sound equipment patents and other legal actions arising from equipment licensing and royalty collections. The policy is an integral part of A. T. & T.'s decision to separate itself and subsidiaries from all direct ties with the theatre industry, an objective which already has been virtually attained.

The British company's action alleges that devices utilized in Western Electric and RCA equipment for feeding film through the sound head at a constant speed infringe on patents owned by Acoustics Films, Ltd. Potential damages are estimated at between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

There is no likelihood of distributor action on the M. P. T. O. A. 10-point plan of industry self-regulation, or on any other proposal for arbitration or conciliation of industry disputes at this time. The reason: Executive opinion leans toward the view that action at this time might be misinterpreted in Congressional circles as an evasive makeshift and thereby influence support for the Neely-Pettengill Bill.

Moreover, if that bill were to be enacted during the present session any self-regulatory machinery which antedated it would, of course, be rendered useless.

However, there are numerous official indications to be had that distributors will take up the subject of adjustment of trade disputes with exhibitors promptly after the adjournment of Congress and that favorable action may be expected.

That new booking bill introduced in the House last week by Representative Edmiston of West Virginia was a bit of strategy — presumably Allied — it turns out, because Representative Pettengill will retire from Congress at the end of this session.

For years the booking bill has been known as the Neely-Pettengill bill. Hereafter, if it fails to pass at this session, it will be called the Neely-Edmiston bill.

Another Short Delay Coming on RKO Plan

Another brief adjournment of th hearing on the RKO reorganizatio plan, scheduled for today before Federal Judge William Bondy, will be requested by counsel for Atlas Corp. proponent of the plan, it was state on Saturday.

Judge Bondy advised counsel at th last scheduled hearing two week[illegible] that if the reorganizers were no[illegible] pared to proceed with the hearing today the court would be disposed t grant no more than a one-week adjournment and that thereafter, adjournments would be for progressivel shorter periods.

The necessity of petitioning anothe adjournment is due to the fact that the reorganizers have not yet reached an agreement with all of the primary creditor and security holders groups on amendments to the reorganization plan which are in process of negotiation. Although amendments affecting some of the larger secured and unsecured creditors have been substantially approved, indications on Saturday were that representatives of RKO stockholders have not agreed with the reorganizers yet on the modified provisions for the exchange of the present stock for new. Moreover, prevailing market conditions are regarded as a serious obstacle to the feasibility of the amended plan's provisions for making available approximately $5,000,000 of new cash to the reorganized company.

"Penrod's Double Trouble"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—"Penrod's Double Trouble," a story about youngsters, played by youngsters with Billy and Bobby Mauch the principal figures, is a picture primarily for youngsters in and below the "teen" ages. The play, in which are combined elements of comedy, puppy love romance, excitement, melodrama and suspense, is done naturally. Under Lewis Seiler's thoughtful direction, the Mauch twins and their cohorts go about their work as average, everyday boys would were they acting out the show in the back yard. Consequently the picture should be a good attraction for kid matinees and all family patronage.

Because of a prank played on Jackie Morrow (Rodney Bitts), Billy Mauch (Penrod) is forbidden to go to a carnival. He goes anyway and hides in a captive balloon which is permitted to escape. Although lost and feared dead, a reward for his return is posted by Jackie's father, Charles Halton, and Billy's, Gene Lockhart. This brings into the picture a pair of conniving rival show owners, Hugh O'Connell and Dick Purcell, who have a Bobby who looks exactly like Billy, to attempt to palm him off as the missing boy and claim the reward. But Billy lands safely and makes his way home, only to be captured and held by O'Connell and Purcell. However, as Bobby begins to understand the deception, he teams up with Billy and the pair, with the aid of the "Juvenile G Men," affect the capture and imprisonment of the kidnappers. When Billy is returned home, Bobby is adopted by Gene and Katherine Lockhart.

Using the famous Booth Tarkington characters, the original screenplay by Crane Wilber and Ernest Booth combines plenty of exciting action with a minimum of dialogue. Showmen have plenty of available exploitation material with which to fire the interests of kids in the same ages as the Mauch boys.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"State Police"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—Against the sometimes topical subject of Pennsylvania bootleg coal mine racketeering with its consequent violence and murder, "State Police" tells a story of melodramatic heroics. There isn't much romance or comedy in the piece, but what there is of both serves the purpose of contrasting the he-man action. Mainly featuring a group of younger Universal players, with only one woman, Constance Moore, in the cast, but with a sprinkling of veteran performers to help with their experience, the show is a little slow in getting started, but when it once gets into its main plot it's crowded with excitement which action fans have often demonstrated they understand and appreciate.

Undisciplined William Lundigan continues disobedient when he joins the troopers, culminating his erratic carryings-on when, despite Sergeant John King's sensible admonitions, he turns renegade. Meanwhile the racketeers, headed by pseudo respectable Ted Osborne, with Larry Blake as the trigger man, have committed a murder and are cracking down on the honest miners. Situations in which good use is made of suspense threaten explosive consequences when Blake, who has been double-crossed, kills Osborn and the miners threaten to resort to the lynch law. King, however, holds off the mob, as David Oliver kills Blake, until state police arrive to reestablish law and order. King gives credit to Lundigan for the coup and he is rewarded by having a clear field in the race for Miss Moore's favor.

King, Lundigan and Oliver turn in good jobs, with Blake and Osborn being particularly effective. Miss Moore's work is of minor importance, and the veterans, J. Farrell McDonald, Pierre Watkin, Guy Usher, Charles Wilson and Sam Flint, are in pitching whenever called upon. George Waggner wrote the original screenplay and John Rawlins directed.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Milwaukee Theatres Face Zoning Problem

MILWAUKEE, April 3.—Zoning and clearance again has become a subject of discussion among Milwaukee exhibitors in view of availability being granted downtown subsequent houses by rival circuits.

One meeting of exhibitors, exchange managers and bookers has already been held to agree upon definite availability rules under the zoning and clearance schedule, but the downtown subsequent house situation still remains in a tangle.

Exhibitors hope that a representative committee will be able to straighten out the dispute so that all exchanges and exhibitors will have a definite understanding concerning availability features of the current schedule.

Milwaukee Delaying On Bank Night Ban

Loomis holding theatre Bank Nights illegal lotteries before taking action on the theatres visited by the police in January for evidence.

While Loomis' opinion to District Attorney Harold Dakin of Jefferson County referred specifically to Bank Night, it is believed that it also covers Hollywood, Bingo and similar games being used by local and state theatres. Counsel for the various games involved have indicated that they will fight the decision.

stributors to sell only completed pic- and those at a substantial rease in cost.

Myers replies that, "It seems to us Allied) that most of the price trans- rmation has been already accom- ished by the distributors in their n interest in comparatively recent ars, because the contracts today ovide for separate price groups less an the entire block. The main dif- rence," Myers contends, "would be at the distributors would have to entify in a binding fashion the pic- res offered and this, it now develops, the main bone of contention."

Asks Simple Synopses

The Allied leader's communication inimizes the difficulties of supplying hibitors with advance synopses of ctures under the Neely bill's pro- sions, difficulties which Kent con- nds are so great that they would rce the sale of completed pictures ly. Myers' contention is that "a orkable outline, made in good faith, d with particular attention paid to alogue and scenes concerning vice, ime, etc., will fill the bill." He serts it to be his belief that dis- ibutors are less afraid of having the iminal penalties of the bill invoked this respect than they are of exhibi- r cancellations resulting from a livered picture being "substantially fferent" from the synopsis supplied advance.

Myers observes in this connection, wever, that if last-minute changes shooting scripts were made in order improve a picture's quality, "and ich is the result," exhibitors would unlikely to cancel it because of the eparture. He adds that, in his opinion, e sum total of cancellations under e Neely bill would be of no moment the industry since, he states, "the nning time in the theatres is not oing to be curtailed and the exhibi- rs must have pictures." The pictures, yers says, must be supplied from the ame sources—"at least, until new istributing organizations enter the eld."

Comments on "Viciousness"

Replying to Kent's characterization the Neely bill as a "vicious" mea- ure, Myers reviews sales practices hich he views as "vicious" and vers the Neely bill would remedy, nplying that like begets like.

Admitting that he has received pay r his Allied work, Myers observes at the independent exhibitors have a ght "to retain a lawyer" and implies at his position in relation to the xhibitor is comparable to that of the .P.P.D.A. to the distributor.

Answering Kent's assertion that he elieved Myers did not desire the abo- tion of block booking because the llied leader's record showed him to e an advocate of the maintenance of holesale prices for films bought in locks, Myers admits the accuracy of he statement in asserting that he is pposed only to "compulsory" block ooking.

"I am not against selling and buying in wholesale lots," Myers writes, "so long as the exhibitors in buying can exercise a free and informed discretion."

The familiar Allied contention that block booking leaves the exhibitor with no choice in the showing of morally objectionable pictures is repeated by Myers in support of the Neely bill's vaunted aid to community freedom in the selection of films. No mention is made of improvements registered under the Production Code Administration nor of the established right of cancellation of pictures on moral grounds.

Myers concludes with the statement that he is "very sorry that our interchange has gotten so far away from facts and principles and has concerned itself so much with personalities and innuendoes," but adds that he hopes Kent will some day "lead a successful movement to bring all factions and branches of the industry into harmony to correct existing abuses and evils and restore confidence, and to erect machinery for the adjustment of intra-industry differences which would make 'self-regulation' an actuality and not an empty phrase."

Two Daily Papers Attack Neely Bill

Two sharp newspaper criticisms of the Neely block booking bill have been issued within the past few days, one an unsigned editorial in the Lincoln Journal-Star and the other a comment by Florence Fisher Parry, who conducts a column in the Pittsburgh Press.

"Leave Block Booking Alone"

LINCOLN, April 3. — "Better we leave block booking alone," says the Lincoln Journal-Star in an editorial, which follows: "Cry of the censor groups for years has been the need for outlawing block booking and blind selling of motion pictures. The Senate's Neely bill asks that a complete synopsis, development of gags and sequences be submitted on the annual contract, so the exhibitor can know what kind of film he's buying. Any one with an ounce of familiarity with motion picture production knows how silly and impractical this is—just like asking as nebulous a thing as Broadway to tell in August the play names, dialogues and stars to be presented from that time until August comes again.

"The trouble with the movie industry today is not block booking and blind selling driving quality down, but the demand from the squealing public for two and three features for which they refuse to pay more than 10 or 15 cents."

Calls Bill "Preposterous"

PITTSBURGH, April 3.—Calling the Neely bill "preposterous," Florence Fisher Parry, writing in the Pittsburgh Press, comments on the legislation as follows: "That means closing down the industry. It can't function without block booking. It can't produce pictures and it can't distribute them without this system of wholesale selling. Every other major industry employs it. It sells its goods in bulk. The more goods it sells, the more cheaply it can sell it. This is the very structure of buying and selling.

"The bill simply doesn't hold water. It leaks like a sieve."

Union Pact to Tip Exchange Cost Heavily

"back rooms" of the eight companies' film exchanges in 31 distribution cities. John Gatelee, New England organizer, who has been representing the I.A.T.S.E. in the negotiations, has estimated the total employment as between 4,500 and 5,000. On this basis the increased cost would be about $500,000 a year, figuring wage increases provided in the local agreements.

About 80 per cent of the employes involved are inspectors and inspectresses, it was said, and others are shippers and poster clerks. Wage increases were not granted in all instances, chief benefits going to the lower-salaried workers.

The basic agreement is expected to be ratified within two weeks, after a meeting of exchange operations heads and I.A.T.S.E. representatives in New York at which a proof of the printed form will be read for possible adjustment. A proof of the contract has been sent to the I.A.T.S.E. for inspection. It sets up the machinery under which the local unions will operate and, among other things, provides for a 40-hour week.

Opens Baltimore House

BALTIMORE, April 3.—Morris Shapiro has opened his new Radio Theatre, all done in the modern manner, for colored people. It contains 750 seats.

Name Dembow To Executive Post in F & M

operated by F. & M. has been acquired by the company.

Dembow was with National Screen about three years. Previous to this connection he was executive vice-president of Publix Theatres and a director of the parent Paramount company. John F. Bannan, associated with him the past 10 years, will accompany him to F. & M. as assistant.

Jack Partington, president of F. & M., says that no immediate expansion in the east is planned as a result of Dembow's joining the company. The company is, however, adding more theatres and now operates about 60 houses, 32 of which are in St. Louis. In addition to Partington and Dembow, the executive roster includes Harry Arthur, who manages the Roxy and the St. Louis houses, and Marco Wolff, better known as Mike Marco, heading west coast operations.

Dembow will also be a member of the board. He has been in the business 25 years, starting as salesman for Fox in 1913. He later became assistant general sales manager for that company. His affiliations thereafter were with Goldwyn Pictures as west coast district manager, R. L. Rothschild Theatres in San Francisco in which Paramount had a minority interest, and buyer and booker for the Paramount circuit, eventually heading all Publix operations.

So, through the Warners' studi publicity department, he issued statement, telling of his "surprise" that so much fuss was made of th incident.

"Frankly," he said, "I was approached by a man whom I had neve met representing an organization o which I had never heard. Under his arm was tucked a package and in hoarse whispers the man said to me in effect:

"'I have an award here to give you that we can get a lot of publicity for, because the photographers are here.'

"The entire procedure seemed to me to be so uncalled for that I disregarded the stranger and returned to my stateroom."

Oklahoma Newsreels On 16mm Stock Gain

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 3.—MBM Production is producing 16-millimeter newsreels of home town events in several cities in Oklahoma, according to John Miller, who is associated with his brother, Ray Miller, and Jack Merkes in the enterprise. Six crews have been engaged for shooting and developing the reels, according to Miller.

The company furnishes 300 feet of developed film per week to theatres it services, getting 50 per cent of the gross after a certain guarantee has been given, Miller explained.

Theatres in the following Oklahoma cities and towns are reported to be sponsoring the newsreels at the present time: Enid, Blackwell, Sapulpa, Pawnee, Stillwater, Sand Springs, Wewoka, Ada, Norman, Marlow, Anadarko, Shawnee, Ponca City, Lawton, Tulsa and Bartlesville.

The following theatres will begin to be serviced with local newsreels immediately according to Miller: Rex, Elk City; Ritz, Clinton; A-Mus-U, Cordell; Rogue, Erick, and the Rogue, Tipton, and the Capitol in Mangum.

The Griffith Amusement Co., operators of 200 theatres in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico, reported that newsreels taken and shown locally are being used in only about half a dozen houses in their circuit.

Academy May Extend Scope To Air Talent

ing the possibility of having a huge library of electrical transcriptions of voices of various radio actors, which would be played over special telephone wires to executives of advertising agencies, networks and stations seeking to cast radio programs.

Donald Gledhill, executive secretary of the organization, is planning to bring the matter to the fore for consideration by the executive board soon, now that the Academy awards event, a success both from the standpoints of finance and avoidance of any factional rifts which have marked some of the prior accolades, is over. Abolition of economic activities, such as seeking or administering working agreements for any craft in the film industry, resulted in the Academy's being given the cooperation of the various crafts groups in the voting of the awards.

Expect Radio Cooperation

With the Academy continuing the policy, there will be nothing but cooperation from radio talent groups in the project, if it materializes, it is felt.

The Academy, since dropping its activities as a representative, collectively, of actors and writers, has broadened its service projects. A quarterly casting directory, for most part financed by the major studios, is issued, and players whose photographs are used are charged a nominal fee. The production, writer and director credit bulletins serve as handy references in every Hollywood executive's office. In addition, the Academy is building up a large library of publications, such as textbooks, non-fiction, trade papers both of America and abroad, dealing with the industry.

The greatest hurdle in the radio project formulated by Gledhill is the possible cost of the enterprise and how it should be apportioned.

Kent Favors Conference Aimed At Conciliation-Arbitration

Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, believes that concrete results would come from a conference of exhibitor and distributor representatives on trade practice problems.

Kent recently told Motion Picture Daily that the state of his health prevented him from taking the leadership in a move to set up arbitration or conciliation machinery. Yesterday he was asked whether he had changed his decision.

"I have not," he replied, "for the reason that my health would not allow it. I am sure my doctors would not permit it.

"But I am willing to help behind the scenes and give such a move as much time as I can. I am sure, however, that I couldn't go through with another 5-5-5 conference.

"I would like to see such a move started. It's something everyone in the business should support. If someone will step out in front and have everyone sit around the table to talk things over, I think something could be accomplished."

Kent said, in response to a query, that he did not know who would be willing to take the leadership.

May Conclude Dallas Case Arguing Today

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Arguments in the Dallas anti-trust case are due to be concluded before the U. S. Supreme Court tomorrow, with possibilities that a decision may be rendered when the court reconvenes after its April recess, on April 25.

The court, handing down opinions today, again failed to announce its decision in the General Talking Pictures Corp. case, involving license restrictions on sound reproduction equipment. The case now has been before the court for nearly four months, arguments having been heard last December.

The Dallas case is the most important film suit to be brought by the Government since the St. Louis proceedings, and the court's decision will be of great importance to exhibitors throughout the country, since the suit involves the right of a distributor to fix the minimum admission price for subsequent run houses and to ban double features therein under an agreement with a first run licensee.

Trade Complaint on G. N. Picture Issued

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Issuance of a formal complaint charging Grand National Films, Inc., New York, with unfair competition in the sale and distribution of its film, "In His Steps," was announced tonight by the Federal Trade Commission.

The commission charges improper use of the title and false representations in advertising matter tending to mislead exhibitors and public into the belief that the picture is a film version of the novel of the same name written by Dr. Charles M. Sheldon in 1896.

The commission contends that, whereas the novel is a story of religious concept, the film is a love story. The company is alleged to have advertised that the film was "suggested" by the book and to have emphasized the box-office appeal of the best seller.

"As a result of the respondent company's false and misleading representations," the commission explained, "numerous theatre owners and exhibi-

20th-Fox Contracts to Bar Duals with Non-Code Films

All 20th Century-Fox contracts in 1938-'39 will have a clause prohibiting the exhibition of a picture made by that company on a double bill with a film not approved by the Production Code Administration.

This information is contained in the current issue of the Dynamo, company house organ, which reports the speeches at the Kansas City sales convention held on Friday and Saturday.

Felix A. Jenkins, general counsel, is quoted as saying: "A clause has been added to the schedule which provides in effect that our pictures shall not be exhibited on a double bill or advertised in the same advertisements or at the same time with any other motion picture which does not conform to the standards of the production code of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America for avoiding the production and dis-

Neely Penalty On Exhibitors Found in Bill

Kuykendall Points Out They Transport Film

Exhibitors will be liable to fines up to $5,000 if they have a print delivered which violates the terms of Section 3 of the Neely Bill, declares Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A.

The provision is "just as dangerous and severe as any of the harsh penalties that are supposed to apply only to producers and distributors," Kuykendall says.

The penalty section of the bill applying to exhibitors, Kuykendall points out, is Sub-section 2 of Section 3 which reads:

"It shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to transport or cause to be transported in commerce any motion picture film which is leased or intended to be leased in violation of Sub-division (1) of this section." The penalty is provided in Section 5 (1).

Kuykendall points out that film deliveries are made by exhibitors or their agents—trucking companies, express companies, or parcel post—and that exhibitors pay the cost of the deliveries from exchanges.

"Everybody actively engaged in the motion picture business is familiar

Hollywood Previews

"Little Miss Roughneck"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—Edith Fellows and Leo Carrillo account for practically all the entertainment and commercial values represented in this picture. Besides doing a pretty good job with her role that demands her presence in the picture almost every minute, Miss Fellows is revealed as a songstress of some ability. She acquits herself creditably singing a couple of operatic numbers, a romantic ballad and a Mexican folksong.

The first few reels are put together in rather haphazard fashion. A lot that is amusing happens, yet quite a bit of it is hardly germane to the story. Margaret Irving, an old actress, is trying to push her talented but spoiled daughter, Miss Fellows, on the stage. Successively the child wrecks a vaudeville and night club show. Pestering passengers on a westbound train, the family's efforts to crash Hollywood get no place. To stimulate publicity Miss Irving plots a fake kidnapping and Miss Fellows makes it real by running away. Landing on the desert, she is taken into Carrillo's household. While the exciting hue and cry of the search goes on, Edith finds real companionship with Carrillo and his brood. The latter, suspecting that Edith is the missing girl, starts to return her, but, still a brat, she double crosses him and he is tossed into jail. Her mother, Jacqueline Wells, a sister, and Scott Colton, manager, about whom romance revolves, arrive to bring her back to Hollywood now clamoring for her services. She pauses to rescue Carrillo from the mob besieging the jail and threatening a lynching.

Because of Miss Fellows and Carrillo, "Little Miss Roughneck" may prove fairly satisfactory entertainment on secondary house supporting programs. Its particular appeal should be to youngsters.

Fred Niblo, Jr. and Grace Neville wrote the original and collaborated with Michael Simmons on the screenplay. Aubrey Scotto directed.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Rascals"

(20 Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—They threw away the juvenile picture patterns when they set out to rig up this vehicle for the irrepressible Jane Withers and almost succeeded in repressing her by so doing. Whether the novelty of the story will compensate for the frequent effacement of the sixth ranking box-office star of 1937 is a question for the public to answer.

Miss Withers is cast this time as the dynamic junior leader of a gypsy band composed principally of Borrah Minnevitch and his harmonica orchestra. Minnevitch receives almost as much camera attention as the star and musical exhibitions repeatedly impede the swift flow of incidents commonly expected of a Withers romp. He and they are better than they have been in previous screen exercises, but are not, of course, Jane Withers. Robert Wilcox plays straight man for the gang and Rochelle Hudson is a society girl afflicted with amnesia whom they pick up and take along. Steffi Duna is a sultry gypsy who resents the Wilcox-Hudson interest to the point of pitching a knife at the lady and engaging her in fisticuffs. After which Miss Duna vanishes conveniently and forever from the plot. The rousing finale takes place in a society home where the gypsies see to it that the amnesiac marries the right man instead of the parentally chosen blueblood.

Robert Ellis and Helen Logan wrote the original screenplay which H. Bruce Humberstone directed in a somewhat offhand manner. Sidney Clare and Harry Akst wrote three songs for it. Miss Withers pulls the loose ends together whenever they point the camera in her direction and it may turn out that this is often enough, after all, to satisfy her following. The preview audience seemed quite pleased.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Hicks May Favor Two In Spanish Annually

John Hicks, vice-president in charge of Paramount's foreign distribution, who is now surveying South American picture business before making his annual European tour, will probably recommend two big Spanish pictures a year on his company's schedule hereafter.

Tito Guizar, Mexican radio [illegible] who appeared in "The Big Broadcast of 1938," is tops in popularity in Latin America just now, Hicks writes the home office. Guizar, under contract to Paramount, and finishing "Tropic Holiday" on the West Coast, will undoubtedly be cast in the Spanish pictures.

Hicks is in Rio de Janeiro this week and will sail for Villefranche on Saturday. He will do all of Southern Europe in a fast-moving month's checkup and is due back in New York May 23.

JUNGLE EARTHQUAKE!

The wounded aviator saw her . . . sun-bronzed, beautiful . . kneeling before him.

Here you see Tura (glamorous Dorothy Lamour), untamed daughter of the jungle wilds, and the daring young aviator (Ray Milland) who invades her jungle realm, in one of the startlingly beautiful romantic sequences of this greatest of all jungle-adventure, love dramas, Paramount's Technicolor triumph "HER JUNGLE LOVE."

Here for the first time in color, you see the flaming beauty, the primitive, startlingly wonderful pageant of jungle life in all its intensity of action, of romantic splendor, of primitive heart appeal.

The romance of this woman of the wilderness would be a triumph in black and white . . . in Technicolor it packs a wallop which, added to the thousand thrills, including the mighty earthquake sequence, makes this another Paramount box-office smash.

with the practices concerning the delivery of motion picture prints from the film exchange to the theatre. As far back as anyone can remember this operation has been uniform and well established. The actual delivery of the motion picture print by the distributor or film exchange to the exhibitor is done at the film exchange, not at the theatre itself," Kuykendall states.

"It is, I am told, a general principle of law that criminal statutes are applied by the courts literally as they are written. It seems to me that this section of the bill is in such simple language that can be read one way. Under the act, if an exhibitor, is imposed upon and required to buy more than one picture by the distributor, the exhibitor obviously knows better than anyone else just what has happened to him. He certainly knows that the films have been leased to him in violation of Section 3 of the act.

Sees Exhibitor Injury

"Hence the exhibitor inevitably violates Sub-section 2 of Section 3 and is subject to the fine and imprisonment provided by the act. If this is true, and it is difficult to see where it is not so, those exhibitors who have urged Congress to enact this law as a punishment on the distributors for their sins and arrogance, with the idea that the penalties of fine and imprisonment are imposed exclusively on the distributor, have been imposed upon and cunningly deceived into cutting their own throats."

U.A. Exploiteers Leave

Twenty-nine United Artists exploitation men under the direction of Monroe Greenthal, director of advertising and publicity, left yesterday for their assigned territories to cover 23 dates on four current U. A. features. The films are Samuel Goldwyn's "The Adventures of Marco Polo," David O. Selznick's "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" and two films from Alexander Korda, "The Divorce of Lady X" and "The Gaiety Girls."

Eject Children from Theatre in Montreal

MONTREAL, April 4.—The Quebec provincial police on Saturday forced the management of the Palace here, a unit of the Famous Players Canadian circuit, to remove all the juveniles present at a showing of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" who were under 16 years of age. The police required a refund of the admission as well. Permission had been granted by the provincial Government to waive the law prohibiting children from attending film theatres for the performances of the cartoon feature.

More than 1,000 children were ejected from the house amid an uproar. Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec declared that amendments to the film juvenile law had been postponed for one year in response to a request of the Roman Catholic Church, despite the protests of exhibitors over a long period against the high age limit in the law. The Quebec Government had waived the juvenile ban last year to enable children to see the films of the Coronation of King George VI.

"Storm in a Teacup" $4,800 Second Week

Alexander Korda's "Storm in a Teacup" finished the second week of its first run engagement at the Carnegie Playhouse with $4,800, which follows a record-breaking $5,400 first week take. The holdover figure for the theatre is $1,800. The film will continue indefinitely.

"The Return of the Scarlet Pimpernel," also a Korda film, will open at the Rivoli on Saturday. This is the second in the series of the "Scarlet Pimpernel" stories.

Warners Film Ball Team

ALBANY, April 4.—Warner Theatres have effected a tieup with the Albany baseball club whereby films taken at the Barnwell, S. C., training camp will be used in Troy, Schenectady and Albany houses in two sections.

The pictures will run a reel and will be played for the weeks beginning April 14 and 21. The Albany club will return from training April 25 to open its season April 29.

No Millionaire

Pathe News was taking a special film of Eddie Cantor presenting an award for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" with Milton Berle accepting on behalf of Walt Disney at the I.T.O.A. ball at the Astor Hotel Saturday night. The "shooting" was slow, and someone made a remark to that effect.

Cantor spoke up. Samuel Goldwyn's version of that remark, he said, would be: "Watch the expenses; those lights cost money. Do you think I'm a millionaire just because I've got a couple of hundred thousand dollars?"

Universal Dickering For 3 Stars of MGM

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—Seeking to deliver pictures with name talent, Universal is negotiating with M-G-M to borrow three male stars in exchange for the film rights to "The Life of Madame Curie." The deal is in nebulous form, according to Charles R. Rogers, and the names of the stars have not yet entered the discussion stage. However, Universal today borrowed Warren William from M-G-M and Gail Patrick from Paramount to star in "Suspicion," which James Whale will direct and Edmund Grainger will produce from the Myles Connolly screenplay.

Also borrowed from Paramount were Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder to write the script for "That Certain Age," next Deanna Durbin vehicle, which will start shortly.

Just what action authorities will take against theatres holding Bank Night was not disclosed.

"The Lie of Nina Petrovna"

(Lenauer International)

This French version of what by now is a somewhat timeworn dramatic form is distinguished by the performances of Fernand Gravet and Isa Miranda. Miss Miranda will shortly make her American screen debut. A treat is in store. The film will probably find good acceptance with the little theatre and foreign cinema audiences.

The woman of the title, played by Miss Miranda, is brought to Vienna by a cavalry captain and becomes his mistress. His lieutenant, played by Gravet, falls in love with her without the knowledge of his superior. The affair becomes complicated when the situation is revealed. A tense moment comes when Gravet's superior challenges him to a duel. Miss Miranda in desperation renounces Gravet but saves his life by returning to the older man. The duel is harmless to both participants. Miss Miranda, rather than return to her initial lover, commits suicide.

The direction is by V. Tourjansky. The picture was produced by Solar Films of Paris. There are English subtitles.

Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

Dickinson Circuit Plans for 50 Units

KANSAS CITY, April 4.—Glen W. Dickinson Theatres, Inc., will continue an expansion and improvement program, according to Glen W. Dickinson. The circuit has just acquired the Booth at Rich Hill, Mo., which brings the total up to 38.

Dickinson expects to have at least 50 units in Missouri, Kansas and Iowa by the end of six months. Some of the deals represent partnerships, and in such cases the exhibitor remains as manager. Others represent outright acquisitions.

The circuit has a broad program of improvement under way. Currently the Dickinson at Chillicothe, Mo., is being completely remodeled, including the installation of a cooling plant, which will cost around $5,000. The Dickinson at Osage City, Kans., will be refurnished next, and will get new seats, new cooling system, carpets, drapes, canopy, and decorations. Cooling systems are scheduled to go into the Dickinson at Junction City, Kan., and at Great Bend, Kan.

"The Drum"

London, April 4.—Alexander Korda's "The Drum" had its premiere here tonight at the Leicester Square before an audience which included the former Queen of Spain, the Bishop of London, Viscount Swinton, cabinet ministers and members of Parliament.

The film, a production in Technicolor, brilliantly produced and lavishly staged, tells the story of intrigue and military combat on the frontiers of India, with the loyalty of a young Indian prince saving British authority from ruthless native treachery. The military pageantry is most impressive, the crowd scenes are excellently photographed and the mountain backgrounds are magnificent.

The picture is dominated by the performance of Raymond Massey as a sinister enemy prince and by Sabu, young Hindu boy, as the youthful royalist.

The spectacle and excitement, both keyed to the present day spirit, augur well for the film's box-office success.

statement of business transacted will be made tomorrow, also a studio announcement that four pictures will be shooting shortly, one this month and three others to follow.

No startling announcement of a future releasing deal is expected from the company as reports are current that the heads of the organization may postpone a decision in the matter until the completion of the final films under the present U. A. agreement. One of the principal reasons for delaying the decision at the moment is the presence abroad of U. A. board members.

"The Young in Heart," starring Janet Gaynor, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Paulette Goddard, will start April 28 with Richard Wallace directing the screenplay of Frederick Jackson, Charles Bennett and Glenn Tryon, from the I. A. R. Wylie novel, "The Gay Banditti."

Others are: "Heartbreak Town," starring Tommy Kelly, with adaptation by Budd Schulberg from the original of Schulberg and Marshall Neilan; "Earl of Chicago," from Brock Williams' novel, adapted by Gene Fowler and Charles De Grandcourt, and the Rose Franken novel, "Of Great Riches," adapted by Michael Blankfort.

"This does not mean that the other picture shown with ours must be made by a member of the Hays organization, nor does it mean that the exhibitor cannot show our pictures on a double bill. It merely provides against our pictures being shown or advertised with another picture which does not conform to the moral standards to which our pictures are held."

For the new season the company will have four forms of exhibition contracts, including the regular feature contract, the miscellaneous feature contract, the short subject contract and the news contract. Aside from the inclusion of the "morals" clause, there are only a couple of technical changes, Jenkins said.

An injunction and an accounting of profits had been sought.

Works 25 Hours

Once a year Roger Ferri, editor of the Dynamo, 20th Century-Fox house organ, goes sleepless to issue an edition at the scene of the annual sales convention. Copies of this year's convention edition, published in Kansas City, were distributed at the home office yesterday. In its 40 pages it contains a complete report of the convention and other information.

Ferri started work on the edition on Friday afternoon, and working 25 hours without interruption wrote the copy, made photos and cuts and had copies of the publication in the hands of convention delegates Saturday afternoon. The Western Newspaper Union did the printing and duplicated type styles. On the cover is reproduced a photograph of the convention group in session at the Muehlebach Hotel.

Asher Returns Here To Negotiate Deal

Irving Asher, who recently resigned as head of production at Warners' Teddington studio in England, arrived yesterday on the Queen Mary to negotiate a new connection. He said that while his plans are now indefinite he expects to make an announcement before returning to England, April 27.

Asher plans to leave for the coast tomorrow for conferences. He said he definitely expects to remain in England in a production capacity. His wife, the former Laura LaPlante, who recently returned to England, did not arrive with him.

Asher said his six-year contract with Warners ran to 1940 and provided for yearly options and that an option extending his services to April, 1939, was taken up shortly before he left the studio. He said that his London attorney was negotiating a settlement at the time he left and he expected no difficulty on that score. He said he was negotiating with a major company, but it was not Paramount or M-G-M.

Sam E. Morris, vice-president in charge of Warners' foreign activities, placed Jerome Jackson in the top executive spot at Teddington when he arrived there from New York. Jackson was Asher's assistant.

Morris is reported to have completed plans for English production. He is now in Paris and is scheduled to sail on the Ile de France on Friday, returning here next Wednesday.

tors have been induced to lease the film to their detriment and financial injury, and trade has been unfairly diverted to the respondent from competitors who truthfully advertise their film productions."

Grand National, through A[illegible] Rosenthal, attorney for the company, yesterday denied the allegations and said that the charges would be defended. The picture was made on the coast by B. F. Zeidman. At no time, said Miss Rosenthal, was there any attempt to have exhibitors or the public believe that the film was based on the book by Dr. Sheldon.

Shortly after the picture was released, the title was changed to "Sins of Children," the sales department believing that this was better boxoffice, but the advertising saying that the film was "suggested" by the novel was retained.

Miss Rosenthal said the company had a right to make use of the book and title since they are in public domain. Notwithstanding that fact, Zeidman felt a moral obligation and offered Dr. Seldon a "nominal sum" in payment, which the author rejected, the attorney said.

Operators of all stations, regardless of power, today were invited to attend and testify at the hearings, first, as to the general desirability of increasing the clear-channel maximum and, secondly, on a list of 16 questions which includes the following:

Whether objectionable interference will be caused to other stations; the nature and extent of the limitation, if any, in the service area of other stations; whether the improvement of the service of clear-channel stations will be greater than any limitation of service that may result to other stations.

Whether the improvement of clear-channel service is necessary and, if so, in what areas; the extent to which high power will enlarge the service areas of clear channel stations; whether an increase will tend to result in an expansion or contraction of economic or social power or influence of the clear-channel stations and its effect upon other stations; whether competition between stations will be decreased; whether there will be duplication of service.

Whether improved distribution of reception will result from an increase; whether listeners' habits will influence them to tune in super-power stations to the abandonment of regional and local broadcasters; whether an increase is desirable in the public interest, convenience and necessity; what, if power limits are raised, should be the maximum.

Page Boy to President Is Hope Behind Plan of CBS

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—The hiring of six young college men this week to serve in the web's newly organized guest relations department has been made known by CBS. But the announcement did not tell of the newly adopted plan of the network to build executive personnel from the ranks of the "page boys."

After passing rigid requirements—including at least two years of college—and various tests, Dermot Kelly, John Rider, Bill Van, George Johnston, Fred Ostendorf and Dick Haysel, were given the jobs, which consist of conducting regular public tours "behind the scenes" at Columbia Square, the new CBS center here. Before they start they will receive three weeks of training to acquaint them with all phases of radio broadcasting and CBS production.

During the year, they must continue to go to classes at CBS, preparation network officials hope will qualify them to step up in the company ranks.

After a year as "page boys," if they qualify, they will have an opportunity to join any department in which they would like to work, and follow a regular prescribed course of instruction for radio careers.

Expand Morris Program

The Morris Plan Bank Co., sponsors of the dramatic mystery series, "You, the Unseen Jury," now a quarter-hour program on WEAF, will expand the series to a half-hour show, from 7:30 to 8 P. M., beginning today. The Gotham Advertising Agency handles the account.

Sponsorship Is Changed

Effective immediately, the Cities Service Co., sponsors of the Cities Service Concerts on the NBC-Red, will transfer sponsorship of the series to Petroleum Advisers, Inc., a subsidiary of the organization. No explanation is available for the change.

Gulden Extends Series

Charles Gulden Co., sponsors of the "Gulden Serenaders" has extended the series for four weeks, to and including the broadcast of May 26. The series is heard over WJZ from 6:35 to 6:45 P. M. Charles W. Hoyt & Co. is the agency.

Start Child Series Over Coast Station

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—KMTR tomorrow will start a new series, "The Children's Theatre of the Air," which will offer serial dramatizations of classical literature with direct appeal to children. The time will be 5:30 to 6 P. M. on Tuesdays, an hour when many stations here offer the usual "blood and thunder" air serials.

Stories already scheduled to be broadcast are "Treasure Island," "Pinocchio," "Oliver Twist" and "King Arthur's Court." Tentatively arranged for future broadcasts are: "Huck Finn," "Gulliver's Travels," "Last of the Mohicans," "Hans Brinker" and "The Children's Crusade." Jerome Schwartz is adaptor; Arthur Sutton, producer.

Install NBC Device In All Web Stations

Because of the success of a device reducing the slight tonal distortion caused by transmitting equipment at stations WJZ and WEAF to one-thirtieth of its former level, engineers are to install it in all stations owned and operated by NBC. The device is called a "reverse feedback."

Work on preparing the NBC transmitters for incorporation of the new device began more than a year ago. Work of overhauling the WEAF and WJZ transmitters was under the supervision of O. B. Hanson, NBC chief engineer, and Raymond F. Guy, radio facilities engineer.

New Shows on the Air

Kate Smith, Columnist

Kate Smith began her new series as a radio commentator on CBS yesterday. Following a hearing, it is our opinion that Miss Smith should stick to her Suwanee songs.

Just what motivated Miss Smith to undertake a commentary series is one of those unfathomable mysteries. According to her manager, Ted Collins, her years spent in "rubbing elbows with the lowly and the rich, the strong and the weak," have qualified her as a commentator, but it's not as easy as that.

Truth to tell, however, Miss Smith did very little "commentating" in her opening broadcast. Primarily, the opening stanza was taken up by a reading of some of her fan mail. We doubt that a majority of the listeners tuned to the CBS network at 3:30 P. M., at which time Miss Smith is broadcasting, are particularly interested in hearing excerpts from her fan mail.

This new series is a sustainer, and is presented Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 3:30 to 3:45 P. M. over CBS. BANNER

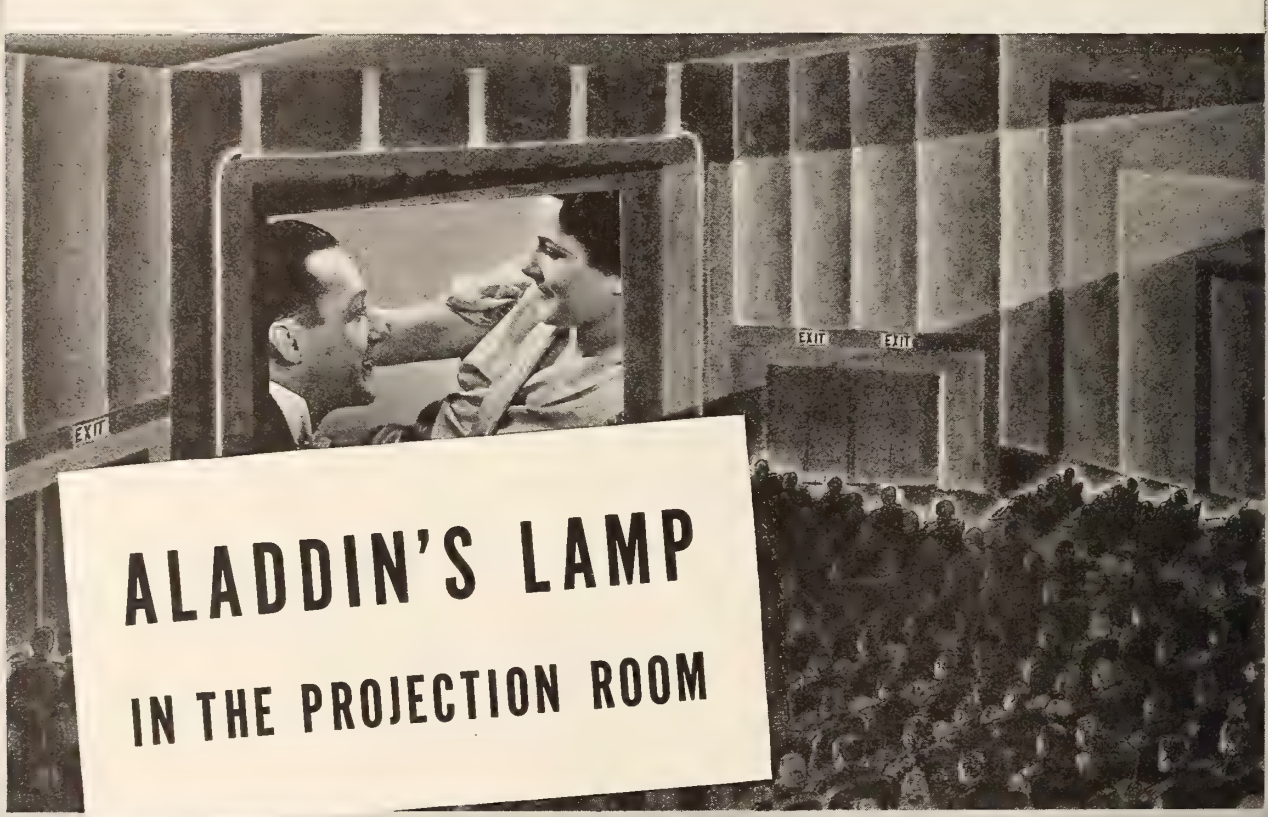
MAKE THEIR DREAMS COME TRUE



From the beginning, motion pictures have been striving to attain perfect illusion. Color is the latest step in the constant progress toward screen realism.

But snow-white, high intensity projection light is needed to bring out the true beauty of color. It also adds depth and realism to black and white projection. It satisfies today's critical audience.

More than 5000 theaters, one out of every three, are now using high intensity projection. Of these, over 4000 have adopted Simplified High Intensity projection which gives two to three times as much light on the screen at so little more cost (as compared with low intensity) that one extra admission per show will cover the added cost. Give your patrons the light they will enjoy.

Write for free, illustrated booklet explaining this new, economical but up-to-the minute projection.

HOPES FOR HIGHER US THEATRE LOANS

Brandt States RFC Head Interested in Moves For $25,000 Limit

Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., expressed great interest in the proposal of Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., to make rehabilitation and equipment loans to exhibitors in amounts up to $25,000, he reported yesterday on his return from Washington.

Brandt conferred with Jones on the possibility of extending long-term credit at low interest to theatre owners through the local banks for all types of remodeling and renovating projects and the purchase of equipment. The I.T.O.A. head said that Jones liked the proposal as outlined, but raised the question whether it could be worked out with the banks.

Exhibitors can now obtain loans up to $10,000 from the Federal Housing Administration for permanent improvements to theatres and the purchase of immovable equipment. Brandt's idea is that the exhibitors should be able to borrow for all types of equipment, including booth installations, which are not covered by F.H.A. credits.

Brandt said yesterday that he is attempting to work out the plan not only for New York exhibitors but for theatre owners throughout the Paramount's annual sales meeting will be held April 15 and 16 at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D. C., with district managers and home office sales executives in attendance, Neil F. Agnew, vice-president in charge of distribution, said yesterday.

The national meeting of the company's distribution heads will be followed by regional meetings to be conducted by district managers in their individual territories later.

At the Washington meeting Agnew will announce Paramount's new season program which, it has been indicated, will consist of 52 to 56 features and about 100 short subjects and 104 issues of the newsreel. Agnew will leave for the coast today for final conferences on the company's new production lineup prior to the meeting.

National's Buying Starts in 2 Weeks

New season film buying for National Theatres is scheduled to start in about two weeks, with 20th Century-Fox the first major company on the agenda, as has been the case in previous years. It was said that the circuit staggers its film buying with various companies, contracts for more than one year being in effect with some.

The circuit's film buyers usually begin their activity after the 20th Century-Fox sales convention, which was held last week. They have been attending the National Theatres' preseason conferences, which have been under way here since last Friday.

About 15 are attending the meetings

TORONTO, April 5.—Representatives of the Independent Theatres Association, Associated Theatres, Ltd., and the Canadian film exchanges have been invited by the Motion Picture Distributors Association to attend a series of meetings here to consider amendments to the Standard Rental Agreement, particularly with respect to block booking and booking protection.

Three Toronto exhibitors, Harold Kay, Ben Ulster and Harry Firestone, are representing the independents.

Saskatchewan Will Classify All Films

TORONTO, April 5.—The Saskatchewan Legislature has amended the Theatres and Cinematographs Act to provide for classification of films under the headings of "General" and "Adults Only" by the Saskatchewan censor, all releases to be advertised according to their category for the guidance of patrons. This law is similar to one in effect in Manitoba for some years and was also adopted in Ontario 10 years ago but unofficially dropped after a few months' trial.

The Saskatchewan censor sits in with the Manitoba censors at the Provincial screening room in Winnipeg and makes his decisions with regard to rejections or deletions independently of the Manitoba Board.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 59
(20th Century-Fox)

There is more than a fair share of death and destruction in the opening clips of this reel, starting with the havoc caused by the tornado which swept through Kansas and Illinois, leaving 30 dead. Then to Spain and the rebel drive to the sea, which affords some excellent photographic material of long range shelling into a valley and against a mountain background, showing troops crossing a pontoon bridge, and scenes of the wreckage caused by air raids on Barcelona.

In Prague, Czechoslovakia, is shown an air raid drill, with people scurrying for cover, and special squads spreading counter agents against deadly fumes. An Ohio twin contest is an interlude before another death scene, the discovery of the body of a hiker buried in the snows of Mt. Hood, against a background of snowy beauty. Girls put on diving helmets to study fish under water at Silver Springs, Fla., in another example of Florida's unquenchable publicity activity.

Lew Lehr is good for a laugh as usual in a shot of a pup going to a dentist for a set of false teeth, while the sports division shows a roller-skate hockey match in New York, the manufacture of baseballs and bats and the annual shots of the youngsters of Annapolis officers in the squared circle.

Running time, 10 mins. A.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 257
(M-G-M)

Highlight of this reel is the brief picturization of the latest stages of the Franco rebel drive through loyalist territory to the east coast of Spain, characterized by examples of excellent photography. In secondary position are the scenes of the wreckage left in the midwest by the recent tornado which devastated sections of towns in Kansas and Illinois.

Personalities in the news include the son of the late Will Rogers, arriving from Europe; President Roosevelt visiting a Georgia community, and young David Hearst arriving in London with his new bride. Florida bathing girls are seen publicizing the state by going under water to "study fish" in diving helmets (the girls, not the fish).

For the rest, the reel covers the test of a new diving suit in Italy, which is said to have permitted a new depth record, coast motorcycle and auto daredevils doing their stunts, a couple of shots of the annual Film Stars' Ball in London, a pair of grapplers at "work" in a New York ring, and Annapolis' "small fry" in the ring, with gloves which look like pillows.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Paramount News
Issue No. 70
(Paramount)

Competition seems to have gone out of the newsreel technique, but where audiences don't see more than one of them a week it is probably all right. This latest Paramount issue starts with shots of what the recent tornado did to South Pekin, Ill., and it was plenty.

The second number is the stock Florida publicity stuff, but it is handled neatly, with underwater shots of girls and boys in diving helmets at Silver Springs. Then comes a parade of 625 motorcycle policemen at Sacramento, which is nothing to get excited about.

Italian farmers and farmerettes are shown leaving for Germany and German technicians are shown goose stepping into Italy; Mrs. Marian duPont Scott has a few words to say about her horse which won the Grand National at Aintree. She doesn't screen very well.

Some nice pictorial material is presented on the Spanish war front with long shots of the terrain and close-ups of the bombing damage done at Barcelona. A comedy note is the feeding of animals at the Los Angeles zoo and a wrestling match with a lion. Running time, 9 mins. J.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 74
(RKO)

The standout events in this reel are midget racing car crashes and spills and some fast ice skating in Chicago. It is fairly interesting.

A shot of the British cruiser York showing the tars getting their daily grog will get a laugh. The California state police parade on their motorcycles. The damage of a tornado in the midwest is pictured. The Polish-Lithuanian difficulties of a few weeks ago are given brief treatment. The comment on this clip is the important thing. There is a sur-realist art exhibit in Buffalo. England prepares for gas attacks.

"Zoology" students at Miami University disport themselves under the clear waters of Silver Springs. A special sequence showing Harry Brandt, Eddie Cantor and Milton Berle at the I.T.O. ball last Saturday will be presented locally only. Cantor presents an award for "Snow White" to Berle, who represents RKO. Running time, 10 mins. P.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 655
(Universal)

The 10 subjects in this number range from such run-of-the-mill stuff as bathing girls at Silver Springs, Fla., "attending underwater school" to the President visiting a government project at Pine Mountain, Ga. The rest of the material is a standard assemblage of fires, blizzards, death and sport. However, it holds interest and is varied.

Other items not mentioned above include: a racing airplane in a tryout flight. It cracks up in landing. A stable in N. Y. makes a spectacular blaze. There are shots of dead animals trapped within. Sur-realist artists have a party in Westwood, Cal. Their getups will provide laughs. A tame deer cavorts at Gowanda, N. Y. Daffodils bloom in Tacoma. Youngsters, sons of naval officers stationed at Annapolis, stage a boxing tournament. It's an annual event. The closing sequence offers scenes of a midget car race. A vehicle crashes into the spectators. Running time, 9 mins. P.

Court Contest Set on Import Of "Mankind"

Legal proceedings whereby the U. S. Collector of Customs will take possession of the print of a film called "Science of Mankind" have been agreed upon by customs officials and counsel for Jewel Productions, which imported the film from Austria.

The positive print was brought in by Jewel about two years ago and was admitted through customs. When the negative arrived in February, 1937, under the title of "Mysteries of Sex," the customs officials became suspicious of its subject matter and it was seized. A hunt was then begun for the print imported earlier, but the Government agents have been unsuccessful in their search.

Will Not Contest Seizure

Henry Pearlman, attorney for Jewel, which is owned by Sam Cummins, said that he has agreed with U. S. District Attorney Lamar Hardy that a warrant be issued for the print. It has been further agreed, said Pearlman, that Jewel will offer no resistance to seizure of the film, and that the question of whether the warrant shall be quashed or sustained will be aired in the Federal courts.

If the Government is sustained, Hardy will then sue to have the print destroyed on the ground that it is obscene.

A separate action, Pearlman said, will have to be started for the destruction of the negative, which the Government has impounded.

The attorney declared that as a result of the customs agents' widespread search for the positive print, he sought an injunction before Federal Judge Mandelbaum to prevent their questioning Jewel's employes and laboratory officials and to prevent seizure without a warrant. The court asked to be relieved of deciding the question, and Pearlman then took the matter before Judge Cox, where it is now pending.

To Surrender Print on Writ

He said that preliminary papers have been drawn up by Hardy and when the warrant is actually ready to be issued, he will divulge the whereabouts of the print. A seizure warrant has to name the premises to be entered specifically.

This is Jewel's second run-in with the Federal authorities. "Ecstasy," which was imported from Czechoslovakia, was the subject of a battle with the U. S. Customs which sought to bar it from this country.

Since then "Ecstasy" has been continually in the courts. The U. S. Supreme Court is scheduled to rule on its jurisdiction in an action by Jewel seeking to prevent the New York State Department of Education from fanning the film. Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., has moved to dismiss the appeal.

country as well. He says that exhibitors who need such financing may make application to the I.T.O.A. and the organization will help them obtain Government credit in instances which are merited. The loans are not intended for new theatre construction.

R.F.C. Declines Comment

Washington, April 5.—Officials of the R.F.C. tonight refused to comment upon reports that they were favorable to suggestions for loans up to $25,000 to exhibitors for improvement of theatres, explaining that it is the policy of the organization not to discuss negotiations with prospective borrowers.

It was indicated, however, that such a sum, negligible in comparison with the $1,000,000 advances that have been made in other directions, would not be considered impossible to grant provided the borrower had adequate collateral and could satisfy the Government's requirements. The new legislation providing for loans to small industries will necessitate no material change in R.F.C. lending policies.

English Production Realignment Urged either to eliminate the long programs or increase admission prices.

Relative to allegedly high rentals, the K.R.S. asked indirectly that the exhibitors sacrifice their self interest to the good of the industry as a whole. The report shows that 58 theatres were closed during the past year and that 102 cases of alleged fraud on the part of exhibitors were investigated. The K.R.S. declared that circuits and theatre employes were equally to blame in those instances, the employes of circuits were as much guilty of such practices as were independents, and said the organization is considering the employment of a fingerprint expert to assist in the problem.

CEA Plans Drastic Action

London, April 5.—The rental committee of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association today decided to recommend that the General Council of the organization take immediate and drastic action in retaliation against the distributors' insistence on grading films. The exhibitors are understood to be confident of weakening the resistence of the K.R.S. and are hopeful of splitting the distributor ranks on the issue.

Mass. House Passes True Name Measure

Boston, April 5.—The House of Representatives today passed Representative Francis X. Coyne's bill which stipulates that all film stars must be advertised by their legal rather than their stage names. The vote favoring the bill was 78 to 54.

The measure previously had been reported unfavorably by committee.

Asher Denies All

Irving Asher, since arriving from England on Monday, has been amused by reports that have had him joining several major companies.

But I can assure you there's nothing to it." The former head of Warners' British production will leave for Hollywood today.

Landis is given 30 days to file an answer under the order, which allows Ascap 30 days to post a $5,000 bond to compensate for damage which might be incurred before a final hearing is held.

Trial of Ascap's case to have the state law declared unconstitutional is expected to be set for some time next fall.

The injunction is the second to be won by Ascap from a Federal statutory court against state laws designed to halt the music licensing society's operations. The first was won in Nebraska last year. Applications for injunctions against similar laws are pending with statutory courts in Montana and Washington. The society plans to file an application in Tennessee Monday.

with a predecessor in office, Thomas D. Thacher, who, with George S. Wright of Dallas, appeared on behalf of the defendants.

Jackson declared the restrictions, which he said were incorporated at the insistence of two Texas circuits also party to the suit, were an onerous burden upon the subsequent run exhibitors to whom they applied.

Thacher and Wright argued that the provisions of the contracts were merely the exercise of rights granted by the copyright law, under which the owner of a copyright may fix the conditions under which his copyrighted work is publicly performed.

The Supreme Court now has the case under consideration. The earliest date by which a decision can be rendered is April 25, when the court reconvenes after its monthly recess for the writing of opinions, but it may not come until later.

ntertainment, the information and education of a whole people," ley declared that Federal regula- h would cripple radio operations in way and another.

He advocated greater public inter- in all proposals tending toward sorship of broadcasting, the vesting program control in any regulating hority, or undermining the Ameri- system of private competitive op- tion. He further suggested that the ustry unite on a program of prog- s. public service and protection, and d that the newly reorganized Na- nal Association of Broadcasters ght be the instrument for formulat- and promoting such a program. He ded that he believed that the broad- ters, once a program had been med, should ask for the support all political parties and all public rited men and women.

Hits Licensing Plan

Touching upon a subject close to hearts of all broadcasters, that of present short-term licensing sys- m, requiring each broadcaster to k renewal of his license at the end each six-month period, Paley em- atically declared that the system s "as unfair and as unwise as it uld be to give men short-term li- nses to publish newspapers, to write oks or plays, or to make motion tures." He said he did not think wise for the public to allow the hole broadcasting structure to "con- ue to rest on such a structure."

In place of the present licensing stem, Paley proposed licenses over term of years, pointing out that the ense system requires the broadcaster operate in the public convenience, terest and necessity, and suggested at if after a full and open trial has been proved that the broadcast- has not so operated, the license be ken away from him.

Denies Monopoly

Referring to the Federal Commu- cations Commission's recent decision make a full investigation of network oadcasting and the relationship of ations to networks, Paley said the esent competitive situation was any- ing but monopolistic and asserted at broadcasting would suffer if net- ork operations were limited or ham- red. He asked for consistent pub- effort to strengthen and encour- e network broadcasting. However, did not criticize the local stations, ating that they serve their com- unities usefully.

Paley also talked about current dis- ssions as to whether the commission ould seek to regulate prices at which ations could be bought or sold, and to whether or not the commission ould try to regulate the number of ations a network might own or lease. e said the ordinary rules of busi- ss transactions should govern sell- g prices. As to the number of sta- ons a network could lease or buy, aley said he thought the ordinary onomics and operating problems of network should be the sole determin- g factor.

Paley, president of the network. This compares with a net profit of $3,755,522.99 for 1936, an increase of $542,043.83.

Based on the 1,707,950 shares of new $2.50 par value stock outstanding Jan. 1, 1938, or to be outstanding upon completion of the exchange of all old shares, the 1937 net is equivalent to $2.52 per share as compared with $2.20 per share earned during 1936.

Reveals NBC Net

NBS's net profit in 1937 was approximately $3,700,000, it was revealed by David Sarnoff, RCA president, at yesterday's RCA stockholders meeting.

Sarnoff supplied the information in answer to a query from a stockholder. It is the first time that NBC's net profit has ever been publicly revealed.

In answer to another query, Sarnoff revealed that NBC's contribution to RCA gross business in 1937 was approximately $41,000,000.

Network Billings Hit New All-Time Highs for March

Network billings in March reached all-time highs, with CBS scoring the most spectacular gains.

Gross time sales on CBS for the month totaled $3,055,929, an increase of 19.4 per cent over the same month in 1937, and the first time in the history of broadcasting that a monthly revenue has exceeded $3,000,000.

CBS cumulative billings for the first quarter of 1938 totaled $8,628,689, a 19.8 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year and the largest three-month total ever recorded by any network.

Advertisers invested more money in time on NBC in March than in any previous month in the company's history, the total gross billings amounting to $3,806,831 for the combined Blue and Red networks, up 5.3 per cent over March, 1937.

Cumulative billings for the first quarter on NBC totaled $11,098,400, up 6.2 per cent over the 1937 period, the highest previous quarter in NBC history.

Mutual's cumulative billings for the quarter amounted to $763,781.45, an increase of 10 per cent over the corresponding period last year, when the billings totaled $694,465.62. The network's March billings this year, amounting to $240,637, were down by 2.7 per cent compared to the March billings last year, which were $247,431.

All Units of RCA Showing Profits, Sarnoff Reports

David Sarnoff, president of RCA, yesterday declared in a report to stockholders that the company thus far this year is operating at a profit in all its divisions.

Sarnoff revealed that since the first of the year the company has paid off $2,400,000 to banks, reducing loans to $8,000,000.

At the meeting four directors were reelected for three-year terms expiring in April, 1941. They were Arthur Braun, John Hays Hammond, Jr., Edward W. Harden and Sarnoff.

RCA paid the Federal Government in taxes more than twice the amount received by the common stockholders in dividends during 1937, Sarnoff reported. The tax total for the year was $4,297,500, equal to 42 cents a share on the common stock.

RCA Manufacturing Co. showed a profit for 1937 of more than $3,000,000, he said.

Questioned on the effect of the F. C. C. investigation of radio, Sarnoff said the company welcomed the investigation and would cooperate to the fullest extent, since it had nothing to conceal. On the subject of radio research, Sarnoff said that important advances are being made in television and facsimile broadcasting.

He told stockholders that the company has disposed of holdings in Canadian Marconi Co. for $1,725,000 in cash, against a purchase price of $1,156,000.

Bank Night Banned Near Philadelphia

Philadelphia, April 5.—In Montgomery county, adjacent to Philadelphia, exhibitors have been ordered to cease Bank Nights by District Attorney Smillie. Police chiefs were ordered to see that theatres stopped "this illegal operation or be arrested."

Smillie acted on the recommendation of the Grand Jury, which termed Bank Night "illegal and dishonest." Jurors alleged that "children of tender years are being lured into theatres with the hope of winning money on games of chance."

As far as could be learned today no other games, many of which are played by churches, came under the ban.

BOOTH BARRICADE CONDONED BY NLRB

Local 306 Men Who Shut Five Houses Ordered Reinstated

The right of projectionists to barricade themselves in booths to influence union recognition by an exhibitor employer was recognized by the National Labor Relations Board as being in accordance with "regular practice" in a decision handed down yesterday directing the United Long Island Amusement Corp. to reinstate six Local 306 members who were discharged last August, according to Local 306 officials.

The six projectionists were employed at the Island, St. Albans, Laurelton, Little Neck and Linden theatres. After stopping performances in all five theatres last August, they barricaded themselves in the booths and exhibited a trailer informing the audience of the union dispute and requesting patrons to leave the theatre. A contract subsequently was negotiated by the circuit with the Empire Projectionists Union and the Local 306 men were replaced. Local 306 then filed a complaint with the N.L.R.B.

The board's order, according to Local 306, abrogates the contract with Empire, directs the reinstatement of the six original projectionists, certifies 306 as the collective bargaining agent for all five theatres and directs the payment of full back pay to the men discharged.

"U" Has a "Find"

Universal talent scouts, who comb the world in their hunt for gifted personalities, on Friday night will attend, perhaps rather sheepishly, a performance of Verdi's "Rigoletto" at the Hippodrome, where Tom Smizzi, a bookkeeper in their own home office, will make his operatic debut in the role of Sparafucille, the villainous innkeeper.

Smizzi's talent was recognized by Alfredo Salmaggi, Hippodrome impresario, who granted the Universal bookkeeper an audition only two weeks ago.

For the first quarter of the current year cash receipts were larger than for any similar period in the company's history, Schaefer said, attributing the results to sales efforts in connection with the company's better business drive. Receipts for the quarter were 172 per cent of those for

April Fool's Day for U. S. On Quota, Is Comment Here

By IRENE KUHN

April first in this year of grace will go down in history as April Fools' Day for the American motion picture industry. For years, American picture producers have been expecting that our British cousins would do handsomely by us when and if the British quota regulations became law.

And April first was the day John Bull's House of Lords made a law of the controversial quota bill. Now the chocolate is all licked off the quota bonbon and the inside is revealed as cotton sprinkled with cayenne pepper.

There is no sense in screaming about the unfairness of a law once it's on the British statute books, say the wise boys. Laws in Great Britain have a way of being firmly cemented into the Empire's system of jurisprudence.

Instead of gagging on the cotton and pepper, or knocking heads against a cement law, far-seeing industry executives agree that American ingenuity can now go in for some sound planning that will make the cotton palatable and soften the cement.

For while the old saying is "if you

Protests Ban on "Spain"

Toronto, April 6.—Rev. B. H. Spence of Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy, has protested to the Theatre Inspection Branch of the Ontario Government against the refusal of the department to grant a permit for the screening of "The Heart of Spain" in Toronto.

Insiders' Outlook

It isn't the ingredients; it's the way they're mixed that turns out a choice drink, a table delicacy—or a box-office success. Somewhere in the transformation of raw materials into the finished product experience, or guesswork, or inspiration turns the trick. That seems to have been the case with "Her Jungle Love."

When the tabulation of grosses begins George Archainbaud, the director, probably will get, and deserves, credit for reaching into the memory bag and juggling some old materials in a new way. Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland, Lynne Overman, some Technicolor experts, writers and technicians also will be entitled to a share.

Critics probably will treat it disdainfully. It will not stand cold analysis. Lion cubs, chimpanzees, hundreds of crocodiles are not native to South Pacific Islands. Crocodiles do not climb mountains and gobble up aviators fed to them in caves by native chieftains. There are other things that will not make sense to pyschologists, naturalists, geologists or any other citizen given to applying reason instead of emotional reaction to his entertainment, BUT — and this is a big but—this picture wasn't made for reasoning people.

It was made for the young and old who like to see a beautiful girl and a handsome youth make love in a restrained boy and girl way; who like to feast their eyes on scenic beauty in full color; who like to see extraordinarily well trained animals being treated as companions; who leap out of their seats when a crocodile snaps at the hero; who grasp their neighbors' arms as an earthquake tumbles rocks and splits mountains; who cheer when the rescuing yacht arrives. The first Paramount Theatre audience to see it actually did these things.

Any blase film buyer seeing this picture cold in a projection room might be tempted to decide that 90 per cent of it is "old stuff," and the same film buyer seeing it in the Paramount probably will do some fast stepping around the corner to the exchange.

Duplication of newsreel material seems to be growing—what with economy waves in various sectors of the film front. This week Florida's active publicity seekers get into all the reels with underwater shots of bathing beauties at Silver Springs, a parade of motorcycles at Sacramento is duplicated, the Spanish stuff seems to have been purchased from one cameraman, the tornado material adds another touch of sameness.

PARENTS WHO LOVE THEIR DAUGHTERS:-

Did it ever occur to you that while you are Mother or Father to your children - you may e a stranger, too?

Boys, they say, will always be boys. But what about young girls? Should, or shouldn't they be permitted the same freedom in molding themselves - and in choosing their friends?

And what about parents? Frequently in their zeal to correct a wrong, they make matters worse. They think they have a problem child. Little do they realize that often they alone constitute the problem.

This perplexing and vital question is presented in a motion picture - "Beloved Brat". Here is a story which can be the story of any young girl - drama, open and frank, of a headstrong girl, reckless, wilful, but not really bad - yet!

In producing "Beloved Brat", Warner Bros. have dealt with the problem squarely and entertainingly, minus any harshness. Moreover, the film presents a satisfying, pleasant solution. You undoubtedly will want to see "Beloved Brat", which I sincerely recommend as a worthwhile film. It will be shown starting next Friday at this theatre.

Quota Plans Of Columbia Are Uncertain

Columbia officials are still pondering the type of films to be made in England under the new quota regulations and cost provisions and therefore the number of pictures and other details of the British production program remain to be set, said Joseph Friedman, Columbia's managing director in London, before sailing yesterday on the Queen Mary.

Friedman said that the schedule will not be decided until he reaches the other side and has an opportunity to study the quota requirements and survey production possibilities. He was here four weeks on his annual visit, during which he conferred with Harry Cohn on the coast and Jack Cohn and other officials here.

Victor Schertzinger was a passenger on the boat with his wife and two daughters. He said he was going to London to direct a film version of "The Mikado," Gilbert & Sullivan operetta, for the D'Oyly Carte company and would be gone six months. He did not know the actual producing company, but said it was "one of the companies that Lord Portal is interested in." Either Universal or United Artists will distribute the picture, he said.

Miss Pons Embarks

Lily Pons also sailed. She told reporters she was "through with RKO," that she had no new film contract set, but had had two or three offers from major companies on which she will decide upon her return. In Europe she will do a 16-week operatic and concert tour in France, Sweden and other countries, but has no film commitments there.

Marc Connelly, the stage producer, embarked for London, where he will seek four principals for "The Two Bouquets," his forthcoming musical. He expects to return in about three weeks. Ray Noble, band leader who has appeared in films, sailed to fill engagements in England.

April Fool's Day for U. S. On Quota, Is Comment Here

don't like it you can eat it," one can still not like something, swallow it, and yet escape both distaste and indigestion, they say.

There's still a little chocolate in circulation for another dip. Down in Washington a group of Britishers are negotiating a reciprocal trade treaty with the United States.

There's good reason to suppose that Secretary of State Hull and his corps of diplomatic traders, headed by the late President Wilson's son-in-law, Francis B. Sayre, will continue cooperatively with the British representatives to secure concessions under the trade treaty that will chocolate coat the quota law.

It should be remembered that American motion picture producers might have come off worse than they have except for these high-powered Washington negotiations in which Joseph P. Kennedy, our new Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, has undoubtedly had a hand.

Two Amendments Killed

Washington did prevail upon the British to dig out the two most vicious amendments to the bill—more than 200 were festooned around it. These were the reviewing clause and the separate quota provision for exhibitor and distributor. However, the separate quota provision should not be confused with the separate percentage schedules for distributor and exhibitor quotas.

The first, meant that American companies would be forced to acquire or produce films that would be at the mercy of the reviewing committee who would decide whether they could be used for quota purposes or not. The second meant that no one picture could be used both by a distributor and an exhibitor for quota credit with the Government. Thus, the distributor of an American film in Great Britain would be compelled to acquire British pictures and, at the same time, be deprived of a market for his films.

Trade Treaty May Help

These are out. Other gains may be made. A trade treaty supersedes a national enactment.

It is within the power of the negotiators now in Washington to change quota percentages and to secure reductions in the minimum labor costs from £7,500 ($37,500) to something in the neighborhood of £6,000.

Opinion around New York picture offices is that we should be good sports about the quota but not saps.

The principal fear existing today in the minds of well-informed executives is that the British law now establishes a precedent for other countries to follow, notably Australia, quota free except in Victoria and New South Wales, and that it behooves us to put on long distance glasses and watch our step. Canada, heretofore quota free, is affected by the new law which deals a blow at Canadian made films.

In 1937, 23 foreign motion picture markets had quota or contingent laws, where exhibitors and/or distributors were required to handle locally produced pictures; where total importations were limited; where both classes of restriction existed.

Australia Acquiesces

Proof that Great Britain's laws are respected comes from Australia. Although the quota law is as heavy a blow to Australian made pictures as to Canadian, Premier Stephens has come out and told the opposition group that he is determined the law shall be kept. He created a strong suspicion that he would not hesitate to suspend the trading license of anyone breaking the quota law.

Among the post mortems gathered were several of the "I-told-you-so" variety which purported to verify predictions of dire punishment for American disinclination to yield more ample advantages to British interests during previous years.

Other opinion-givers predicted that unless some remedial measures are effected through the treaty traders, we shall be in the position of enabling Great Britain to learn how to make movies that are box-office at our expense.

Our Supremacy in Danger

"There is no question but that Great Britain will have a really great and profitable picture industry one of these days, and when she does it will mean that American supremacy will be challenged to a considerable degree and American profits cut materially. She was well started on the right track when the World War broke out and that was the beginning of Hollywood's rise to world dominance. England got another start in 1934, but the three or four great pictures produced then, beginning with "Henry VIII," won international acclaim for artistic merit at too great a production cost for the industry there to sustain its momentum. Now, remembering the British policy of long range viewing and doing, it seems quite likely that she will be enabled to build her industry slowly but surely and the American industry will contribute materially to her apprenticeship."

films next year and the program wil remain the same, numerically, as [illegible] year. Included in the 54 will be 2 westerns. While Gene Autry is stil at odds with the studio, he will be scheduled for a series of eight westerns. The Three Mesquiteers wil again make eight. Bob Steele will be dropped as a western star and in his stead there will be a series of eight with Roy Rogers, a newcomer, and Smiley Burnette.

As a result of the popularity of the "Lone Ranger" serial, Republic has decided to make a "Lone Ranger" feature for next season as one of its specials. This will be in the higher budget bracket. Two of the four serials will be westerns and the other two of the adventure action type.

It was said that production is up to schedule and that of the 24 westerns sold on this year's contracts, 19 have been delivered. Gene Autry's "strike" for a new contract calling for more money is responsible for four of the five undelivered westerns.

Republic has purchased a series of Liberty articles titled "Doctors Don't Tell," by Dr. George Raymond, which is scheduled as the first of the new season's films.

to the I.T.O.A., which is keeping alive its proposal for an exhibitor conference despite Allied's opposition.

"There is no group of theatre owners which suffers so much from unfair trade practices as the I.T.O.A., particularly since 100 per cent of its membership operates subsequent run theatres," the statement says. "We are against the Neely bill, and the I.T.O.A. has unanimously decided to use its every asset to fight the bill because it knows it will put its members out of business.

"We intend to conciliate with distributor heads for the purpose of effecting remedies to cure the industry's ills. We intend to do this with or without the aid of Allied or the M. P. T. O. A., if as associations they do ask for representation, which has been offered them. We intend to ask representative exhibitors from all over the country to attend these conferences."

Ask Tax Relief for Legitimate Theatres

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Relief for legitimate theatres which cut admissions to attract an audience was sought today by the Senate Finance Committee through an amendment to be offered to the tax revision bill imposing the admission tax on the actual selling price rather than the "established" price of tickets.

Appearing before the House Ways and Means Committee, which refused to take action, and again before the Senate group, representatives of the stage urged the amendment so as to give tax relief to legitimate shows which sought to build up business by cutting rates. In many instances, it was explained, a show without patronage will sell $2 tickets for $1, but has to pay the tax on the amount printed on the ticket.

The removal costs each theatre about $70 or $80 a year, it was said. Milton C. Weisman, I.T.O.A. attorney, will take the matter up with the authorities. Maurice Fleischman, chairman of the board, presided in the absence of Harry Brandt, president, who at the present time is ill.

No Giveaways with "Hood," Says Sears

Sears merely declaring, "'Robin Hood' is strong enough to warrant playing as a single feature. I have just seen the production and I know it's the ultimate in mass entertainment. We're not going to pollute it by allowing it to be tied up with a lot of dishes and ice cream cones." The film will open at the Music Hall May 5 and will be nationally released May 14.

Sears declared that he has received more than 3,000 letters expressing divided opinion, relative to his recent statement attacking chance games and giveaways.

The statement also declares that the new laboratory under construction in the building at 35 W. 45th St., which should be ready by May 1, is expected to increase the company's volume of printing work, now done at the Bound Brook, N. J., laboratory. Briggs mentions the $200,000 invested in Monogram in April, 1937, and the contract with that company to do all printing and developing work for five years. Regular dividend payments on the $7 convertible preferred stock were maintained during the year and $400,000 bank loan was fully repaid before the end of the year, the statement concludes.

ITO in Ohio Urging Cooperative Buying

COLUMBUS, April 6.—Although the plan was not given the official sanction of the organization, the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio in this week's bulletin suggested that exhibitors investigate the cooperative film buying organization set up a few weeks ago in Cleveland by M. A. Mooney.

The bulletin stated that the new company operates along the same lines as the one which has been in existence in Michigan for several years.

Because of its buying power, the bulletin declared, the Michigan cooperative has been able to obtain the same concessions from distributors as now are accorded certain circuits. It was suggested that Mooney be permitted to explain his plan before the exhibitor signed any new contracts.

At the same time the bulletin expressed the hope other distributors would follow the 20th Century-Fox policy of reducing the number of shorts exhibitors must handle.

Hollywood Preview

"Reckless Living"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, April 6.—Less melodramatic than the title sounds, "Reckless Living" is an entertaining combination of old and new elements. It has been skillfully directed by Frank McDonald, and in the hands of players who know what to do when they have the opportunity, the show stresses comedy, includes an interesting triangle romance, features one song number and does not lack action and excitement.

All the characters are racetrack followers, but luck is a stranger to them, as the steeds they bet on never win. Jimmy Savo is the center of specialty comedy. Robert Wilcox, head of the crowd, competes with William Lundigan, a rich horse owner, for Nan Grey's favor.

Wilcox collects auto injury damages, pyramids it to $1,200 in roulette, which he intends to keep as a stake to return home. But, as a lot of funny business concerning a statue is inserted, Wilcox takes old Harry Davenport to the track on closing day. Unknown to Wilcox, Davenport has bet his little nest egg on a horse that runs second. But, realizing the shock of knowing his horse lost would be almost fatal to the old man, Wilcox pays him off with his own money and the whole bunch, Wilcox, Miss Grey, who now prefers him; Savo, Frank Jenks, Harlan Briggs and Charles Judels move on to the next track.

Adapted from Gerald Beaumont's "Johnny Marches Home," Charles Grayson wrote a lot of fresh new angles into the screenplay, and the song by Jimmy McHugh and Harold Adamson is sung by Miss Grey in pleasing style. Clean, wholesome and interesting throughout, the picture should have no difficulty in winning audience approval.

Coast Laboratory's Assets Ordered Sold

LOS ANGELES, April 6.—Federal Judge Paul McCormick has ordered liquidation of the assets of International Cinema, Inc., upon recommendation of an unsecured creditors' committee represented by Samuel Wolf, attorney, who told the court the current slump in independent production precludes the possibility of reorganization under Section 77 B of the Bankruptcy Act on a sound basis.

A. C. Snyder, secretary of the corporation, was named trustee for liquidation. Wolf, appearing for Smith and Aller, Inc., C. King Charney, Inc., J. E. Brulatour, Inc., and other unsecured creditors, said reorganization would be effected if Grand National Films, Inc., now under Bankruptcy Act reorganization were in a position to pay an $81,000 debt to the laboratory. General unsecured claims amount to $126,563 of total of $259,482 scheduled debts. Also listed are 500,000 shares of outstanding $1 par stock. Assets not fully listed include money owed by independent producers and an estimated $300,000 in building and equipment. It is reported reliably that a New York laboratory may make a deal to take over International but no proffer has reached the court records.

Strauss Testimony Request Is Denied

The application of Select Theatres Corp. for examination before trial of Oscar Strauss in his $20,000 damage suit as assignee of Jacob J. Shubert and Shubert Theatrical Corp. was denied yesterday by Justice Julius Miller on the grounds that Strauss as a resident and citizen of Austria was not available in New York. At the same time the parties were ordered to exchange particulars of their complaint and cross-complaint.

Select Theatres brought action in the N. Y. Supreme Court contending that Strauss violated his agreement with Shubert to grant exclusive right to present "Marietta" in the United States and Canada for five years. Craven, Payne Not to Share In Air Probe will serve ex-officio on both committees, but each group will select its own chairman.

Designation of the committees, it is understood, followed heated debate as to the personnel of the chain and monopoly probe group on which both Craven and Payne were anxious to serve. At the same time, Payne is said to have been desirous of participating in the super-power WLW 500,000-watt experimental grant. Payne and Crosley have long been at odds, the commissioner charging that the station had profited unduly by its experimental grant and had refused to furnish the commission with financial information which he asked.

Committees to Report

"The committees," it was explained by McNinch after the meeting, "are to make reports to the commission with recommendations for action by the commission and will assume active direction over the work of the commission staff in connection with the matters delegated to them.

"The commission deemed it necessary and advisable in order that these matters may be handled more aggressively and effectively, to divide the work among the members of the commission. Through these committees the staff work which has been under way in connection with these matters for some time may be more effectively coordinated and more expeditiously brought to completion."

While the committee assignments, offered by McNinch in a resolution unanimously adopted, left Payne and Craven off the monopoly committee, both those members later appeared satisfied that politically they were in a good position.

M. Komroff Sues NBC

Suit was filed yesterday in the U. S. District Court against NBC and the Glass Container Association of America by Manuel Komroff, author, over alleged copyright infringement of his book "The Travels of Marco Polo." Komroff asked the court for $25,000 damages and an accounting of profits.

The complaint claims that Glass Container Association "in conjunction with" NBC portrayed the plaintiff's book in a radio dramatization "There Was a Woman." To Restrict Hearing On Radio in Canada

Ottawa, April 6.—By a vote of six to two, the House Committee on Radio today upheld a ruling of Chairman Arthur Beaubien that no witnesses beside officials of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. be heard. The chairman declared the terms of reference to the committee would not permit enlargement of the inquiry beyond the administration of the corporation. J. Earl Lawson moved to have the head of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters invited to appear before the committee as a witness.

It was unthinkable that the committee would refuse to hear the other side of broadcasting in Canada, he said. "If we vote against hearing others than broadcasting corporation officials the public will regard this committee as a pure whitewashing expedition," he declared. When his motion was ruled out of order Lawson declared he would have more questions to ask tomorrow.

Herbert Worried

Hugh Herbert came to town the other day. Yesterday the I.T.O.A. thought it would be a good time to present him the gold-plated cup awarded him in a theatre and newspaper poll as the "best comedian" in 1937. Lionel Toll of the I.T.O.A. made the presentation while John Harkins of Warners' publicity department and Mrs. Herbert looked on. The ceremony over, Herbert regarded the trophy reflectively.

"I expect to get a bill for it in a month," he said.

Fight Planned on Labor Board Rule In Booth Closing

United Long Island Amusement Corp. will oppose the enforcement of the Regional Labor Relations Board findings directing the reinstatement of six Local 306 members who barricaded themselves in the projection booths of five Long Island theatres last August in the course of a campaign for recognition of the union, the theatre company counsel said yesterday.

The board's order included a recognition of the strikers' right to barricade themselves in the booth and exhibit a trailer explaining the reason for the stoppage of the performance and requesting patrons to leave.

Martin M. Alpert, attorney for the theatre company, said that he would oppose any move by Local 306 to have the Queens County court confirm the board's findings, the procedure required under the state's "Little Wagner Act." If the board's findings are

Review Board Hits Neely Bill's Aims

Attacking the Neely anti-block booking bill as "impractical to a fantastic degree," the National Board of Review yesterday declared that it would, in effect, create a form of Federal censorship of films. The board issued a statement "wholeheartedly opposing" the measure.

An exhibitor, under its terms, can bring action in the Federal courts to void his contract on the ground that he does not wish to show a film containing scenes deemed immoral, and

New York's Proposed Quota Leaves Lawyers Quite Calm

Legal departments of distributing companies have suffered no increase in blood pressure as a result of the proposed City Council measure providing for a 10 per cent New York City quota. In fact, the calmness of film lawyers as they contemplate the proposal is almost judicial in its detachment.

They point out that New York City as a part of the United States can't maneuver itself into a position where it will need one of Secretary Hull's trade treaties. The good old Constitution, they insist, is still functioning in spite of the recent kicking around and retains a clause giving Congress regulator powers over interstate commerce. Legal fallacies in the measure are so obvious, the attorneys say, that they will be surprised if it even gets the approval of the Corporation Counsel. But even granting this and assuming, in addition, that it becomes a law, the lawyers still shrug their with Paramount's Hollywood studio, and a daughter, Mimi, also of Hollywood.

For the past 18 years Blumenthal has been an official of the Continental European companies associated with Paramount. He entered the film industry many years ago through an association with the late Frank J. Godsol, who was instrumental in the reorganization of the old Goldwyn Pictures Co. and in the acquisition of the Capitol, New York, by that company. Blumenthal's first European assignment originated with his brother, Ben, who placed him in charge of the organization of the Efa Film Co., which represented American film companies in central Europe.

Joined Paramount in '20

Blumenthal's interest in Efa was sold to Paramount about 1920, at which time he became associated with that company under the direction of the late Emil E. Shauer, who was foreign head of Paramount at the time. Blumenthal was also instrumental in the organization of Parufamet Films, which distributed in Germany and central Europe for Paramount, Ufa and Metro. Blumenthal continued as Paramount's representative in that company up to the time of its dissolution.

For the past 10 years he had been in charge of Paramount's Joinville studio, where the company's French production activities were concentrated. For several years he was in charge of Paramount's theatres in Paris, as well.

Verlinsky Stay in Russia Unexplained

Mystery shrouds the present stay in Moscow of Vladimir I. Verlinsky, president of Amkino and director of the Soviet's film activities in North and South America.

Verlinsky left New York Dec. 8, called to Moscow reportedly to attend a conference of the heads of the All-Union Motion Picture Trust and directors of the foreign branches.

Amkino, here, in response to queries about the date of his possible return, has repeatedly said that it is indefinite; his office, at the same time, insists that he is still in charge of the American activities and that it is "assumed" he will return.

At the conference which Verlinsky attended charges of inefficiency, waste and extravagance were made against Boris Z. Shumiatsky, head of the Soviets' film industry. Shortly thereafter he was removed.

Verlinsky is in frequent communication with Amkino here, it was said. But his cables and letters always deal with product being made or to be shipped for distribution in this country and contain no reference either to the shakeup in the Soviet studios or when he may be expected to return to the United States.

"Port of Seven Seas"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, April 7.—Some fine emotional contrasts and moments of considerable dramatic power have been achieved in this story of a wanted and unwanted baby. The treatment throughout is delicately shaded. Characterizations are finely drawn for the most part, but the subject matter is strictly adult, and exhibitors will do well to keep this in mind both in booking and advertising the film.

The motivation is furnished by, and the story revolves about, an incident in which the girl, at the moment unwed, finds she is to be a mother. This causes the problem and the story tells the solution.

John Beal, son of Wallace Beery, Marseilles waterfront tavern keeper, is torn between his love for Maureen O'Sullivan, oyster vendor, and a craving for adventure at sea. He sails unaware that she is to become a mother.

Morgan, wealthy and aging friend of Beery, long eager to marry Miss O'Sullivan, renews his repeatedly refused proposal. She tells him of her condition and he tells her that during wedded life with a wife now dead they postponed having babies so long that no amount of prayerful effort would accomplish that end, wherefore he is eager to marry her at once and pretend actual paternity of her unborn child. Beery agrees on the promise that the child will be named after his son.

Morgan's relatives, none of whom has children, rejoice in the ultimate birth of a son to Morgan to carry the name. Then Beal returns from the sea, learns of his fatherhood and declares Morgan must surrender both mother and son to him.

Beery, Morgan, Beal and Miss O'Sullivan discuss at length the relative merits of the claims of the real father who gave the baby only life and a volunteer father who has given it a name, security, respectability and love, after which Beal goes back to sea and the baby cuts its first tooth in a fadeout.

Preston Sturges wrote the screenplay based on "Fanny," a stage play by Marcel Pagnol, and James Whale produced and directed as if the film were to be presented to stage play audiences. Beery and Morgan engage in extensive comedy at the start of the story, but treat the subject seriously after the seduction becomes known.

A consistent effort is made to adapt the attitude of waterfront Marseilles characters to the moral and social values involved and considerable emotional tension is developed. The dialogue is in straight English with no attempt at dialect, an deals bluntly with the subject material. The production is well up to M-G-M standards technically.

A Hollywood preview audience applied brilliant adjectives to the picture as a work of art. Showmen who feel that their clientele is of a kind to welcome this type of story will find the picture a sensitive and well-produced subject. In any case, it is adult material. The picture bears Production Code Seal 4127. Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

"Arson Gang Busters"

(Republic)

The chief point of interest about this film is the great deal of excitement and action that has been crammed into the story. It is a tale of a fire department and its efforts to break an arson syndicate. The story utilizes thrilling backgrounds and realistic atmosphere in the telling. The average audience should find it satisfying.

Bob Livingston plays the fire captain who is assigned to the arson investigation squad. His way is beset by Rosalind Keith, a reporter, who spoils a carefully laid plan to trap arsonists by spilling the story in her paper. Livingston, in cahoots with his chief, works a gag that makes everyone in the proceedings think he has been discharged from the service. He becomes an undercover worker and gets in with Jack La Rue's outfit of fire-starters. Many buildings are burned before the logical climax arrives wherein the real head of the outfit and the rest of the gang are captured by the police through Livingston's efforts. Warren Hymer contributes one of his standby performances as Livingston's buddy. Jackie Moran, a youngster, gives a good account of himself. Miss Keith makes the role of a girl reporter convincing enough. The story has the usual conclusion in which everyone involved in the coup of the gang is rewarded and the hero marries the heroine.

Joe Kane directed. There are many stock shots of big fires worked into the plot and they still have thrills. Ernest Miller photographed.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"The Secret of Treasure Island"

(Columbia)

This serial has much to recommend it. The production has plenty of fights, weird settings, an utterly fantastic plot and even a ghost. These should prove valuable exploitation possibilities. The development of t[illegible] story is exciting. It offers a hu[illegible] for treasure by a girl and a young newspaper man, and, of course, their competition in the form of an underworld character. The first three chapters are filled with what it takes.

The cast is comprised of Gwen Gaze, Don Terry, Grant Withers, Hobart Bosworth, William Farnum, Walter Miller, George Rosener and Sandra Karina. They do their stuff in good style. Elmer Clifton directed. Credit for ingenious sets goes to Paul Palmentola.

The first episode runs 28 minutes. The rest average 19 minutes each. "G."

"The Captain and the Kids"

(M-G-M)

A new cartoon series gets off to a good start. The famous comic strip is delivered to the screen with all the familiar dialogue and laughs as the walrus-bearded mariner attempts to get out of doing some housework by playing sick. The kids queer his game. New characters, new twists. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Old Towns of Normandy"

(P. P. Devlin)

The quaint towns, architecture, religious shrines and countless other attractions of this French province make highly acceptable material in a travel short. The camera compositions are beautiful and the narration leaves nothing desired. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

"Paramount Pictorial P 7-9"

(Paramount)

Good variation of material and fine presentation. The items include testing light bulbs, rope, etc., at the Bureau of Standards, tame fish and an aqueduct in the Alps. Worth playing. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Three on a Rope"

(M-G-M)

Mountain climbing engages the attention of Pete Smith. There are many thrills and laughs as two sets of climbers scale a peak. Well filmed. Good shots in slow motion. Entertainingly educational. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Going Places No. 48"

(Universal)

This issue is comprised of scenes of wood turning in Haiti, the rare mechanical gadgets in the Museum of Science and Industry and brief glimpses of Mongolia. Good. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

The newsreels come to the aid of e Levine family this week. The nidweek releases include an appeal rom Murray Levine who asks the ublic to cooperate in the search for is kidnapped son, Peter. Shots of 6mm. films taken by Levine of the ad in various poses are reproduced o aid in the identification.

Lew Lehr's "newsette" showing a ouple of railroad shop hands juggling 00-pound locomotive wheels is funny. The balance of the reel, of varying interest, is made up of odds and ends: he Army Day parade in Washington; talian diplomatic mission greeted in apan; an Easter lily display; Egypt's ing witnessing artillery practice; the pening of icebound Lake Michigan to teamers; striking shots of army ombers against fleecy clouds; Helen Wills Moody in fine tennis form, and ther sports shots. Running time, 10 mins. F.

News of the Day
ol. 9, No. 258
M-G-M)

The editors used good judgment in making up this release. It gets immediate attention by having as its ead-off story Murray Levine's plea or aid in finding his kidnapped son. Stress is given also to incidental matter, apparently on the premise that a good story is worth playing up.

The manufacture of French armaments rates second spot and discloses he speed at which that country is preparing for "contingencies." Other ubjects are: Reception of Mussolini's nvoys in Japan; trained elephant roupe entertaining hospitalized children; Washington's Army Day parade; hard riding and upsets at a Los Angeles rodeo; shots of Seabiscuit and War Admiral, two race orses currently in the public eye. The "women's page" departs from ustom to show how Percy Westmore transforms a middle-aged man into a andsome sheik. Running time, 9 mins. F.

Paramount News

Paramount)

Good editorial treatment and narration make a highly interesting and ntertaining newsreel of the somewhat rdinary material making up this release.

Construction work on London's new subways with a sidelight on what the completed lines will mean to the average commuter are shown. The rescue of several horses which were found alive a New York stable which was almost completely destroyed by fire is interestingly pictured. There are shots of munitions making activity in France, nd of American military forces in an Army Day parade in Washington, reviewed by President Roosevelt.

Scenes of the springtime snowstorm hich swept the middle west and east, f mountain climbers scaling the slope f a Yosemite Falls ice cone and a lea to film audiences to aid in the search for the kidnapped Levine boy of New Rochelle, N. Y., complete the release. Running time, 9 mins. K.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 75
(RKO)

The single clip which takes this issue of the reel anywhere outside the routine is that picturizing the ascent of three climbers over an ice cone to the base of Yosemite Falls. The clip contains a good measure of excellent photography, although it is completely lacking in mountain climbing thrills.

RKO Pathe News, along with the other reels, issues the plea of Murray Levine of New Rochelle that people assist in the recovery of his kidnaped son, Peter. Motion pictures taken of the boy last year are included in the clip. The 21st anniversary of the entry of the United States into the World War is celebrated in a military parade reviewed in Washington by President Roosevelt. Henry Picard captures a golf tournament in Georgia, a four-year-old displays remarkable skill at the American Bowling Congress tournament in Chicago, and the reel concludes with a picturization of the manner in which tanks and other implements of war are rolling off the assembly line in French arms plants. Running time, 8 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 656
(Universal)

Perhaps it is due to the scarcity of events which lend themselves to interesting presentation on the screen that is to blame for the "news" offered here. A rhymed bit on the advent of spring in England, done with purportedly humorous British comment, seems flat. Graham McNamee does a parody with scenes of the recent snowfall in New York. His rhyming is a bit better.

An appeal by the father of Peter Levine asking for aid in locating his kidnapped son opens the reel. Mule Day is celebrated in Columbia, Tenn. President Roosevelt is shown signing the TVA investigation resolution. There are also library shots of the project. New Orleans contributes scenes of the damage wrought by a blast in a grain elevator.

French armaments are shown in process of manufacture. A bouncer academy shows the results of its instruction. A circus performs for the young patients in a Los Angeles hospital. The Army Day parade in Washington with President Roosevelt reviewing closes the reel. Running time, 9 mins. P.

New York's Proposed Quota Leaves Lawyers Quite Calm

shoulders and observe inelegantly, "So what?"

They can't be made to admit that a court test of its constitutionality would provide an interesting contest for a beginner at the bar.

The measure proposes to require producers whose pictures are to be exhibited in New York City to obtain a license from the commissioner of licenses, and to obtain one, the company must certify that 10 per cent of its total product was made or will be made within the city limits. The measure has the backing of eastern studio unions for obvious reasons, and Queens County promoters who expect it to furnish them with a World's Fair bonanza in admissions to be collected from apple-knockers who will pay to sit on a plank and watch 'em make movies.

But those old legal pickle-pusses say they can't do it—at least, not under a law which, according to all legal precedents, is in violation of the Federal and state constitutions, is "confiscatory," "discriminatory," an "illegal, improper and unwarranted use and abuse of the police power" and, in short, all wet.

"You might just as well," say the lawyers, "pass a law requiring the sellers of pineapples to grow 10 per cent of their crop in Central Park."

Yeh. And what's wrong with that?

Concession Seen for Australia Exhibitor

Australian market more economically and to overcome "the arguments of the political propagandists."

The situation, he said, is that because of exhibitors' complaints regarding "inequities," the politicians have been disposed to make it more difficult for the American companies to operate in Australia.

Snider looks for a sharp increase in the cost of theatre operation during 1938 in his country, which, he said, is enjoying prosperity. Admissions will be increased to overcome the boosted overhead, he anticipates.

Because of larger attendance and higher percentages charged by the distributors, American companies will, according to his estimate, take $7,500,000 out of Australia this year, an increase of $1,750,000 over 1937.

The total investment in the Australian industry is $200,000,000 he said. Of the 1,190 theatres in Australia, 45 to 50 per cent are operated by circuits, he estimated, while 85 per cent of the 402 theatres in New Zealand are circuit-controlled.

Studio Technique to Feature SMPE Meet

The latest developments in the tools and technique of production will feature the numerous papers planned for the 43rd semi-annual convention of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers at the Wardman Park Hotel, Washington, April 25-28. Particular attention will be paid to color and sound recording and reproduction.

Three sessions will be devoted to sound and others will be occupied with photographic and laboratory processes, optics and projection developments, 16mm. equipment, new apparatus and educational and industrial films. The semi-annual banquet will be held April 27, and on April 25 an informal luncheon will be addressed by Secretary of Commerce Roper, Senator William G. McAdoo and others.

Pizor Backs Kent Plea on Joint Talks

words have come forth from so many pens that I fear the most important development of the entire discussion may be lost. I am referring to the manner in which the independent exhibitors and the distributors have been aroused to the need for some constructive action from within the industry, not from the law makers.

"In a statement, you say: 'During the 20 years that I have been in the industry, I do believe I have done a number of things that have been beneficial to the independent exhibitor.'

"I agree with you and I think there is no time like the present to have you again lead the way for further benefits for the independent exhibitor.

"If, at the present time, a meeting of exhibitor and distributor leaders were called, I feel certain that the gentlemen in Congress will need no more proof that the real solution to the problems of this industry must come from within the industry.

"The United Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, Inc., stands ready to work with you or any distributor leader to start the ball rolling."

Universal Testing Old "Horror" Films

Universal is making several experimental bookings in the metropolitan area to test the current box-office strength of reissues of the so-called "horror" pictures produced three to four years ago. If the pictures show sufficient drawing power here, prints will be made available to all of the company's exchanges in the near future, F. J. A. McCarthy, eastern sales manager, said yesterday.

The first of the experimental bookings is being made currently at the first run Rialto with "Dracula." Another, involving a double feature program of a comedy re-issue and "Frankenstein," is being made in Long Island theatres to test the box-office strength of the old "horror" picture on that type of program. Results to date in both tests have been good, McCarthy said.

Try "Nickelodeon Night"

The Tower at 49th St. and First Ave. has launched a series of "Nickelodeon Nights" during which the audience is invited to "hiss the villain, applaud the hero and weep with the heroine," just like in the "old days." The performance consists of a two-hour screening of scenes from famous films of another day.

FCC to Probe 15 Stations On High Power

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Fifteen broadcasting stations which have applications pending in the Federal Communications Commission for authority to increase their power from 50,000 to 500,000 watts today were cited by the F.C.C. to appear at the super-power hearings to begin May 16.

The fate of the applications, which include that of WLW, Cincinnati, for extension of its present experimental authorization to use a half-million watts power, will depend upon the decision reached by the commission, after its investigation, as to the desirability of increasing the maximum power for clear-channel stations.

The stations called to appear at the hearing, in addition to WLW, include: WHO, Des Moines; WJZ, New York; WGN, Chicago; WHAS, Louisville; KFI and KNX, Los Angeles; WJR, Detroit; WSM, Nashville; KDKA, Pittsburgh; WOR, Newark; WOAI, San Antonio; WGY, Schenectady; KSL, Salt Lake City, and WSB, Atlanta.

Problems of Radio Discussed by Lohr

Speaking informally on "The Social Significance of Radio" to the members of the Advertising Club of New York, Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC, yesterday declared that the "thumb and forefinger of the American listener" constitutes the best method of radio regulation.

"If the listener does not like a program he will cut it off, and you will hear from him in no uncertain terms through the mail," he said. "The best thing we can do is to try to understand what the American public wants and to provide it at all times to the best of our ability, without fear or favor.

Cites Competition

"We are in an intensely competitive business, and all broadcasters are fighting for the same audience. The size and success of the broadcaster depends on how well he serves that audience. The broadcaster, therefore is the best censor, because he reflects the opinions of the audience."

Lohr pointed out that the rules banning discussion of controversial issues from commercially sponsored programs were formulated and adopted by the broadcasters themselves because they early realized that otherwise "he with the most money could undoubtedly win popular approval." Therefore, he said, such programs were broadcast without payment, so that the stations and networks might give all parties to an issue equal opportunity to be heard without regard to financial standing.

"By equal opportunity I mean not only speakers of equal prominence, but also, as far as a network is concerned, an equal number of stations and approximately equally favorable time," he said.

MPTOA Head Looks Askance At Conference

Wants Trade Talk Delay Until After Congress

M.P.T.O.A. officials are lukewarm to the mounting demand for another three-cornered trade practice parley, believing that such a move not only might be misinterpreted in quarters unfriendly to the industry, but would be either indecisive or ineffectual, as well, in the event the Neely-Pettengill bills were enacted, Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, indicated yesterday.

Kuykendall came to New York from Washington Saturday for a brief visit, returning there yesterday.

While declaring without qualification that the M.P.T.O.A. would be willing to participate in any meeting which had as its aim the betterment of trade relations between exhibitors and distributors, Kuykendall said that it was the belief of himself and other M.P.T.O.A. officials that the 10-point trade practice program advanced by his organization two years ago and

RFC FAVORS PLAN TO AID THEATRES

Details Being Studied by Banks, Declares Harry Brandt

The Reconstruction Finance Corp. has approved the proposal submitted by Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., for five-year loans to exhibitors and he is now completing arrangements with the New York banks, Brandt said over the weekend. The financing will be available to theatre owners anywhere in the country, once they have obtained the approval of a local national bank.

Amounts up to $25,000 will be available to exhibitors for five-year terms at a nominal rate of interest, Brandt said. Under the National Banking Act, national banks are permitted to grant only one-year loans, according to the I.T.O.A. head. The R.F.C. arrangement will permit longer terms. That agency, according to the plan being worked out, will underwrite the loans to the extent that the banks are unable.

The local bank with which the exhibitor does business will have to approve the applications and the borrower will have to provide adequate collateral and otherwise satisfy the requirements of the bank and the Government as to his being a good credit risk.

Brandt expects to complete arrangements with the National City Bank in Thurmon wired Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox; Barney Balaban, president of Paramount; Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, and Harry M. Warner, president of Warners, to that effect this weekend.

Farm Families Spend Less For Films, Study Reveals

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Although more than half of the white farm families of the United States attend film theatres to greater or less degree, the percentage of their recreation dollar spent for such amusement is much less than that of the average urban family, according to a report made public today by the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

This conclusion was drawn from reports on 16,779 families in 20 states showing detailed expenditures for recreation over a 12-month period during 1935-'36. These reports covered only native, white families.

The average amount spent for pictures by this group was slightly over 19 cents out of every recreational dollar, contrasting with almost 30 cents out of each dollar shown by a recent report on families in 140 villages in the same areas.

Not only does theatre attendance

Insiders' Outlook

THE RCA Manufacturing Co., like Erpi, may withdraw from the theatre equipment servicing field this year. Discussions of this possible move have been held and more are likely to occur from time to time. Nothing positive has developed yet.

Basically, RCA's languishing interest in the servicing field is different from the circumstances which guided Erpi's sale to the Altec Service Corp. The latter was a policy move impelled by A. T. & T's decision to confine its interests primarily to the communications fields. RCA appears to be influenced solely by financial statements. Its servicing operations never have been noticeably profitable. With the recent unionization of service men costs have increased further and there has been no compensating increase in service charges to exhibitors. Charges are lower than they were 12 months ago.

A broad reorganization of United Artists' producing, distributing and theatre interests and affiliations in England is likely to develop from the meetings and study of the British situation now under way in London with Mary Pickford, Samuel Goldwyn, Douglas Fairbanks and United Artists attorneys participating. Several well known names—both company and individual—may be missing from the United Artists overseas roster thereafter.

While tangled skeins are being unravelled abroad there are reasons for not naming names. But Miss Pickford, Goldwyn and Fairbanks told the press the truth when they said that no "deal" for purchase or sale of a controlling interest in United Artists required their presence in London at this time.

New 20th-Fox Drive Seeks Sales Record

A record sales effort is planned by 20th Century-Fox during the sixth S. R. Kent drive which will start Aug. 20 and run 18 weeks, concluding Dec. 17, and a 52-week contest, both for delivery.

The effort will serve to celebrate Kent's 20th anniversary in the business. There will be 12 cash awards, available to all employes at as many branches. During the 52-week contest, which will include the 18-week drive, there will be additional cash prizes for the first eight branches in the final standings.

J. P. O'Loghlin, who will be drive leader for the second time, will make three trips during the Kent drive, starting from the coast in July. On this final swing he will be accompanied by John D. Clark, general distribution manager.

Clark feels that by including Thanksgiving and the first two weeks of December in the drive, there will not be the temptation to shorten runs on "A" films released prior to Thanksgiving, nor the temptation to pre-release ahead of Thanksgiving.

Takes Shriner Temple

TULSA, April 10.—Ralph Talbot of Ralph Talbot Theatres, Inc., has purchased the Adkar Temple with a bid of $160,000 for the 1,600-seat Shriner building here. The deal has not become final because the Shriners have 60 days to raise the money due bondholders, but Talbot will take charge if the money has not been raised at the end of that period.

Colahan Quits Paramount

Walter Colahan, assistant talent scout in Paramount's eastern office for the past five years, has resigned, effective at the end of this week. Edward Blatt, eastern test director, resigned last week.

Firms Drop Charters

DOVER, April 10.—The charters of 65 motion picture, theatre, radio and miscellaneous amusement companies, incorporated in Delaware, have been rescinded here in a proclamation issued by Gov. Richard C. McMullen. The certificates of incorporation were revoked upon the advice of State Tax Commissioner James P. Truss for failure to pay taxes assessed against them and due by them under the laws of the state for the past two years. Presumably they were permitted to lapse as none of the companies is active in the corporate names included in the Delaware listing.

their use by movie houses, but by churches and social organizations as well.

Though Bank Night has been specifically banned in Montgomery, Chester, Lancaster and other counties in the Philadelphia zone, this is the first conclusive ruling against other games, and the first time an opinion was delivered against church playing. Bingo is a particularly popular church game in this territory.

Games dealers and exhibitors were caught off guard by the suddenness of the ruling, which grows out of a case more than a year old. The decision dismissed the bill in equity filed by Morris Somerson, Palm Theatre, against Mayor Wilson and the Police Department asking that the authorities be halted from interfering with games in his theatre. The court directed that the plaintiff pay costs and an order was made that today's decree will become final after 10 days if no exceptions are filed.

"Lucky" was the game specifically mentioned in the Somerson case, but the judge's ruling was amplified to cover all similar enterprises.

One games dealer spokesman said: "We will not take this decision lying down. We must have the benefit of legal advice before deciding what action we will take." The general belief is that games will continue until police interference, then injunction proceedings will be launched. There has been no definite action so far.

Meriden, Conn., April 10.—Loew's has closed the 1,000-seat Poli after operating weekends only, with vaudeville, since early this year. The Loew lease was taken over for four months recently by Leo Ricci, who has since returned to operating his own Capitol.

Hollywood Preview

"The Overland Express"

(Coronet-Columbia)

Hollywood, April 10.—Coronet Pictures' "The Overland Express" is a highly satisfactory "ridin' and shootin'" offering for the markets at which it is aimed. It is crammed full of action, as it tells the story of the birth of the Pony Express and the struggle to get the first mails without mishap through the obstacles of road agents and hostile Indians.

It presents Buck Jones in the third of six pictures for Columbia release. Others in the cast are Marjorie Reynolds, Carlyle Moore, Maston Williams, William Arnold, Lou Kelly, Bud Osborne and Ben Taggart. Drew Eberson directed the original screenplay by Monroe Shaff. The picture was produced by L. G. Leonard.

Jones, as the first rider to travel alone from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento, induces a group of Sacramento business men to start the Pony Express. Posts are established along the route, and when the operator of the stage line fears that he will lose his mail contract, he gives rifles to the Indians and stirs them to kill the Pony Express riders. Jones unmasks the criminals, and the express gets the mail contracts.

Would Ban Throwaways

Wilmington, April 10.—Several Wilmington theatres, using handbills in connection with advertising current films, would be affected by a proposed resolution introduced by director of the Street and Sewer Department banning the distribution of handbills, circulars, and other advertising matter on the city streets outside the building line. The proposed amendment was given a first and second reading, but action was deferred until city authorities have had an opportunity to study a ruling by the U. S. Supreme Court permitting distribution of circulars.

Variety Club

Buffalo

Buffalo, April 10.—National President Roswell P. Rosengren of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and City Judge Joseph Kelly helped Variety Club wind up the king-for-a-day luncheons for this season. They spoke briefly at a meeting ruled jointly by Max Leving and Marvin Atlas, Niagara Falls, and Jules Jasper, Buffalo.

Just back from a 29,000-mile t[illegible] of the country, Rosengren analyzed the work his organization is pushing in conjunction with the Young Farmers of America to promote a better understanding between agriculture and business. The alliance, formed only a year ago in Iowa, now represents 7,000,000 young men in 29 states.

Barker Jack Berkowitz, as chief of the "Heart of Variety," reminisced about the charity screenings his committee conducts for hospital shut-ins. The films, mostly shorts, are donated by distributors and carried to the hospitals in a special silver-colored car, Berkowitz said. He recalled many patients in recent years who had never seen a sound film before and one or two who had never seen any moving pictures.

Title Case Up Today

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. will ask the court today to stay Larry Darmour from proceeding further with his suit to enjoin the use by 20th Century-Fox of the title "Second Honeymoon." The application claimed that Darmour is engaged in the film business in Los Angeles as head of Darmour Studios and that he had failed to file a bond for costs as a non-resident of New York.

Darmour brought suit in the N. Y. Supreme Court asserting that he was the successor of Continental Pictures Corp. to the right to use "Second Honeymoon" as a title for a film. The name, Darmour alleged, originally came from a novel by Ruby M. Ayres.

pproved by all but one of the eight ajor distributors comprised as equible and effective a self-regulatory [illegible] as could be hoped for at this me.

"The 10-point program," Kuykenall said, "is the product of much hought and discussion by all classifiations of exhibitors operating in all ections of the country. It is not a ne-man program, nor the program f a single organization. We sincerely elieve that it offers the most equiable program which either exhibitors r distributors can hope for at this ime. The fact that it was not made perative a year or more ago is the nly reason, in our opinion, that the ndustry is in danger of having its rade relations dictated by legislators oday. The cancellation privilege precribed in our program could, by tself, if it were in operation now, urnish all the answer that is needed o legislators who are inclined to upport the Neely bill."

Considers 10-Point Plan Basic

Kuykendall said that he did not elieve the M.P.T.O.A. would oppose he substitution of a new trade pracice program for his organization's 10-oint plan if a better one could be ound. He said, however, that if a ew conference of exhibitors and disributors should materialize, he was onfident that the M.P.T.O.A. proram would provide the basis for iscussion. He added that he did not xpect to see such a conference before he adjournment of Congress next onth because passage of the anti-lock booking and blind buying bills ow before that body would cancel nything which might be achieved in he meantime within the industry.

Harry Brandt of the I.T.O.A., bram F. Myers of Allied States and ewen Pizor of the U.M.P.T.O. of astern Pennsylvania, Southern New ersey and Delaware are among the xhibitor leaders who have recently dvocated new trade practice parleys with distributors.

Mountain Theatre Owners Seek End Of Block Booking

the local exhibitor organization, as exemplified in its current bulletin carrying a notice of the Monday meeting, is in opposition to the Neely bill, as is that of the M.P.T.O.A., the parent organization.

Thurmon, who is also attorney for Bank Night and is president and chairman of the Rocky Mountain Screen Club, advised the four company heads in his wire that Denver exhibitors have causes of action for recovery "of thousands of dollars" for rentals paid for unplayed shorts and features which they were obliged to buy in block, according to Thurmon.

The Fox West Coast circuit theatres are members of the Rocky Mountain exhibitor organization.

Canada ITA Endorses Neely's Booking Bill

Toronto, April 10.—At a meeting Saturday of the conciliation committee of the Independent Theatres Association of Canada, the Neely bill was thoroughly discussed and members unanimously endorsed the measure. The opinion was that passage of the bill in the U. S. was bound to affect Canadian theatre business in a like manner and that some of the evils now embodied in the standard contract would be eliminated.

Members of the committee comprise Harold Kay, Ben Ulster and Harry Firestone, all Toronto independent theatre men. The board of directors has gone on record as favoring a draft of proposed changes in the Canadian license agreement, after a conference with film exchange representatives, although the suggested changes were not considered wide enough in scope from the exhibitor's viewpoint.

Details of amendments to the contract clauses were not made public, but a draft is to be submitted to members and also to the Associated Theatres, Ltd., in the near future. Independents generally are also being requested to submit the desired changes in the standard contract for use in continued discussion with exchanges.

RFC Approves Plan to Make Theatre Loans

New York to act as the agency for the metropolitan area. A large number of the I.T.O.A.'s 250 members are prepared to make application for loans immediately, he said.

Brandt expects that the new arrangement will result in a wave of theatre modernization and rehabilitation and installation of new equipment. He said many local exhibitors are prepared to install air conditioning plants early this summer if they can assure themselves of adequate advances.

The R.F.C. arrangement will supplement that in force now with the Federal Housing Administration, which lends sums up to $10,000 only for permanent improvements and immovable equipment. Under that definition, numerous theatre owners have been prevented from borrowing for necessary improvements to their properties.

Brandt said that in his discussion with Jesse Jones, chairman of the R.F.C., in Washington last week he stressed that the requirements should be devised to eliminate "fly-by-night schemes" from the borrowing arrangement and that only bona fide exhibitors and theatre owners who intend to continue in business should be permitted to obtain the loans.

Plans for a sales convention or regional meetings are to be set by Sears, as well as merchandising plans for the new season. S. Charles Einfeld, who also will return today, will prepare exploitation plans for "Robin Hood" immediately. In the east-bound party were also Carl Leserman, Mort Blumenstock, Sam Schneider and I. Farm Families Spend Less For Films, Study Reveals depend, apparently, to some degree upon the accessibility of theatres—the percentage expenditures ranging from 13.4 in North and South Carolina to 30.8 in New Jersey, but the average farm family has other recreational resources.

"Apparently," the report commented, "the home talent play or baseball game, equipment for games and outdoor sports and the radio put up a lively competition with the movies for the farm amusement dollar."

The percentage of total recreation expenditures going to movies gradually dwindled from 23 per cent in Oregon and Washington to 19 per cent in Illinois and Iowa, 18 per cent in Vermont, 17 per cent in Kansas, North and South Dakota, Colorado and Montana, and 14 per cent in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin.

In dollars, the average amount expended for pictures per family (based on the total number of families studied and not merely those attending theatres) ranged from $1 per year among 607 North Carolina farm operators to $13 per year among 888 California farm families.

A special study of negro farm families in the Southeast showed the average picture theatre expenditures to be $1 per family per year.

"Jezebel" Up In Frisco on $17,500 Take

San Francisco, April 10.—With business at a low ebb all over town, "Jezebel" made an excellent showing at the Warfield with a gross of $17,500, over normal by $4,500.

The only other first run to better average was the United Artists, where "Hawaii Calls" was boosted by a two-day personal appearance of Bobby Breen. The take was $9,000.

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" pulled $12,000 for a fifth week at the Golden Gate and was moved to the St. Francis for a sixth. "In Old Chicago" grossed $9,000 in its third week at the Paramount.

THE longer one studies William S. Paley's on-the-air discussion of the Government and radio, the greater in stature he grows.

No broadcaster, before or since his address, has had the nerve to tell the Government to cease meddling with radio. True, NBC's President Lohr did speak along similar lines the other afternoon at the Advertising Club of New York, but his talk was an "informal" one, delivered only to the members of the club. WMCA's microphone, which usually airs the Advertising Club discussions, was conspicuous by its absence on the occasion of Lohr's talk.

We hope other broadcasters, inspired by Paley's action, will take to their own microphones and tell their listeners what Paley told his; that radio should be subject to no more censorship than that imposed on other business. In doing what he did Paley placed himself on the firing line for the entire industry. It is to be hoped that his fellow broadcasters will join him there.

Nat Abramson, emir of WOR's artists bureau, has a farm near Kingston, N. Y. Ever since he's had it, the town's bookers and agents have ribbed him about it, referring to the property as "Ten Percent Acres." Yesterday Nat erected a sign about the size of a billboard on the lawn of the estate. The sign reads: Abramson's 10% Acres!"

Why press agents get gray: Lou Frankel, to obtain publicity for his client, Jay Jostyn, sold one of the radio fan mags on the idea of sending a cameraman to the second floor of the RCA Building, a favorite gathering spot for air actors. The publicity pictures were taken yesterday, and practically every actor in town was there—everyone, that is, save Frankel's client, Jostyn, who was detained making RCA recordings.

Gumbinner agency; announcements for Zonite Products Co., through McCann-Erickson; Knudsen Creamery Co., 52 weeks participation on the Fletcher Wiley programs, placed by Heintz, Pickering & Co.

International News Contract Is Upheld

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—The contract of International News Service has been upheld in a decision of the Superior Court in a suit against KMTR, Beverly Hills. International instituted the suit on an alleged breach of contract and sought $1,260 as the balance due for services rendered and also the sum of $2,361.86 in damages.

The court ordered a judgment entered against KMTR for the amounts in full. International News had been supplying the news to KMTR under a regular form contract, and in March, 1937, the station sought to terminate the services regardless of the contract.

"Court" Time Changed

"Court of Human Relations," now heard Sundays from 4 to 4:30 P. M. on Mutual, will be heard at a new time, from 9 to 9:30 P. M., effective April 17, over WOR and WGN. Beginning April 24, the Don Lee stations will carry the program.

Takes Transmitter Site

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—WWL here has purchased a site for the erection of a new 50,000-watt transmitter. The Federal Communications Commission already has granted the station permission to move to the new location. It is expected to be on the air between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1.

IT'S THIS WAY

The truth is we often wonder whether we are giving our sponsors honest measure on this station. Just when we begin worrying about it, something happens to reassure us. Like the seven WOR announcements that pulled 142,271 requests some weeks ago. After all, we can't be TOO particular.

Sears Favors Long Runs as Industry Need

Will Be Warner Policy on Big Pictures

Gradwell L. Sears, general distribution head for Warners, yesterday declared himself in favor of longer runs, indicating this would be Warners' policy for big pictures during the 1938-39 season. Arriving from the coast where he conferred on new season plans with Harry M. and Jack L. Warner and other company executives, Sears was emphatic that "more extended runs are needed."

"Exhibitors have been quick to blame Hollywood for waste in production," he said. "It is now time for the waste in distribution to be done away with. The idea that seven days is long enough to run a picture is not a set rule. The industry needs more extended runs. There's no reason why exhibitors should not play pictures until they secure every dollar they possibly can for an engagement.

"This business has no past because of its very nature. It has only a fu-

Kansas City, April 11.—Joe Radmond, manager of the Fox Brookside, last week turned out some heralds on which was printed in large type: "Warning! Hurricane is headed this way—Tonight! Take Cover." Smaller type explained that it was the Samuel Goldwyn picture.

That evening rain turned to sleet, and during the night the worst blizzard in 50 years raged over Kansas City and the midwest.

Warners Plan 60 Next Season; To List No "B" Films

Warners plan a schedule of 60 features for 1938-'39, the same number as this season, and no "B" films will be scheduled, it was said by Gradwell L. Sears, vice-president in charge of distribution, on his return from studio conferences yesterday.

The shorts program is expected to be approximately the same as this year's, which provided for 134 subjects.

The question of whether to have a national sales convention or regional conferences was discussed at the Burbank sessions, said Sears, and indications are that Warners will have regional meetings, probably in three strategic key cities.

Warners' selling season will start earlier that usual, it was indicated by the returning executives. It is planned to have 10 big pictures completed for trade showing late in July, over a period of three days. Last year the

"BIRTH" BEGUN AS COMMERCIAL FILM

Makers of Mellen's Food Paid $50,000 to Have Christie Make It

By IRENE KUHN

While cities and communities throughout America are banning the sale of the magazine Life on the newsstands, because of its publication of stills from a motion picture showing actual childbirth, the commercially sponsored origin of "The Birth of a Baby" film was disclosed yesterday.

The controversial picture, still under consideration by the New York Board of Regents, deciding on whether it may be shown in New York or not, was intended at the begininng to advertise baby foods and secure medical goodwill for the manufacturers.

Mead, Johnson & Co., Evansville, Ind., manufacturers of Mellen's Food and other articles of baby diet, conceived the idea of a commercial picture built around childbirth which they could distribute to doctors for their use. But if no serious objection was encountered on the part of the public, the picture was also to be shown in public theatres.

The company asked for bids on the production. Christie Productions, Inc., an affiliate of Educational Pictures,

Annette and Her Reactions To "Jungle Love" Analyzed

By J. M. JERAULD

Annette was entertained with the first reel of "Jungle Love" in the Paramount 12th floor projection room yesterday. Annette is a three-and-one-half-year-old chimpanzee from the Central Park Zoo. For the occasion she had on a red sweater, plaid skirt and pink bloomers—the new spring fashion note in jungle circles.

Dorothy Lamour, on the screen, wore a blue figured sarong.

The reason for all this, according to H. Spencer Berg, was that Paramount wanted to get the screen reactions on Annette, who is being considered as a possible successor to Jiggs, the chimp in "Jungle Love," who died about two weeks after the picture was finished. "Dr." Thomas Waller, psychiatrist for the Paramount publicity department, who decides when stunts are cuckoo, or nearly so, stood by to give the press photographers and newspaper writers learned explanations of Annette's reactions.

"Robin Hood" Book Out

The Warner advertising department has turned out an unusually elaborate and impressive pressbook on "The Adventures of Robin Hood." The book is most attractive, with covers done in a light brown with a tree-trunk stripe effect. The book, measuring 17 inches by 22 inches, is crowded with information designed to assist in the merchandising of the picture. Containing 60 pages, the book includes a 20-page separate advertising section, 11 pages of publicity material, a special section devoted to 25 national tieups, exploitation items and a line of advertising accessories.

ture. To insure this future we must be concerned about what we will play tomorrow, not about what we played yesterday."

Sears was optimistic as a result of what he observed during his visit in Hollywood.

"Never in my visits to Hollywood have I seen such effort on the part of all studios to make good pictures as they now doing," he declared. "If all industries applied themselves to bettering their interests as is the film industry, the recession would be a thing of the past in three months' time.

"With a greater number of big and important pictures scheduled for production than in years past, Hollywood is taking advantage of mistakes previously made and has eliminated much of the waste in studio production costs. What is needed now is more astute handling of films through better exhibition methods. Longer runs is one of the solutions to the problem."

No "Robin Hood" Roadshow

Sears said that Warners would do its part to help stimulate theatre business by releasing "The Adventures of Robin Hood" on May 15 as a regular release and not as a roadshow as originally planned. The film will have its premiere pre-release engagement at the Music Hall on May 5.

S. Charles Einfeld, advertising and publicity director, and Mort Blumenstock, eastern head of Einfeld's department, returned with Sears. Carl Leserman, assistant to Sears, and Sam Schneider, executive assistant to Harry M. Warner, arrived from Burbank on Sunday.

Einfeld said he would be here three or four weeks and then return to his headquarters on the coast. Harry M. Warner is due here in August.

Drop Cartoon Feature

Nothing will come of Leon Schlesinger's idea to make a cartoon feature for Warner release, it was said yesterday on the return of company executives from the coast. A few weeks ago Schlesinger submitted a proposal for a feature to cost about $700,000 and it was discussed with company heads. The cartoon producer is recuperating from an operation on the coast.

RCA Will Remain in Service Work: Cahill

CAMDEN, April 11.—E. C. Cahill, head of RCA Photophone's equipment department, issued a statement here today denying MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S published report that the company was considering withdrawing from the servicing field.

"Photophone is in the servicing business to stay," Cahill stated. "We have a permanent stake in the business and have no intention of withdrawing from the field. Our servicing operations are increasing and our service staffs are being enlarged. Nine men were added to the New York staff recently and others will be added elsewhere in the near future. The report is definitely untrue."

Strike Possible

London, April 11.—A strike of operators of the film theatres of London after Easter is possible as the result of a vote taken yesterday.

The operators are asking a 48-hour week and a higher minimum wage.

Thirty Warner Men Get Bernhard Prizes

Thirty managers selected by Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, in a service contest which was under way six weeks will be presented wrist watches. The contest resulted from Bernhard's New Year message to managers at the end of last year in which he stressed that service is a form of advertising and builds patronage for theatres.

The winners were selected on the basis of incidents of service in which they figured which Bernhard considered most valuable. The reports ranged from finding lost articles and children to quieting audiences during fires and taking care of patrons who became suddenly ill. Bernhard originally planned to give five prizes, but increased the number when the list of entries mounted.

Sears said that instructions concerning the national survey of p[illegible] popularity to be made by the sales staffs have been sent to the branch managers. The survey, which will be conducted at theatres to gauge audience reaction to players appearing in current films, will guide the studio in lining up the new program and in the handling to be given the studios' younger players.

The plan follows along the general lines of the suggestion of the C. E. A., and is regarded by exhibitor interests as a political manuever.

edge of a pool. A parrot screeched, a lion cub rambled into the scene, and Jiggs threw cocoanuts. Annette watched it all and paid little attention until the lion cub rambled in. Then she threw both arms around a park attendant's neck and looked the other way.

Capt. Donald Cheney-Stout, headkeeper at the Central Park Zoo, said Annette didn't like lions. She didn't like flashlight bulbs either.

At the end of the reel they turned on flood lights so the photographers could snap Annette in various poses. She shaded her eyes and seemed disinterested. Even Herb Berg's Bronx jungle noises didn't make her cheer up. When "Dr." Waller explained her psychological reactions, however, she climbed up on the back of one of the seats and stared coldly at him. One of the expert lip readers behind a camera translated Annette's comments.

The Park Department man asked where the bathroom was and the show was over.

Picture Stocks Hold Gains Over Weekend

Industry stocks listed on the N. Y. Stock Exchange held the gains yesterday which were recorded on Saturday following the defeat of the Administration's reorganization bill. Major company shares, led by Paramount first preferred, which gained 11½ points yesterday, showed considerable strength. Several issues were off fractionally, however. At the close of yesterday's trading virtually all issues were well above the lows for the year which have prevailed for the past few weeks.

Despite the gain made by the first preferred, Paramount's common and second preferred were off fractionally, closing at 7¾ and 8⅝, respectively. Warners common was off fractionally but the preferred gained one point. Loew's was off one point, closing at 40. A gain of one-half point was made by 20th Century-Fox common, while the preferred lost one-half point. Columbia gained one-quarter point, closing at 11½, up 2½ from its low of two weeks ago. RKO, Consolidated Film, Eastman and Pathe were off slightly. Motion picture bonds made small gains.

court in his petition, reversed an order of the referee, affirmed by the New Jersey District Court, requiring All-Continent to submit its books for examination. The majority of the Circuit Court held that the Bankruptcy Court had no power to compel submission of the books for audit.

"The efforts of this bankrupt and these respondents to obstruct your petitioner and the creditors of the bankrupt have been before this court upon more than one occasion in recent months," Steelman pointed out in his petition. "From its records, this court knows that the most important issue in said bankruptcy is whether the property or capital stock of All-Continent Corp. belongs to the bankrupt estate."

The appeal, he said, presents an important and novel question of Federal law which has never been decided by the Supreme Court, namely, whether a bankruptcy court has power to compel a third party corporation to submit its books for examination in connection with proceedings under Section 21 (A) of the Bankruptcy Act.

Phila. Game Hearing Is Set for April 25

Palm, had sought an injunction to prevent the city authorities from interfering with the use of games at his theatre.

Judge McDevitt issued no formal stay or injunction, but the understanding is that the police will not interfere with the use of Bank Night or any other games until after the hearing on April 25. That hearing will be before Judges McDevitt, Kuhn and Barry.

Operators of chance games here are all organizing their defenses to press the action. There is no record as yet of any theatre throwing out games and more than 35 houses in the city will have them as usual tonight. Protestant clergymen who met yesterday commended Judge McDevitt for his decision with only one dissenting vote.

Drop Oklahoma Games

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 11.—Six Oklahoma City suburban theatres abandoned Bank Night drawings after the managers were informed by Lewis R. Morris, County Attorney, that he would prosecute owners who violate an Attorney General's opinion handed down April 2.

"Operators of theatres holding Bank Night will receive letters from me advising them of my stand," Morris said. "I am going to follow the attorney general's opinion which holds that the Bank Night is in violation of Oklahoma lottery laws."

Five of the theatres affected by the ruling are operated by Standard Theatres, Inc., and the sixth, the Aldridge, a Negro theatre, is operated by Sol Starr.

"I conferred with Morris this week," said Walter B. Shuttee, general manager of the Standard Theatres Corp. "Our theatres will discontinue the practice, effective at once." Starr said Bank Night at his theatre would be stopped immediately.

May Take Milwaukee Action

MILWAUKEE, April 11.—In response to a request from the police department for warrants against the Milwaukee, Modjeska, Uptown and Tower, charged with violating the lottery laws in connection with the playing of Bank Night, District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes indicated action may be taken by his office shortly.

Evidence against these theatres, in addition to 14 others, was collected early in January, but action was postponed pending a decision from Attorney General O. S. Loomis on the legality of the games. The first three houses are operated by Warner-Saxe Theatres and the latter by Harold Mirisch.

At Oshkosh, District Attorney Lewis C. Magnusen has warned exhibitors to discontinue Bank Night and has indicated that if action does not follow Attorney General Loomis' opinion in other counties, he will bring a test case before the local courts.

Orders Florida Games Halted

MIAMI, April 11.—Bank Night recevied another setback in Florida when Circuit Judge Worth W. Trammell granted an injunction against the Little River Theatre Corp., ordering the drawings discontinued. A citizen here, Schuyler C. Hodge, brought the action against the theatre, calling the drawings a "public nuisance." It is believed the theatre will appeal to the state Supreme Court. In other cities where injunctions have been granted no appeal has been made, and the court recently decided that Bingo is legal.

They exercised complete control over prases of production and permitted copyright on the picture to be en out in the name of the Ameri Committee on Maternal Welfare, ubsequently Citron applied to the mmissioner of Education, Frank P. aves, and his application was dis ssed The matter is now before the ard of Regents for decision this ek.

Meantime, a publicity buildup was progress. Advertised as sponsored the American Committee on Mal Welfare, composed of represenives from more than 16 medical and lth welfare organizations, including United States Public Health rvice, the publicity evoked considble advance interest.

The film baby, which at its concepn just had its Mellen's Food daddy o footed the bill, and a corps of pervising medical experts of high nding to see that it was properly rn, now was everybody's pet.

Relationship in Doubt

Its present family residence is Spe l Pictures Corp., 1775 Broadway, t who is who in the relationship ere is considered a private matter.

Early inquiries about the corporate up of Special Pictures Corp., were swered with the statement that Wilm Skirball is president. A request further information on officers and ectors of the corporation was rered to Dr. Fred L. Adair, head of American Committee on Mater Welfare in Chicago, who appartly is the reputed spokesman for the mpany.

Yet there seems to be a distinct ndency on the part of the principals le to speak for the film not to speak st.

Dr. Adair, replying telegraphically a wired request for names of offirs and directors, said: "Special Pictures Corp., 1775 Broadway, Jack Skirball."

Skirball, reached by telephone, referred the questioner to Dr. Adair. Upon being told that Dr. Adair had implied telegraphically that Skirball do the talking, Skirball said with considerable heat and emotion that he didn't want to be annoyed.

Later, Aaron Horvitz was reached at the same office. Horvitz's name has appeared in various papers having to do with the film. The president of the company, he said, is William Skirball. The secretary is himself, Aaron Horvitz. Special Pictures Corp. is the distribution agent for the film, he said, but would give no details on how it is being distributed. And beyond that Horvitz would make no statement.

Silent on Grosses

"What becomes of the money taken in at the box-office?" the reporter asked, remembering that "The Birth of a Baby" is said to have grossed $11,000 in one week in Minneapolis where it has "wow'd audiences," according to the publicity. That publicity, incidentally, is declared to be supervised by the American Committee on Maternal Welfare, as are the advertising and exploitation of the picture.

"I have no comment to make on the money," said Horvitz. "That is a private matter."

E. W. Hammons of Educational Pictures said that Mead Johnson & Co. had donated the picture to the American Committee on Maternal Welfare and that proceeds from the ticket sale for the film would go to the various sponsoring organizations.

Sponsors to Profit

Oddly enough, included in this group of sponsors, are the U. S. Public Health Service, the U. S. Bureau of Census and the U. S. Children's Bureau. These Government agencies would all benefit from the box-office "take," according to Hammons' statement.

Elsewhere it is reported that neither Mead Johnson & Co. nor the sponsoring group are taking any profits from the picture.

Which brings us to the interesting question:

"Baby, baby, who gets baby's dough?"

Appeals Court May See Banned Picture

ALBANY, April 11.—The controversy over the banning of "Tomorrow's Children" reached the N. Y. Court of Appeals today with the likelihood that it will be the first picture ever screened for that body. The court took under consideration the plea by Jonah J. Goldstein, the petitioner-appellant's attorney, that the film be viewed and Chief Justice F. E. Crane allowed the submission of briefs by both Goldstein and Charles A. Brind, Jr., attorney for Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves.

Foy Productions, Ltd., and Principal Film Exchange, Inc., are contesting the ban of the picture by Graves, who upheld Irwin Esmond, censor, in refusing a license on the ground that the sex sterilization theme film was "immoral," "tending to corrupt morals" and "tending to incite crime." Previously, the Appellate Division heard the case at the January term and viewed the film in the courtroom, deciding on March 10 to uphold Graves.

Defeat of Neely Bill Is Sought in Denver distributor conciliation and negotiation.

Emmett Thurmon, secretary and counsel of the organization, who on Saturday telegraphed Sidney R. Kent, Barney Balaban, Harry M. Warner and Nicholas M. Schenck demanding an immediate abolition by their companies of compulsory block booking and predicting that today's meeting would go on record as favoring the Neely-Pettengill bill if the demand was not complied with, himself urged defeat of the bill during the meeting. None of the four company heads had replied to Thurmon's wire up to the time the meeting adjourned.

During the discussion on the Neely-Pettengill bill exhibitor speakers related that they had been advised by their representatives in Washington that the measure would not be acted upon during this session of Congress. The representatives admitted, the speakers said, that as legislators they knew very little about the theatre business and welcomed expressions from exhibitors on the Neely bill.

Archer Itemizes Grievances

A. P. Archer, president of the organization, cited what he described as the 10 outstanding unfair industry practices which should be corrected by exhibitor-distributor agreements. They are, the application of compulsory block booking to some accounts and not to others; selective contracts for some and not for others; sales of pictures by numbers or in groups without mention of titles, stars or stories; solicitation of contracts on the basis of work sheets and advertising but with the stipulation that these are not a part of the contract; designating pictures for the high percentage brackets and failing to deliver all of the pictures in the lower brackets; using outstanding pictures as inducements for signing new contracts; needless roadshowings and designations of too many pictures as specials; forcing of shorts with features and the weekly pay plan for shorts, newsreels and score charges.

Arkansas Exhibitors Opposing Neely Bill

LITTLE ROCK, April 11.—Arkansas theatre owners today unanimously voted opposition to the Neely bill at the close of a two-day session of the Independent Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Arkansas at the Hotel Marion here.

J. F. Norman was re-elected to his second term as president at the final session. Also re-elected were G. Carey as vice-president and R. V. McGinnis as secretary-treasurer.

A complete new board of directors went into office following a resolution passed by the convention to work more actively as an association during the coming year. Directors are W. L. Landers of Batesville, L. F. Haven of Forrest City, K. K. King of Searcy, C. F. Bonner of Pine Bluff, Sidnew Wharton of Warren, O. G. Wren of Little Rock and W. E. Malin of Augusta.

A suggestion whereby theatre owners would seek local school students to enter various phases of the industry through endowments provided by the exhibitors for proper school and college training was endorsed.

Iowa ITO Studies Delivery

DES MOINES, April 11.—Allied Independent Theatre Owners of Iowa met here today with 80 members present at the Hotel Savery. The most important business considered was the proposed cooperative trucking of films and other methods of delivery. Representatives of the Des Moines Film Delivery Co., and express organizations presented cost statistics to the association. A committee was appointed to determine the best method of delivery for the association. Wayne Dutton of Manchester is chairman.

A. D. Hilton of Sioux City was named chairman of a committee to formulate the stand the association should take on the Neely bill.

Sports Announcers Told to Give Facts

CHICAGO, April 11.—Radio sports broadcasters are reporters and should present all facts, but they are not commentators, and should leave editorial and critical comment to the newspapers, they were told during talks at the meeting of baseball broadcasters at the Edgewater Hotel here yesterday. Over 100 baseball commentators were present.

Major and minor league presidents refuted newspaper charges that baseball broadcasters were overstepping their bounds.

Speakers at the session included Ford Frick, president of the National League; William Harridge, president of the American League; Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League; George Trautman, president of the American Association; Bill Slocum, sports editor, and Donald Davis, president of General Mills, Inc.

Frick told the sports announcers and commentators not to hold back on facts about the games. He said with 10,000,000 listeners who were literally "blind," they should be told everything that transpires on the playing field. Frick's statement challenges the viewpoint of newspapers, who feel that the present system of sports broadcasting is overstepping bounds.

Individual conferences were held tonight with representatives of General Mills, Socony Vacuum, Coca Cola, Procter & Gamble and Goodrich Tire Co., all of whom are sponsoring baseball broadcasts this season.

At First Hand

Lincoln April 12.—Representatives of Cecil B. DeMille were at York last week, visiting Robert V. Grawell, 91, to get some first hand information for "Union Pacific," DeMille's new picture. Grawell is the last surviving witness of the driving of the golden spike at Promontory Point, Utah, in May, 1869, which completed the road and the linking of the two oceans.

Key Takes Continue Lenten Drop to Low of $1,347,244

Key city grosses continued their Lenten decline last week, the total for 23 cities going down to $1,347,244. This is the lowest point, with three exceptions, reached since the start of the current exhibition season last September. The three previous lows occurred during the pre-Christmas slump.

The present decline set in during the week ending January 14-15 following a sudden upswing that sent the total to $1,852,759, a mark very close to the high point of the season which developed the week following Labor Day. There was a slight pickup early in February and another for the week ending February 25-26, but since then the tendency has been uniformly downward, and the number of first run theatres has declined from a high of 150 in September to 143 last week.

In individual cities gross totals have been stimulated by five big pictures—"In Old Chicago," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and "Mad About Music," but these haven't been sufficient to make up for the weakness of other product. A number of houses have been using revivals in recent weeks on the theory that nothing would overcome the current lull.

New Financing Believed Set For Universal

Bank of America Loan Of $2,000,000 Paid

The conclusion of negotiations for new financing for Universal, which have been conducted over the past few months with downtown sources, is bebelieved to be signalized by the repayment yesterday of a loan of approximately $2,000,000 to the Bank of America. The repayment of the loan was announced officially by the company.

Universal officials declined to comment on the report that new banking arrangements had been made under which ample funds for new season production financing and additional working capital for other purposes would be made available to the company. However, the report met with no official denial and indications are that it may be confirmed in the near future.

The company's consolidated statement at the end of its fiscal year in November, 1937, showed a balance of $1,954,000 owing to the Bank of America. The indebetdness was in the form of a revolving fund which at no time greatly exceeded $2,000,000. The fund was set up early in 1936

Lehman Vetoes Bill To Permit Dog Races

Albany, April 12.—Governor Lehman today vetoed the Quinn bill, which was designed to legalize dog racing in four counties in New York State. Lehman's veto message declared that a change in the state constitution would be necessary before dog racing and betting could be allowed.

Theatre owners in the counties involved in the bill had registered vigorous opposition to the measure during its consideration by the legislature, contending that the operation of dog races offered serious competition to theatres.

and was used exclusively for production purposes. Indications are that the reported new financing is of a similar nature.

Universal's new season production plans are in process of formation at the studio, where Nate J. Blumberg, president, has been working out the new schedule with Charles R. Rogers. Blumberg was joined at the studio recently by Matthew J. Fox, his executive assistant.

W. A. Scully, general sales manager, reported yesterday that the new season schedule will include 12 westerns, six of which will feature Bob Baker, the company's new western star who appeared in four pictures this season. The company announced 10 westerns for the current season.

States Circuits. A proposal calling for the cooperative trucking of films or other methods of delivery was rejected as unfeasible at this time. The meeting, however, voted its appreciation of the services and efforts of the Railway Express Co. in handling deliveries during the current strike of film truck drivers and approved the permanent use of the company's service in the event the strike is not settled on terms which are satisfactory to the exhibitors.

A resolution condemning percentage playing terms for small town theatres as unfair was passed. L. F. Walcott of Eldora, Ia., president of the organization, presided at the meeting, which was regarded as the most successful held by the organization in the past five years.

Cancellations Stir Toronto Complaints

Toronto, April 12.—A number of complaints have been placed before the Arbitration Board of the Film Section of the Toronto Board of Trade by distributors following the action of exhibitors in cancelling a feature from their contracts because the exchange presented one attraction on the year's schedule as a roadshow.

This cancellation is provided for in the Canadian License Agreement, the exhibitors claim, but the point is to be decided by the arbitration plan.

Theatres in Chicago Using Auction Stunt

Chicago, April 12.—The latest form of "giveaway" plan to appear here is "Auction Night" which has been adopted by a number of Warner and Essaness theatres.

The idea is not entirely a new one, but a mixture of several giveaway stunts. So far it has not encountered any legal difficulties.

The way it is worked here is for the theatre to offer a sale of products of a wide variety—at bargain prices. For example, if the theatre plans to giveaway $100 in merchandise once a week, the merchandise will consist mainly of useful articles such as desk sets, table lamps, food mixers, glassware, etc.

Piece by piece the articles are auctioned off to the highest bidder, with refunds when the merchandise is claimed. The money taken in is used as prizes for stunts between sales of the articles. These stunts, such as pie-eating and nail driving contests, etc, afford the audience much fun.

Toronto, April 12.—Gross earnings of Famous Players Canadian Corp. for the first quarter show an increase of over 10 per cent as compared with the similar period of 1937, according to an announcement by J. J. Fitzgibbons, vice-president of the company.

The rate of improvement is increasing over all sections of the Dominion, this official declared, and the showing "is in striking contrast with the current experience in the United States."

Parsons Leaves Lesser

Hollywood, April 12.—Lindsley Parsons, producer of the Smith Ballew series for Sol Lesser, has settled his contract with Principal Pictures. He is planning a vacation in Mexico before announcing a new affiliation.

Parsons formerly was producer of the Tex Ritter series for Grand National. The settlement of his present contract resulted from 20th Century-Fox's dropping of Smith Ballew releases for the coming season.

RKO Studio Resumes With 5 Films Ready

Hollywood, April 12.—With five pictures slated to start at RKO within two weeks, 2,500 workers will be returned to the studio which is now idle, company officials stated today.

Among those films on which shooting is about ready to start are two high budget features: "Carefree," starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, and "Mother Carey's Chickens." It was learned today that Joan Bennett, scheduled to supplant Ginger Rogers in the latter film, has refused the role and that top casting is still unset.

Other productions which will start soon are "Border G-Man," a second George O'Brien western; "Fortuneers," featuring Alan Lane and Frances Mercer, and "The Cleanup," a story with a rackets background starring Chester Morris.

It was disclosed today that RKO will not extend the contract of Herbert Marshall and that the actor will go to M-G-M for one picture.

Lillie Messinger Is Story Head at RKO

her main interest always was stories.

Ned E. Depinet sent her to London in 1934 to scout the British field for writing talent. She spent a year abroad in London and on the Continent.

During the past year Miss Messinger carried on the New York negotiations for most of RKO's big bets for the current season, "Stage Door" and "Damsel in Distress." She also put through deals on properties not yet released—"Having Wonderful Time," "Vivacious Lady," "The Saint in New York."

She believes that the coming year in Hollywood will see some interesting picture experiments.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 61

(20th Century-Fox)

The martial note in world news appears to be becoming as inescapable in the newsreels of recent weeks as were Florida and California bathing cuties in the midwinter releases. This issue of Movietone gives a general idea of France's air power and Australia and New Zealand's sea power. With what has gone before and is still to come every film fan should be an expert on international armaments by July.

Chicago's spring blizzard, a reindeer roundup in Lapland and a smelt run in Michigan complete the reel's general news section. Shots of drilling operations in the world's deepest oilless well—a California bore of more than 15,000 feet—are interesting. Lew Lehr describes the latest addition to the fisherman's equipment amusingly. Sports are in the doldrums at this time of year, but Ed Thorgersen manages to find some aquatic fun in New Zealand, the national A.A.U. championship bouts in Boston, some California racetrack material and a boxing class at a girls' college. Floral decorations for the American woman's Easter wear are shown in the fashions department. Running time, 10 minutes. K.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 259

(M-G-M)

The building of new bombers at the Douglas plant in Santa Monica, Cal., and Army maneuvers using ships of similar design get the lead position in this release. Mussolini's decorations for relatives of Italian soldiers killed in Spain, Chief Justice Hughes on his 76th birthday and Britain's King and Queen on a visit to London slums complete the "headline" news section.

Local news items include pictures of an April snowstorm in New York; Troy college students in a demonstration against "hidden" taxes, and a student experiment with a 1,000,000-volt generator at California Tech. Helen Wills Moody in training for new tennis competition and the rugby game played in New York by an All-East team and the Cambridge Blues of England comprise the sports section. The woman's section finds a class of expectant fathers learning child care occupying the lead position. An Easter fashion show at Pasadena completes the reel. Interest is fairly well maintained throughout despite the absence of an outstanding subject. Running time, 9 minutes. K.

No. 72

(Paramount)

This reel contains about the same degree of general and diversified news interest that the morning newspaper might have on a day when there is little of a stirring or exciting nature. Some of it is amusing, some interesting, but none of it is especially striking.

The reel opens with a diving exhibition in Pasadena, presumably indicative of the approach of spring, if any. Harry Hopkins, Relief Administrator, tells a Senate committee that the relief program should be expanded and Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes looks hale and hearty on his 76th birthday. Czechoslovakian children gleefully partake in machine gun and rifle drill. An interesting clip shows the early gathering of Maine maple sap, and the making of the syrup.

There is an odd interest in pictures of the dust and snow storms which swept over parts of Texas, while the rest of the reel pictures college boys' corner on pennies to publicize "hidden taxes," and stunt flying by Hollywood pilots in reconstructed war planes. Running time, 9 mins. A.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 76

(RKO)

This issue is composed wholly of routine material — unusual spring weather, a bit of politics, scenes of a Government resettlement project and a rugby match. It is interesting, but lacks live news to give it distinction.

Chicago suffers from a blizzard. Helen Wills Moody is seen preparing for a comeback. Harry Hopkins, W.P.A. chief, testifies before a Senate committee. He urges elimination of direct relief and stresses the necessity of employment. Boy Scouts in New Rochelle search for the missing Peter Levine. Farmers are seen at Lake Dick, Ark., on a Government rural resettlement community. New spring fashions are modelled at Pasadena. The refugee question is taken care of with scenes of immigrants on Ellis Island. The comment is good here. The reel closes with shots of a rugby match between Cambridge University and an American team. The English won, 39-0. Running time, 9 mins. P.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 10, No. 657

(Universal)

Thirteen subjects furnish variety to this release but live news seems to have been lacking, except for the snowstorm scenes at Chicago and Elk City, Okla., and flood shots from Montgomery, Ala.

Easter fashions at Pasadena are shown with an attempt at novel camera angles, an outdoor sculpture show presented men at work with chisels and sandpaper, students corner pennies at Troy, Mussolini gives medals to war heroes, Russians dressed in white shoot cannons on a snowy background, and bands are put on the legs of wild ducks—all of which is only mildly interesting.

Some suspense is involved in a scene where English war trucks cross streams in midair on steel cables. Representative O'Connor speaks from the Capitol steps on the reorganization bill and seems to forget that he doesn't have to shout into a microphone. An element of humor, although it is done seriously, is presented by a class for fathers getting advance training on dolls. Running time, 9 mins. J.

Vidor to Sail April 20

Hollywood, April 12.—King Vidor, M-G-M director, will leave for New York on Friday. He will sail for London April 20 on the Manhattan to plan the filming in Britain of A. J. Cronin's novel, "The Citadel."

Air Probe Aim To Hoodwink, Says Connery

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Charging that the monopoly investigation by the Federal Communications Commission was a deliberate attempt to hoodwink Congress and whitewash the commission, Representative Lawrence J. Connery (Dem., Mass.) in the most bitter attack yet directed at the F.C.C., urged that the House immediately make an investigation of its own into conditions in the radio industry.

"Congress has had presented to it ample evidence of the deplorable conditions prevailing in the Federal Communications Commission, in the Congressional Record today," Connery said, charging it has done nothing to break up the monopoly held by a "privileged few, residing in New York City," and has refused to bar from the radio indecent and undesirable programs.

Criticises McNinch

The Congressman charged that Chairman Frank R. McNinch attempted to sidetrack Commissioner T. A. M. Craven's demand for an investigation "in favor of an investigation by a few department employes," and when unsuccessful, suceeded in having the probe conducted by a committee to be appointed by him.

"The honesty and purpose of this investigation, voted by the commission, can well be judged by considering the background and the interest of those members of the commission whom Chairman McNinch appointed to conduct this investigation," he declared.

"We find that Chairman McNinch has appointed as a committee to investigate radio monopoly and chain broadcasting the two members of the commission who, more than all other members combined, made radio monopoly a reality. He turned over control of this so-called investigation to the only two members of the commission whom President Roosevelt inherited from the administrations of Coolidge and Hoover, namely Commissioners Sykes and Brown.

New Shows on the Air

Lucky Strike Program

The new Lucky Strike series on Mutual got off to a faltering start Monday evening with an unhappy script which featured Buddy Clark, the singer, in the principal speaking role. Buddy did get an opportunity to vocalize some place midway in the presentation, but by that time it didn't matter.

The action took place in a boarding house in New York, with Buddy, in the big city to make good as a singer, applying for a room. Following some killing patter among Buddy, the landlady, and a cockney maid, Buddy obliged the opera-loving housekeeper with the "Toreador Song" from "Carmen." The moment they were out of earshot, however, he began to swing with "Mama, I Want to Make Rhythm."

pany officials discussed radio's current problems and advancement and later viewed a demonstration of television and facsimile transmission. The council, organized during the first years of NBC, is composed of outstanding citizens who are consulted by the company on matters of policy.

The meeting endorsed the company's policy of permitting the discussion of controversial subjects on the air only during sustaining program periods where the company affords opportunities for discussion by speakers on different sides of the question. Approval was given also of the policy whereby a commercial sponsor who presents a controversial subject on his program is required to provide a similar opportunity to the opposition for reply during his sponsored time.

Lenox R. Lohr, NBC president, explained the technical, program and other problems involved in the application of radio's latest developments in the fields of facsimile and television, which were demonstrated during the meeting.

In an answer to the Motion Picture Daily's Tuesday morning story of the history of the film "The Birth of a Baby," Special Pictures, Inc., which is handling the distribution of the picture, issued the following statement:

"The American Committee on Maternal Welfare today issued a denial of statements published in the Motion Picture Daily that "The Birth of a Baby" is commercially sponsored by a manufacturer of baby foods or that it has any advertising tieups of any nature whatsoever.

"It is presented solely by the American Committee on Maternal Welfare, Inc., to whom funds were donated by the manufacturer. The committee further points out that in the film the dialogue of the doctor specifically

Bronx Showmen Hail Foley Action in Stopping Bingo

Exhibitors in the Bronx yesterday hailed the statement by District Attorney Samuel J. Foley that he had suppressed Bingo in his borough and that he "would see to it that it stays suppressed."

Chance games in theatres are not affected, the district attorney's office said yesterday, and so long as exhibitors do not violate the gambling laws they can operate the games as much as they like. However, it was said that Inspector Reynolds of the Police Department is "watching the situation" as it affects theatres.

Foley made his statement following the conviction of the president and two members of the North Side Republican Club for running a Bingo game. "We are ready to prosecute any organization that tries to start again," he said.

The I.T.O.A. some time ago launched a survey of the metropolitan area to compile information for law enforcement officials on places running Bingo. John Manheimer, executive secretary, yesterday said that the checkup is still in progress. The organization contends that the games are "unfair competition" to theatres and that they have cut in heavily on night attendance. Under a ruling of the state courts, theatres are in the clear so long as they make no charge for participating in the chance games.

New RKO Plan Would Create 2 Companies

Film and Theatre Units Would Be Divided

A separation of RKO's picture and theatre operations into individual corporate entities as a means of facilitating the reorganization of the company was reported yesterday to be the plan of reorganization factors now being studied by the company's principal creditor groups.

Spokesmen for Atlas Corp., proponent of the plan, withheld comment on the report, as did the representatives of the leading committees for secured and general creditors.

As reported in usually reliable quarters, the plan now under study contemplates the division of picture and theatre operations into separate corporate entities, with a corresponding division of the unsecured claims against the company. For the past four years RKO's theatre operations have been markedly more profitable than those of the picture company. Although lacking official comment or explanation, a reorganization plan on this basis could be devised which recommends only the natural maternal milk as the best food for the infant. In fact, the donor's name was omitted from all credits to avoid any implication of benefit to him.

The committee further states that the picture was designed for public exhibition, that the donor exercised no control over the picture, but that it contributed valuable advice.

In the brief filed on appeal to the Board of Regents of the State of New York by Millard H. Ellison, attorney for the American Committee on Maternal Welfare, Inc., there appear two significant paragraphs:

The first, titled "Financial Sponsorship," states:

"Mead Johnson & Co. of Evansville, Ind., manufacturers of infant diet materials, defrayed the entire cost of the picture. The picture makes no reference to this company, or to its products. The company will not receive any financial return from the showing of the picture. The company hopes that in partial return for this contribution to the cause of maternal welfare it will continue to merit the high esteem and good will of the medical profession."

Public Exhibition Suggested

The second excerpt from the brief, entitled "Exhibition of Picture," says that the picture can only attain its objectives if shown to the public. It then lists seven methods by which they may be accomplished. The first five are to restricted groups: medical groups, public health organizations, hospitals, mothers' clubs, parent-teachers' associations, religious organizations, college, high school or grade schools. The sixth method suggests: "in motion picture houses by arrangements which will not interfere with the usual feature presentation;" and the seventh, "by motion picture theatres as a regular part of the program."

It is believed that Woolf will confer with J. Cheever Cowdin, Universal board chairman, on financial matters here and will also make a general study of American operating methods. Seidelman may leave for the coast late next week with William A. Scully, Universal general sales manager, to participate in conferences on new season production plans now under way between Nate J. Blumberg and Charles R. Rogers. It is not known here whether Woolf will visit the studio.

would lighten the outstanding obligations of RKO to its creditors and carry a consequently less burdensome total of fixed charges following reorganization.

Current indications are that the new plan has not progressed beyond the idea stage at this time and the determination of its feasibility is said to be dependent upon the results of a general study of the company's current financial position as reflected in the consolidated statement which is expected from the auditors at the end of the week. This statement is expected to show, among other things, a net profit of approximately $1,900,000 from consolidated operations for 1937, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Feb. 4. This is approximately $700,000 less than in 1936.

Directors of K-A-O Renamed at Meeting

Members of the board of directors of Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corp. were reelected yesterday at the annual meeting of stockholders. Because dividends on the preferred stock of the company are still three years in arrears, preferred stockholders again this year were entitled to elect a majority of the board.

Directors representing the preferred stock, a majority of which is controlled by the M. J. Meehan interests, are Donald K. David, Monroe Goldwater, Malcolm Kingsberg and Peter J. Maloney. Other directors who were reeelected were Leo Spitz, K-A-O president, representing RKO; Lunsford P. Yandell, representing RCA, and Richard Jones, representing Atlas Corp.

The meeting approved a reduction of the company's authorized common stock from 2,000,000 shares to 1,400,000 shares.

CEA Plans Active Fight on Grading

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, April 13.—The general council of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association today was empowered to take immediate and decisive action in combatting the plan of the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) to grade features. A long debate followed the presentation of the exhibitors' committee which has been studying the problem.

Following the meeting a national propaganda campaign was determined upon, which will include the circularization of every exhibitor as well as provincial mass meetings, five of which already have been arranged. The C.E.A. will challenge the distributors by announcing their own grading on "A" films, advising exhibitors which films should not be booked on percentage. National circuits are expected to support the C.E.A. in the fight, which the exhibitors see as merely a maneuver to increase film rentals.

Film Leaders to Aid Charity Show May 11

Plans for a rally and community party at Madison Square Garden, May 11, to open the Greater New York Fund's campaign to raise $10,000,000 to supplement the finances of private health and welfare agencies were described yesterday by Winthrop Rockefeller, executive vice-chairman of the campaign committee, at a meeting in the RCA Lounge.

Hollywood and New York film industry leaders will play a large part in the drive and Hollywood talent will contribute to the entertainment program to mark the opening of the campaign. Rockefeller and William Gaxton, stage star, returned this week from the coast where they conferred on plans for the drive with Joseph M. Schenck, Darryl Zanuck, Louis B. Mayer, David Selznick, Adolph Zukor, Leo Spitz, Jack Warner and Hal Roach. Schenck is acting as chairman in Hollywood for the May 11 program here. A still incomplete list of studio personalities who have volunteered to contribute their services to the Garden program includes Joe E. Brown, Bobby Breen, Leo Carillo, Eddie Cantor, The Marx Brothers, Ethel Merman, James Cagney, Victor Moore, Edward G. Robinson, The Ritz Brothers, Bill Robinson, Hugh Herbert and Dick Powell.

FCC Refuses Opposition to Congress Quiz

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 13.—By a vote of five to two, the Federal Communications Commission today refused to adopt the Payne-Craven resolution submitted last week, explaining that the commission investigation of monopoly is not an attempt to forestall a Congressional inquiry and putting the commission on record as not opposed to a Congressional probe.

The only members voting for adoption were the sponsors of the resolution, Commissioners George H. Payne and T. A. M. Green.

Following the session at which the resolution was discussed, Commissioner Walker, with the concurrence of Chairman Frank R. McNinch and Commissioners Sykes, Brown and Case, issued a statement of explanation of the majority's action.

"Whether an investigation of a Governmental agency created by Congress should be made is wholly a matter for the judgment of the Congress itself," Walker said. "This commission should neither advocate nor oppose such investigation.

"If at any time Congress should see fit to enter upon an investigation in which this commission may be concerned or by which it may be affected, this commission should expect to offer every facility at its command in assisting in the active prosecution of such an investigation and in making immediately available all the facts pertaining thereto."

based on a book, and advertised as being based on or suggested by the original, it must adhere to the book's factual contents.

While G. N. is not greatly concerned, because the picture was released last year and has played most of its possibilities, the company does not intend to give the F.T.C. the requested stipulation and will fight the case.

Miss Rosenthal said that attorneys for B. F. Zeidman, who produced the film, will be asked to assist in the defense since G. N.'s releasing contract with Zeidman warrants that the title is free and clear and indemnifies the distributor against any litigations and claims in its dealings with him.

E. P. Kilroe of the 20th Century-Fox legal department, who is chairman of the major companies' copyright committee, pointed out that G. N. changed the title of the film from "In His Steps" to "Sins of Children" shortly after it was released and that the advertising matter says that the picture was "suggested" by the best seller and not "based" on it, which makes a difference. Kilroe does not believe a ruling in this case would set a "dangerous" precedent.

"BIRTH" BARRED BY N.Y. REGENTS

Rule Film Is Unsuitable For Theatres; Offer Private License

Showing of "Birth of a Baby" in any private or public place of amusement was barred yesterday by the N. Y. Board of Regents in a decision which upheld the earlier ban of Erwin Esmond, director of the Bureau of Motion Pictures.

The board conceded that the film had been produced under "careful scientific supervision and undoubtedly has high educational value," but declared that it was in conflict with Section 1082 of the Education Law. It offered to issue a permit for private showing of the picture, "if the applicant requests it."

An appeal to the courts will be taken immediately, it was stated by Special Pictures, Inc., by the attorney for the American Committee on Maternal Welfare. This appeal will take the form of an application for a writ of certiorari in the Appellate Division.

In a statement explaining the Board

Lehman Signs Bill Granting Day Off

Albany, April 14.—Governor Lehman has signed the Wagner bill, making it obligatory that one day of rest in seven be granted film house engineers, firemen and janitors or watchmen tending the buildings. Sponsored by Assemblyman Robert F. Wagner, Jr., son of the U. S. Senator, the measure had the strong support of the State Federation of Labor. No dissenting votes were cast against it in either Assembly or Senate chambers when it passed on March 17.

In signing the bill Governor Lehman said the measure was "in harmony with the progressive policy of the State of New York to prohibit unreasonably long hours of work" and that it would "assure wage earners at least one day of rest during each week." The Wagner bill was not opposed by either the larger circuits or the M.P.T.O.A., legislative representatives telling Motion Picture Daily that it "was right in principle inasmuch as other employes enjoyed the privilege." Total cost to the

"Chicago" $61,500 Boom for the Roxy

Business zoomed at the Roxy this week, "In Old Chicago" raising the gross to $61,500. The film is being held over as the theatre's Easter Week attraction. "Judge Hardy's Children" did $24,000 at the Capitol in eight days.

A total of 140,000 persons saw "The Adventures of Marco Polo" at the Music Hall during the first week, according to the tabulation of the theatres attendance figures.

Urges Legislation To Solve Problems

Passage of some form of "appropriate" legislation designed to solve trade practice problems was advocated by Emil K. Ellis, attorney, at a luncheon meeting of the Motion Picture Associates yesterday.

"The industry has an opportunity to kill the Neely bill if the exhibitors and distributors through round table discussions can arrive at an acceptable formula themselves," Ellis declared.

"But I have been informed that the

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 62
(20th Century-Fox)

The 15 events that make up this issue thoroughly cover national and international affairs of the past few days. Military and naval activities here and abroad occupy more than half of the reel. It is interesting throughout.

The first three clips concern the Spanish situation. General Franco and his troops are seen at Lerida. Refugees flee over the Pyrenees into France and Barcelona stages a recruiting drive to stem the insurgent drive. Leningrad welcomes the polar ice-drifters. The Wollersdorf prison new Vienna, once a Nazi concentration unit, is burned down. Italian troops drill in the Alps. The U. S. Navy maneuvers in the Pacific off Hawaii. Lew Lehr tries his humor with scenes of a juggler on the roof of a Chicago hotel.

"Names in the News" shows Henry and Mrs. Ford celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Norman Davis speaks briefly, the occasion being his appointment as head of the Red Cross; William Martin, Jr., poses following his nomination as chairman of the Stock Exchange, and the Sultan of Muscat is seen inspecting a branch of the English army. Ed Thorgersen's sport division is wholly feminine and a press agent's delight. Broadway chorus girls play baseball in Central Park, Pasadena high school girls swim in formation and Texas girls have a time fishing. Running time, 10 mins. P.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 260
(M-G-M)

Here is a varied and interesting assortment of events that manages to depart somewhat from the routine for a brief period. There are also two rather exciting clips depicting street fighting in Lerida and the rescue of the crew of a freighter in a rough sea in midocean. An interesting slant on the current trouble in the Holy Land is given with scenes of British troop movements and activities, the damage caused by Arabs, soldiers guarding the Wailing Wall and in Tel-Aviv where refugee Jews have created a new port. The comment aids in building coherence.

The bulk of the reel offers Richard Whitney arriving at Sing Sing, Mrs. Roosevelt modeling her Easter clothes, and the arrival at a dog maternity hospital of sextuplets while the father waits. It tries to be funny. Oxford beats Cambridge on the Thames, during which Jean Paul King slips in a not-so-sly plug for "A Yank at Oxford." The opening of the season at Bowie, Md., concludes the doings. Running time, 10 mins. P.

Paramount News
(Paramount)

Foreign events predominate and war and preparedness for war take up about half of this issue, which is more than ordinarily interesting for a midweek release. From Russia came shots of the ovation to Papanin and his comrades returning in triumph from the Arctic, while in Moscow charges are leveled at those who rescued them.

Loyalist and Insurgent fronts provide scenes of the Spanish war, with a striking shot of Franco inspecting captured Lerida. England furnishes clips of preparedness for gas attacks and the training of youngsters by the Royal Air Force, while off Hawaii the U. S. fleet shows how it will fight enemy submarines. Domestic shots include the Henry Ford wedding anniversary celebration at Dearborn, Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt shopping for Easter finery and a sculpture exhibition. The reel ends on a humorous note when Bob Burns goes ga-ga with his bazooka over his new baby. Running time, 7 mins. F.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 77
(RKO)

There are 10 clips in this issue of the reel, and they range around the news map rather widely. The result is a generally interesting group of news pictures. The Russian populace is seen emulating the "ticker-tape" New Yorkers in welcoming the Arctic explorers, followed by the manly figure of Richard Whitney, en route to Sing Sing to serve a term for grand larceny.

A woman's swimming record is seen in the process of collapsing and the Sultan of Muscat and Oman inspects Britain's new war tanks. A typical newsreel shot is the wrecking of a chimney in Chicago, 175 feet high, and the American Pacific Fleet looks properly impressive in maneuvers off Hawaii. Then follow shots of Henry and Mrs. Ford on their golden wedding anniversary, a new telescope camera which takes remarkable pictures at a distance of 50 miles, thousands of Spanish Loyalist troops arriving in France and being shipped back whence they came. The reel concludes with the annual and historic Oxford-Cambridge boat race, but those races never do look thrilling. Running time, 8 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 658
(Universal)

While few of the items assembled in this issue are striking news events, they make a varied and interesting program. Geographically, the 12 subjects are scattered.

Salmon fishing in Oregon opens the reel. An onion fiesta in Texas for dear publicity follows. Henry Ford and the rarely seen Mrs. Ford are shown visiting a school on their golden wedding anniversary. Richard Whitney arrives at Sing Sing. The Sultan of Muscat and Oman rides in a tank at Aldershot. A Martin flying-boat is shipped to Russia. The Navy maneuvers off Hawaii. Spanish refugees are shown arriving in France. Mussolini's Alpine troops get a little practice on skis. The reel concludes on a sporting note with scenes of the Oxford-Cambridge crew race and a rough-and-tumble wrestling match at the New York Hippodrome. Running time, 9 mins. P.

"Test Pilot"

(M-G-M)

"Test Pilot" should be one of the great box-office pictures of the year. With four of the best marquee selling names in the business, wrapped around a title which connotes daring, adventure in the skies and action, the film probably will be all that the showman dreams about.

In addition there is a story characterized by a warm human quality, with the dual phases of a man's love for a woman, and, even more important to the strength of the story, the devotion of two hard-living men for each other, one the test pilot who has death at his wings' end every time he leaves the ground, the other his mechanic who is completely devoted to him, and who understands fully the reason for the often strange conduct of the pilot.

The pilot is Clark Gable, his mechanic is Spencer Tracy, who won the 1937 Academy acting award; his wife is Myrna Loy, and his boss is Lionel Barrymore. The rest of the cast is excellent, but unimportant to the selling of the film. The dialogue is intelligent and carries the story with considerably more depth of feeling than might be expected. There is an excellent balance maintained between what might be termed the "non-action" portions of the film and the more active phases. The picturization of a Cleveland air race, with its throbbing suspense, a plane afire in the air, a crash, and the impression of tremendous speed engendered by clever use of the sound mechanism; a test flight for altitude in a huge plane similar to the U. S. Army "flying fortresses," and its crash, bringing death to Tracy, and the "power dive" during which Gable tests a new Army plane are the highlights in thrill material which will make audiences gasp.

The leading players do their work more than well, but the splendid portrayal of Tracy as he suffers the continuously agonizing expectation of seeing his friend crash, is proof that there was good reason for that Academy award.

Much credit must go to Victor Fleming for a fine job of direction, while equal praise belongs to Vincent Lawrence and Waldemar Young for their screenplay from an original story by Frank Wead. Louis D. Lighton produced.

Throughout it is a finished production, and one which should give the exhibitor just cause for rejoicing. It is fine enough to please any audience, with action enough to please the most unimaginative "action fan."

Running time, 121 minutes. "G."

"Under Western Stars"

(Republic)

Hollywood, April 14.—Republic has another Western star of real box-office caliber in Roy Rogers, a young fellow with a rich voice, engaging personality, and masculine ruggedness. Groomed to star in a series of eight musical westerns when Gene Autry started his sitdown strike, Rogers, co-starred with Smiley Burnette, in "Under Western Stars," makes an auspicious debut.

Aided by the comedian Burnette and the feminine lead, pretty Carol Hughes, Rogers "clicks" and if the rest of the contemplated series is of the same caliber as the first, he will rank high in the next poll of exhibitors. The picture will rate among the best western made for any and all budget classifications. Joe Kane guided the production skillfully. Many of the picture's entertainment qualities lie in the screenplay of Dorrell and Stuart McGowan and Betty Burbridge from the McGowans' original. Sol C. Siegel was associate producer.

Rogers, elected to Congress, is blocked by a water company in his fight for lower water rates. He attempts to swing Congressional votes by showing newsreels of a dust storm, but that fails. When a Congressional committee visits his state, Rogers contrives to force the Congressmen to ride horses and they are caught in a dust storm, and change their minds concerning the need for lower water rates.

The picture contains five songs—"Dust," by Johnnie Mercer; "Send My Mail to the County Jail," "When a Cowboy Sings a Song" and "Back to the Backwoods," by Jack Lawrence and Peter Tinturin; "Rogers for Congressman," by Eddie Cherkose and Charles Rosoff, all of which are suited for this type of production.

(Additional Reviews on Page 8.)

Short Subjects

"March of Time, No. 9"

(RKO)

With two episodes, one offering a study of modern methods of improving the American penal system, and the other depicting the background of Hitler's conquest of Austria, this issue of March of Time is an interesting and highly dramatized reel, on a par with the production quality expected of the series.

The first episode notes first the attempts to cure crime by healthful and supervised play for children, while much of the footage is devoted to the attempts to turn young offenders out of prisons as useful citizens rather than as men trained only in the ways of crime. The work of the Prison Industries Reorganization Administration, a Federal unit offering assistance to states desirous of improving their prison systems, is shown, in contrast to the crowded, unhealthy conditions in prisons and on southern chain gangs so prevalent in most of the country's 4,000 penal institutions.

The Nazi sequence traces the Austrian coup back to Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf," in which he declared the destruction of Austria necessary to Germany. Scenes of the old Emperor Franz Josef of Austria and the court life surrounding him, the assassination of Chancellor Dolfuss of Austria by Nazis, and finally the conquest of Austria by armed force are depicted. The reel closes with further quotation from the Hitler book, and the implication that further moves of a similar nature may be expected from him. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Out Where the Stars Begin"

(Vitaphone)

This two-reel musical adequately should serve the dual purpose of both entertaining and introducing Evelyn Thawl. Miss Thawl is a personable, pretty young lady who also dances well. The film is in Technicolor, one of the more expert jobs. The plot is a humorous and light variation of the movie-struck girl who gets her chance and acquits herself with honors when the leading lady walks out. There are refreshing laughs. The support includes Jeffery Lynn, Armida, Fritz Feld and Charley Foy and there are also a number of Bobby Connolly dance numbers. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"How to Figure Income Tax"

(M-G-M)

Taxpayers will have a laugh at their own expense with this Robert Benchley opus. It has humor and a neat conclusion. Benchley utilizes all sorts of charts and models to explain taxation. Finally he is hauled off to explain one of his own reports. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 49"

(Universal)

A better than usual collection of curiosities. It should be found engrossing by any audience. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Balaban, who left for Chicago yesterday to attend Passover ceremonies there, is expected back in New York early next week.

New Simplex Sound Explained to Trade

sizes of theatres, with amplification added as the size of the auditorium increases, and that it may be readily adapted to push-pull or stereophonic (binaural) reproduction.

Work on the new apparatus has been in progress since last fall when licensing agreements were made with RCA and Erpi. It is called the Simplex Four Star Sound System. Thirty-five equipments have been sold, it was stated, and the company is about to go on to a volume production basis.

Herbert Griffin, vice-president, said that in order to get improved volume range, noise level had been reduced, with marginal provisions anticipating further refinements in recording. This, he said, will allow exhibitors to utilize the full dynamic sound response recorded on the film.

Technicians Introduced

The number of mechanical contacts in the signal circuit from the photo-electric cell to the loudspeaker voice coil have been reduced to a minimum, the main amplifier volume control and the sound changeover have been placed in isolated circuits, and the only switches in the circuit are those used for testing loudspeakers. A co-axial cable is used to couple the photo-electric cell and the volume amplifier. A new metal alloy has been introduced in the magnet of the permanent magnet type speakers.

Griffin introduced the engineers who have developed the new apparatus. They were: George Friedl, Jr., formerly with Erpi and former assistant chief engineer of Western Electric, Ltd., London; Fowler (Jack) Durst, formerly with A. T. & T. and Erpi; W. J. Harshbarger, in charge of production activities, also a former Erpi man; W. Borberg, an engineer with a background of European training who has been associated with various International Projector developments since 1929; E. J. Shortt, at one time a radio man and later with RCA; C. F. Alexander, long with Western Electric and the Bell Laboratories; E. J. Pirner, chief draftsman; J. L. Stephans, with Erpi from the start of sound in 1929; and E. G. Mercier, design draftsman with a background of experience gained both with Western Electric and Erpi.

Motion on Orpheum Dividend Is Denied

A motion to compel a second interim dividend of 12½ per cent to creditors of Orpheum was denied by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. Judge Coxe stated that a creditors' hearing had been set for April 28 before Bankruptcy Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn, and that the question of dividends could be passed on at that time. Philip Snyder, trustee of certain Orpheum bonds, made the motion.

Marcus Heiman, Orpheum trustee, will apply for approval for his final account. Gross receipts were $703,527 and disbursements $329,306, leaving $374,221 cash on hand. Total claims allowed were $2,152,555 with $322,305 paid out as a 15 per cent first dividend. Orpheum assets were sold to Stadium Theatres Corp., an RKO subsidiary.

Heiman seeks commissions of $7,172. Keekman, Bogue, Leake, Stephens & Black, his attorneys, ask $50,000.

Paramount in Hammerstein Suit

A suit by Emma S. Hammerstein, individually and as an executrix of the estate of the late Oscar Hammerstein, against Paramount Pictures, Inc., was revealed in the N. Y. Supreme Court Wednesday when a motion for an examination before trial of Paramount was filed.

The action seeks a permanent injunction to restrain use of Hammerstein's name in connection with "High, Wide and Handsome."

The complaint charges that use of the name was unauthorized, but the answer contends that Hammerstein wrote the screenplay and lyrics under a contract signed in May, 1936.

Young to Withdraw Suit

Judge William Bondy yesterday granted permission to James Young, a playwright, to withdraw his infringement claim against RKO in the U. S. District Court. Young had alleged infringement of his story, "What Price Sex in Hollywood," in the RKO film "What Price Hollywood."

Equity Pleads for Member Cooperation

A plea for a united front in the membership ranks of Actors Equity Association in the current issue of Equity, the organization's official publication, out today, discourages the entry of nominations for Equity offices in opposition to the regular ticket headed by Arthur Byron.

The organization's annual election will be held May 27 and opposition candidates have until May 7 to make their appearance. The editorial declares that the administration of Equity regards the regular ticket as "good" and "representative" and "one which may well be endorsed by the membership." Citing a growing solidarity in Equity ranks, long torn by internal dissention, the editorial points out that peace within the organization is essential to a successful culmination of current efforts of Equity to work out a basic agreement with the producing managers in return for control of theatre ticket speculation, for the organization's aims in connection with Federal Theatre Projects and in resisting the jurisdictional claims of the I.A.T.S.E.

Because of the absence of controversial issues, the fact that the presidency of Equity has been made an honorary rather than a salaried post, and the apparent dearth of competitive candidates, it is regarded as unlikely that an opposition ticket will make an appearance.

Operators' Strike Hits London Houses

affected were parts of the Gaumont British circuit. Odeon and the Associated British Pictures circuits were operating normally tonight.

There was a small amount of damage, but little excitement. The Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) sent projectionists as available. Although little serious disturbance followed the beginning of the strike, the exhibitors of the country are faced with the possibility of a more difficult problem. The strike stems from an inter-union dispute.

New "Steel" Films In Color Are Shown

U. S. Steel's $250,000 Technicolor productions—a four-reeler and a one-reeler condensation—were shown to an invited audience in the Waldorf-Astoria Wednesday.

The longer film, "Men Make Steel," and the short one, "Steel—Man's Servant," carry a narrative voiced by Edwin C. Hill.

The film will replace the old picture of steelmaking issued in 1928. Roland Reed Productions produced the films, which took months to make. Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn cooperating with Reed and U. S. Steel in the shooting.

The film is the best of the industrials thus far. It is particularly fortunate in that the Technicolor enhances the story. Red hot steel, in the making, leaping in vivid color from the screen, is the hero of the story, and because steel in the making is red and yellow it is the focal point of eye and attention throughout, and is helped further in all the sequences by the neutral black, greys and dull blues of the factory backgrounds.

The one-reeler is intended for "customers," said Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., U. S. Steel board chairman. Distribution of the film has not yet been decided upon, but it will probably go into the nation's theatres to compete with Hollywood made "shots."

Hollywood Preview

"Go Chase Yourself"

(RKO)

Hollywood, April 14.—Joe Penner's first starring vehicle is what is known in trade circles as an "all laugh" feature. It does little to advance the art of the screen, but it should do much to advance the prestige of Penner, Lucille Ball, Richard Lane and June Travis. Everybody in "Go Chase Yourself" plays a comedy part and the film goes for that quality ridiculously and insanely. There's a motivating story thread, to be sure, but quite often that is forgotten in favor of a series of nonsensical gags and rib-tickling situations. Starting out without much promise and giving only a few vague hints of what is to follow, the show erupts into a maze of foolishness at about the end of the first reel and from then on its hilarity had the preview audience whooping all the way through.

The story has to do with the wild and woozy adventures of a goofy bank teller who helps the bandit gang, Bradley Page, Richard Lane and Tom Kennedy, rob the bank. The gang, fleeing in a trailer which Penner has won in a raffle, rip and roar through a round of insanity. Believing that he is doing the girl a favor, Penner helps kidnap heiress June Travis and, as Fritz Feld, Granville Bates, Lucille Ball, George Irving and Frank M. Thomas roam into the picture at odd and unexpected intervals to add to the merriment, the climax is one of the most exciting bits of action seen on the screen as Penner steers the runaway trailer down a steep mountain road.

Walter O'Keefe's original story idea is smart low comedy in conception. Via devious hilarious situations and gags, the screenplay by Paul Yawitz and Bert Granet, emphasizes that quality in bizarre style. Edward Cline's direction is pointed to give exhibitors and fun loving audiences a full dish of comedy.

"Topa Topa"

(Pennant)

Hollywood, April 14.—This patiently produced presentation of an intelligent dog and a well-trained bird in their reactions to man and nature is a direct bid for that type of audience interest which made the late Rin Tin Tin a marquee attraction. The film takes its title from the name of the mountain on which the action takes place. The central incident, from the exploitation point of view, is the vengeful abduction of an infant by an eagle deprived of its young. This is the subject of a screen foreword which is quotable for advertising purposes.

Silver Wolf, the dog hero which rescues the baby, turns in a tiptop performance. Goldie, the eagle, is proportionately notable in less footage. Helen Hughes, James Brush, Leroy Mason, Ruth Coleman, Jill L'Estrange, the baby, Trevor Bardette, Fred Santley, Lyons Wickland and Patsy Moran play out the human story which provides plot setting for the animals. It is an original by Charles Diltz adapted by Hilda May Young with continuity by Arthur Hoerl and concerns a villainous fur trapper, a heroic nature student, a murder, forest fire and other action material.

The picture is a William M. Vogel production directed by Vin Moore and Charles Hutchinson. William Steiner supervised. Modernistic mountain music is contributed by Dr. Edward Kilenyi and Rudy Sooter. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Hearts of Arizona"

(Sherman-Paramount)

Hollywood, April 14.—Stilted discourses on love and several performances done in a manner outmoded when sound came in, prevent "Hearts of Arizona," the next to the last Hopalong Cassidy picture for the current season, from being one of the more attractive in the group. But, nevertheless, the fans who made Bill Boyd No. 2 western star in the Motion Picture Herald-Fame poll will find in this Harry Sherman production enough of action and suspense to satisfy them. With Boyd in the principal roles are George Hayes and Russell Hayden. Supporting are John Elliott, Billy King, Natalie Moorhead, Dorothy Short, Alden Chase, John Beach, Lane Chandler and Leo McMahon.

Lesley Selander directed, with the screenplay, based on the Clarence E. Mulford characters, written by Norman Houston. J. D. Trop was associate producer. Excellent camera work was done by Russell Harlan.

Boyd, befriending Miss Moorhead, who has been released from prison after serving a five-year term because of her defense of her late rustler-husband, is troubled by cattle rustlers. Miss Moorhead is suspected, along with some others, but Cassidy clears her, rounds up the real rustlers, and Miss Moorhead, in the mass gunfight, is killed.

Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

of Regents' action, the board said: "Special provision is made in the Education Law (Section 1083 subdivision b) for the issuance of a permit to show such a picture, where it is not to be exhibited at any private or public place of amusement. Such permit will be issued, if the applicant requests it.

"As motion picture theatres are attended by children of all ages in large numbers and by people of all creeds, colors and races, this picture is not licensed to be shown in places of amusement.

"As an amusement picture we find the film so far in conflict with Section 1082 of the Education Law that we cannot license it."

Committee in Rebuttal

In a statement issued immediately after the regents' decision became known the American Committee on Maternal Welfare said:

"The committee deplores the decision as a grave tragedy to the thousands of mothers and tens of thousands of infants who will die this year through ignorance or lack of care. The committee asks if the picture is 'highly educational' as the Board of Regents states why should it not be generally shown?

"The committee declares the decision of the majority of the board is against all evidence and against the testimony or belief of qualified judges."

The committee asserted that more than a quarter of a million persons have seen the film in Minnesota and that it had been endorsed by Y.M.C.A. officials, Federal Council of Churches, Boy Scout executives, U. S. Surgeon General Parran, Katharine Lenroot of the Children's Bureau, the New York Times and Herald-Tribune. An article of Dr. W. A. O'Brien in Minnesota Medicine also was quoted.

Hold Newsdealer for Life Sale

BOSTON, April 14. — Fred M. Cahaly, Cambridge newsdealer, became defendant today in East Cambridge District Court in a case involving the sale of last week's issue of Life, which contained stills from the film "Birth of a Baby." He was specifically charged before Judge Robert Wolcott with selling "a magazine containing obscene, indecent or impure pictures manifestly tending to corrupt the morals of youth." He was released on his own recognizance for a hearing April 26.

The magazine, banned in Boston, was not banned in Cambridge.

U.K. Exports Increase

LONDON, April 14.—Exports of exposed positive film during March totaled 2,078,227 feet, an increase over March of last year of 111,589, according to the Board of Trade. The value of the March, 1938 exports was £12.-802, a gain of £2,055. Imports totaled 1,858,223 feet, over last March by 487,789 feet, valued at £15,556, a gain of £4,583.

No "U" Shakeup

Hollywood, April 14. — Charles R. Rogers, head of production at Universal, today issued a memo to all department heads denying rumors that a general shakeup in Universal personnel impends. He charged that the reports were "spread by habitual knockers trying to upset the morale and progress of the studio."

Urges Legislation To Solve Problems

major companies have no desire for such conferences, that they are satisfied with things as they are.

"In the absence of a conciliatory attitude on the part of the majors, the only alternative is Federal legislation. If some form of legislation is not passed at this session of Congress or the next, there will be tremendous pressure from aggrieved elements in the industry and public groups for general Federal regulation of the industry and drastic Federal censorship."

Ellis is a brother of Jack Ellis, RKO salesman, who is president of the Motion Picture Associates. The organization includes in its membership local sales executives, branch managers, salesmen and exhibitors. About 100 attended the luncheon, which was at Jack Dempsey's restaurant.

Ellis analyzed the Neely bill and found it impractical in some of its provisions, particularly the synopsis clause. He recommended amendments to the measure to prevent great harm to the industry, or a substitute bill. In substance, he advocated legislation which would represent amelioration of the Neely provisions, but which would give the exhibitor the right of preferment and selection of pictures and the freedom to switch to another company should the product he has contracted for fail to come up to quality.

Asks 3-Mo. Block Booking

Ellis said he would bring this about by permitting a three-month block booking period. Instead of requiring a complete synopsis with each individual film contract, he would require a brief description of the picture with names of the cast.

"If we review the Neely bill in its moral aspect alone, it will not achieve its purpose," the attorney said. "It is too much to expect that the exhibitor can set himself up as an arbiter of morals for the community.

"From an industry standpoint the features designed to bring about a free choice by the exhibitor are desirable because it will result in a condition of open competition and the independent producers will be permitted to enter the market again. The synopsis feature of the Neely bill is bad, and the producers are correct in saying that they could not sell under that provision."

houses affected may reach $25,000 annually, it is understood.

Signature by Governor Lehman of the Wagner measure winds up the most successful legislative session within the past several years. Previously the Governor had vetoed the Ehrlich bill, which sought to clarify existing law in relation to admission of children into theatres where matrons were on duty, on the grounds that present statutes are sufficiently clear. Infinitely more pleasing to Greater New York and upstate exhibitors was the Governor's veto of the Quinn dog racing bill.

Stage Bill Is Passed

BOSTON, April 14.—A bill to allow stage dancing in film houses on Sundays has passed the Massachusetts House after an earlier defeat. The measure failed of passage last year. The circuits are pressing the legislation.

Accounting Hearings Will Begin Shortly

Hearings before Special Master Paul J. McCauley to determine damages and an accounting in the action of Frederick Beck Patterson against Samuel Cummins, Empire Laboratories, Inc., Richard Fiedler, Century Productions, Inc., and Bob-Ed Theatres Corp., will open shortly, according to Alfred S. Krellberg, attorney for Patterson. The decision was recently affirmed by the U. S. Supreme Court after the verdict and affirmation by lower courts.

The original action arose out of the production, distribution and exhibition by the defendants of "The Jungle Killer." U. S. District Court Judge Vincent Leibel said at the time of the verdict: "The deliberate purloining of at least 1,000 feet of the Patterson film by the defendant, Cummins and the Century Productions, Inc., was established beyond a reasonable doubt." The decision ordered delivery of the negative and all prints of the infringing film, restrained the defendants from further infringement and ordered an award for damages and an accounting.

Closed Shop Pacts to Go To Labs Here

Saturday and Sunday work. The union's minimum wage heretofore was $22.

These conditions will cover all technicians who are union members in the laboratories signing contracts and are being submitted for the first time. The union considers the closed shop one of the major issues and intends to enforce this condition in the east coast laboratories, officials said.

The contracts also call for wage increases in every craft. Another demand, according to union officials, will be that a worker be assigned to every machine, and where a multiple operation machine is installed the wage be based on the number of operations performed.

Rugge said that the laboratory owners will be asked to consider the new contracts at a general meeting, it being felt that this procedure will expedite negotiations and "aid in establishing minimum wages and conditions throughout the industry."

Wage Pacts to Vary

The union's negotiating committeee will consist of a group chosen from the executive board and former Congressman Vito Marcantonio, its attorney. More than 1,000 members approved the new proposals at a recent meeting, it was said.

The wage pacts to be negotiated will vary with each plant. Laboratories which will get the new demands are: Malcolm, H.E.R., Du Art, Warners' Ace and Cellulose Products, Paramount News and Producers, all of which have granted the union recognition; De Luxe and Consolidated, where contracts have expired; Pathoscope, Mecca, Paramount Long Island, Film Service, Films, Inc., Mercury, Pathe News, March of Time, News of the Day, Fox Movietone.

Closed shop is in effect at H.E.R. and the two Warner plants. The union has no members at Universal News and no contract will therefore will be submitted to this newsreel.

Bank Night Is Lottery, Postoffice Dept. Rules

Is Denied Use of Mails Under a Decision of Solicitor Crowley

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, April 15. — Bank Night was today declared a lottery by the Postoffice Department, and Affiliated, Enterprises, Inc., Denver, copyright owner, was denied the use of the mails.

The decision of the department was signed by Solicitor Karl A. Crowley as one of his last actions before he left the Federal service to enter the gubernatorial race in Texas. The order making the decision effective was issued by Postmaster General James A. Farley.

In Crowley's findings of fact it was pointed out that Bank Night was originated by Charles U. Yaeger and Rick Ricketson, "who through Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., for a weekly fee, licensed local theatre operators to use the Bank Night scheme." According to Crowley, the concern in 1936 collected $769,528 from theatre operators under such licenses.

The formal proceedings against Affiliated Enterprises were initiated by the department last October, following investigations by field agents. A number of hearings were held at

"Women Are Like That"

(Warners)

In "Women Are Like That" Kay Francis typifies the modern woman in business, only in this case she is not a career woman, but a wife who leaps into business in order to save her husband's career. It is full of banter and cleverness in dialogue, but it cannot be said that it is the strongest thing Miss Francis has ever done.

It might justifiably be said that the support is stronger than the lead, including Pat O'Brien, Ralph Forbes, Thurston Hall and Grant Mitchell. They play, respectively, husband, jilted fiance, father and spineless business prospect, and each of them is tops in his job. In a word, they form serious competition for Miss Francis, who is adequate, wears her clothes beautifully, as always, but somehow fails to impress.

Horace Jackson wrote the screenplay from a Saturday Evening Post story by A. H. Z. Carr, and turned out a neat, workmanlike job, which holds the interest and moves smoothly to its conclusion. Stanley Logan directed creditably, and the film is, in general, good entertainment, well mounted.

O'Brien's forceful personality takes Miss Francis out from under the nose of Forbes, actually his boss in an advertising agency, and the two are happy. But as business slips through Forbes' refusal to "spend money to make money," O'Brien is in a difficult spot, refuses to confide in his wife, then quits his job and wanders, while she, starting to work on an account to help him, stays to clean up. O'Brien, returning, joins another firm and ruins her business, until, when a divorce is arranged, they discover they do not want it.

Running time, 76 minutes. "G."

"Bar 20 Justice"

(Sherman-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.—The setting has been changed completely, But none of those elements of melodrama, treachery, conspiracy, comedy, action, excitement, suspense and traces of love interest that have come to be part of the "Hopalong Cassidy" series has been changed at all. In fact, against the background of gold mine hijacking they take on a new significance, one that should cause spectators to be of the opinion that "Bar 20 Justice" is the entertainment equal of any of its predecessors. While a great deal of the action takes place below ground in a mine pit and tunnels, there is plenty on the surface stuff to provide thrills.

New adventures are in store for William Boyd when murdering ore hijackers headed by Pat O'Brien (not the Warner star) and Paul Sutton, who contrive that their killings shall appear as accidents, loot Gwen Gaze's mine. Enlisting the aid of his saddle pals, George Hayes and Russell Hayden and, holding the Bar 20 cowboys in reserve, Boyd sets out to unravel the web of skulduggery woven by O'Brien and Sutton. Finally, assisted by moments of George Hayes' comedy and romance involving Boyd and Miss Gaze, he finally gets the necessary evidence. Preceded by an anti-climax that has Boyd in dire danger from which he is rescued by Hayes and Miss Gaze, the Bar 20 boys round up the heavies' henchman and Boyd personally accounts for O'Brien and Sutton in a wild mountain chase and fight.

Producer Harry Sherman has given the feature a mounting comparable with the best of his earlier releases. The old standbyes, Boyd, Hayes and Hayden, deliver in the manner audiences know they can. O'Brien and Sutton form a team of strong menaces and while Miss Gaze has comparatively little to do, her work is convincing.

With added dialogue by Harrison Jacobs, Arnold Belgard prepared the screenplay along the approved "Hopalong" formula and Lesley Selander's direction is in line with that demonstrated in previous offerings from the same producer.

Running time, 65 minutes "G."

Donald W. Thornburgh, C. B. S. vice-president, said the station did not feel it would economical to get increased power at the present time.

"We are building a new transmitter and we think that improvements under way will aid us materially and will obviate the necessity for more power at this time," he said. "It will cost considerable to increase power and it is not to our best advantage to do so at this time."

FCC Sets Rules for Education Stations

WASHINGTON, April 15. — Non-commercial educational broadcasting stations operating in the high frequencies recently set aside for that purpose are to be located at the highest point of the area to be served, it was indicated by regulations made public today by the Federal Communications Commission.

This will be necessary, it was explained, because of the fact that the high frequencies to be used have very limited coverage and are interfered with by obstructions. In the case of city installations, it was indicated, they will have to be located, when possible, atop the highest building of the area to be served if maximum coverage is to be attained.

Philadelphians Aroused By NBC "Raid" on Orchestra

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—There is considerable excitement in local radio and music circles regarding charges that NBC is "raiding" the ranks of the Philadelphia Orchestra to build a bigger and better organization for Arturo Toscanini. The consensus of the opinion of orchestra officials and patrons here seems to be that the Philadelphia group is going to lose many of its best members and nothing much can be done about it.

A "first player" and another member recently resigned from the local orchestra, presumably to join the NBC organization, according to Alfred Reginald Allen, manager of the local ensemble. It was learned also that two other members were offered positions with the NBC orchestra, but were forced to decline because of their contracts here. Allen declared, "We expect to get all contracts finally adjusted within a week. To date four have not been renewed."

Others commenting were Samuel B. Rosenbaum, vice-president of the orchestra and president of WFIL , and Charles G. Berwind, another official of the Philadelphia orchestra.

Said Rosenbaum, "NBC is trying to get together a fine orchestra and they need fine men for it. This was bound to happen to us sooner or later. We have good men in our orchestra and you can't hold good men unless you pay them."

Berwind said, "NBC is offering players large sums, and there is nothing to stop them from paying anything they want to. We think they are overdoing it."

Stand of Quigley Publications Is Upheld in N.Y. "Birth" Ban

The action of the New York State Board of Regents in refusing to permit "Birth of a Baby" to be shown in the theatres of the state followed the insistent declaration of Quigley Publications that the film is unsuited to exhibition in film houses.

Motion Picture Daily* first disclosed that the film was produced originally under commercial sponsorship for Mead, Johnson & Co., and pointed out that if no serious objections were encountered on the part of the public, the picture also was to be shown in public theatres.

Quigley Publications and Martin Quigley consistently and repeatedly have taken the firm stand that entertainment material and nothing else should appear on the film theatre screen, and that its prime and only function is to furnish entertainment, while propaganda and film similar to "Birth of a Baby" have no place in the entertainment theatre.

In a series of recent editorials Terry Ramsaye, editor of Motion Picture Herald, emphasized the fact that the film is not theatre material, and again pointed up the contention that the film theatre is for entertainment.

Over 352,000 See "Snow" in Chicago

CHICAGO, April 17.—More than 352,000 persons saw "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" during the picture's six-week engagement at the Palace. The gross for the run was $173,000, the greatest for any similar period in the history of the house.

Following the Palace engagement the picture was booked into the B. & K. Garrick for a seventh Loop week. It will reach the neighborhood theatres April 29. The final week at the Palace showed a gross of $24,400 which was more than the picture took in for the fifth week. What makes it more unusual is that it was Holy Week also.

So anxious were other theatres to get the film that they violated contract rules regarding advertising and exploitation to get publicity for the subsequent showings. One large circuit was especially active in this regard and drew the censure of RKO officials.

20th-Fox to Keep G. B. Distribution

Physical distribution of Gaumont British films will continue through 20th Century-Fox exchanges during 1938-'39, said Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, before sailing on the Rex Saturday.

"Gaumont British are our allies," Kent said. "There's no reason why we should discontinue the arrangement."

Kent said the only purpose of his trip was to attend the company's European sales conventions, in London on May 12 to 14 and in Paris on May 5 to 7. While in London Kent will inspect the company's new six-story headquarters building in Soho Square and confer with Robert T. Kane, chief of British production for 20th Century-Fox.

Walter J. Hutchinson, general foreign manager, sailing with Kent to attend the meetings, said that 35 of the company's films will be distributed in Continental Europe. Ben Miggins,

Dietz Answers Times Critic On Foreign Picture Praise

Critics who extol foreign films as superior to the Hollywood product speak for a limited audience to whom American producers are unable to cater because of production cost restrictions, Howard Dietz, director of advertising and publicity for Loew's, points out in an article published yesterday in the Sunday amusement section of the N. Y. Times.

"Where there is a special audience," Dietz observes, "there can be a special art, but the amount of investment required has a tremendous effect on what is to be done. If one could make movies inexpensively, one could afford to make limited editions. As it is, the producer has to be a daring gambler even to be conventional."

Dietz also points out that even with the foreign producers' advantage of

"Test Pilot" Is Received Warmly by N. Y. Reviewers

Critics of New York's daily newspapers were enthused over M-G-M's "Test Pilot," now at the Capitol. Adjectives bordered on the superlative. The highlights of their criticisms follow, arranged alphabetically by name of paper:

Daily Mirror—A rousing aviation thriller, "Test Pilot" is a certain hit. It has three great stars, an exciting story, romance, pathos, magnificent air stunts . . . Gable, Tracy and Miss Loy give beautiful performances.

Daily News — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is presenting at the Capitol the most beautiful and thrilling aviation picture it, or any other studio, has ever produced. . . . "Test Pilot" requires only a little editing to make it a superb picture. . . . It has been allowed to run for two solid hours . . . which is much too long . . . but . . . Victor Fleming (director) has brought forth another magnificent production.

Herald-Tribune — Whatever else "Test Pilot" may be, it is a stunning show. (It) retraces familiar ground for the screen in its celebration of flying and flyers, but it does so with enormous excitement and persuasion. In brilliantly modulated direction, the splendid performing, in the remarkably fine writing and in spectacular production . . . it adds up to magnificent entertainment. . . . There is also a gripping story. . . . I advise you not to miss it.

Post—As far as flying is concerned, it is a beautiful picture. In photography and in startling fidelity of sound, it is beyond description. . . . (It) adds up to mighty heavy wing-loading on the heroics, sentimentality, tears, hysteria and semi-philosophic speeches. . . . But "Test Pilot" has certain virtues . . . which make attendance compulsory.

Sun—(It) is a spectacular melodrama . . . also a strangely talkative film for an aviation thriller . . . The flying sequences, crashes and all, are whopping good aviation stuff (but) . . . half an hour less of the pseudo-psychological study would make the picture, now a two-hour job, tauter and more believable. "Test Pilot," although it falls short in its dramatic moments, reaches excellence with its melodrama.

Telegram—The simplest way to begin a review of "Test Pilot" is to come right out and say that it is easily the finest aviation picture ever made . . . You haven't seen anything until you've seen "Test Pilot." . . . (It) is one of the screen's great achievements. . . . In every role (the film) enjoys the luxury of superior acting. . . . One of the season's rare entertainments.

Telegraph—With three of the most illustrious stars heading the cast . . . with a background of danger and peril and excitement on which to base their theme, the M-G-M studios have now turned out a magnificent motion picture . . . a completely satisfying piece of work, combining the best features of box-office attraction, speed and action into such a splendid whole . . . Rich and dynamic cinema, "Test Pilot" is, in short, a knockout.

Times—Leo, the trade-mark lion, can stop yawning now and roar with his old enthusiasm, for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has turned out a bang-up aviation drama. It is a generous show by any reckoning, long in running time, star-studded and spectacular, and Victor Fleming, its director, has paced it wisely. . . . There are parts of the tale not too effectively presented . . . but when the film moves aloft it is thrilling and suspenseful and more than generous compensation for intermediate faults.

The famous brand of French feet-fighting is given humorous exposition by Pete Smith here. The photography is good and the reliable Smith comedy touches have their moments. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Community Sing No. 6"

(Columbia)

Carson Robison and his Buckaroos supply the coaxing in this number. The songs are all of a cowboy and western nature. The subtitling is adequate and the audience should be easily urged to join in to their own satisfaction. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Pictorial Revue No. 9"

This issue offers scenes of the manufacture of silverware, iceboating and a model railroad, the last in color. The comment is good and the photography and presentation leave nothing to be desired. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Resorts and Quaint Towns of the Blue Coast"

(P. P. Devlin)

Another sterling example of how a travelogue should be done. It is one of "The Screen Traveler" series. It maintains the high standard of preceding subjects. The audience will applaud. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

"Men Are Such Fools"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.—The theory that love, marriage and business don't mix is the premise of this picture. Via the media of good characterizations, right-to-the-point dialogue, cleverly devised situations, a full quota of action which became hectically exciting, the plot emerges upon the screen as an engaging and interesting domestic comedy-drama.

The theme is simple, yet rich in those quantities which amuse both general and specialized audiences. Though somewhat long, the performances contributed by Wayne Morris, Priscilla Lane, Humphrey Bogart, Hugh Herbert and Mona Barrie keep the production moving at agreeable speed. A continual aura of surprise more than atones for some of the slow spots.

In the yarn Morris is satisfied with the niche he has carved for himself in the advertising world and much in love with Miss Lane, an ambitious minor account executive. Returning Morris' affection, Miss Lane endeavors to prod him out of his smug complacency by simulating that she is in love with a go-getter, Humphrey Bogart. Following several amusing complications, she does marry Morris. His determination that she shall become a demure, retiring housewife, even though Bogart has not given up the fight, arouses in Miss Lane the feminine instinct to push her husband into action whether he is willing or not. His refusal to become Gene Lockhart's partner in a new radio advertising proposition because he would rather be secure than rich causes Miss Lane to leave Morris. Going on the air herself, she creates the impression she is going away with Bogart, which galvanizes Morris into action. She discovers Morris still loves her when he thrashes Bogart.

Based on a Faith Baldwin story, the Norman Reilly Raine-Horace Jackson screen play is a lively affair which Busby Berkeley directed in a manner accentuating that quality.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"College Swing"

(Paramount)

Another in the college musical series from Paramount, "College Swing" hits the current national mania, swing music, and the accompanying barbaric forms of the dance—and hits them hard. In addition, there is a whole handful of laughs, sponsored and broadcast by such as Gracie Allen and George Burns, Bob Hope, Edward Everett Horton and Ben Blue, while the chief exponent of the modern note in song is Martha Raye, she of the extremely wide mouth and similar antics.

The result, with all the ingredients mixed considerably and stirred vigorously by Raoul Walsh, who directed, may be summed as lively in the extreme, with a number of laughs and a couple of "singable" songs, a little chorus work to preserve the "musical" idea, and a yarn which has an amusing germ and which has been worked out reasonably well, albeit a trifle too much like a patchwork quilt on occasion. Ted Leaser was responsible for the idea, Frederick Hazlitt Brennan adapted it, and the screenplay came from Walter de Leon and Francis Martin.

Generally speaking, the film should be found roundly pleasing in the vast majority of the situations where it plays, and the box-office may be expected to respond to such as Burns and Allen, Miss Raye, Horton, Betty Grable, Jackie Coogan and the St. Brendan's Choristers.

Gracie is the last in a long time to attend a certain college which will belong to her by inheritance if she should chance to graduate. She does, through connivance, and "rejuvenates" the institution to the tune of modern swing. That is the excuse for a lot of entertainment, laughs and general excitement, with a dash of romance which never gets in the way of anything else in the film.

Running time, 86 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"The Horse on the Merry Go-Round"

(Mintz-Columbia)

A good cartoon idea. There is also tastefully applied color to lend the proper air to the ingenious animation. The scenario offers a horse who breaks from his imprisonment on a merry-go-round and gets into all sorts of thrilling adventures as he wan[illegible] around a deserted amusement park rides the roller coaster and is quite scared out of his wits in the Crazy House. It should have a good reception. Running time, 6½ mins. "G."

"High-Jack'n the Show"

(Mentone-Universal)

James Barton of "Tobacco Road" fame is featured in this musical. He entertains with a serio-comic role of a gangster in a night club who manages to elude the police by pretending to be a performer. There are also a number of fair singing and dancing acts involved in the action. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

"Cops and Robbers"

(Rice-Paramount)

Here is another good "Sportlight." It concerns itself with the capture of bears and mountain lions. The first is taught a lesson and the second, a killer, is hauled off to a zoo. Ted Husing's narration is first-rate. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Glimpses of New Brunswick"

(FitzPatrick-M-G-M)

Not quite as good as other films in this Technicolor travel series. But the comment is enlightening and much material went into the making of the reel. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Honest Love and True"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

Much better than the usual Betty Boop. A cartoon burlesque of old time "mellerdramer." Many clever and laughable twists to the action. Entertaining. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Bear Facts"

(Roach-M-G-M)

Here we have the "Gang" in another of those childish comedies that will effectively entertain younger elements in the audience. It concerns the efforts of Spanky and Alfalfa to get jobs with a circus. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Thanks for the Memory"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

The title song is a current hit and the audience should have a good time with it in this "Screen Song." There are a few gags, too, but not so funny. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Hollywood Bowl"

(Universal)

A cartoon satire on Hollywood. It was plotted with a keen eye for imaginative novelty and execution. The result is highly entertaining. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

Continental manager at Paris, will make the selections. A larger number is scheduled for England, that territory usually taking the company's entire output, Hutchinson said. The smaller schedule for the Continent is due to a shorter season, in the Scandinavian countries the season being limited to 30 weeks, he said.

smaller cost there are plenty of authorities who challenge the contention of Frank S. Nugent, Times film critic, that foreign pictures really are superior to Hollywood's. He cites the fact that while 1,800 foreign pictures are produced annually, Hollywood's 500 supply 70 per cent of the motion picture fare of foreign film audiences, clearly outranking in international appeal the pictures of any other producers. Only 240 of Europe's 1,800 features annually find any playing time in American theatres, whatever, Dietz asserts.

He attributes the New York critic's penchant for foreign films to the romantic aura which things foreign hold for one over-weary with familiar things. He asserts that Hollywood asks no favors of the critics but does ask "sympathy for the problems of motion picture production and toward the productions themselves."

"What Hollywood would like you to do," he concludes, "is to judge each picture for itself in terms of its possibilities within the confines of its purpose. Then base your comparisons on kindred things. Don't contrast stories of human conduct with adventure fantasies about gangsters and opium smugglers. Don't judge musical revues and light comedies as if they were intended to be more than that."

Metro Budgets 3 Million on 4 in England

of a quality commensurate with its own films, Ritchie said. Before Louis B. Mayer went over last year to inaugurate the British studio, the company bought cheap films on a footage basis to meet quota requirements.

He claimed that "A Yank at Oxford," M-G-M's first British production, had considerable influence on the Parliamentary committee deliberating the quota bill. The committee had killed the triple quota clause providing that a film with a labor cost of $187,500 count for three films, he declared, but when "A Yank at Oxford" appeared the British were "pleasantly surprised," and reinstated the "three-for-one" provision in order to stimulate the production of similar high budget, quality pictures by American companies.

Ritchie expressed himself as entirely pleased with the box-office performance of the company's initial British film. He said it was grossing more than "Camille" in the United Kingdom and the fact that it is English-made will increase its drawing power there 25 per cent.

Four Features Planned

M-G-M's new production program has been pared from an originally planned five features, later increased to six, to a definite four. In addition to "Citadel," which is in preparation, the Denham studio will make "Good Bye, Mr. Chips," "National Velvet," a story of the Grand National steeplechase, and "Rage in Heaven."

"Shadow of the Wing," which was scheduled, has been cancelled. It is a story of the Royal Air Force and M-G-M considered this would be too similar to its "Test Pilot," a current release. "Finishing School," also planned for the new season, has been deferred and probably will be made next year, Ritchie said.

He arrived here several weeks ago for conferences at the home office and at the studio. He returned the other day from Hollywood where he conferred on British production plans with Mayer and other executives. He will sail Wednesday on the Manhattan with King Vidor, who will direct "Citadel," the first on the new schedule.

Standard Theatres To Fight New Taxes

Oklahoma City, April 17.—Standard Theatres, Inc., operator of four of the city's largest downtown theatres and most of its suburban houses will protest a city ordinance that would approximately double city theatre license fees, W. B. Shutte, general manager, said yesterday.

Passage of the ordinance which comes up for consideration Tuesday before the City Council, Shutte said, would force closing of Warners' largest theatre here seating 1,870. Shutte also predicted the increased tax would force discontinuing state shows in city theatres which now pay a $200 annual license fee. Under the terms of the proposed ordinance the fee would be based on the total number of seats in each theatre multiplied by the average maximum admission charged during the prior year's operation.

Departing from the custom of holding one national convention, Warners yesterday set two sales meetings, to be held in New York, May 9 to 11, and in Dallas, May 16 to 18. The selection of Dallas is in tribute to Bob O'Donnell, one of the heads of the Interstate Theatre Circuit, which has its headquarters there, according to Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager.

GOLDWYN - KORDA DEAL SEEN CLOSED

Agreement Is Reported Reached in England For Stock Sale

Consummation of the long series of negotiations by which Samuel Goldwyn and Alexander Korda sought to purchase the United Artists holdings of Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin was reported by well authenticated sources yesterday to have been reached in London by all the principals with the exception of Chaplin, who is said to have been represented by a proxy. It is believed that the confirmation and details of the deal will be issued next week following the meeting here of the U. A. directors and stockholders.

Miss Pickford, Fairbanks and Goldwyn sailed for England late last month, at which time Miss Pickford denied that their visit concerned the sale of the three-fifths stock interest in the organization but added that the possibility of the sale was not entirely closed. At that time it was reported that financial backing in England for Goldwyn and Korda was available. These financial interests are believed to be represented in the reported consummation of the negotiations.

Easter Weekend Rush Jumps Grosses in Broadway Spots

Prosperity returned to Broadway over the weekend. The major show shops reported turnaway business since Saturday, the normal patronage being swelled by thousands of out of town visitors and hosts of youngsters on Easter vacation.

Radio City Music Hall said it had its largest Easter weekend, with indications that the current week of "The Adventures of Marco Polo" will gross $103,000. In its initial week the film did $92,000. It will be held a third week.

Large crowds of school children were in evidence at Broadway theatres yesterday. The Paramount reported that by 1 o'clock yesterday it set a new attendance mark with 9,800 admissions for "Her Jungle Love" and Tommy Dorsey and his band on the stage. The rest of this week the Paramount will continue to play five shows daily. Tonight the theatre will have a preview showing of "College Swing" in addition to the regular program, which will go a second week.

The Roxy will hold "In Old Chicago" a third week on the basis of weekend business, which was big beginning Saturday night. The second week's take is expected to be not much under the first stanza's $61,500.

"Test Pilot" was reported to be doing the biggest business at the Capitol since the run of "Camille," 16 months ago. It was S.R.O. on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The film will remain another week at least.

"Yellow Jack" Ban Is Sought in Cuba

By JOSE BARBA

ANPA to Leave Film Space Up to Editors

Attempts to curtail free space given in newspapers to publicizing film stars who are also appearing on commercially sponsored radio programs is a matter of individual editorial judgment and is not in response to any pressure from the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, the latter declared yesterday.

An RKO exploitation man reported that in Dubuque and Duluth he received little cooperation from newspapers which reminded him that Walt Disney, who produced "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," has a Mickey Mouse program on the air.

S. Barret McCormick said this report was the only one of its kind received from 25 exploitation men in the field.

If the matter of free space to film stars who are also radio stars is brought up at the A.N.P.A. convention in New York next week it will be in response to requests from delegates for a discussion. It is not now on the general program of discussion, an A.N.P.A. official said.

Johnston Predicting Big Monogram Meet

Hollywood, April 18.—Monogram's sales convention, which will be held in Cincinnati, May 8 to 10, will be the largest in the company's history, W. Ray Johnston, president, said today. There will be between 100 and 150 company officials, franchise holders and salesmen in attendance, on the basis of reservations made to date, he said.

Johnston will remain at the Monogram studio until convention time, returning to the home office following the meeting.

G. N. May Hold Meeting

Grand National may hold a sales meeting for its field staffs to outline new season's plans, but this is indefinite. Edward Peskay, vice-president in charge of distribution, is now on a tour of exchanges and will make final decision when he reaches the coast. He is visiting Cleveland, Indianapolis, Detroit and Chicago en route west.

"Sonata" for Charity

The Cooperative Committee of the Big Sisters have chosen "Moonlight Sonata," starring Ignace Jan Padrewski, as the film which will be shown at the benefit supper dance to be held by the organization at the Waldorf-Astoria on Thursday evening, April 21. It will be the first United States preview of the film, which was produced by Lothar Mendes.

Court Contest On Bank Night Ruling Looms

contrary to reports published earlier, the order does not specifically brand Bank Night as a lottery. He offered the conditional opinion that the order does not affect theatres using Bank Night in the event the mails are not used to advertise the game. He recalled that a notice banning the sending of Bank Night advertising through the mails was issued by the Postoffice Department some time ago and that affiliated Enterprises had warned exhibitors accordingly at the time.

Keating said that Solicitor Karl A. Crowley's order described Bank Night as a "scheme for distribution of prizes by lot or chance." He admitted, however, that the order is "much broader" in its application to Bank Night than are the various state statutes defining a lottery.

Department Expects Appeal

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Postoffice Department officials today declared, with reference to the fraud order issued April 15, holding Bank Night to be a lottery, that while appeals from department orders denying the use of the mails are infrequent, court review had been anticipated when the order was drafted in the Bank Night case because of the money involved.

While department officials refused to discuss the matter, it was indicated that Affiliated Enterprises are staking everything on the litigation, since an order of the courts holding Bank Night to be a lottery would call for application of the Federal statute prihibiting the movement of lottery material in interstate commerce, should the company still attempt to operate.

Dismisses Jewel Prod. Suit

Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe yesterday dismissed a suit brought by Jewel Productions, Inc., against Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Henry M. Dunning as Collector of the Port of New York, on the ground that the complaint failed to state a cause of action. The plaintiff stated that the Government was attempting to seize a print entitled "Science of Mankind or Mysteries of Sex" which they had imported and that the Government was preventing distribution on the grounds that the picture was indecent. They have asked the court for an injunction against the Government for interfering with the exhibition of the picture.

Phila. Games Case Will Be Reopened

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Permission to intervene and reopen the recent Bank Night case for the introduction of additional testimony today was granted John T. Connelly, prominent local attorney engaged by the Mayfair Theatre Corp. and representatives of chance games here. Meanwhile, all proceedings are stayed. Bank Night and all other theatre chance games had been declared illegal in a sweeping decision of Judge McDevitt.

Today's decision means that regardless of the ruling on the exceptions taken by the attorney for the Palm Theatre, which will be heard on April 25, the games will continue until the new case is decided.

Games-playing exhibitors will hold a meeting here Thursday to raise funds for a legal fight on the lottery ruling.

Bank Night Lottery Opinion Reaffirmed

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 18.—Attorney General Mac Q. Williamson reaffirmed his opinion that Bank Night is a lottery in a ruling to the Carter County Attorney.

At Ardmore the police called it "Hospitality Night" but Williamson said it is a lottery and referred the attorney to his recent opinion that the scheme is illegal. The opinion was written by Fred Hansen, Assistant Attorney General, on request of E. W. Schenk of Carter County. Hansen said several Ardmore merchants subscribed to a plan under which they issued Hospitality Night tickets to their customers.

have issued instructions to the sales force and advertising department not to use the title "In His Steps," but to sell the film as "Sins of Children." The F.T.C. contends that G. N. had no right to advertise that the film was suggested by "In His Steps," since the novel is a religious story, whereas the picture is a love story.

Attorneys here say that if the trustees' contention is sustained, the F.T.C. will have to withdraw its complaint against the company and issue a new one against the two trustees, who are acting on behalf of the company.

d Film Pacts Submitted to Para. Houses

nmercial films are called. Last these theatres received between 000 and $400,000 in revenue m advertisers for the use of their eens for this type of film. It is pected that the agreement with neral Screen Advertising will inase the number of outlets and, of rse, their revenue.

Agreements with the component ramount groups are now being otiated. It is understood that Gen- l Screen Advertising intends to n similar negitiations with War- s, RKO and National Theatres ox). The policy of the Loew cirt precludes advertising films of any ure.

The contracts which the Paramount tners are being asked to sign proe for exclusive screen time to Gen- l Screen Advertising for films nning up to 500 feet. The exclue feature covers national camgns only and the individual thees will still be able to show films local merchants. However, it is icipated that the national camgns will in many instances replace local films.

"Minute" Type Entirely

While the contracts do not prevent theatres from showing one-reel two-reel commercial films, a Paraunt official said that the circuit will nfine itself to the "minute movies." factor in this decision is the attile of the Hays office, recently exssed in the annual report of Will Hays, as well as the growing opsition of newspapers to long-reel ertising on the screen.

The contracts with the Paramount erators will run for two years and it to three the number of adverng units shown at one time, or a ximum of about three minutes. e Paramount theatres now limit ir advertising time to about four d a half minutes per performance. Terms of payment will be based verified attendance and classifican of theatre, the contracts for the st time making actual attendance ures the gauge. The rate of paynt generally is now based on a atre's seating capacity.

Negotiations Lengthy

Negotiations with Paramount thee executives in the New York ce were begun several months ago J. Don Alexander, chairman of board of General Screen Adverng, and M. E. Zetterholm, general nager, after Mullin & Pinansky, ramount affiliate in New England, a series of seven "minute movies" Lucky Strike as a test campaign. It was feared that this might prove precedent for other national adverers to deal with the theatres direct, ninating the distributor of "min- movies." General Screen Adverng thereupon worked out an agreeent which would give it exclusive een time on the Paramount screens. No blanket agreement is being ight covering all Paramount thees, and whether or not the affilid groups enter into the arrangent is entirely up to them. It is, therefore, premature to estimate the number of Paramount houses that will sign, and it is quite probable that some will reject the arrangement on grounds of policy, it was said.

General Screen Advertising is controlled by Alexander Film Co., the largest individual distributor of "minute movies." It includes several other distributors, all of whom have pooled their theatres under contract to G.S.A., which is thus in a position to give advertisers wide coverage, providing as many houses as they want, nationally or by sections.

Affiliates Use Advertising

About a year ago Lehman Bros., in which John D. Hertz, a member of the Paramount board, is a partner, purchased a small stock interest in Alexander Film Co. It was said that this was purely for investment purposes and had no connection with a possible tieup with Paramount.

Among Paramount affiliates which are now running short advertising films are the Interstate Theatres in Texas, Gordon & Clemmons, Butterfield circuit, Minnesota Amusement Co., Malco Theatres, Wilby & Kincey, Publix Great States, Maine & New Hampshire Theatres, Lucas & Jenkins, North Carolina Theatres and Palmetto Amusement Co. Chiefly these are in the south and central west.

General Screen Advertising does not expect that the large de luxe houses will show advertising films, which are now limited to Paramount's "B" and "C" theatres.

Fleischer's Feature Not Set for 1938-39

There will be no feature length comedy from the Max Fleischer studio on Paramount's release schedule for 1938-'39, due to the fact that no plans for such a production have been settled yet and the company estimates that a minimum of 18 months would be required to complete such a production, it was stated at Paramount yesterday. Thus, even if a feature length cartoon were to be started within the next month or two it would not be completed in time for release on next season's program.

The company has announced that it would release a two-reel Fleischer cartoon next season, but no definite story or title has been selected yet.

Districts to Hear Para. Sales Plans home office and district sales executives in Washington.

In districts comprising widely scattered exchanges, such as the southern, far western and Canadian, the district managers will call in the branch managers for a meeting in some centrally located city. In other districts where the branches are relatively close together, such as the east and central territories, district managers will visit the exchanges individually to outline the new season plans.

Thus, Milton S. Kusell, district manager for New York, Brooklyn, New Jersey, Albany and Buffalo; P. A. Bloch, district manager for Philadelphia and Washington; Harry Goldstein, district manager for Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh; William Erbb, Boston and New Haven; Hugh Braly, Dallas, San Antonio and Oklahoma City; Allen Usher, Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee and Indianapolis; Ralph Libeau, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis and Des Moines, and Ben Blotcky, Minneapolis and Sioux Falls, all may make visits to their exchanges.

Milligan, general manager for Canada, may call a Toronto meeting.

Complete details of the company's 1938-'39 production schedule may not be ready until the conclusion of the studio conferences to be launched in Hollywood next week by Barney Balaban, president, and Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee, although some additions to the schedule will be made known in the next two or three weeks, according to current plans. Television on Regular Basis Starts Today

First television broadcast for the New York area on a regularly scheduled basis will be undertaken by NBC and RCA beginning today.

The schedule calls for a four-week period of experimental transmissions from NBC's television station W2XBS in the Empire State tower. The televised series is intended primarily for NBC and RCA officials. Amateurs in the New York area, however, who have built receiving sets, will also be able to look in on the programs.

A triple purpose is to be served by the broadcasts. The W2XBS transmitter has been off the air for several months during a period of engineering re-design. Several major changes have been made in the system of transmission and the forthcoming series will give RCA and NBC engineers a chance to observe the results of their work. Also, new program techniques and devices will be subject to review, and finally with definite technical standards yet to be established for common use of television transmitters, the experimental period will enable the research men to obtain engineering data for assistance in the formulatioin of such basic standards.

Live and film shows are to be broadcast from NBC tonight and Thursday evenings between 8 and 9 P. M. The live entertainment will include dramatic and musical productions; the films will be newsreels and educational short subjects. Afternoon broadcasts, today, Wednesday and Thursdays, beginning at 3 P. M., will consist entirely of test charts and still pictures.

U.A. MOVE SEEKS MORE PRODUCERS

Aim to Spread Profits; Sale Is Called Off Indefinitely

An agreement to reduce the cost of distribution to United Artists producers was reached by directors of the company on the conclusion yesterday of two weeks of meetings in London, according to company statements issued simultaneously in London and New York.

At the same time the company asserted that all negotiations by Samuel Goldwyn and Alexander Korda for the purchase of stock control of the company "have been definitely abandoned because of present economic conditions." The latter statement sets at rest widely circulated reports that a deal for the purchase of the Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin interests in United Artists had been concluded in London.

The company's statement declared that "a completely unanimous decision to reorganize the operating setup of United Artists" with provision for "greatly reduced cost of distribution to producers who will thus further participate in the profits of the parent company according to their individual contributions" had resulted from the London meetings.

"It is believed that this new policy

CHICAGO, April 19.—Ending a six-week run at the Palace, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" grossed $24,400 the final week and beat the previous week by a fair margin. New York Previews

"Stolen Heaven"

(Paramount)

A curious blending of the obvious and the more subtle in screen drama, "Stolen Heaven" is a pleasant surprise. Its opening sequence gives no hint of what is to come. For the higher levels of intelligence in the picture-going public, it should prove delightful, while at the same time there is much in it for those who take their screen entertainment in straight, unadulterated doses of action.

Largely responsible for the success of the production effort is Andrew L. Stone, since he not only acted as producer, but also as director and original writer. Eve Greene and Frederick Jackson did an expert job on the screenplay, which is well-knit and moves actively throughout.

The cast is strong in marquee value—and excellent in performance—including Gene Raymond, Olympe Bradna, Lewis Stone, Glenda Farrell, Porter Hall and Douglas Dumbrille. Miss Bradna, who is a comparative newcomer, should send the audience from the theatre exclaiming. Her accent is delightful, she is extremely attractive physically, acts in a restrained and highly capable fashion, and, above all, she is possessed of a remarkably clear and lovely singing voice. She seems to have stardom ahead of her, and the exhibitor should build her for it.

Raymond and Miss Bradna, with Miss Farrell and others, are crooks, posing as a violinist and singing entertainer, respectively, and in love. Seeking escape, they are befriended by, and stay with Stone, elderly and once famous concert pianist, who has not lost his touch but suffers mental lapses. They promise to arrange a return to concert work for him, meaning only to use his home. But at the last moment, Miss Bradna, who has become devoted to the old man, decides to risk arrest to insure success for the old man's concert. Unable to leave her, Raymond stays, too, and they are arrested, but happy in the happiness they have brought to the old master. Beautiful piano, vocal and orchestral renditions of famous music run through the film.

Running time, 87 minutes. "G."

"Fight for Peace"

(Warwick Pictures)

Utilizing the pick of the recent war material from the newsreels, J. J. Milstein has had put together a strong and at the same time a harrowing document of the screen, telling in cold, honest pictures of the death and horror which comes of war, the brutality which is visited upon helpless women and children, and citing those who are responsible for the world's current state of bitterness and fear under the tread of Mars.

The narrative was adapted by Don Bartlett from original material by Hendrik Willem Van Loon and is given forceful and interesting rendition by David Ross. Al Young edited. The leading characters, seen in typical poses, include Mussolini, Hitler, Hirohito, Goebbels, Franco and the others of their ilk who in the narrative are held responsible for the fact that the map of Europe and Asia is being torn to shreds, and that armies are marching to the tune of bullets, and airplanes are raining death on helpless noncombatants in fear-stricken cities.

All this is graphically pictured with the clear eye of the newsreel camera, and strung together, with diagramatic map, occasional pointed subtitle and strong verbal description, to present a fearful picture of war, in sharp contrast to shots of the close of that "war to end wars" which is still remembered.

The film indicts the war-mad nationalist dictators merely by picturing the result of their maneuvering, and becomes a strong plea for peace by showing the horror that is modern war.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Wild Horse Rodeo"

(Republic)

There are a number of unusual qualities in this film to rate it above average western production. Besides a decidedly different story it has reliable performances by "The Three Mesquiteers"—Ray Corrigan, Bob Livingston and Max Terhune. William Nobles also contributed with fine photography. George Sherman's direction is excellent.

When the story gets going it concerns the trio's difficulties with a wild horse, "Cyclone." They get into conflict with June Martel, an artist, and Walter Miller, a rodeo impresario. The former desires to see the animal free on the rangeland and the latter would like to have the unridden beast in his show. The yarn takes interesting excursions into romance and rodeo activities before the action reverts to type with a roaring gun battle. It is done with novelty, however, as an airplane is brought down in the melee. A more or less confused romantic twist is ironed out, but the boys are still unmarried at the fadeout.

operation," the United Artists ment continues, "will make the pany particularly attractive to er independent producers who are king worldwide distribution."

he agreement to reduce distribu- charges to United Artists' pro- ers meets the long-standing de- nds of Goldwyn and Korda for a ater share in company profits—de- nds which, in themselves, led up the obtaining of an option by the producers last summer to pur- se the Pickford-Fairbanks-Chaplin rests in the company. The agree- t is regarded as removing the or cause of dissatisfaction in both dwyn's and Korda's United Art- relationships and eliminating atever possibility there may have n earlier of Korda's seeking a re- e from his exclusive producing mitments to United Artists in er to handle the new British quota uirements of other major Ameri- companies.

Selznick a Factor

eduction of the distribution rges to United Artists producers is regarded as likely to win new duction affiliates to the company's ks, among them David O. Selznick, se releasing arrangement with ted Artists expires with the de- ry of two more pictures. Selznick, recent discussions of a renewal of releasing deal, took the same posi- as Goldwyn and Korda in con- ing that too large a share of the pany's profits were going to the tive partners while those actually ducing the company's pictures re- ed too little. Selznick advocated ownward readjustment of distribu- charges against the producers to alize the situation.

etails of the distribution agree- ts reached in London were not le public here due to the fact that have yet to be ratified by the ted Artists' board of directors ch will meet here next Tuesday that purpose. Miss Pickford, dwyn, Korda, Murray Silverstone, Raftery and David Rose sail from land on the Queen Mary today, are due to arrive in New York Monday.

Report U.A. Seeks English Producers

LONDON, April 19.—Reports that United Artists officials here are negotiating new production alliances involving Herbert Wilcox and Dr. Paul Czinner for distribution of their pictures starring Anna Neagle and Elisabeth Bergner followed closely upon the company's announcement today that agreements had been reached to reduce the cost of distribution to producers associated with the company.

The agreement, it is generally believed here, will be certain to attract new producer affiliations to the United Artists banner, offering as it does a larger share in company profits in accordance with the individual producer's contributions. Alexander Korda, it is known throughout the London trade, has campaigned vigorously for an adjustment of the distribution charges which would permit London Films to participate to a greater extent in the earnings from American bookings of his pictures. The present readjustment, it is believed, will enable him to put the Denham studio on a more profitable operating basis and to attempt more ambitious pictures.

U.A. in Mexican Deal

United Artists has acquired Mexican distribution rights for a feature and four shorts from the J. H. Hoffberg Co. The feature film is entitled "Fire Trap" and the four shorts are "Isle of Paradise," "Young Explorers," "Carillon Makers" and "Floridian Curiosities."

Expenditures of $746,585 for modernization and rehabilitation of properties during the year were charged to surplus. All directors, with the exception of Charles A. McCulloch, who resigned recently, were reelected. William Hollander, B. & K. advertising and publicity director, was elected to the board to fill this vacancy.

Barney Balaban, who presided at the meeting, told the stockholders that the dollar value of current business is 14 per cent under that for the same period a year ago, and that operating profits are off substantially more than the dollar value. Balaban returned to New York by plane following the meeting and will leave there on Friday, accompanied by Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee, for production conferences at the Paramount studio.

first 1937 quarter on some 1,684,000 shares of common stock.

It was said by W. C. Michel, executive vice-president, who presided at the meeting, that while the first quarter's earnings are off from last year's, company officials expect the first half year's earnings to be comparable to the first six months of 1937. He pointed out that the company is still to benefit by collections on "In Old Chicago," which was generally released last weekend and which will be getting numerous playdates during the next few weeks.

National's Figures Excluded

The comparable figures for the first quarter do not reflect earnings from National Theatres Corp., nor is provision made for surtax on undistributed profits. The National Theatres dividend amounted to $1,134,400 for 1937 and was included in the film company's fourth quarter report. The 20th Century-Fox share of the theatres' earnings this year will not be reported until the final quarter, it was said.

The film company's gross income for the first 1938 quarter was $13,850,824, accounted for by $13,515,285 gross income from sales and rentals of film and literature and $35,096 dividend income. Expenses totaled $11,888,403.63, divided as follows: Exchange operations, home office and administration, $3,494,137.32; amortization of production costs, $6,751,685.85; participation in film rentals, $1,642,580.46. The net operating profit before interest, depreciation and Federal income taxes was $1,963,421.17. Federal income taxes amounted to $221,148.39.

Economies Cited

Asked by B. F. Castle, a stockholder, as to what the company had done to reduce production costs in line with box-office returns, Michel said that the company watches expenditures constantly "and we don't wait for a depression." He said that consistent reductions in expenses had been made, but that there had been no general salary cuts.

Michel told the meeting that box-office grosses were down variously from 10 to 20 per cent, depending on how different sections have been affected. He said that the Roxy did "very well" in the first quarter this year and that the returns from the theatre are "very satisfactory." He was also optimistic about the company's foreign revenue, which he said is better than last year.

About 30 attended the meeting. Directors were reelected unanimously, as follows: H. Donald Campbell, John D. Clark, John R. Dillon, Felix A. Jenkins, Sidney R. Kent, Daniel O. Hastings, William C. Michel, William P. Philips, Herman G. Place, Seton Porter, Joseph M. Schenck and Sydney Towell.

season's production and additional capital for other purposes would be made available to the company.

Seidelman during his 10-week stay abroad completed sales and distribution deals in Great Britain and the Continent which are expected by Universal to increase its foreign revenue 15 to 20 per cent in the near future, it was learned yesterday.

Arriving with him was Maurice Woolf, 18-year-old son of C. M. Woolf, head of General Film Distributors, Universal's British affiliate. He said he expected to stay here six months and will take a position at the home office to learn American film business methods. His post will be designated by Seidelman.

Seidelman reported three appointments abroad, the only one not announced previously being that of J. Weinreib, formerly with 20th Century-Fox, as manager for Poland to replace William Levy, resigned.

Trans-Lux to Omit Dividend on May 1

Stockholders of Trans-Lux Corp. were advised by letter from the board of directors of the company that the regular dividend of 10 cents per share due on May 1 would be omitted in order to conserve cash for future operations in view of what the directors regard as an unpromising outlook for business. The letter stated, however, that the company's earnings for the first quarter were more than sufficient to provide for the dividend.

The Trans-Lux theatre at 85th St. and Madison Ave. will abandon the organization's established all-newsreel program policy on Friday, when feature pictures bookings supplemented by 30 minutes of newsreels will be begun. Only single features will be shown and the former admission policy of 25 cents for the 60-minute newsreel show will be changed to a scale of 25 cents to 5 P. M. and 55 cents thereafter, with the latter price in effect all day Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. There will be three changes weekly of the feature picture, with "The Life of Beethoven" inaugurating the policy. No change in policy is planned for any of the other houses in the Trans-Lux chain, which will continue with straight newsreel and short subject programs.

Constitutional Bank Night Ban Is Aimed

ALBANY, April 19.—MOTION PICTURE DAILY was reliably informed today by a New York delegate that he will offer a resolution banning Bank Night next week in the Constitutional Convention.

Two proposals to legalize lotteries in New York State are before the convention. One by Assemblyman Nick Rossi authorizes the legislature to set up statewide lotteries for low-cost housing projects. The other, by Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, Democratic minority leader of the Assembly, would allow semi-annual operation by the state of lotteries to be used for relief.

Both resolutions were referred to the Bill of Rights Committee, of which Steingut is a member. Hot debate on the proposals is expected in committee, with plenty of strength both for and against.

Supreme Court Justice Charles Poletti, designated as the American Labor Party spokesman, introduced 14 resolutions, including one which would establish a "consumer" department, whose functions are understood to include a strict check on advertising claims, including those made over the radio. Delegate Hirschberg of Newburgh introduced a proposal to change the state Constitution by eliminating the article prohibiting gambling. Its adoption, it is felt, would open the door to Screeno, Banko and similar games.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 63

(20th Century-Fox)

The President broadcasting his most recent "chat" to the nation on recovery plans and the nationwide Easter services highlight the reel, which is generally interesting. The Easter material includes shots on New York's Fifth Ave., on the White House lawn, the Atlantic City boardwalk, in the Hollywood Bowl, and in the Yosemite, where the sunrise and the falls make a beautiful picture.

A glider meet is photographed at Arvin, Cal., and the construction work on the Golden Gate exposition is seen. A clever means is devised to show the latest feminine dress styles, with several attractive models dancing the rhumba with a masculine partner. A strong impression of the tremendous size of the Coulee Dam is afforded, as the project nears completion, and Lew Lehr is amusing in his description of one of those spine-chilling bits as a couple dance on a narrow plank projecting from a window in Chicago twenty stories above the street.

The sports section includes the Jamaica opening, with a horse unseating his rider before the starter's signal, and the baseball opening in Washington, with the President tossing out the first ball. Running time, 10 mins.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 261

(M-G-M)

Easter services in the Hollywood Bowl, Chicago's Soldiers' Field and on New York Fifth Ave., as well as the annual children's egg-rolling on the White House lawn form the leading clip in a reel of rather routine interest.

A glider exhibition is pictured in California, Dr. Townsend is seen walking into jail to serve a Congressional contempt sentence, then walking right out again with a Presidential pardon in his hand, and a contingent of Marines is shown arriving on the coast after many months in Shanghai.

The work on the planned Golden Gate exposition is shown, and a young couple do fancy steps on plank projecting from a 20-story window in Chicago. The President urges spending in a radio speech and Senator Vandenberg expresses opposition. The reel closes with the traditional opening of the Washington baseball season, with the President participating. Running time, 9 mins. A.

Paramount News

Issue No. 74

(Paramount)

Two personalities stand out in this issue. One is that curious old man, Dr. Townsend, who seems to have the vigor of a youngster. He is shown arriving by plane at Washington, waving his hat, and then, later, unfolding his pardon from President Roosevelt with the comment: "Happy days are here again." The other personality, General Pershing, is exceptionally interesting because of the stream of recent stories indicating that he was near death. He walks erectly, accompanied by his doctor and seems to be alert.

Seabiscuit is shown setting a track record at San Mateo, Cal. The deck of the Rex is used to present the fashion stuff—mostly bathing suits. A new Los Angeles gadget resembling the electric rabbit that makes dogs race is used to pace swimmers in a tank. Shots of construction work show the progress on the San Francisco Fair.

The continuity sheet mentions opening games at Washington and Boston and pictures of Joe DiMaggio at San Francisco, but they were not shown. Running time, 9 mins. J.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 78

(RKO)

In its entirety this issue measures up fairly well. The material is not particularly striking but it does manage to hold a certain degree of interest.

The opening shot shows President Roosevelt in his latest "fireside chat" in which he asks for funds to aid recovery. Easter sunrise services in the Hollywood Bowl gives a seasonal note. War Admiral and Seabiscuit prepare for their history-making race on Memorial Day. A wrecked train is seen in Nevada desert country. A double deck automobile is demonstrated. A west coast glider meet has a number of interesting scenes. The reel concludes with the scoring plays of the Athletics-Senators baseball game in Washington with the Chief Executive tossing the first ball. Running time, 8 mins. P.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 10, No. 659

(Universal)

A good variety of timely subjects, presented concisely and narrated in a lively fashion, make this an entertaining release. The subjects in the order of their appearance in the reel are the Easter sunrise services in the Hollywood Bowl, New York's Easter parade, the President's "fireside chat," San Francisco firemen fighting a waterfront blaze, General Pershing, recovered from his recent serious illness, leaving Arizona to attend the wedding of his son in the east, the Mexican populace contributing personal possessions to aid the Government in paying for expropriated oil lands, observance of the Wright brothers' plane building anniversary, trick dancers performing on a springboard overhanging a Chicago skyscraper, construction progress on San Francisco's exposition which opens next February, California glider contests, and the opening of the big league baseball season with President Roosevelt throwing out the first ball.

This varied material is capably edited, well photographed and interestingly presented throughout. Running time, 9 minutes. K.

ITO Receives Numerous Bids On RFC Loans

Come from the Midwest, Says Harry Brandt

A number of applications for Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans have been received by the I.T.O.A. from out-of-town exhibitors, Harry Brandt, president, reported yesterday. He said these were received from the midwest.

Brandt said that the plan under which theatre owners may apply for sums up to $25,000 for five-year terms at a nominal rate of interest was not as yet completed and he will have further conferences with R.F.C. officials. Applications received from exhibitors outside New York are being forwarded to the R.F.C. in Washington and relayed from there to local branches of the corporation for investigation and handling, Brandt stated.

The company's earnings for the current fiscal year will be reported after June 30, when the fiscal year ends, he said. Recent weeks have been the best since the company was started, said Yates.

He is going to Hollywood to complete details of the new season's program and arrangements for the national convention to be held May 2 to 5. He expects to return May 15.

New Threat to Screen from Advertising in the Offing

By IRENE KUHN

(Editor's Note—This is the first of two articles on advertising films covering the latest developments in this field.)

It's no news that for a decade and longer the screen has served as a more or less constant, if erratic, medium for advertising in some form or other. But now film executives are militantly aware of a powerful new threat to use the screen for advertising and are vocal about it.

What is news is that the motion picture screen has suddenly appealed to the high-powered advertising agency as a perfect medium for displaying the promotional or commercial wares it seeks to sell for its clients.

An important advertising executive denied that the trend toward advertising on the screen had developed from the national agencies. "If there is a trend," he said, "it is in response to solicitation of agencies by some

Affiliated Will Fight US Ban On Bank Night

Will Seek Injunction in Washington Court

Affiliated Enterprises has decided to contest the Postoffice Department order barring the company from the use of the mails and will apply to the U. S. District Court in Washington for an injunction to restrain the department from enforcing the order. Edward Goldstein, New York representative for Bank Night, said yesterday.

Goldstein said he had not been advised of the grounds on which the action would be based due to the illness of John M. Keating, New York attorney for Affiliated Enterprises, who will handle the case. It is understood that the company has 60 days in which to bring an appeal action, but indications are that it will move without delay in order to avoid interference with the conduct of its business.

Keating indicated early this week that the action might be based on what he regards as the inequity of the department's order invoking the full penalties of lottery regulations against Bank Night without specifically proclaiming the game to be a lottery.

Bank Night Ban Is Sustained in Conn.

Hartford, April 20.—The Supreme Court of Errors of Connecticut, the state's highest court, yesterday ruled Bank Night illegal and a violation of the state lottery laws, in sustaining the conviction by Superior Court Judge Edward J. Paramount to Raise "Snoop" Circulation

Snoop, Paramount's picture fan magazine, which was given a trial-balloon test with 15,000 copies in December, will make a no-fooling debut May 1. Robert Gillham, head of Paramount advertising, has ordered Alco Gravure to print 100,000 copies. Twenty-five theatres will distribute the magazine to patrons, and to doctors and dentists for their offices. Theatre managers will pay seven cents apiece for it, this being the actual cost of production, according to Gillham who is hopeful that the magazine will prove so attractive to advertisers that they will buy sufficient space to make it virtually self-supporting.

Their aim is to give it away free to theatre men for distribution. Orders for 60,000 copies of the May issue have been received in Paramount's home office.

The magazine carries no advertising in this issue, but feelers have been put out by agencies. The pages will not be open to ads, Gillham said, until there is a definite circulation guarantee.

Three Denver department stores will give Snoop away to their customers and newsstands will sell the book for 10 cents if there is an outside demand.

Gillham is using advance pictures on Paramount productions. The studio has equipped all its still camera men with candid cameras and there is a plethora of material.

Barney Balaban and Stanton Griffis will leave for the coast immediately after the meeting. Balaban plans to be at the studio about 10 days, although Griffis may stay longer.

Philippine Pictures Gaining, Says Core

Even in the Philippines native production is beginning to furnish competition to American films. Philippine Films is the largest of the native producers, with a program of 50 pictures for the year, and Parlatone is second, according to Charles H. Core, United Artists manager there, who is in New York on his first American vacation in five years.

The film business is prospering there, he says, with American companies monopolizing about 90 per cent of the market, and with very few European imports. There are about 100 wired houses in the archipelago, with the commercially profitable business confined to six islands. Luzon, where Manila is located, is the largest. There are six first runs in the capital city, which has a population of 250,000. Another, a 1,500-seat house, is being built.

Action pictures are the most popular, Core states. In this classification he includes "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Hurricane" and other Hollywood films of recent vintage. Releases there are about 30 days behind this country. The average admission price is about 45 centavos, or 22½ cents American money.

English is spoken generally, so there is no dubbing problem. Native pictures are produced in the Tagalog dialect. A few Spanish-language films have been imported from Latin America.

Most of the larger houses are air cooled, Core states, but it doesn't make much difference to the natives whether they are or not. Distribution is a problem, as only one print is received from this country, and these must be shipped by boat to all houses outside Luzon.

Core will spend several more days here and then will go to the coast for a stay of a month before returning to his post.

Davidson to Start New Film Magazine

Sidney Davidson, formerly exploitation man for Warners, will edit a forthcoming movie fan magazine, "Preview" due for the stands this fall.

Davidson is publishing the magazine jointly with George Engel who gets out "Song Lyrics" and "Song Hits," and who fathered the now defunct "Roto" and handles chain store distribution of the Fawcett magazines.

The new magazine, Davidson said, will sell for a dime or 15 cents. It will be a slick paper job, letter press, roto and color, Life size, 96 pages, divided as to contents between glamour stuff and human interest, with emphasis on pictures.

New York Previews

"Wajan"

(Thomfilms)

Theatres which play "exploitation" films, as they are called, may find this Bali picture good box-office. There are enough "angles" here to offer ballyhoo-minded exhibitors plenty of material. As for entertainment qualities, the "Goona Goona" picture of some years ago, to which this is a sort of companion piece, will convey the idea.

The production sponsorship of "Wajan" vouches for its authenticity. As such it has interest for those who are intrigued by faraway places. The film is distinguished by the semi-nudity of the Balinese "beauties," weird Indo-Chinese superstitions and outlandish religious ceremonies and dances.

The plot, enacted by natives, is of a professional witch who casts her evil spell on a village. Her son—"son of a witch" is being used as an ad catchline—is the innocent victim of circumstances. He loves the daughter of Lombos, the witch's chief antagonist. How the witch meets her doom and the lovers are united is the sum of the simple story. No Production Code seal.

Running time, 60 minutes. "A."

"Hollywood Stadium Mystery"

(Republic)

Rather good mystery-melodrama entertainment is offered in "Hollywood Stadium Mystery," the sort that will furnish a series of hurdles which the audience can leap with emotional satisfaction. The unfoldment of the plot utilizes many standby devices, but the injection of fresh twists occurs frequently enough to make it reasonably varied.

The murder of a fighter in the ring before 2,000 spectators causes Evelyn Venable and Neil Hamilton, detective story writer and district attorney, respectively, to forget their humorous friendly enemy relations and join forces in locating the culprit. The yarn then goes along with mysterious excursions and sub-plots, presenting a laugh, chills, more murder and ultimately suspense when the murderer catches up with his nemesis. But the police break in and save the day. At the conclusion romance blossoms and Miss Venable and Hamilton are last seen on their seagoing honeymoon.

Miss Venable and Hamilton contribute fine performances. James Wallington plays a radio announcer who gets his microphone into every nook and cranny of the arena. He does this well. Barbara Pepper, Lucien Littlefield, Lynn Roberts, Charles Williams and Al Bayne are in support. David Howard directed. The original story is the work of Stuart Palmer.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Hollywood Preview

"Call of the Yukon"

(Republic)

Hollywood, April 20.—There is a novelty about "Call of the Yukon" which should cause it to be generally popular and of strong appeal to youngsters. While the romantic and dramatic theme concerns human beings, Richard Arlen, Beverly Roberts and Lyle Talbot, the action backgrounds make the forces of nature, two dogs, a pair of bear cubs and a talking crow, important in the action. Production and directing technique place much stress on movement, with dialogue treated lightly. The story moves speedily and there is something doing on the screen all the time.

The combined menace of starving wild dogs and famine threaten the safety of Miss Roberts, a writer; Arlen, a trapper. Combative romance between the pair, to which Talbot is a third party, grows, and finally Arlen prevails upon the girl to seek the safety of civilization. As they undergo many exciting experiences enroute, the story turns to the companionship of wild "Swift Lightning" and mourning collie, "Firefly." The material is treated in the style which once made dog films highly popular and brings the bears and bird in for tension-easing purposes. Storms, avalanches, brushes with wild dogs and ice breakups have their moments before the climax in which Arlen polishes off Talbot to install himself as favorite in Miss Roberts' affections.

Based on a James Oliver Curwood story, with screenplay by Gertrude Orr and William Bartlett, and directed by B. Reeves Eason, the film has an entertainment and commercial quality that suggest potent exploitation possibilities.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Bill Would Increase Omaha Censor Power

Omaha, April 20.—Theatres here face a new form of supervision in a proposed city ordinance giving extreme powers to the newly created city welfare (censor) board of private individuals.

The law calls for an annual $1 permit, to be obtained by written application to the board by all film and other theatres, night clubs, fairs and all other amusement enterprises, whether charge is made or not.

Cloaking the welfare board with such authority would obviate the necessity of going to municipal courts for arrest warrants and presenting cases in court against violators. If passed, the law would mean the welfare board would have authority to suspend or revoke any permit at its own discretion at any time it thinks a violation "has been or is about to be committed against amusement and decency laws."

"This ordinance would not in any way affect the reputable theatres and good shows," Mayor Butler told Motion Picture Daily. He admitted the proposed law would give plenty of power to the censor group.

Violation might result in $100 fine or 30 days in jail.

jected in the past to the scale of stribution charges against United ts producers and, like Samuel wyn and Alexander Korda, held at the charges should be lowered to ualize the participation in company ofits of the active producers, as dif- rentiated from the participations of e inactive United Artists partners.

During discussions of a renewal of s releasing deal with the company t fall, Selznick contended that the tributing charge should be 17½ r cent of the gross instead of the esent 30 per cent on domestic dis- bution.

It is not believed, however, that as astic a reduction as this can be ade, estimates here placing the probable new charge at 22½ per cent for mestic distribution, with a reduction the charge for British distribution 30 per cent from the present 40 per nt, and for other foreign distribution per cent instead of the present 50 r cent.

Goldwyn, Korda Placated

An immediate result of the agree- ent, it is said, is the elimination of e major source of dissatisfaction on e part of Goldwyn and Korda with isting arrangements. Goldwyn will d his long production recess immedi- ely by resuming about May 2, and orda will abide by his contract to oduce exclusively for United Artists lease. In addition, the new financial licy is expected to attract other st rank independent producers to the mpany's banner, probably bringing out an appreciable increase in the mber of pictures to be released by ited Artists during the 1938-'39 ason.

New Threat to Screen from Advertising in the Offing

picture producing companies themselves."

The advertising agencies are getting into the fight knowing all the facts. There is the opposition of the public, producers, big exhibitors and newspapers. But the agencies have two aces. Their clients are willing to spend some money experimenting, and the newspapers, natural foe of any competitive advertising medium such as the screen would be, are uncomfortably aware that their opposition might be resented by the agencies' clients who buy advertising space in newspapers, too.

The advent of the advertising agency into the picture medium has been by subtle penetration rather than frontal attack. In 1937 five national advertising agencies set up film departments and a dozen others made investigations preliminary to such a step.

U. S. Steel an Example

Just previewed—its exhibition plans still a matter of discussion and debate—are the three similar productions made for the United States Steel Corp., at a cost of $250,000, under the supervision of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn. One of these productions, a 10-minute short in Technicolor, is destined for the "entertainment" of the American motion picture public, when, as and if. . . .

For while the advertising agencies are pressing forward with this new means of promoting their clients' merchandise, distribution continues to be a major headache. Exhibitors, in the main, particularly on the principal circuits, are against this. Actually, the agencies are on the sharp horns of a dilemma and John Q. Public and the Mrs. are the only ones who can unhorn them.

If an agency makes a film for a client with something to sell and disguises or conceals the product in order to fulfill the demands of screen entertainment, the sales of the product will be negligible, and the return from the investment too small to warrant the expenditure.

If, on the other hand, the agency makes a film which sacrifices entertainment value to direct advertising appeal, it incurs the displeasure of the buying audience.

Unpopular with Public

The exhibitor presents the immediate trial to the agency seeking to use the screen for advertising. He expresses the wishes of his patrons. Deluxe high admission theatres, up to now, have tabooed commercial advertising on the screen because they know their audience doesn't want it. The smaller "B" and "C" houses throughout the country which permit screen advertising cannot be counted upon to produce a high enough buying power audience for anything but the cheapest products.

The American public, moreover, is remarkably alert to attempts to sneak up on it with surprises of some bulk but doubtful value, and is quick to voice its resentment at having something shoved at it which it doesn't want.

The chief reason exhibitors are united against screen advertising is their sure knowledge of this resentment. They have been told off plenty by disgruntled patrons when the experiment has been tried.

Forms Are Varied

The exception is in the "minute movies," chiefly those made by the Alexander Film Co., which controls General Screen Advertising, distributor for them and some other distributors, all of whom have pooled their theatres under contract to G.S.A. The makers of these "minute movies" gamble on the quick one-minute or half-minute flash of the product. It is on and off the screen in an instant, gone almost before it is seen, but familiar eventually through repetition and reiteration.

Screen advertising falls into five classifications which have been exhaustively surveyed. There are trailers advertising coming attractions, universally used and accepted by the audience unless they are overlong or crammed with adjectivial superlatives, when there is violent objection.

Second, there are the trailers advertising commercial products. The use of these is increasing, and audience resentment is not, because they are so short. They add nothing to the entertainment value of the program, but produce a substantial revenue for the theatre, the exhibitor being paid to show them.

The third classification is the educational or industrial short used extensively but not frequently throughout the country. The audience generally is either bored or indifferent. These shorts rarely produce theatre revenue but are supplied free to the exhibitor.

One "Feature" Type

Fourth is the entertainment feature picture sponsored by the advertiser. This is the new idea in screen advertising in which the advertising agency is currently interested. It is the type of picture exemplified by U. S. Steel's Technicolor one-reeler.

Fifth, is the feature picture with the "disguised" advertising to which the public is fairly indifferent but which is hotly resented by the exhibitor. This type requires constant attention by studios to control it.

The last three forms of advertising are of dangerous significance because of audience resentment against being duped or misled.

STATUS OF GAMES UPSETS THEATRES

Extended Postoffice Ban Has Operators of All Stunts Jittery

Fears were expressed yesterday by distributors of theatre chance games that the moves of Government agencies against Bank Night would focus the official spotlight on similar schemes. It was also said that the Postoffice Department edict barring the Bank Night promoters in Denver from use of the mails would probably intensify the drive of some local authorities against cash award games and would influence exhibitors to discontinue the policy.

Edward Goldstein, New York distributor of Bank Night, maintains that the Government is making a test of the entire legality of chance games at theatres and merely selected Bank Night in the postal action as an "example." Distributors of other schemes who have been cautioning exhibitors against advertising their games in matter sent through the mails are sending out new warnings.

The consensus of chance game distributors here, other than Bank Night, is that the Government moved against the latter because of an accumulation of factors. First, they say, Bank Night became "too big," with about 5,000 accounts two years ago. The chief factor, however, seems to

Loew's State Bulges; Mae's There; Police Quell a Riot

Mae West opened at Loew's State yesterday. She has been trouping around the country for some time now and has attended one or two "world premieres" in Hollywood. But never, she confessed yesterday, has she seen such a reception.

It was more like a riot. At 6 o'clock in the morning the line began forming, and someone mentioned about someone forgetting to have the Salvation Army lassies on hand to pass out coffee and doughnuts. By 10 o'clock the house was filled to the rafters and it was S.R.O. from that moment until the final show.

"Biggest opening in the history of theatre," said Al Rosen, manager. The house expects to do $52,000 for the week. Anyway, it will be an all-time record. Rudy Vallee holds the present record of $45,000 grossed during Thanksgiving Week, 1936. At 6 P. M. it was said the State would take $6,500 for the day.

This is curvacious Mae's first appearance in Gotham in five years. She Injunction Against Warners Is Refused

Hollywood Hotel Revue, Inc., producer of stage shows for film theatres, was denied a temporary injunction pending trial in its suit against Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and First National Pictures, Inc., in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

The plaintiff claimed infringement of the title "Hollywood Hotel" in the Warner film of the same name. The defense contends that the name is the property of the Campbell Soup Co. from whom permission to use the name was obtained. Justice Pecora ruled that there was no ground for such "drastic remedy" and held that if the plaintiff can prove "it has been injured unjustly it may be compensated in the final judgment."

Dismisses Suit Against Warner

The $10,000 infringement suit brought by Select Theatres Corp. against Warners was dismissed in the U. S. District Court here yesterday by Federal Judge John C. Knox on the grounds that the complaint failed to state a cause of action. Select was granted 20 days to file an amended complaint.

The action alleged infringement of the play "The Audition" in the Warner film, "Ready, Willing and Able." Besides damages, an injunction and an account of the profits were asked.

Louis Soll, attorney for the debtor, told Joyce that income for the month ending April 15 was $1,834 against expenses of $1,374. company has not been actively engaged in production or distribution since Feb. 21, when it went into the hands of trustees.

The major defense of the company against the charges of the commission is that the name of the picture was changed to "Sins of Children" more that a year prior to the filing of the complaint.

At the same time, it contended, the advertising of the picture was "not intentionally (if at all) misleading," and, further, that the trustees have instructed all agents and employes to discontinue issuing any advertising materially referring to the novel.

The answer contended the company had the right to advertise that the film was suggested by the book "because the theme of said book and of said photoplay are fundamentally the same."

Orange Files Suit Details

Orange County Theatres, Inc., filed a 147-page bill of particulars setting forth its claim in detail in connection with its anti-trust suit in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. Orange charges a "conspiracy" in violation of the Sherman and Clayton Act to prevent it from obtaining film.

Hollywood Previews

"Religious Racketeer"

(Fanchon Royer-State Rights)

HOLLYWOOD, April 21.—The sponsors of this straightforward expose of fraud and fakery in the domain of pseudo-supernatural manifestation describe it bluntly as an exploitation picture. It is that and something more. Madame Harry Houdini is prominent in the picture and carries on the work undertaken in life by the late wizard of legerdemain. Her efforts to communicate with him in the previously agreed upon 10-year period following his death are mentioned in the early portion of the picture and a police campaign to rid an unnamed city of practicing clairvoyants stems from her failure and subsequent pronouncements. The production proceeds to depict the devices by which unscrupulous pretenders to occult communication with the dead deceive and rob their victims.

Robert Fiske, Betty Compson, Robert Frazer, Arthur Gardner, David Kerman and Helene Le Berthon are the principals directed by Frank O'Connor in the story by himself. This has to do with the operations of a ring of self-styled mystics, oracles and seers who extort money from the susceptible bereaved by pretending to establish communication with their beloved departed. The central story thread has a romantic aspect which is not allowed to dominate the exposure theme. Many will find these exposures interestingly informative.

Much of the acting is better than the "exploitation picture" label is generally interpreted as implying. The continuity is reasonably taut and, although the subject matter is in essence melodramatic, the picture is in good taste and there is no extraneous sensationalism.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"International Crime"

(Grand National)

HOLLYWOOD, April 21.—Along with the suspense of a crime story, "International Crime" also has comedy interludes and romantic moments. A number in "The Shadow" series, it is acted, directed and produced in the standard that should meet the demands of the market in which it will play. It is based on a magazine story by Maxwell Grant, with screenplay by Jack Natteford and directed by Charles Lamont. Features Rod LaRocque, Astrid Allwyn, Thomas Jackson, William Von Brincken, William Pawley, Lew Hearn and Tennen Holtz in the principal roles.

A murder plot of two foreign agents, Von Brincken and Holtz, brings a broadcasting reporter and sleuth, LaRocque, into action. In Jackson's police department, Miss Allwyn is a rattle-brained assistant. While the police are on wild goose chases, LaRocque, helped and hindered by Miss Allwyn, gradually gathers evidence pointing to Von Brincken and Holtz. Learning the details of their plans, LaRocque broadcasts the news to the police and public, and in an exciting climax prevents the murder of John St. Polis and captures the plotters as the police are again completely fuddled.

For average audiences, particularly those appreciative of a lot of melodramatic theatricals and liberal doses of comedy, "International Crime" should prove a satisfactory attraction.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Nurse from Brooklyn"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, April 21.—Action, suspense and romance are skillfully embodied in the acting, writing and direction of "Nurse from Brooklyn," a study of policemen and robbers operating in New York. With Sally Eilers, Paul Kelly, Larry Blake, Maurice Murphy, Morgan Conway, David Oliver and Lucile Gleason in the cast, the offering will meet approval in any type of house, judging from the favorable comments heard in the Pantages theatre lobby following the preview of the film.

Adapted from Steve Fisher's Liberty story by Roy Chanslor, "Nurse from Brooklyn," which falls into the category of melodrama, was competently directed by S. Sylvan Simon. Edmund Grainger was associate producer.

Blake, a criminal, failing in his attempt to lure Murphy back into a life of crime following the latter's departure from a reformatory, kills Murphy and wounds Kelly, a police officer. Kelly's nurse is Miss Eilers, sister of the dead boy. Blake attempts to have Miss Eilers lure Kelly to his death, but she, at the showdown, balks because of her newly discovered love for the officer.

Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

Bondholders Object To Plan on Midland

Kansas City, April 21.—A bondholders' committee has filed objections to the plan of reorganization under 77-B of the Bankruptcy Act, as proposed by the Securities Service Corp. for Loew's Midland Theatre here. The committee has charged that Midland Investment Co., which owns the theatre, may be insolvent.

"The debtor's own Exhibit 'A' in the printed circulation letter of the reorganization manager, 'Profits or Annual Earnings Statement,' reflects insolvency. It concludes with 'Surplus before Depreciation, $28,815.' The annual audit reports show depreciation deductions of over $100,000 per year," the bondholders stated. The objections were filed by Charles M. Blackmar and Edward L. Scheufler, attorneys for the committee.

The bondholders ask the court to determine the solvency of Midland Investment; to authorize the committee to submit its objections to bondholders, and that the plan submitted by the Securities Service Corp. be rejected as unfair and unduly discriminatory against bondholders or modified in accordance with the objections.

New York Previews

"Dark Eyes"

(Frank Kassler)

There is more to sell in this French picture than in the general run of importations because of two performers whose names mean something to the American boxoffice, Simone Simon and Harry Baur. "Dark Eyes" is the last French film in which Miss Simon appeared before going to Hollywood.

The story is simple, and it is possible that there is too much dialogue for audiences lacking knowledge of French, despite ample English subtitles. But to compensate there are two choice performances by the leading players.

Baur, head waiter in a leading Moscow restaurant, pretends to his daughter, Miss Simon, that he is an important business man, in order to give her all that he believes she should have in background and attention. She, reading books for romance, meets a banker, one of Baur's customers, and he, not knowing her identity, attempts to entice her. He takes her to a private room of the restaurant, and Baur, in an excellent scene, first hides, then saves her from the man. At home father and daughter have a new understanding of each other. A young romance is interwoven unobtrusively.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"Lenin in October"

(Amkino)

That fertile field for Soviet film scenarios—the history of the revolution—again contributes in "Lenin in October." As in the past, the country's philosophy of government is plentifully voiced. The film has an air of realism that causes it to depart from the entertainment field and become an historical document. Its obvious audience—the Russian minded—will probably find it interesting.

The action opens with Lenin's return to Petrograd from Finland in October, in 1917. He formulates plans for the uprising. Much attention is given to revealing how his supporters idealized him. The preparations for the rebellion against the provisional government are covered with spirited performances by groups of factory workers and sailors and without very much ado the conflict occurs and is over. Lenin is last seen addressing the first Soviet of Workers and Soldiers at Smolny Institute. A younger edition of Stalin is evident in the doings and the film carefully edits out other personalities who have been ousted from the "party." The title role is played by Boris V. Shchukin. Mikhail Romm directed.

da and her husband, Hal Wallis; Glenda Farrell, Hugh Herbert, Humphrey Bogart and many others. Cagney introduces Rudy Vallee, who, in turn, presents Benny Goodman and his band. A snappy swing number is presented and then Donald Crisp talks. He provides an introduction for Paul Muni. Muni explains the purposes of the drive. While he talks a few shots of the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at Saranac and its interior are presented.

Muni's appeal is very dignified. In it he explains that the uses of the fund have been broadened this year to include aid for institutions doing work for crippled children.

Games Status Has Theatres Here Worried

have been that the operation of the game caused disturbances in theatres in some instances which gave the game unfavorable newspaper publicity. It was said that this was due, in some cases, to mishandling of the game by exhibitors, or the patrons' suspicion that it was not being operated entirely "on the level."

Bank Night became a strong favorite with exhibitors at its inception about four years ago, but it was not long before other schemes were brought out which made inroads on the Affiliated Enterprises promotion.

In New York only two theatres, both Loew houses, use Bank Night. A majority of the metropolitan areas subsequent run and neighborhood operations run some form of chance game in which money is given one or more times a week. The schemes having the greatest vogue are Screeno, for which George West, distributor, claims between 450 and 500 theatres in Greater New York, and Lucky, which the owners, Dennis Games, say is in 200 theatres.

Innumerable Types

There are a dozen or more others, including a variegated assortment of Bingo, Bango, Banko, Jumbo, Whirl-Win, Ten-O-Win, Sweepstakes, Line-O, Bankroll, Currency, Wall St. and I-Have-It. Some exhibitors use cash giveaway devices of their own invention.

The cash game situation in New Jersey is described as a delicate one for theatres because of an informers' law under which the person notifying the authorities of a transgression of the lottery laws receives 50 per cent of the fine. A circuit not long ago was a defendant in such a prosecution. Such cases, it was said, can be "framed" easily.

Bank Night has a number of accounts in New Jersey. Ten-O-Win, a comparative newcomer, is making some headway in the state. The latter game is distributed by National Screen Service and has 38 users in Greater New York, mainly in Skouras and Century circuit houses. The game is a strong favorite in California, where it is said to be in 400 theatres.

Loew's Valencia in Jamaica is the last stronghold of Bank Night in the metropolitan area. The crowds flocking to the theatre on Wednesday nights, which is Bank Night, were so great that the Hillside was added to the operation for the overflow.

Bank Night also has remained in upstate New York. The Supreme Court decision in Connecticut earlier this week definitely ends its use there.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 64
(20th Century-Fox)

Routine clips of varying interest make up this release for the most part, with nothing outstanding of a newsworthy nature. The most rousing shots are those of the Pacific fleet's battle with a storm, the crowds marching in Paris as the Government changes hands and the National League opener with the Giants trouncing the Bees.

Others are: Postmaster General Farley approving a new stamp issue; demonstration by a model of a new British racing boat and the building of a new auto racer; kids opening the fishing season in New Jersey; child bowling champs displaying their skill; L. E. Douglass and his Kansas family and 18 friends he took on a trip to Chicago; surf-o-planing in Australia, which is fun. There are also a soccer match in England and a skating carnival. Lew Lehr's Newsette is a demonstration by a woman fire-eater. Running time, 9½ minutes. F.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 262
(M-G-M)

This issue rests its bid for appeal on baseball, royalty and a storm at sea. Precautions taken by the French to save babies from gas attacks by placing them in glass-enclosed cribs in bomb-proof shelters is a clip that holds interest.

The baseball footage includes the Giants' defeat of the Bees in this week's opener; a shot of Joe DiMaggio; Dizzy Dean speaking a piece before the microphone and then performing in Wednesday's Chicago-Cincinnati game. The cameramen aimed to keep the ball in view all the time. The reel also has: Queen Mary attending a concert at Cardiff, which is entertaining; warships riding unruly waves in the Pacific; demonstration of a railless railroad at Rome; General Pershing arriving in New York; a coiffure show, and the French into steeplechase. Running time, 8½ minutes. F.

Paramount News
(Paramount)

Concise presentation of a good variety of subjects gives this release continuous interest and an even pace. Despite the fact that the reel is of no more than average length, careful editing has permitted the inclusion of 11 individual subjects.

In the order of their appearance they are test flights for the Army's new autogiros; Helen Wills Moody's departure for England to try for a "comeback" in international tennis meets; the departure of another contingent of the Joseph P. Kennedy family for the American Embassy in London; George Hale dancers sailing from New York for European engagements; Mexican women donating personal possessions to aid their Government in paying for expropriated oil lands; a Cardiff welcome and entertainment of the visiting Queen Mother Mary; a new English racing car design; a California contribution to economical motoring; opening big league games in Chicago and New York, and the U. S. fleet riding out a Pacific storm off Hawaii. Running time, 9 mins. K.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 79
(RKO)

Outside of the Yankees' opener in Boston against the Red Sox there is little real news in this release. The ball sequence opens the reel, followed by a group of departing persons, including Helen Wills Moody, two more of the Ambassadorial Kennedy children, Sir Herbert Morrison, British Labor M. P., who predicts a great future for the party here, and the Hale Girls, who are bound for England to advertise the World's Fair, and who dance on deck in the latest piece of terpsichorean insanity.

A new type of Italian military highway, which permits of a string of driverless trucks, running in series and over a raised center concrete road, the Pan American fiesta getting under way with a girl group in Miami, the start and finish of the Boston marathon, Commander Gatti's new deluxe trailers for an African expedition, on a New York trial run, and a series of boxing bouts in Brooklyn among infants, which is amusing, account for the rest of the issue. Running time, 8 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 660
(Universal)

Some smart camera work on the New York Giants-Boston Bees opening game makes this sequence outstanding. Mayor LaGuardia is caught throwing the ball, former Mayor Walker and Babe Ruth are presented, and, with perfect lighting to help, the first home run and other plays are shown.

From a pictorial point of view the Pacific fleet maneuvers in a heavy storm with closeups of sailors dodging waves are excellent screen material. Indians lassoing logs in a stream in the northwest, an auto road with a raised center that makes the use of long trains possible, a soccer game with plenty of movement, Pawson winning the marathon near Boston, and a girl and boy bowler lend a novel angle to the issue.

The other clips in the 12 subjects shown include the new French Premier, Daladier, a steamship aground at Fisher's Island, Helen Wills Moody on the deck of a ship, sprucing up at Palisades Park and the auto Grand Priz at Pau, France. Running time, 9 mins. J.

ESKIN AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES

Mr. F. J. A. McCarthy
Universal Pictures Company, Inc.
Rockefeller Center
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. McCarthy:

Just a line to advise you of the results of the show which you selected for me in Bethlehem, namely, Frankenstein and Love Before Breakfast.

The business was in my opinion very satisfactory. You may unreservedly tell your men in the field, if you wish, to sell this show to the exhibitor as a unit, that it did for me more than 75% in excess of business ordinarily done in my theatre. Not only was the business highly satisfactory, but the show combination proved excellent entertainment. You understand, of course, that all of this was without any of the sensational publicity and advertising that "Frankenstein" originally had when you first released it.

In conclusion, I feel certain that no exhibitor would make a mistake in booking this show. The chances are that it will out-gross most of the attractions being played.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) Harold E. Eskin

commission staff now is engaged in the collection of information which will be of value at the hearings, but that, it is indicated, the material will not be available until just before the hearings, at the earliest. At the same time, it was claimed the commission had not given sufficient notice of the hearing to enable broadcasts to prepare all the information which they will desire to submit.

Indications are that the hearings will require a number of days, the commission so far having requests from more than 60 individuals for time to testify.

The hearings are scheduled by the commission to begin May 16, and are for the purpose of considering some 15 applications for super-power and the general question whether the present maximum power for clear channel stations should be raised from 50,000 to 500,000 watts.

Ten suits asking a similar amount and bringing the total demanded to $2,200,000 were filed last month. April contends that its predecessor, Shubert Theatres Corp., Shubert Theatrical Corp. and the Winter Garden Co. contracted for the publication and mechanical reproduction of songs, but that the contracts did not include radio rights.

Harms contends that radio rights were incuded and has filed a counter claim for $100,022 in each action. Justice Ferdinand Pecora will hear a motion today to determine whether the state or Federal court has jurisdiction of the suit.

Plays involved in the latest suite are "Riquette," "Lady in Ermine," "Caroline," "Hitchy Koo," "Springtime of Youth," "Katja," "Passing Show of 1923," "Dew Drop Inn," "Innocent Eyes" and "Passing Show of 1924."

Howard, business manager of Independent Exhibitors, Inc., of Boston, who has been delegated by National Allied to further its expansion program.

Separate organizations will be maintained for New York City and Albany, and a Buffalo group will be formed before the end of the year, all to be combined within the state unit, he said.

Abram F. Myers, Allied States general counsel, and Nathan Yamins, president, will address the organization meeting, and Arthur Price of Baltimore, regional vice-president, and Sidney Samuelson, executive committee member, also are expected.

All New York and Albany independent exhibitors have received invitations to attend the meeting, which will be at the Hotel Astor, said Howard. There will be morning and afternoon business sesions, with election of officers and directors and adoption of constitution and by-laws scheduled.

RKO Theatres Profit in '37 At $1,483,281

1936 of $893,580.23, after the ac- al of interest amounting to $987,- 9 on indebtedness to RKO.

Pathe News, Inc., showed a 1937 net ofit of $63,011.07, compared with a loss of $241.78 in 1936. The ac- ual of interest on indebtedness to KO was $13,297.65 in 1937, and $13,- 1.57 in 1936.

During 1937, RKO received $51,510 distributions in liquidation of the n Beuren Corp., in which RKO s a 50 per cent interest.

During 1937, according to the re- t, the fixed indebtedness of RKO s reduced to the extent of $2,232,- ,70, including the payment of $450,- principal amount of RKO secured per cent gold notes and the reduc- n, subsequent to acquisition, of the ed indebtedness of the active Or- eum companies. The interest on the ebtedness was paid in the amount $1,250,813.63.

Cash Shows Decrease

The cash of RKO and its subsidi- es declined from an aggregate of 928,810.69 on Dec. 31, 1936, to $5,- ,613.25 on Dec. 31, 1937. The re- t explained the reduction of $2,646,- .44 in cash position as attributable the facts that the fixed indebtedness s reduced approximately $2,230,000 ring the period, Stadium Theatres rp. made a payment of $700,000 for assets of Orpheum Circuit, Inc., the inventory of films, stories and tinuities, etc., increased by approx- ately $2,800,000.

However, officials declared that the npany's cash position probably is ter today than it was on Dec. 31, 37, largely as a result of inventory luction on films, stories, etc.

The report indicates that theatre at- dance was lower in 1937 than dur- 1936, but an increase in the aver- admission price raised the total atre receipts above the 1936 level. oss receipts declined measurably ring the second half of 1937, par- ularly in November and December, report declared. An increase in n rental cost for the theatre subsid- ies was attributed in part to a fur- r spread of the double feature pol- , and salaries also rose.

The consolidated statement of profit loss for 1937 shows theatre admis- ns of $23,640,464, film rentals and es of $26,307,399. Expenses are put $47,692,246.

the court to determine the extent of the financial damages accruing to Edward Sheldon and Margaret Ayer Barnes, authors of the play, as a result of the exhibition of the Joan Crawford picture, submitted a tentative report on his findings to attorneys in the case more than a week ago. The attorneys were invited to prepare briefs setting forth their reactions to Auchincloss's preliminary findings, and on the basis of these briefs from the attorneys for both sides, the referee's final report and recommendations will be made.

It is known that in his preliminary report Auchincloss suggested damages totaling almost $900,000 as being the aggregate liability of the theatres which exhibited the picture, but it is impossible to forecast what his final recommendation will be. His findings, of course, must be approved by the Federal court before they are enforceable, and the court's ruling is subject to appeal. The case has been in the courts since 1934 when the authors first brought their successful plagiarism action against M-G-M.

Hays Again Hits Sponsored Films

April 24.—Will H. Hays, following meetings with producers before he left Hollywood for the east, reiterated his firm stand against advertising on the screen. The M.P.P.D.A. president said:

"Whatever the problems of general business recovery may be, the studios, in characteristic fashion, have launched a program of production of a great number of splendid pictures with the purpose of bringing about, rather than waiting for a box-office upturn.

"The studios are thoroughly awake to the possible results of the reported efforts to use the motion picture theatre screen for sponsored films produced primarily for advertising purposes. The policy of the organized industry continues firm against the extension of advertising to the entertainment program."

Variety Club Takes Over Cincinnati for Conclave

By SHERWIN A. KANE

CINCINNATI, April 24.—About 600 showmen from all parts of the country found themselves in possession of Cincinnati for the weekend. And what it did to them can't be assayed properly until the bookkeepers finish tabulations on their back-home businesses next Saturday night.

The occasion, of course, was the national convention of Variety Clubs at the Netherland Plaza, officially Saturday and Sunday, but with considerable unfinished business appearing to be still on hand in the city's incandescent belt early today.

Conventioneers accepted the fact that John H. Harris of Pittsburgh would be returned by the delegates of all tents for his fifth consecutive year as chief barker. A vote against Harris would bring down the wrath of Variety Club's legions who wouldn't recognize the organization without Mae West Says She Could Make a Million, But Why?

Mae West propped a pillow under her blonde coiffure and consented to be interviewed between shows in Dressing Room No. 1 at Loew's State yesterday.

"I could make more than a million dollars if I wanted to," she said, "but there's no sense to it. Eighty per cent of it would go for taxes."

Miss West is emphatic on the subject of the tribute exacted from the higher bracket players in Hollywood by the Federal Government and the State of California.

"After you pay taxes you're lucky if you have enough left for beans," chimed in Irwin Zeltner, the State's press agent.

"That's right," said Mae, and nodded.

She does not believe that film stars should be heard much on the air. She considers herself a picture personality and holds that it's all right to broadcast once in a while, but there is such a thing as overdoing it.

"I could make a million dollars if I wanted to go into radio," said Mae. "A picture star should be heard only occasionally on the air, unless he or she is a radio star converted to pictures. You make the public tired of you when you give them too much of yourself."

Miss West will end her 12-week tour in Boston, following her engagement at the State, and then will return to Hollywood with her retinue. She is under contract to Paramount and expects to make a film or two during the fall and winter. One is scheduled to go in work in September.

"I don't know yet whether I'll have to write the story myself," she confided. "I like stuff suited to my own style. I had to write a good part of 'He Was Her Man.' I don't want to do any writing, but it seems I have to. I have my own ideas."

She may barnstorm the key cities again next year, and may even make a world tour some time. She has heard that she would go over big in South America and Australia.

On Saturday she did seven shows, going on for the first time at 10:40 A. M. and winding up her stint at 1:10 A. M. Sunday, a 13-hour stretch. She will appear seven times again today, with the theatre's doors opening at 7:30 A. M., and maybe also on Wednesday, when the engagement ends.

Ullman Adds Crews For "Sportscopes"

RKO Pathe Sportscopes are at the peak of production activity. Another camera crew has been added to the location groups. Field activity now includes production at Silver Springs, Fla.; Hollywood, Cal., and Lexington, Ky., where, respectively, subjects on underwater filming tricks, racquet sports and horses are being shot.

"We found such a demand for Sportscopes after the release of the first two that we added a second crew and now a third," Frederic Ullman, Jr., supervisor, stated. "We are giving each unit ample time to turn out sports subjects of definite dramatic and entertainment values, with particular attention to colorful backgrounds," he added.

Wilcox Shifts Film Plan

Hollywood Preview

"Doctor Rhythm"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—Gossipy Hollywood cherishes a report that when Paramount liquidated Emanuel Cohen's production contract he delivered the negative of this picture in takes without the script and the studio had to fit it together like a jigsaw puzzle. It probably isn't true, but if it is Cohen contributed something important to the art and science of the cinema. Because the picture is a slam-bang hit from start to finish. It's as slick as a ribbon, tuneful as a Kraft Music Hall broadcast and funnier than the cageful of monkeys let loose in one of its uproarious sequences. Bing Crosby never has had as good a vehicle as this for his talent and this one carries a snug load of additional box-office personnel.

Crowding Crosby for honors, without shoving, is Beatrice Lillie, who hits her stride in this and makes a return to Hollywood for further display of her intellectual slapstickery obligatory. She had a hardened preview audience in stitches 10 or a dozen times and chuckling steadily in between. Others who pile laugh upon laugh are Andy Devine, Rufe Davis, Franklin Pangborn, Laura Hope Crews, Sterling Holloway and Fred Keating. Mary Carlisle plays Crosby's love interest straight and becomingly.

Jo Swerling and Richard Connell based their screenplay on O. Henry's "The Badge of Policeman O'Roon," and Frank Tuttle directed it as Henry might have. It's about a doctor who poses as a policeman to help out a pal and guards a girl against the romantic advances of a fortune hunter but not, of course, his own. Incidentally it's about the cleanest comedy of the year. Which means utterly, and has no truck with the giddy devices of the so-called screwball school of humor lately seen in protracted sessions. One sketch, "Double Damask Napkin," by Dion Titeradge, contains more honest comedy as played by Miss Lillie and three straight men than anybody has good reason to expect to find in one picture. The songs by John Furke and James V. Monaco are already popularized by radio. "On the Sentimental Side," "My Heart is Taking Lessons" and "This is My Night to Dream" stand out in the picture, although Aunty Bea's eccentric solo, "Rhythm," paralyzes the witnesses. John Scott Trotter of Bing's radio program did the arrangements in his usual faultless fashion and dance ensembles by Jack Crosby combine grace, beauty and dispatch in rare consonance.

It's a picture on which showmen may shoot the bankroll in complete confidence of collecting a fatter one.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Abbott, Porter Will Sail for Exposition

John E. Abbott of the American Museum of Modern Art Film Library, with Allen Porter, will sail, on the Ile de France Wednesday at the invitation of the French Government to take part in the Exposition of the History of American Art.

The film exposition, arranged by Abbott, will be a part of the general show at the Musee de Jeu de Paume in Paris.

Abbott will show still and motion picture material; the making of a contemporary film—"The Adventures of Tom Sawyer"—and will run a film show 45 minutes daily. In all, there will be three programs under American auspices, made up of excerpts from "The History of the American Film, 1896-1938."

After the Paris exposition Abbott will spend June on the Continent collecting film material for the museum.

Judell to Start Fourth

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—Ben N. Judell has finished work on his third feature for Progressive Pictures, "Scandal House," and has started arrangements for putting "I Want a Divorce" into work May 9. It is from Arthur LeRoy Kaser's play. Melville Shyer will be associate producer.

Two more, "Desirable Lady" and "Trapped by Radio Police," are being prepared.

Wichita to Get New Tryout for Singles

WICHITA, April 24.—Howard E. Jameyson, district manager for Fox Midwest, has inaugurated a new policy at the Uptown. Pictures which make the best showing downtown will be taken immediately to the Uptown for a week. Such pictures will be shown on a single bill with selected short subjects.

"We don't know whether to believe what people tell us or what we see in our daily box-office reports," Jameyson said in announcing the policy. "Practically everyone tells us he doesn't like two features, yet since we started them our theatres show a little more than a 10 per cent increase in attendance. Being business men, we are just a little more inclined to believe our figures than the protests we have received, some of which have been rather heated."

"If the experiment does nothing else, it will tell me whether single feature fans are as numerous as they are noisy."

UA to Reissue "Cristo"

United Artists on May 15 will release "The Count of Monte Cristo," starring Robert Donat and Elissa Landi. The film was adjudged one of the "ten best" of 1934. It will be shown at the Rivoli following "The Battle of Broadway."

Convention Sidelights

ALLAN MORITZ, inspiration of the Cincinnati tent, was the busiest man at the convention. He handled the business meetings and banquet reservations and served as a one-man welcoming committee and veritable St. Bernard to the lost and bewildered.

Allied States' stalwarts, W. A. (AL) STEFFES and H. M. RICHEY, never mentioned block booking the entire weekend, reserving their steam for their own convention in Pittsburgh in May.

him at its head. The majority of them appeared equally set on the choice of Detroit for next year's convention city but the Cleveland throng of diehards agitated late into the night on behalf of their local Variety Clubs. The convention atmosphere was as different from that of an ordinary industry gathering as last year's theatre receipts from this year's. Members could be at their native country clubs for the weekend for all the talk heard here of industry topics and problems.

The Neely Bill might be something to be picked up on the way out of a coffee pub for all the interest displayed in it by showmen this weekend. New season schedules could be something railroads issued for customers who can't figure out for themselves what Daylight Saving Time does to their traveling habits, and the only reminder of the business recession is that the poker stakes no longer resemble gross receipts. They are blood brothers to the admission tax, instead.

Now where else, for instance, could you get so many buyers and sellers together and make them forget completely an opportunity to turn a profit?

And where could you get 575 showmen up to register for a convention by 10 A. M. on a Saturday morning?

Where could you even get 575 of them into the same city at once?

Underneath it all, probably, is the charitable motif behind the Variety Clubs, of which there was visible evidence here in the form of films made and exhibited by individual tents depicting outstanding work of the year.

The conventioneers' ranks were swelled Sunday by an additional 300 who jammed the Hall of Mirrors for the eventful banquet and entertainment, lasting far into the night. It happens but once a year, but to many showmen it is on a par with their annual vacations.

with Postmaster General James A. Farley simultaneously with an application for suspension of the order pending determination of the appeal.

The appeal, he said, will claim the following: 1. The findings of the solicitor did not show a violation of the law; 2. The findings are not based on the evidence; 3. The solicitor misconceived the law in that he cited a number of cases in which Bank Night was not involved and overlooked others which are pertinent.

Keating will file the papers personally in Washington. The Postoffice Department held hearings over a period of months in which testimony was taken from C. C. Ezell of Dallas, the national sales manager, and Emmett Thurmon of Denver, Bank Night's general counsel.

Dallas Case Ruling May Be Made Today

April 5, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson appearing for the Government and former Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher and George S. Wright of Dallas for the film companies.

Parties to the suit are a number of major distributors and two Texas theatre circuits. The Government contends that at the instigation of the exhibitor circuits the distributors incorporated the admission and double feature provisions in their contracts in furtherance of a conspiracy to restrain trade.

Involves Philadelphia Case

In addition to the significance of the decision on sales policies involving the establishment of minimum admission scales and the regulation of double featuring, the Dallas Interstate Circuit case also is of importance to the trade in the effect it will have on the distributors' decision on an appeal of the Philadelphia anti-double featuring case. A reversal of the Dallas court would undoubtedly lead to an appeal of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that the inclusion of anti-double featuring clauses in license agreements is in violation of the anti-trust laws. A decision unfavorable to the distributors would make an appeal of the Philadelphia case to the high court highly unlikely.

Also pending before the court, with possibilities of a decision Monday is the General Talking Pictures Corp. case, involving the question of the validity of license notice restrictions on vacuum tube amplifiers, limiting their use to radio reception, which the company employed in the production of talking film projection equipment. Argument in the case was heard by the court last December.

Whether the court renders opinions in these cases, it is expected to announce Monday whether it will grant the appeal of Hiram Steelman, trustee in the William Fox bankruptcy, for review of a decision holding that bankruptcy courts are without authority compel All-Continent Corp. to op its books and records for examinatio All-Continent is the Fox holding con pany to which the trustee charged F transferred all his assets.

Rehearse in Public

Chicago, April 24.—An innovation at the Chicago is permitting patrons to attend dress rehearsals of the stage shows at 9:30 A.M. on Friday, which is opening day.

This idea is expected to prove a strong attraction for early business. The first time it was tried, last Friday, with "Spanky," one of the "Our Gang" stars, in person in the show, it proved to be a great stunt, with the house soldout for the first performance.

members its own list of film classifications.

The C.E.A. campaign of vigorous opposition to the K.R.S. grading plan will get under way tomorrow when Ken Nyman, president, and Charles P. Metcalfe, ex-president, will head a group of speakers who will address meetings of exhibitor units in the provinces.

The C.E.A. also will publish regularly lists of "B" films, advising members that such films be booked only at a flat rate, and not on percentage. The first confidential circular, which will be issued next week, will say that the K.R.S. grading is not based on Hollywood prophecies, and refers to percentages for Sunday bookings, second and third runs, and children's matinees, Members will be asked specifically if they believe certain pictures are worth percentage bookings, including RKO's "Radio City Revels" and "Wise Girls" and Columbia's "I'll Take Romance."

Independents And A.F. of M. In Agreement

The week-long conferences between the national committee of the Independent Broadcasters and the executive board of the American Federation of Musicians ended Saturday with the completion and acceptance of a plan modeled along the lines of the agreement executed some months ago between the Independent Radio Network Affiliates and the A. F. of M.

It is estimated that several hundred more union musicians will be placed to work in independent stations through this agreement. It is understood that the basis of allocation is to be 5½ per cent of the gross yearly income for each independent station covered by the plan. There are approximately 386 independent stations. However, many of these have yearly grosses so small that they will be unaffected by the agreement.

Majority Required

The agreement contains provision that it shall not be effective unless a majority of independent stations substantial enough to satisfy the A. F. of M. approves the plan within the time period set by the musicians' organization. The executive board of the Federation still was in session late Saturday and at that hour this time period had not been determined. President Weber, however, in a talk to MOTION PICTURE DAILY, said, "Undue delay by the stations in accepting the plan will not be tolerated." He added that he expected the plan to be in operation before the next meeting of the A. F. of M., which will be held at Tampa in June.

Members of the Independent Broadcasters' committee, nine in number, left Saturday for their homes, the exceptions being Vice-Chairman Harold A. LaFount, WELI, and Jack R. Howard, WCPO, who will remain in New York for several more days to continued deliberations with the Federation.

Two features will be transferred from WLW to WSAI. Phil Spitalny's "Hour of Charm," heretofore a 9 P. M. Monday feature, and Ripley's "Believe-it-or-not," formerly presented at 9 P. M. Saturdays, hereafter will be heard Sunday and Tuesday nights, respectively, over WSAI.

CBS Adult Education Board Will Present Three Series

The CBS Adult Education Board, formation of which was announced last January by William S. Paley, CBS president, will present three new series, "Americans at Work," "Adventures in Science" and "Living History," the first of which is to begin Thursday from 10:30 to 11 P.M. "Living History" and "Adventures in Science" will be given in quarter-hour periods starting shortly thereafter.

The board, with Lyman Bryson, professor of Education at Teachers' College, Columbia University, as chairman, was formed by the network in the belief that a more organized effort should be made to supplement existing programs with planned, formal education for adult listeners. The board met in New York Jan. 17 and 18 and compiled a set of recommendations out of which the three series have grown. Following the meetings Paley announced that evening broadcast periods had been withdrawn from sale so that the recommended programs might reach a maximum audience of adults.

In addition to Bryson, the board comprises Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University; Alvin S. Johnson, director of the New School for Social Research; George Edgar Vincent, former president of the Rockefeller Foundation; Stringfellow Barr, president St. John's College; William Benton, formerly of the advertising agency of Benton & Bowles and now vice-president of the University of Chicago; Joseph H. Willits, dean of the Wharton School of Finance; Henry R. Luce, president of Time, Inc.; Thomas V. Smith, professor of philosophy, University of Chicago; William Allen White, publisher of the Emporia Gazette; Robert I. Gannon, president of Fordham University; Ruth Bryan Rohde, former United States Minister to Denmark; Harry Woodburn Chase, Chancellor of New York University, and Spencer Miller, Jr., director of the Workers' Education Bureau of the A. F. of L.

Silverstone Slated to Be UA General Manager

Executive Offices Will Be Moved from The Coast to New York; Giannini Retirement Is Indicated

London, April 25.—Maurice Silverstone, managing director of United Artists Corp., Ltd., English branch of the American distributing organization, is slated to be named general manager of United Artists Corp., it is understood here. It is expected that Silverstone will maintain executive offices in New York and that the United Artists executive offices in Hollywood will be suspended.

The removal of the United Artists executive offices to New York is seen as indicating the probable retirement of Dr. A. H. Giannini, now president of United Artists Corp., who maintains headquarters in Hollywood. Dr. Giannini, who is chairman of the general executive committee of Bank of America, National Association, was elected to the presidency of United Artists a year ago.

Silverstone entered the industry in 1918. Prior to his election as managing director in London, he represented United Artists in Central America, Australasia and other countries.

Fifty per cent of United Artists' net earnings during the current year will be distributed to the company's affiliated producers in proportion to the returns their pictures bring and the other 50 per cent will be shared

Paramount's 1937 Net Is $6,045,103

Paramount's net profit for 1937 was $6,045,103, a gain of $32,853 over the previous year. This total was arrived at after all charges, including interest, Federal taxes, depreciation and reserves.

In a letter to stockholders Barney Balaban, president, says the profit figure does not include approximately $625,000 representing Paramount's net interest as a stockholder in the combined undistributed earnings for the year of partially owned companies.

"After deducting $1,186,090 of dividends accrued for the year," Balaban's letter states, "based on the first and second preferred shares outstanding as of Jan. 1, 1938, the consolidated earnings equal to $1.97 per share on

Key City Critics Like "Test Pilot"

Herewith are reproduced brief extracts from the reviews of critics in other cities on "Test Pilot," which received virtually unanimous praise from New York critics:

Atlanta Constitution—"Test Pilot" is a thrilling drama of the air . . . in which the producer makes the audience live in suspense.

Cincinnati Times-Star—The final fadeout will find you dead, dead from excitement or dead from boredom. . . . M-G-M has wasted the talents of three stars on a picture whose merit lies solely in photography and mechanical effect . . . magnificent air sequences.

St. Louis Star-Times—. . . Thrill packed romance. . . . And when M-G-M set out to produce the greatest aviation story screened in years, it didn't do it half way. . . . The producer brought together three of the greatest stars in the business—Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy.

Dr. Giannini Links Festus and Taylor

HOLLYWOOD, April 25.—Speaking on the subject, "The Motion Picture 50 Years from Now," and treating the theme in both serious and humorous vein, to the vast amusement and incidental enlightenment of his listeners, Dr. A. H. Giannini, president of United Artists, on Saturday addressed 3,800 guests at the 50th anniversary celebration of Pomona College. Dr. Giannini substituted on the program for Louis B. Mayer, who was unable to appear because of illness.

Festus, the Dionysian festival player of 600 B.C., said Dr. Giannini, was the world's first acting star, and he added, facetiously, that Robert Taylor and Joel McCrae (both Pomona graduates) might occupy a similar niche in 1988, at which time Louis B. Mayer should be able to sit in his sanctum and supervise by means of television all the production on M-G-M's 20 stages instead of "sprinting from one set to another as is necessary now."

Predicts Shopping Ease

Enlarging on this topic the U.A. president envisioned Lady Shopper inspecting the full stock of a department store from a single comfortable vantage point, the motion picture industry functioning with but one laboratory, stars enjoying individual studios, life and living simplified practically to the vanishing point.

On a serious note, Dr. Giannini pointed to the rapid scientific progress during late years, stated that momentous changes are inevitable and that the nature of these changes are unpredictable by anyone lacking the "habitual courage" of the absent Louis B. Mayer.

latter course is deemed likely if the decision is against games.

Davis S. Malis, counsel for Morris Somerson, Palm theatre, argued the case from the standpoint of Lucky. This action originated more than a year ago when Somerson sought an injunction against the Mayor and Police Department to prevent interference in the conduct of games at the Palm.

"Subterfuge" Charged

Several of Malis' arguments that the game was not a lottery were termed "subterfuges" by Judges McDevitt and Kun. Malis outlined the procedure of the games, asserting they were conducted not for gain but as advertising mediums to promote good will. He explained the provisions that an admission ticket is not necessary to play and that patrons paid the regular price and secured a regular movie program with games added without cost. He said people outside a theatre could play also.

"That's a mere subterfuge," stated Judge Kun, "and couldn't hold water. Obviously the game is not conducted for benefit of those outside."

Judge McDewitt remarked "If 900 people were outside playing the game and less than that number inside, the game would not be continued."

Publishers to Talk Screen Advertising

The growth of advertising on the screen is scheduled for discussion at the annual meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers Association at the Waldorf-Astoria, which starts today. Figures gathered in a survey indicating the amount of money spent by advertisers on films will be given to the convention.

Opposition Is Expected

It is expected that the publishers will adopt measures to combat screen advertising, on which, it is claimed $10,000,000 was spent last year. The publishers consider this serious competition.

The Loew circuit yesterday isued this statement: "In the past we have been opposed to commercial advertising on our screens and have not accepted it. That is still our policy." It was recalled that when sponsored films appeared in theatres several years ago, Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's took the lead in opposing the practice.

High Court Refuses Appeal in "Ecstasy"

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The U. S. Supreme Court today rejected the appeal of Eureka Productions, Inc., from a decision of the District Court at New York upholding the right of the New York censors to deny a license for the public exhibition of "Ecstasy."

The company contested the state's position on the ground that refusal to grant a license for exhibition after importation of the film had been approved by the Federal authorities constituted an unlawful interference with foreign commerce.

pointed out that the American University conducts courses in documentary films. For the first time, Mercey said, a complete survey of all U. S. Government films is being made.

The meeting was opened this morning by S. K. Wolf, president of the S.M.P.E., followed by the reports of the convention, membership, papers and progress committees. The progress committee reported to the convention that the outstanding event in film technical development during the year was the high-speed panchromatic emulsions of the Agfa Ansco Corp. Also of importance was the development of two fine grain film stocks by Eastman Kodak, and a sound emulsion by DuPont. In the sound recording field, interesting developments included the introduction of linear decibel volume indicators by the United Artists studio and the introduction by RCA of the modulated high-frequency method of determining optimal processing conditions.

Taylor Treatsie Heard

During the morning session also, considerable interest was shown by the delegates in the paper of R. W. Carter of Taylor-Sloane Corp., New York, on "Motion Picture Projection from Metallic Films," in which the advantages and advances in the development of metallic film were discussed. Another paper was on "Sound Stages and Their Relation to Air Conditioning," by L. L. Lewis and C. M. Wert of the Carrier Corp., Syracuse.

Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce; William G. McAdoo, Senator from California, and Col. Daniel I. Sultan, Engineer Commissioner for the District of Columbia, were the chief speakers at an informal luncheon held in the hotel's Continental Room today. The general and business sessions of the convention are being conducted in the Little Theatre of the hotel.

Eight Pages Read

The formal papers sessions started this afternoon, the first devoted to the photographic and laboratory session, during which eight papers were read. Of greatest importance were two, one by L. A. Jones of Eastman Kodak on "The Determination of Correct Exposure in Photography," and the other by P. H. Arnold of Agfa Ansco Corp. on "Problems in the Use of Ultra Speed Negative Film." Jones pointed out that there is considerable confusion relative to the correct manner of dealing with the problem, and offered a simplified plan.

Other papers which occupied the attention of the delegates during the afternoon session today included: "Latent-Image Theory and Its Application to Low-Intensity Photographic Exposures," by W. J. Albersheim of Erpi, New York; "Effect of Aeration on the Photographic Properties of Developers," by J. I. Crabtree and C. H. Schwingel, Eastman Kodak; "Solution Agitation by Means of Compressed Air," by C. E. Ives and C. J. Kunz, Eastman Kodak; "Maintenance of a Developer by Continuous Replenishment," by R. M. Evans, Kodak Research Laboratories; "The Effect of pH Upon the Washing of Processed Films," by R. C. Houck, Kodak Research Laboratories, and "A New Densitometer," by H. Neumann of Berlin.

Coaxial Cable Described

The evening session in the Little Theatre, prior to the showing of pictures, was devoted to a lecture by H. E. Ives of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, on "The Transmission of Motion Pictures Over a Coaxial Cable." Ives described the transmission of motion pictures for a television system over the coaxial cable constructed for experimental work between New York and Philadelphia.

A session on color and another on sound will feature the convention's activities tomorrow.

CENTURY
FOX

Towering above all, the industry's first company looks forward to its greatest season,

1938-39

FOREWORD

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation, because of the high quality of its product and by virtue of its fair dealing with exhibitors, has become the company that exhibitors throughout the world look to as their first source of profit.

We are about to begin a new season. General business conditions are unsettled. In view of this, we could, with justice, trim our sails or even lower the negative investment in our coming pictures.

Instead, we have chosen the other road. To protect our customers in the season 1938-39, we have planned the most ambitious program in the history of this company. We have taken this stand firm in the belief that in these troublous times only the greatest pictures can insure to our customers and ourselves the greatest profit.

These pictures will be made, of course, under the supervision of Mr. Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production. It was no accident that the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences recently voted to Mr. Zanuck the Irving G. Thalberg Memorial Award for "the most consistent high quality of production achievement." While he has been producing the fine pictures which have carried the trademark of Twentieth Century-Fox to new heights, Mr. Zanuck also has built the finest organization of producers, writers, directors and technicians ever gathered within one studio's walls. All of this is insurance for quality.

On the following pages we list the pictures which we plan to release next season. Every one of these pictures is scheduled to surpass all previous Twentieth Century-Fox standards; but I wish particularly to call your attention to the large number of virile, dramatic subjects based on important themes.

In listing these pictures, we have purposely refrained from naming the casts. Our accounts know from experience that this company gives to its productions the best acting and the strongest box-office names available in the industry. Therefore, we prefer not to tie the hands of our studio by listing the casts months in advance of production but, on the other hand, to allow our producers every opportunity for putting into each picture the strongest box-office names that can be obtained at the moment of production.

We feel that leadership of an industry brings with it definite responsibility. This responsibility can best be discharged to our customers by offering to them the best line-up of pictures it is within our power to make.

SRKent

President, 20th Century-Fox Film Corp.

ALEXANDER'S RAGTIME BAND

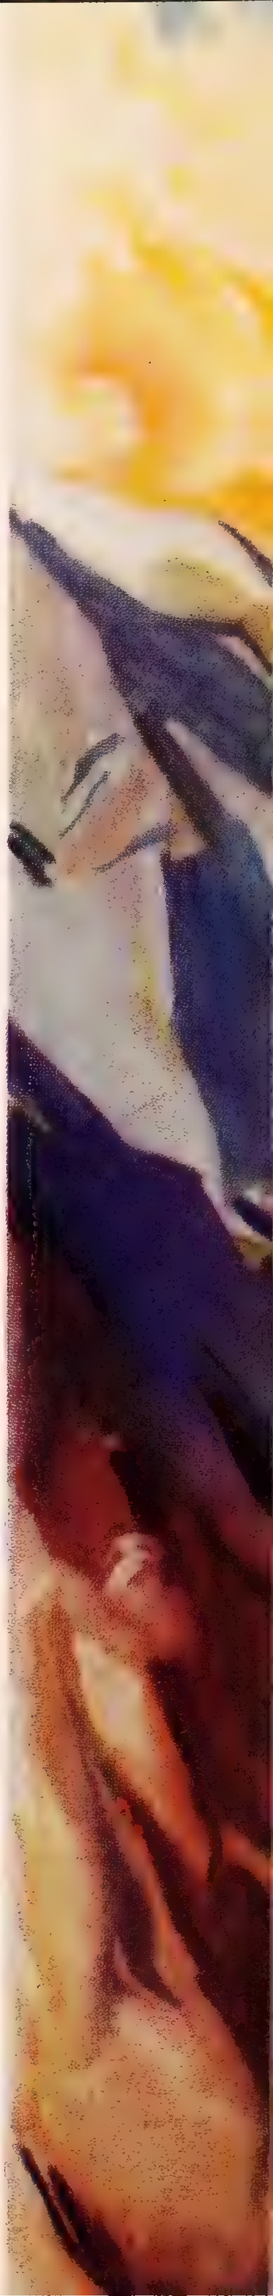
The dramatic cavalcade of a generation. 20th's first spectacular hit of the new season. A deeply stirring story sweeping through 25 exciting years . . . with three new Irving Berlin songs—probably the greatest he ever wrote —and some of his ever-remembered hits of the past. Because the picture already is in the cutting room, we give you the cast: TYRONE POWER, ALICE FAYE, DON AMECHE, Ethel Merman, Jack Haley, Jean Hersholt, Wally Vernon, Helen Westley, John Carradine, Douglas Fowley, Paul Hurst, Eddie Collins, Ruth Terry, Chick Chandler—and thousands of others. Directed by Henry King . . . directorial genius of "In Old Chicago."

SUEZ

The most elaborate, expensive and important picture 20th has ever made—with no exceptions. The amazing story of de Lesseps—great lover, great statesman, great engineer—and his struggle to build the Suez Canal, thrilling theme of current headlines. A struggle that pitted the might of nations against one another and created an empire. A picture that sweeps from glittering European courts and bizarre palaces of India's princes to the glaring sands of Africa's desert. A cast equal in importance to that of "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

DRUMS ALONG THE MOHAWK

From Walter Edmond's greatest story . . . first a Saturday Evening Post serial, then a novel that headed best-seller lists for over half a year—and sold more than half a million copies! Drama of the upper New York frontier during the Revolution . . . brilliantly alive with vivid, vigorous people caught in the sinister flame of fierce, barbaric war. And threaded through it a great romantic love. Epic in the highest sense of the word!



HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY

Tumultuous, romantic adventure unparalleled in all history. The gripping experiences of a giant French trader . . . cheated by a rascal of his own race . . . who went in revenge to England's king . . . wrested for him an empire in the Canadian wilderness . . . won the love of a noble lady and lost it through a friend's treachery. Every moment a-throb with savage forest conflict and surging emotional impact. Marked for the productional scope of 20th's very biggest!

KING OF THE KHYBER RIFLES

The celebrated novel by Talbot Mundy that sold over a million copies . . . which tells of the unrelenting rivalry in love and war of two officers . . . each determined to prove the superiority of his branch of the service against the hordes of fanatic tribesmen attacking vital Khyber Pass! The majesty of the Himalayas . . . and spectacular scenes of war . . . form a thrilling background for this tale of gallantry and romance.

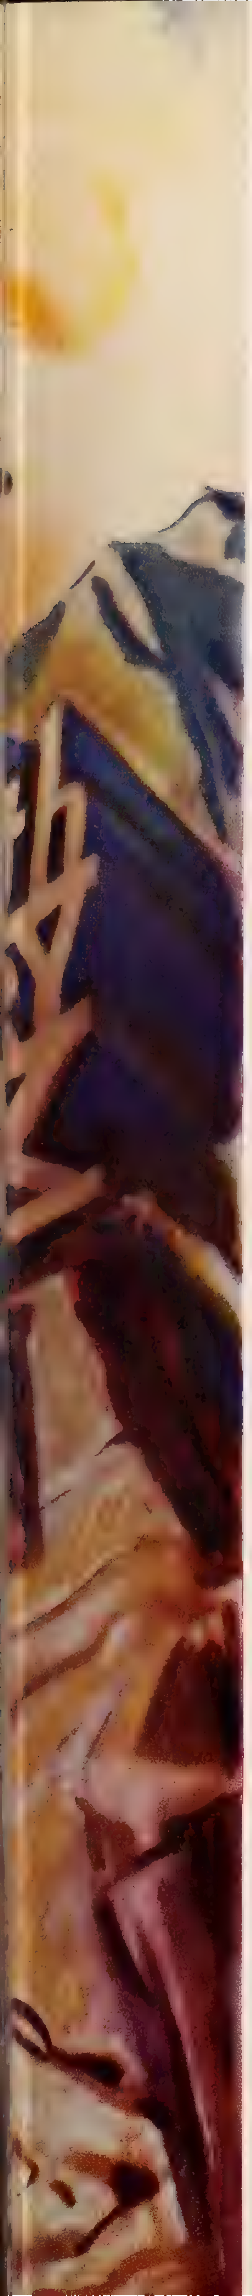
FOOTBALL MUSICAL COMEDY

(as yet untitled)

20th's mastery of that essential showmanship element, surprise, is never better exemplified than in its football pictures. Samples: "Pigskin Parade," "Life Begins in College." This year the lid will be off again. And, additionally, every player on the lot will be in the picture. To be released at the height of the football season. Watch for sensational announcements.

HE MARRIED HIS WIFE

The brightest, fastest-moving and most hilarious marriage-and-divorce comedy ever made. A dizzy whirl of male plots and female counter-plots with ten laughs for every kiss—and the kisses come thick and fast. Remember 20th's "Love Is News"!



STANLEY AND LIVINGSTONE

The absorbing story of the greatest newspaper correspondent that ever lived . . . climaxed by his amazing search in the heart of Africa for his boyhood benefactor, Dr. Livingstone . . . the astonishing and world-famous adventure, so powerful in its truth that fiction pales in comparison. Indicating the vast scope of this production, already more than two years in the making, an expedition of 23 people spent months in Africa filming scenes that will be but one sequence in the completed picture.

SPLINTER FLEET

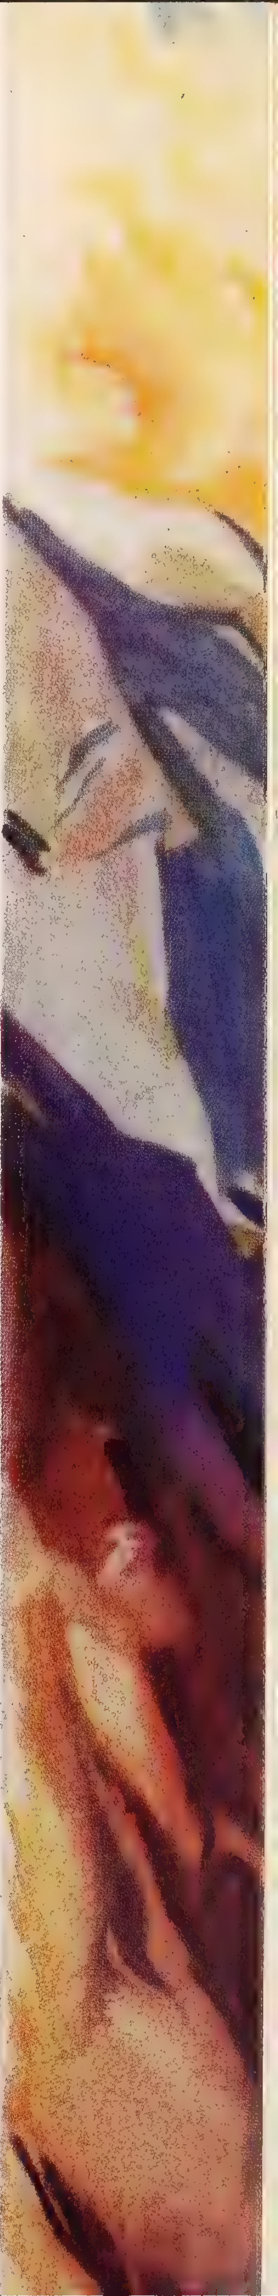
Heroic saga of an extraordinary chapter in the World War . . . told for the first time. Thrilling exploits of the fragile, tiny ships that were laughed to scorn but came to glory through the courage of men who had joined-up as a lark. A magnificent drama of love and duty . . . culminating in the most spectacular and unusual sea battle ever screened.

THE RAINS CAME

Louis Bromfield's sensational Cosmopolitan Magazine serial and new best-selling novel! Compelling drama of an Englishman who sought refuge from a forbidden love in a remote Far Eastern paradise. How his retreat was rudely invaded . . . how tragedy shattered its tropic calm . . . and how the woman who had caused his exile came within his reach . . . all this told with deep sincerity and vital force. 20th's plans call for a cast of top-rank importance!

ELLIS ISLAND

The first great film story of the last Gateway to Freedom —written from the inside. Throbbing drama of varied and colorful characters . . . their loves and schemes . . . hopes and dreams . . . as they await entrance to the Land of Liberty . . . mounting to one of the most emotional and fascinating climaxes!



Twentieth Century-Fox has introduced a new note to the American screen through the creation of the "Series" idea in pictures — a production plan which has been so successful that it is now the envy of the industry. The care and production values that have been built into each of these series have made them one of the surest-fire profit-makers today. Now 20th has decided to give you four additional series. These pictures will, in every way, measure up to the high standards set by Charlie Chan, the Jones Family and Mr. Moto.

3 CHARLIE CHAN PICTURES

with WARNER OLAND

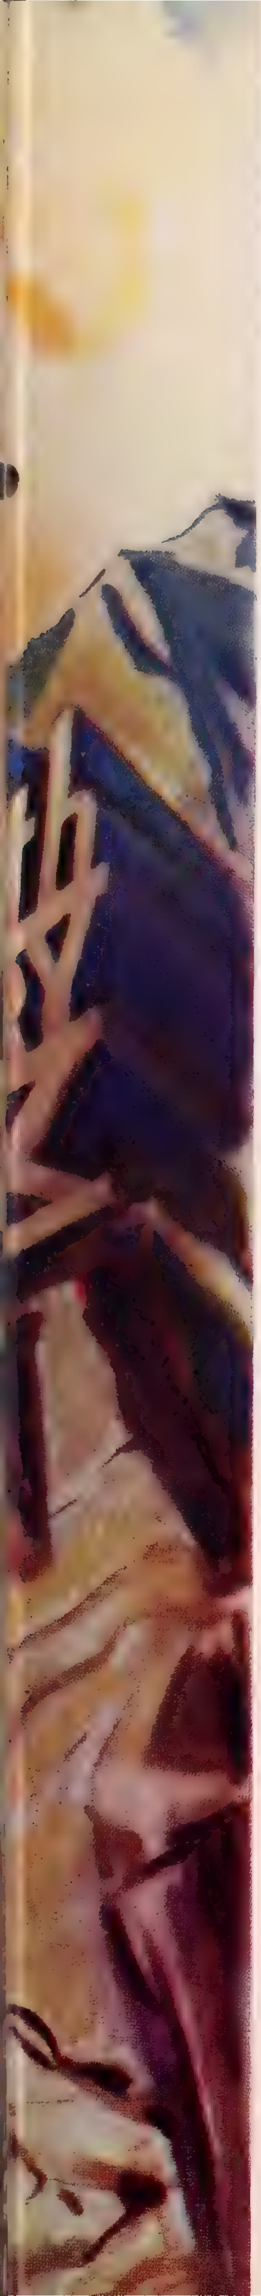
Three more opportunities to cash in on the thrilling adventures of the screen's most celebrated sleuth. A new series of even higher production standards than have marked these outstanding pictures.

4 JONES FAMILY

America's best-loved family becomes bigger boxoffice with every release . . . to such an extent, in fact, that many members of the "family" today have developed sufficient marquee draw to carry a picture individually. 20th plans to protect and enhance this drawing power during 1938-39 by even stronger story material.

3 MR. MOTO

The famous Saturday Evening Post detective, played by Peter Lorre, has already won an enviable and growing screen following. In line with 20th's expansion policy, these pictures will be given more important casts and production strength.



...and these are the new series...

Today, the four following series are just names to you. But 20th Century-Fox has definite and daring plans for each of them. By next year, each series will be as solidly profitable as the three so firmly established in popularity.

3 TRUE STORIES

3 SPORTS DRAMAS

3 MISS MODERN GIRL

4 ROMANTIC ADVENTURES

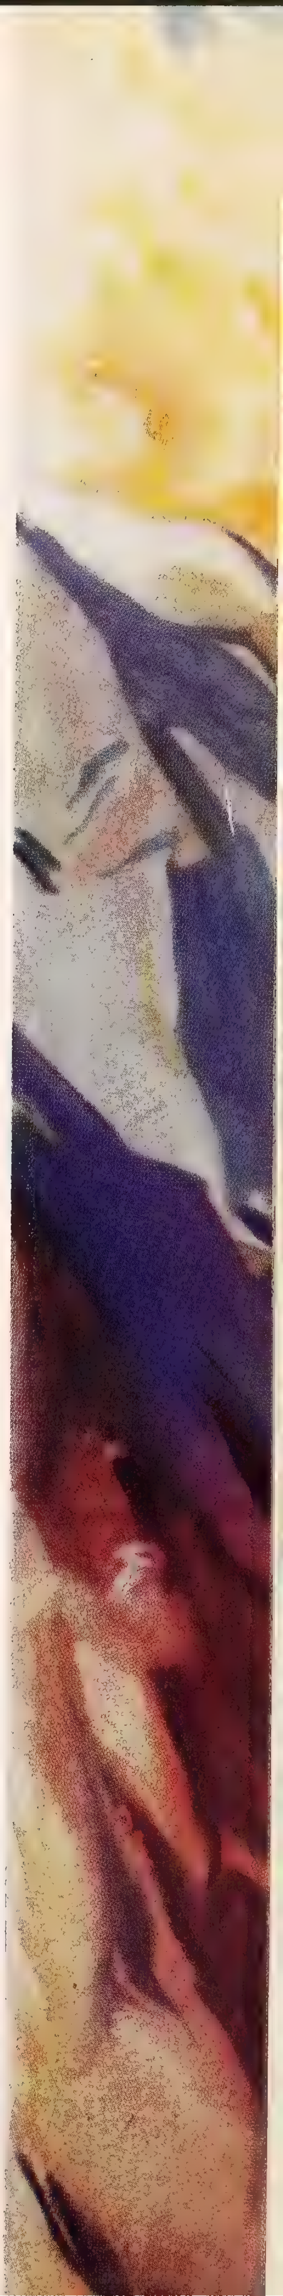
...Based on the life of a newsreel cameraman...

ACCENT ON LOVE

Rapid-fire, down-to-the-minute, comedy romance dramatized from Paul Hervey Fox's most recent novel, "Masterpiece." A hilarious expose of the fake antique racket . . . and a bright young man who decides love, too, can be faked! Richly mounted, happily cast . . . to make it one of the season's boxoffice high-spots!

SONG OF THE ISLANDS

In the land of the South Seas . . . abode of beautiful maidens . . . country of breath-taking moonlight nights and enraptured romance . . . occurs this fascinating drama inspired by the haunting song which is the greeting and farewell to all travelers to Hawaii. Truly an unusual picture . . . with every emotional mood heightened by melodies of the heart!



JESSE JAMES

In TECHNICOLOR. For the first time, the true, breathtaking story of this colorful figure reaches the screen. The law-abiding farmer who turned bandit and train robber because of the rapacity of land agents and the injustice of the law . . . who lost the one love of his life, and was finally betrayed by one of his own band for a bag of gold . . . but who first defied and terrorized a nation by the most daring and spectacular deeds in the annals of American crime. Photographed in the actual historic locales!

THE NIGHT BEFORE THE DIVORCE

What a title! And the story matches it in sock! When a smart young detective discovers that his wife, about to divorce him, is suspected of murder, things happen fast. Reno and smart dude ranches form the locale. What pictures need to get the women this has . . . and spelled SRO!

DANCE HALL

(tentative title)

The turbulent life of an amusement park . . . with its welter of shrewd, blatant, loving, fascinatingly vital people . . . and caught in their restless whirl, a humble piano player who dreams of fame. These, plus a dynamic musical score unique in pictures, mark this a truly exceptional entertainment!

The DIONNE QUINTUPLETS in a musical

FIVE OF A KIND

Your most successful producers of unusual musicals give you something sensationally different! What 20th has up its sleeves for the Quins to do—now that they're full-fledged entertainers—is showmanship triple-plus. A typical 20th top-musical cast, of course. We have scheduled it for one of your biggest!

SONJA HENIE

in two of her greatest

THEY MET IN COLLEGE

The incomparable Sonja in a new—an American, down-to-earth—setting, giving her every opportunity to wear a wealth of smart clothes, surrounding her with young collegians . . . as a sub-rosa model for a big department store in a famous co-ed university. Skating? . . . the best! Romance? . . . by the bus-load! Tunes? . . . more than ever! Boxoffice? You tell us!

AND ONE MORE SONJA HENIE HIT

in one laugh smash

(title to come)

Eddie's most hilarious and by far most original role! . . . Eddie wins a contest as "The Average Man" but in doing so becomes a human guinea pig . . . with spies watching every intimate detail of his life. A screaming situation . . . and what Eddie does with it makes laugh history. Spectacularly produced . . . with a flock of beautiful gals . . . a whopping all-star cast of swingsters, funsters . . . and the grandest songs that ever topped a Hit Parade!

4 JANE WITHERS

Bigger and more important than any Withers pictures ever made, each of these pictures will reflect the increased production values with which 20th Century-Fox will surround this dynamic "First Ten" star. Chosen with the utmost care, the stories are designed to give added impetus to Jane's ever-increasing popularity.

KENTUCKY

In TECHNICOLOR. The sensationally popular story by John Taintor Foote—first a Saturday Evening Post serial . . . currently a novel which has run through more than a dozen editions. The epic of the American thoroughbred . . . heart-warming, powerful, thrilling. The bitter rivalry between two great families of horse-breeders . . . that began in the stormy days of '61 and intensified through the years. With a smashing climax that is one of the greatest ever depicted on the screen. Imagine—in glorious color—the world-famed Kentucky Derby . . . and the matchless beauty and glory of the historic Blue Grass country.

THE LIFE OF ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL

(tentative title)

The astounding, real-life romance of the man who gave the world the telephone and wrote one of history's most stirring chapters. Behind the instrument at your elbow is one of the great human dramas of mankind . . . the story of a scientist beginning in obscurity . . . his discouraging struggles . . . his proud invention of the telephone . . . his battle against public ridicule . . . his hopeless fight against great companies . . . with only the girl he loved to spur him on. Inspiring for its courage and emotional power. One of the "greats" of the season. Exploitation possibilities—limitless!

FALLING STAR

Written by Richard Sherman, author of "To Mary—With Love," this is the most daring and soul-searing story ever written about Hollywood. The experiences of a Hollywood star who, mistakenly, is believed to have been killed . . . and the things he then learns about himself, his friends, and the women who fawned on him. A role to tax the talents of the most brilliant star. 20th will cast it accordingly.

THE RITZ BROTHERS

. . . in three masterpieces of musical goofery!

STRAIGHT, PLACE AND SHOW

From "Saratoga Chips," the new racing play by Damon Runyon and Irving Caesar. A new high in nonsensicality for the rollicking Ritzes. They back horses, buy horses, rent horses . . . in this mad scramble of horseplay and horse-laughs. A boxoffice sweepstakes for you!

(tentative title)

Frederick Stephani's new story of a European princess seeing America incognito . . . which gets her into a mess of trouble! And then she meets three helpful singing waiters (Guess who!) From then on the Ritzes take charge . . . and the lid is off on the roaringest riot of laughs yet!

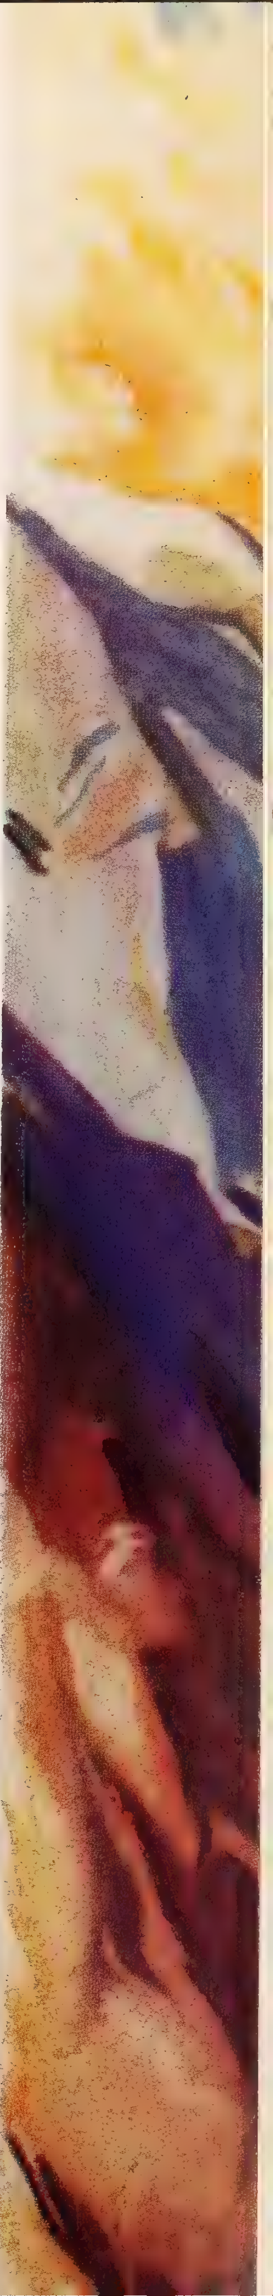
THE THREE MUSKETEERS

When Alexandre Dumas wrote this, Alex wasn't thinking of the Ritz Brothers! But the Ritz Brothers were thinking about him. They're always thinking about their author . . . and matching to see who plays what! But it's your audiences that win! And when these three kings of nit-wittery go to town as Dumas' swashbuckling heroes . . . well, boys, start thinking about hold-overs!



SHIRLEY TEMPLE

in three boxoffice champions—two of them musical, the third dramatic—all with outstanding casts.

LUCKY PENNY

A story of today that makes its heart-aches seem like all the fun in the world . . . when a little girl turns her father's upside-down life right side up . . . just because she thinks the man in the pent-house upstairs is Uncle Sam with the famous chin-whiskers. A picture with joyous lift . . . glorious rhythms . . . sparkling new dance numbers . . . and the world's No. 1 star!

SUSANNAH of the MOUNTIES

From Muriel Denison's internationally famous book. The most compellingly thrilling and action-ful story in which Shirley has appeared . . . leavened with fine romance and spiced with delightful comedy. Dancing specialties and musical hits round it out into one of Shirley's most thoroughly entertaining hits.

LITTLE PRINCESS

Frances Hodgson Burnett's immortal story of childhood . . . unforgettable for its pathos, sincerity and understanding. The story of a little American girl, suddenly orphaned in London, and her strange and wonderful experiences. For its ability to capture hearts of all ages, this will be hailed as Shirley's best.

Bulkley Will Seek 50c Tax Exemption

By SHERWIN A. KANE

CINCINNATI, April 25.—U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley told the Variety Club banquet last night that he was willing to make another effort to get Congressional approval of an admission tax exemption of 50 cents instead of the present 40 cents.

"I fully understand your problem," he said, "and I was a most sympathetic member of the Senate committee which heard the admission tax exemption plea at this session."

Bulkley is a candidate for renomination in the Ohio primaries next month.

Chief Barker John Harris reported the total of pledges of all tents for charity work during 1937 was $187,000 for charity, and that this sum had increased to $212,000 for 1938. The funds are used to buy milk for underprivileged children, to care for adopted orphans, to entertain shut-ins, to furnish Thanksgiving and Christmas food baskets, and in general to aid needy cases.

Baltimore Tent Cited

Harris mentioned the formation of a new Baltimore tent during the year and said he expected one would be formed in Chicago this year.

Tributes to the work of the organization were paid by U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky; Gov. Martin L. Davey, former Governor White, Mayor James Stewart of Cincinnati, and former Governor Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey. Others at the speakers' table were Hugh Herbert, Ned E. Depinet, W. F. Rodgers, U. S. District Judge John Druffle, Councilman Russell Wilson, Sam Dembow and George Dembow, Ed Kuykendall, Rev. Harold J. Weaver, Rev. Letus A. Miller, Major L. E. Thompson, M. R. Clarke and Allan Moritz.

The charter of the Des Moines tent was revoked for arrearages in dues.

Officers Reelected

All national officers were reelected as follows: John H. Harris, Pittsburgh, national chief barker; M. R. "Duke" Clark, Columbus, first assistant; John J. Maloney, Pittsburgh, second assistant; James G. Balmer, national dough guy; Frank Drew, Cleveland, property master. Canvassmen unanimously reelected and the tents they represent are: J. T. McGreevey, Pittsburgh, No. 1; Allan S. Moritz, Cincinnati, Tent No. 3, Ray Colvin, St. Louis, Tent No. 4; H. M. Richey, Detroit, Tent No. 5; M. B. Horwitz, Cleveland, Tent No. 6; Jacob Lavene, Buffalo, Tent No. 7; R. R. Biechele, Kansas City, Tent No. 8; J. Louis Rome, Baltimore, Tent No. 9; Marc J. Wolf, Indianapolis Tent No. 10; A. J. Brylawski, Washington, Tent No. 11; W. A. Steffes, Minneapolis, Tent No. 12; Earle W. Sweigert, Philadelphia, Tent No. 13; Charles W. Trampe, Milwaukee, Tent No. 14; Harry J. Shunow, Omaha, Tent No. 15; R. J. O'Donnell, Dallas, Tent No. 16; Roy Wells, Dayton, Tent No. 17. Columbus will not be represented on the board, because M. R. Clark has been the only chief barker of that tent, and now is serving as a national officer.

Detroit was selected for the 1939 national convention, winning over Cleveland.

Buys Own Passes

Cincinnati, April 25.—One of the big laughs of the national Variety Club convention was provided by Harry J. Shumow, delegate from Omaha, Tent No. 16, in his story of raising funds for charity through solicitation of prizes from local businessmen, which donations subsequently were auctioned off "blind." One exhibitor, whose name was not disclosed, bought a package at his bid of $11, which he found contained 20 passes to his own theatre.

RKO May Shift at K. C.

KANSAS CITY, April 25.—That RKO might use the Orpheum, which has been closed two years, and close the Mainstreet is considered a possibility unless the theatre circuit and owners of the ground beneath the Mainstreet can get together on the former's request for a reduced ground rental. The Mainstreet has not been profitable for RKO for several years. The Orpheum, almost 25 years old, originally was a vaudeville house, but has been used for pictures.

RKO Hearing Again Postponed to May 16

proval of the continued delay and asked "for some kind of plan which I can approve." Richard Jones of Simpson, Thacher and Bartlett, attorneys for Atlas Corp., proponent of the plan, reported that "progress was being made" but refused to fix a definite date when an amended plan would be ready. When pressed by the court to reveal details of the conferences, Jones stated that creditors were nearer agreement than at the last hearing, "but it is very difficult to say how much closer."

In the interests of speed, Jones revealed, only the larger creditor interests are being consulted at present. Stockholders and smaller creditors have not been invited to conferences. Nathan Rosenberg, attorned for H. Cassell & Co., stockholders who hold $200,000 in bonds, objected to the delay. Judge Bondy, however, pointed out that Rosenberg had promised to submit a brief favoring immediate liquidation of the debtor's assets but had failed to do so. Rosenberg stated that he had been waiting for a new plan to be submitted and promised to submit the brief within the next two weeks.

Committee Called "Dormant"

He attacked the present bondholders' committee as dormant and asked for leave to intervene in the proceedings. His petition was denied, but Judge Bondy ordered that notice of all proceedings in the litigation be given him.

A motion on behalf of Ernest W. Stirn of Milwaukee, a Class A stockholder, for permission to inspect voting proxies used at the 1931 reorganization meeting was withdrawn after extended argument. The motion will be renewed at a later hearing.

William Saltiel, Stirn's attorney, charged that the reorganization which reclassified RKO common stock was illegal because the required two-thirds vote was lacking. Jones contended, however, that seven years had elapsed since the vote and that Stirn had delayed too long.

Silverstone Is Slated as UA General M'gr.

by the five stock-owning partners equally, it was said by Samuel Goldwyn and Mary Pickford on their arrival yesterday from London on the Queen Mary.

Distribution costs charged by the company against the producers will remain 25 per cent in the United States but will be reduced from 30 to 25 per cent for Great Britain, Goldwyn said.

Those are the chief points of the agreement reached by the stockholders in the recent conferences in London, as disclosed by the returning principals. The 50 per cent "kick back" to the active producers as well as the lowered distribution charge for British distribution were declared as having overcome the dissatisfaction felt by Korda and Goldwyn and as having obtained the approval of everyone concerned.

Retroactive to Jan. 1

The new arrangement is retroactive to the first of this year and will be put into contract form by the company's directors, who include the stockholders, among others. A board meeting is scheduled for today.

In the party arriving from London were Maurice Silverstone, head of United Artists in Britain; David Rose, vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., and Goldwyn's financial adviser, and Edward Raftery, attorney for U.A. They attended the meetings with Goldwyn, Miss Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Alexander Korda and his financial representatives, at which details of the reorganized setup were agreed upon.

The A.U. directors are to decide on phases of management, according to Korda, who said yesterday that there are "many problems of management" to be ironed out in order to maintain successful executive operation of the company. He hinted that these problems are an outgrowth of the "strife within the company," a matter of concern for several months.

The differences among the partners have been composed, however, Korda declared. Similar declarations were made by Goldwyn and Miss Pickford.

"United Artists is now definitely united," was the way Goldwyn put it.

He said that under the new setup the company would "make more money" and that independent production would be given a decided stimulus.

Seek New Producers

Goldwyn indicated that the revised profit-sharing arrangement—referred to by the partners as "the kick back" —was intended to attract additional producers to the U.A. fold and that this, plus the lowered distribution costs in the United Kingdom, were designed to "encourage British production," intimating that Korda's contributions to the company's program would be more important than in the past.

"We in America have to depend on the British market," he said. "In the case of my own pictures, England represents 40 per cent of the total revenue."

Under the new arrangement, the company plans expansion of production, even to the extent of financing new producers, Silverstone said. This would be similar to the backing given Walter Wanger. Miss Pickford said U.A. has a 50 per cent interest in Wanger's unit. With this one exception, the company heretofore has not financed its producers, as a matter of policy.

Miss Pickford said that the reorganization was intended to bring about a larger number of films for U.A. release, which would eliminate the periodic slack experienced during previous seasons. "We might as well have more pictures since the overhead goes on just the same," she said.

A. H. Giannini, president of U.A., has been negotiating with prospective additional producers, she said, and indicated that several prominent ones are eager to join the company. She was unwilling to name any specifically. Dr. Giannini will remain on the coast while meetings are in progress here.

Asked whether Ernst Lubitsch may affiliate with U.A., she said that "he has had his eye on U.A. for a long time and would like to join us." Lubitsch has terminated his affiliation with Paramount.

Goldwyn plans to leave for the coast on Thursday, and the necessary papers probably will be signed before his departure. Miss Pickford said she would remain here until May 15.

Goldwyn Sees Big Market

Referring to the company's expanded "open door" arrangement, Goldwyn said that the next year will see "more independent production and a greater market for it than ever before." He qualified that assertion by saying that the market will be available for "the better product."

Goldwyn said that the stockholders gave a formal vote of confidence to Oscar Deutsch for his management of the Odeon circuit, which comprises 340 theatres and in which U.A. has a 50 per cent interest.

He refused to discuss prospects for a continued affiliation with U.A. by David O. Selznick beyond his present contract, indicating that nothing has been agreed upon. It was said, however, that in view of the new arrangements, Selznick may increase his present commitment and that this may be from two to four more pictures than he delivered to U.A. last year. Apart from this possible increase, Selznick will fulfill his existing contract by delivering two films.

Getting Better

Samuel Goldwyn is convinced that a European film invasion is something to guard against. During a discussion yesterday of the strides made by the British studios, he said: "Hollywood had better make good pictures, for the British are coming. Also the French."

U. A. Buys Interest In Italian Company

Expansion of United Artists on the continent was disclosed by Maurice Silverstone, the company's managing director in London, when he arrived yesterday on the Queen Mary. He said U. A. had purchased a substantial interest in Artisti Associati of Rome which will make three Italian films and two in French at a cost of $100,000 each.

The films will be distributed in countries where those languages are understood and are not intended for the United States.

U. A. distributed 30 films in Great Britain during last year, Silverstone said, these including 17 made in England and 13 in America. The company's European program also included four French films, and Belgian, one Czechoslovakian and one Dutch.

Associated British Seeking Films Here

Associated British Film Distributors is in the market for additional American product for release overseas, it was said yesterday by Ben Henry, general manager of the company, on his arrival on the Queen Mary. The company distributes Grand National product. Henry said G. N. is delivering 30 films for Great Britain during the current season.

He said he would remain here 10 days for conferences with Jack Barnstyn, G. N. foreign head, and may go to Hollywood to discuss matters with Edward Alperson and Ed. Peskay, G. N. executives.

Another arrival was Gerald Savery, playwright, who is scheduled to leave for Hollywood today. He is under contract to M-G-M. M. A. Schlesinger, president of General Talking Pictures, returned from several weeks of conferences in London.

Korda Here Since Thursday, He Say

making a statement in advance of t arrival of Samuel Goldwyn, Ma Pickford and the others. That deta of his departure were kept secret, w indicated by the fact that in a co versation with Goldwyn over t hotel's house phone, he informed that he took a plane from Lon to Gibraltar and there boarded t Roma.

Korda said he came over to atter the directors' meetings at which t new profit participation plan and di tribution arrangement will be ratifie He said the trip also was in the n ture of a vacation. When he w here early last winter, he said, h time was taken up by continuous co ferences and he had no time to res On that trip he was here almost thre months, returning early in January.

The revised U.A. charges, he sai will amount to about 25 per cent f worldwide distribution. He said h probably would make eight pictur for the coming season for releas here, at a total cost of $8,000,00 All the pictures, he said, definitel would be in the "A" class and woul get his own attention.

Korda was distressed about the r duced box-office grosses in this cour try and said that British film attend ance has increased from 10 to 12 pe cent over last year. He estimate U.A's revenue in England as 35 pe cent of the total.

Compliments British

The industry in England is becom ing more substantial, with the "ad venturers" eliminated, he said. I would be a "rash thing" to try t bury the British industry, he said, an gave the opinion that the new quot law will be a "good thing" inasmuc as it can be expected to improve th quality of films made there.

He said that Miss Pickford plan to make "The Bat" at the Denhan studios this summer, although thi was not definite. Miss Pickford tol reporters at the pier that she plan to make a film in England that woul star Buddy Rogers, her husband.

Korda said he plans to discuss possible deal with Irving Asher, for mer British production head for War ners, before the latter returns t England. "I would like to hav Asher," he said.

Asher returned yesterday from th coast where he discussed possibl affiliations with British studios o American companies. He said he ha planned to sail tomorrow on the Il de France but probably would defe his return. He talked with Kord about an affiliation before leaving England recently, he said, but nothing had shaped up definitely.

Tripp Calls on Publishers To Fight Film Advertising

Frank E. Tripp, one-time showman, now general manager for the powerful chain of 18 Gannett newspapers, called upon 250 fellow publishers yesterday for concerted action against threatened invasion of the screen by advertising agencies.

Half the attendance of the American Newspaper Publishers Association was present in the Waldorf-Astoria when Tripp characterized publishers as "suckers" who had been permitting advertising to be diverted from natural publishing media to the screen whose function, he said, is selling entertainment, not advertising or propaganda.

He cited figures to show that 21 national advertising agencies bought $5,000,000 worth of advertising on the screen in 1937, and quoted futures when he said agencies were planinng to spend $10,000,000 in 1938 and $15,000,000 in 1939 for film advertising.

"The question the press must decide might better be entirely apart from the competitive angle involved, considering first the newspaper's duty

Kusell Takes Over New Para. District

Milton Kusell

Milton S. Kusell, Paramount district manager for New York State and New Jersey, yesterday was also placed in charge of the Philadelphia and Washington district by J. J. Unger, eastern and southern division manager.

The consolidation of the Philadelphia and Washington district with Kusell's former district, comprising the territories of New York, Brooklyn, New Jersey, Albany and Buffalo, follows upon the recent resignation of Percy A. Bloch from the Philadelphia-Washington post. Kusell will continued to make his headquarters in New York.

"The Adventures of Robin Hood"

[Warners]

A dashing, spectacular romance of high adventure in the England of long ago, sweepingly imaginative and combining beautiful color effects with production values of the highest order, "The Adventures of Robin Hood" offers a rare showmanship opportunity.

Perhaps the most impressive factor of the picture is its "bigness." It is, strictly speaking, a physical "bigness." The story is essentially simple, familiar to every school child in the world, that of the beloved brigand, who defends the poor against oppression, makes himself an outlaw to bring right from wrong, robs from the brutal rich to succor the starving and beaten poor. In that sense, the story itself has all the elements which go to inspire the sympathy of audiences.

Much credit must go to Norman Reilly Raine and Seton I. Miller for the manner in which they have woven a richly adventurous yarn about the memorable legends of Robin Hood in Sherwood Forest, and to

Silverstone Is Named to New UA Post

Chairman of Executive Committee Is Title

Maurice Silverstone, managing director of the United Artists British organization, was appointed chairman of the executive committee of United Artists Corp., the parent company, at a meeting of the board of directors here yesterday.

The formation of an executive committee of the company—none has existed before, according to a United Artists official—presages the establishment in New York of the executive functions of the company, the suspension of the Hollywood executive offices and the ultimate retirement of Dr. A. H. Giannini, now president of the parent company, who maintains headquarters on the west coast. These developments were predicted by Motion Picture Daily yesterday.

Giannini is not attending the meetings here and was not made a member of the newly formed executive committee. Silverstone will leave for Hollywood within the next day or two to confer with Giannini, whose con-

Michael Curtiz and William Keighley for direction which has served to combine the elements of which the story is made and the technical facilities at their command, with full advantage taken of the color technique, to present a powerful piece of box-office merchandise.

The cast is strong in name value, and each one performs admirably, wholly in keeping with the characters as they long have been known. Errol Flynn has captured ably the dashing recklessness of Robin Hood, who gave up a noble's place to fight for his absent King Richard the Lion Hearted, with a warm feeling for those he is protecting. Basil Rathbone is more than properly sinister as the leading henchman of the treacherous Prince John, played by Claude Rains, who would ursurp the throne of his brother, while Olivia De Havilland is excellent as Marion, with whom Robin Hood is in love. Alan Hale as Little John, Eugene Pallette as Friar Tuck, Ian Hunter as King Richard, Una O'Connor as Marion's maid, and Herbert Mundin as the willing aide of Robin Hood all offer fine characterizations.

The outdoor sets in many cases will stir audiences to murmurs of admiration, and the picture is highlighted by such examples as the archery contest, the scenes in the great castle halls, the ambushes in the forest, the rescue of Robin from the gallows, and the restoration of King Richard.

ramatists — Play Bureau Make Peace

he Bureau of New Plays, an gency for the discovery and assis nce of new playwriting talent, which as formed under the sponsorship of ajor film companies following their jection of the Dramatists Guild con act three years ago and their andonment of Broadway play fi ncing, made peace yesterday with Dramatists Guild.

he truce does not signify a return stage play financing or stage pro cing by the motion picture com nies, however, it was stated on good thority. The guild last fall let it known that playwrights discovered the Bureau of New Plays would barred from full membership in the ild if they permitted their plays to produced under any form of drama sts' contract other than the guild's. nder the peace terms between the ild and bureau, the latter agrees to andon its options and contracts for e services of the new playwrighting lent, thus leaving the way open for ch playwrights to make contracts ith producers who will use the ild's form.

As a result of the agreement, film mpanies sponsoring the bureau ap rently will have no direct tie-in th the plays created or discovered rough its activities. Those plays ll be produced in the usual manner, art from motion picture company onsorship, and, in order to obtain e film rights to such plays, motion cture companies will be obliged to d for them in the open market as ey would for any other Broadway oduction.

New York Previews

"The Patient in Room 18"

(First National)

Bobby Connolly of dance fame had a hand in the direction of this film. Assisted by Crane Wilbur, he fashioned a clever and entertaining mystery yarn that should give expectant audiences what they desire in the way of gasps, romance and laughs. The performers were drawn from the younger roster of Warner players for the most part and they refreshingly do right by their roles.

Patric Knowles, a private sleuth, is recovering from the disappointment of haphazard deductions when the story gets going. But another series of problems is dumped into his lap a short while after he checks into a sanitarium for a rest. During a stormy night a patient is murdered and radium worth $100,000 is stolen. Later a watchman is killed and a few others are done away with. Clues point at various suspects. Divergent affairs are brought to light. The police come in and begin to get annoyed with Knowles and his ideas. Later, with his career at stake, Knowles arranges a meeting with all the suspects present. The culprit is drawn out and later finished off in proper style when he pulls a gun. Knowles goes back to bed under the ministrations of Nurse Ann Sheridan.

The story moves smartly and has all the necessary mystery angles. The cast includes Eric Stanley, John Ridgely, Rosella Towne, Jean Benedict, Harland Tucker, Cliff Clark and Edward McWade.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Moonlight Sonata"

(Malmar)

This picture was made a year or more ago by Lothar Mendes in England for Pall Mall Productions, Ltd. It has been taken over for distribution by Malmar Pictures. Somebody should have taken it over sooner, because exhibitors have been missing a production of exceptional beauty and wide appeal.

It stars Ignace Jan Paderewski. That may be a handicap in the minds of some exhibitors, because he is an old man, but if they see it they will discover that this extraordinary, musician-statesman is also an excellent actor whose personality and talents have been blended into a love story that will stir the emotions of two types of audiences—that general section of the public which craves romance on the screen and devotees of high class music.

The story opens with a concert in which Paderewski plays Chopin's A Flat Major—Opus 53 and Frank Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody. By intermingling shots of the audience, closeups of Paderewski's hands and his facial emotions new interest is lent to his artistry. From there on the story is well-knit and sumptuously staged, with Charles Farrell, Marie Tempest and Barbara Green carrying the principal interest. In its development Paderewski plays his Minuet in G Major and Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata. This last, with the incidental action, brought tears to a projection room audience.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Doctors interested in "The Birth of a Baby" protested the Empress showings.

Short Subjects

"Billy Rose's Casa Manana Revue"

(M-G-M)

This is a large scale filming of the impresario's Texas Centennial show with a few acts from the New York restaurant. The whole is strung along the frame of a slight plot that involves two performers and their marital squabbles. Harriet Hoctor dances. Big sets and much movement by trained dancers and some fine ensemble numbers make up most of the activity. The individual turns are generally above the general run. It should be put over easily. Running time, 21 mins. "G."

'Beautiful But Dummies'

Another Tom Patricola-Buster West opus that depends for its laughs on a series of standard comedy forms. However, they are not lacking in a certain brand of humor that has its devotees. The boys make merry with a clothes dummy in a gown shop and ultimately wind up in the jug. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

"Dear Old Dad"

(Vitaphone)

Floyd Gibbons offers sentimental melodrama in his latest "True Adventure" subject. This story concerns an old man who loses his memory. His children just about give up the search for him but at the dramatic last moment the situation is cleared. It is particularly well acted. Running time, 12 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 48"

(Universal)

More oddities that should serve the dual purpose of entertaining and enlightening. The material is well-scattered geographically and is equally diversified. Running time, 9 mins "G."

Neely Bill Analysis Made by Hays Office

An analysis of the Neely Bill, presenting the opposition to the measure of the member companies of the M.P.P.D.A., was completed yesterday and forwarded to members of the Senate and other interested officials.

The printed brief is in 34 pages and covers the field of objections, publicized earlier in the trade press, which have been advanced from time to time within the industry. Among the points in opposition to the measure which are discussed at length in the brief are those involving exhibitor liability under the measure, the practical difficulties of solving the blind buying problem, fallacies of definitions in the Neely Bill itself, the burdens it would impose on American distributors in their commerce with foreign countries, the measure's inclusion of a voided Federal Trade Commission order and phases of the bill which may be unconstitutional.

The brief also urges the incompleteness of the original public hearings on the bill and the necessity for new public hearings before Congressional action is taken on the measure.

Furber's Salary Up, SEC Report States

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Salary of Percival E. Furber, president of Trans-Lux Corp., elected Jan. 1, 1937, at a salary of $15,000 a year, was increased to $20,000 by vote of the board of directors, as of Jan. 1, it was disclosed by the annual report of the company filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission today.

With his directors' fees, Furber received $15,400 during the year, it was reported. Other salaries reported were $16,320 to Percy N. Furber, chairman of the board, and $13,158 to Leslie E. Thompson, president of a subsidiary.

The report showed that there were outstanding options on 10,000 shares of common stock to George H. Robinson and 10,000 shares to Harold P. Farrington, at $4 per share, "for valuable services," good during the period of their service with the company, but not for more than two years from June 25, 1936.

The financial statement of the company, previously made public, showed it had a net income in 1937 of $211,909.66.

Senate-House Agree On Tax Compromises

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The tax conference committee today completed its work on the Administration's tax revision bill and will submit it to the Senate tomorrow in the hope that the measure may be finally enacted and sent to the White House before the end of the week.

In compromising the differences between the House and Senate, the committee retained in the bill the Senate amendment providing that the admission tax on legitimate theatre tickets should be based upon the actual selling price rather than the price as printed thereon as at present.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 65
(20th Century-Fox)

This issue stands out as varied and interesting. Many famous figures are seen. Much geographical ground is covered and the balance of sport, international affairs, dramatic pictorial news, religion and Lew Lehr is kept on a diverting level.

The British freighter City of Salisbury is seen broken in two in Boston harbor. Lord Perth and Count Ciano sign the Anglo-Italian friendship treaty. Saugus, Cal., contributes scenes of a rodeo that are novel. The King and Queen of England observe army maneuvers at Aldershot. Pope Pius XI presides at benediction services in Rome. Backgrounded by interesting cypress trees at Del Monte, Cal., girls of the Douglas School give a display of horsemanship and fencing. A religious observance in Jerusalem ends in a riot.

Francis Warren Pershing and his bride are seen at St. Thomas Church and departing on a globe-circling flying trip. Lew Lehr has excellent material with a cageful of monkeys who go in for swimming. Sport offers Kentucky Derby entrants and a track meet at Lawrence, Kan. Running time, 9 mins. P.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 263
(M-G-M)

The page one news of the past few days still holds interest in pictorial form. This issue interestingly combines a series of events which do not suffer much due to their dated quality. Included is a standby thriller—an automobile race in which a car crashes off the track. There are also some new ideas in hill-climbing with motorcycles, more successful than the ordinary attempts.

The City of Salisbury breaking up on Graves Reef off Boston opens the reel. Pope Pius makes a rare appearance at St. Peter's Church. England and Italy sign their Mediterranean agreement. King George and Queen Elizabeth watch military maneuvers at Aldershot. Rescue work and tearful families are seen at Keen Mount, Va., where a mine blast took 45 lives. Michel Doret stunts a glider over Pau, France. Vice-President Garner gives unrestrained vent to his delight when Miss Charleston of 1938 kisses him. General Pershing's son, Francis Warren, is married to Muriel Bache Richards at St. Thomas' Church. A ballet rehearses on the site of the World's Fair with much "art." Sporting life, in addition to auto-racing and motorcycle hill-climbing, offers Archie San Romani beating Glenn Cunningham, and other kindred activities in a track meet at Lawrence, Kan. Running time, 9 mins. P.

Paramount News
No. 76
(Paramount)

Here is an assemblage of news events on a par with the general run of midweek news. The material is diversified and interesting.

A British freighter with a cargo of animals goes aground and breaks up off Boston. Vice-President Garner visits an azalea festival at Charleston, S. C. Mint officials in Washington pick the new design for the nickel. Felix Schlag is seen in Chicago with the $1,000 prize-winning model. General Pershing attends the nuptials of his son at St. Thomas Church. In Grundy, W. Va., 45 men die in a mine blast. A French airman puts a glider through a number of spectacular stunts at Pau, France. The baseball season makes its debut and Joe Di Maggio signs with Col. Ruppert. Dizzy Dean pitches a shut-out in Chicago and, in another vein, San Romano noses out Glenn Cunningham in a Kansas track meet. Running time, 9 mins. A.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 80
(RKO)

An interesting combination of action and human interest material makes up this issue. The two action numbers are a rowing race between Columbia and the Navy on the Harlem and the Kansas track meet. Both are high class jobs of photography and commenting.

Closeups of waiting relatives and friends as bodies are brought to the surface in the southern mine disaster which cost 45 lives convey a strong impression of tragedy and suffering. To take advantage of Oliva Dionne's latest suit against the quintuplets' guardians shots of Dr. Dafoe, the home of the children, and the guardians' ledger are presented.

General Pershing's arrival at St. Thomas Church for the wedding of his son is a highlight. A baseball game played by blind men with board walks along the base lines and a bell in the ball is exceptionally interesting.

Three other subjects including the dynamiting of hundreds of tree stumps to make an airport in the state of Washington, the signing of the British-Italian pact, and the new Jefferson nickel model. Running time, 9 mins. J.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 661
(Universal)

By crowding 13 subjects into nine minutes of running time, the editors achieved a conciseness that is frequently lacking in newsreels. This issue moves at a fast clip, which is always a virtue.

Outstanding are the shenanigans by Mayor LaGuardia, who plays cowboy for a day at Guthrie, Okla.; the clip of the huge throng in Rome gathered to receive the Pope's Easter Day benediction; Vice-President Garner cutting up at Charleston's Azalea festival, and, as a novelty, a blind men's baseball game.

The balance contains items of current interest, including the West Point dress parade, General Pershing amid the fanfare of his son's wedding, the signing of the Anglo-Italian pact in Rome, the disastrous mine explosion at Hangar, Va., British freighter aground at Boston, the new nickel design, Joe DiMaggio's signing of his new contract, fencing tricks by riders on horseback, and the running of the Chesapeake Stakes. Running time, 9 mins. F.

Films Included in 'Freedom' Measures

ALBANY, April 26.—Among 15 proposals introduced at the Constitutional Convention today on behalf of the American Federation of Labor was a measure submitted by Senator John J. Dunnigan of the Bronx intended to insure freedom not only for the press but also for the stage, screen and radio. It is the second proposal of its kind submitted to the convention [illegible]ing the past 24 hours.

The proposal goes even further than the one introduced by District Attorney Henry A. Hirschberg of Orange, which also asked for the extension of the privilege to films, radio, stage and press and "any writings or medium for the dessemination of ideas." The proposal was referred to the Bill of Rights committee, as was a resolution by Delegate Chauncey M. Hooper of New York preventing the discrimination against Negroes in film theatres or elsewhere. It follows along the lines of bills introduced in the Legislature this year which would make it illegal to ban Negroes from orchestra sections.

Public Should "Intervene" in Films—Myers

at a banquet in his honor given by the Allied group at the Hotel Statler. William F. Rodgers, general sales manager for M-G-M, asked conciliation boards as a substitute for Governmental intervention.

The Twentieth Century Association, which is friendly to the aims of the Motion Picture Research Council, has, like the council, been campaigning for Federal regulation of the industry, including passage of the Neely bill. The association is sponsoring petitions called a "Declaration of Independence" (for exhibitors) as "an expression of public indignation" against industry practices. The petititions are being sent to Congressmen and Senators with the request that they be forwarded to the Attorney General.

The campaign was furthered at the luncheon today by Myers' address and a talk by Irving A. Isaacs of Boston, vice-president of the association and an independent exhibitor, who spoke on the group's plans "to bring about restoration of community freedom in the choice of films."

Recounts Grievances

Myers gave what he described as "a lengthy recital of exhibitor grievances," citing "monopolistic" practices which, he said, are "unparalleled in the economic history of the United States."

He urged support for Allied's drive to get the Neely bill passed in the Senate, and grouped this measure with legislation to "divorce" exhibition from production and distribution as well as enforcement of the anti-trust laws as a means of destroying the alleged "motion picture trust."

"It is hazardous to attempt to define legitimate interests of the public in a business which concerns the public in so many ways," Myers said. "Many people think that pictures should be censored not merely by the states in which they are exhibited but by the Federal Government at the studios where they are made. I do not agree with this point of view, but I am not privileged to write a definition which would exclude it from consideration."

trustees in the reorganization of G.N. He stated that reorganization of the company under section 77B of the bankruptcy act was proceeding smoothly and a series of meetings are scheduled this week at which plans to be submitted to the U. Hold Levi Rites Today

America's Film History to Feature French Exhibition

The American motion picture, come of artistic age at 44, goes abroad today at the invitation of the French Government. Included as an art for the first time, with painting, sculpture and architecture, stills and movies representing a pictorial biography of the American motion picture will be shown for several weeks in the Exhibition of American Art opening May 24 at the Musee de Jeu de Paume in Paris.

Beginning with the 1894 Kinetoscope "Execution of Mary, Queen of Scots," through silent, silent with sound sequences, and all-talkie periods of development to "A Day at the Races" and "The River," the history of the American film in carefully chosen excerpts, with French titles, sound tracks and explanations, will be shown.

John Abbott and Allen Porter of the Museum are taking the show abroad. They will pick up French, German and English films to add to the historical and educational collection in New York.

Complete History Possible

Through the efforts of an interested group including Edward M. Warburg, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., John Hay Whitney, who financed the project, and the cooperation of various film companies and individuals, a complete continuing history of the art is now possible.

The original plans of Iris Barry and John Abbott of the Museum Film Library to preserve the best examples of American films in their various classifications have had interesting off shoots in three years. Originally, the thought was merely to make pictures and the history of them available to colleges, educational groups and an interested public. From this have arisen courses in universities in the technique of film making, and the artistic and the critical sides. David Selznick has lectured on the production of films, King Vidor on the directorial aspects, James Cagney on acting, and various other experts in their fields have given their services.

Today, according to Abbott and Miss Barry, there is an increasing demand for these courses by young people.

Within a short time the present headquarters of the Film Library will be moved to the Museum's new midtown building. Meantime, the acquisition and organization of material go on and there are now 4,000,000 feet of film in the vaults. Attics, closets and warehouses were combed for the old stills and records.

Ziegfeldiana

Bernard Sobel of M-G-M's publicity department, Florenz Ziegfeld's former press agent, started something when he organized a Ziegfeld Girls' Club in connection with "The Great Ziegfeld" a couple of years ago. Today the club has 150 members, with branches in Hollywood and Chicago.

The members will throw their third annual party in the grand ballroom of the Plaza Saturday night. Billie Burke, Ziegfeld's widow, and Anne Morgan will be there.

In the material selected to go abroad are stills, records and movies to make three separate shows. About 250 stills will trace the history of stills from the "Black Maria" of 1894 down to the present day. The names of the pictures have been put into French to conform with whatever title was released in France. There, "The Covered Wagon" was "The Caravan of the West."

The second show is a technical exhibit—"What Goes Into Making a Film." "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" was chosen for this.

These two "still" shows will occupy the right and left sides of a room, opening through an arch into a small theatre where films will be screened in a 45-minute show. This record begins with Charley Chaplin in "The Emigrant," and includes "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Covered Wagon," "Greed," Buster Keaton in "The General" and "Plane Crazy," a silent Mickey Mouse which was never released.

Includes Sound Films

This is the silent section of the film. The progress of the picture takes up "The Jazz Singer," in 1927, still silent, but with singing sequences by Al Jolson. There is the first of the Silly Symphonies, "The Skeleton Dance." And 1929 is represented by "Anna Christie" in which Garbo spoke for the first time on the screen. Then there are "Little Caesar," "She Done Him Wrong," "Swingtime," with one of the best of the Fred Astaire dance sequences, the surgery sequence from "A Day at the Races," and the flood shots from "The River."

Offers Child Actor Bill

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A bill which would put all child actors under the protection of guardians to be appointed by the Federal courts until the child shall have reached his maturity has been introduced in Congress by Representative Raymond J. Cannon.

Hear Bogus Money Talk

Cashiers, treasurers and managers of RKO theatres this morning will be addressed by Special Agent Allan Murphy of the U. S. Secret Service on the practice of detecting counterfeit money.

"Hood" Stills in Book

Warners, through arrangement with Conklin Publishing Co., has issued a 32-page booklet containing 175 stills from "Adventures of Robin Hood," each picture captioned and arranged to give a complete running story of the film. The publication will be distributed by five-and-10-cent stores.

Keough at Dartmouth

Austin C. Keough, head of Paramount's legal department, will discuss legal problems involved in writing for the screen before the film class of Dartmouth at Hanover tonight.

there is a possibility, even, that Ju itself a technical reversal of Jud made by a six to two decision of

Affects Philadelphia Case

A simple interpretation of Supreme Court's action is that justices, on the basis of Judge decide whether the distributors c

As a result of the court's acti

If the motion picture industry is counting on enjoying the attitude of the press toward radio," he warned, "it has failed to reckon that sponsored radio programs charge no admission and at any time may be tuned out. The movie industry may not appreciate nor even desire the more generous newspaper treatment of the theatre as compared with radio.

"The cinema industry, now quite peacefully policed, will have to decide if the income from screen advertising would be large enough to offset the public ill will, newspaper indifference, perhaps antagonism, to the propaganda plague which is a second cousin to high-powered specialty advertising and which invariably trails closely behind."

Tripp recalled that a previous attempt a few years ago to put advertising over on the screen was defeated when the newspapers began to neglect motion picture publicity.

After quoting figures from the Motion Picture Daily and reading Will Hays' recent pronouncement against screen advertising, he ended by asking if the industry wanted to make sandwich men of Garbo and Gable.

The A.N.P.A. session yesterday was for "small newspapers," those with a circulation of approximately 50,000 which constitute 90 per cent of the nation's press and influence.

No action was taken by the convention yesterday, but the matter will be noticed officially, in all probability, before the session closes on Thursday.

Florida Appeals on Ascap Law Decision

Tallahassee, Fla., April 26.—The state of Florida today appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, from a three-judge Federal court ruling recently issued in New Orleans holding unconstitutional this state's law prohibiting Ascap from collecting fees for use of controlled musical numbers by radio stations, theatres and others. Technical grounds mainly involving jurisdiction were cited by Assistant Attorney General T. A. Norwood of Florida in asking the Supreme tribunal to overturn the ruling of the New Orleans court.

A.N.P.A. Talks Radio's Effect On Newspaper

Arguments both for and against radio were heard at the 52nd annual meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association which opened yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria. The opening session was limited to publishers of papers having circulation of 50,000 or less.

Frank E. Tripp, general manager of the Gannett newspapers, and J. M. Bunting, general manager of the Daily Pantograph, Bloomington, were heard in statements opposing radio competition, while Orrin Thurston of the Honolulu Daily Advocate and A. L. Miller of the Battle Creek Inquirer and News defended radio in its relation to the newspaper field. Both Thurston and Miller are owners of radio stations.

Sees Advertising Decreased

Tripp charged that radio competition has resulted in a trend by advertisers away from the small newspaper and added that responsibility for this development should be laid at the door of the publishers themselves who have sponsored a form of news presentation which seems faulty when compared with the "showier" presentation offered over the air waves. He added that newspapers are building circulation for radio by printing programs and feature publicity. He urged that publishers form a united front against radio through the A.N.P.A.

Bunting substantiated the opinions of Tripp, saying that the publisher who opens his columns to radio publicity is wielding a razor on his own throat. His paper, he stated, hasn't carried a line on radio in six years.

Radio Called "Protection"

Thurston in rebuttal said that he owned a radio station as a means of reinforcing his paper's circulation by giving him a closer contact with the community.

Miller maintained that his station was a form of protection in that it permitted him to preempt the field and so control the dissemination of news in his section.

Radio will again be discussed at today's meeting by publishers of papers of large circulation.

At Friday's session Edward S. Friendly of the New York Sun will deliver the report of the A.N.P.A. committee on radio.

Pending Deals May Put Ad Films in Half U.S. Houses

By IRENE KUHN

[Editor's Note—This is the second and concluding article on advertising films.]

While the policy of the industry continues firm against any general use of the screen for advertising purposes, there is no question about the determination of certain groups to invade the theatre screen for advertising. The Hays office admits that in some places, as an element of support for small theatre operation, "custom has developed a reasonable use of trailers, or local advertising which may not detract from the main entertainment."

The Alexander Film Co., Jam Handy and others, make these shorts and trailers for commercial advertisers. Alexander pays the theatres using them on the basis of so much for so many seats per week. This company, controlling General Screen Advertising, has exclusive contracts with 7,000 theatres and is negotiating a deal with 29 affiliated groups in the Paramount circuit to show films distributed by G. S. A. The circuit has 1,200 theatres throughout the country. One-third of these are showing "minute movies." Should the deal go through, more than half of the 16,000 theatres operating in the country today would be committed to screen advertising of shorts up to 500 feet. G. S. A. contracts have no control over longer films. Three thousand other theatres sell advertising space on the screen.

Recently, 20 national advertisers reported their experience with motion picture advertising shorts or trailers

ITO Planning Jersey Drive For Members

Called Retaliation for Allied N. Y. Invasion

In retaliation for Allied's attempted invasion of New York, the I.T.O.A. at a meeting yesterday voted to wage a membership campaign in New Jersey, which, by mutual agreement, has been Allied territory.

A statement by the I.T.O.A. yesterday said: "Following its success in helping to defeat 21 bills in New York State inimical to the industry, including the veto of the dog racing bill, the I.T.O.A. at its meeting at the Hotel Astor unanimously decided to aid the small exhibitor in New Jersey by throwing its forces against the dog racing act now being considered in that state's legislature.

"In line with this decision, the I.T.O.A. also decided to wage a membership campaign in New Jersey. The association already includes a number of Jersey exhibitors and New York exhibitors who own Jersey theatres. The membership feels that

Believe Film Units Not in Reich Decree

A German decree issued yesterday requiring registration of Jewish owned wealth in the Reich and Austria, whether of native or foreign residents, is believed here to have no application to motion picture company properties.

According to information available in New York the decree applies only to personal and not corporate property, inasmuch as stockholders are the owners of corporate property and it could not be assumed that all such stockholders are Jewish. So far as is known, only Paramount and Loew's are still operating in the Reich and their properties consist only of film stocks, office furniture and supplies.

As the German decree is aimed at ultimate confiscation of Jewish owned wealth, it was pointed out that if it were to embrace the property of foreign corporations the move would have far-reaching international repercussions which, it is believed, the Reich would not deliberately invite.

Projection Topic Of SMPE Session

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Problems of theatre projection were discussed at length during today's meeting of the semi-annual convention of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. Tomorrow will be held the final sessions of the four-day meeting at the Ward- n Park Hotel.

The three sessions of the day's program were devoted to optics and projection, during the morning; a 16mm. symposium, during the early part of the afternoon, followed by the apparatus symposium and manufacturers' announcements, later in the day.

This evening the semi-annual banquet was held in the Continental Room of the hotel, with the major address by Dr. C. E. Kenneth Mees, vice-president in charge of research and development of Eastman Kodak. Entertainment and dancing followed the banquet. There will be no evening session tomorrow, the convention concluding following the afternoon session.

Both morning and afternoon discussions tomorrow will be devoted to a discussion of sound, with numerous papers scheduled to be delivered on various phases of the subject.

Richardson Paper Read

Among the papers read today during the projection session was one on Theory vs. Practice," by F. H. Richardson of Quigley Publications, who made the point that apparatus must be in charge of competent projectionists in order to insure best results from such equipment and to avoid the public condemnation of equipment which often follows inefficient operation rather than faulty apparatus. Other papers of the morning session were by F. E. Carlson of General Electric, . B. Noel and R. E. Farnham of General Electric, H. Griffin of International Projector Corp., J. R. Prater of the Congress Theatre, Palouse, Wash., and W. C. Miller of the Paramount studio.

The 16mm. discussion included talks on various uses of that type of material and equipment by J. L. Boon of Eastman Kodak, H. C. Wellman of Eastman Kodak, J. A. Mauer and W. ach of the Berndt-Maurer Corp., and M. G. Townsley of Bell & Howell.

Details of new equipment of various types were explained to the delegates during the afternoon apparatus symposium and manufacturers' announcements. Among the new developments are a new camera timer, a framing device for 35mm. projectors, an indicator for sound-level measurements, a new projector mechanism, and a new background projector for process photography.

Exhibitor Wounded

HAMILTON, Ohio, April 27.—John . Schwalm, manager of the Rialto, Southio unit, today was struck in the side by a bullet when a negro in front of the theatre fired at a woman. The bullet ricocheted from the sidewalk. Schwalm was not seriously injured.

Preparing 3 Comedies

Three Educational two-reel comedies, one starring Willie Howard, the second featuring Tom Patricola and Buster West, and the third with cast still unset are in preparation at the Astoria studio.

Pending Deals May Put Ad Films in Half U.S. Houses

for the benefit of other inquiring members of A. N. A.

The survey reveals that while a few advertisers' films were shown in theatres from 1930 on, it was not until 1933 that bookings of sponsored shorts running a minute were attempted again on a national scale, after an unsuccessful attempt prior to 1930. The trend since 1933 has been away from local advertising and toward national. The success of the "minute movies" as an advertising medium, revealed by the survey, is undoubtedly responsible for the national coverage ambitions which encompass bigger, better and longer advertising shorts.

A.N.P.A. Treated Subject

With this development there is now arising an echo in type and kind of the opposition which received emphatic expression in 1933. The three-day meeting of the A.N.P.A. closing today at the Waldorf-Astoria considered screen advertising in several sessions. Principal speaker against it was Frank E. Tripp, general manager of the 18 Gannet papers, whose demand for concerted action by publishers to combat it was published here yesterday.

In New York, some of the principal advertising agencies made the following reports on their plans. Theatre and motion picture executives likewise expressed their views. The symposium follows:

Advertising Agencies

J. Walter Thompson—No regular motion picture department set up as yet. Probability there will be one soon. One man in charge now of motion picture accounts. Planning to make some pictures for general "consumer" release, i. e., theatre showing.

Lord & Thomas—Has considered the matter and experimented with sponsored shorts, but has not come to any decision about branching out into this phase of advertising. Spokesman said: "If commercial shorts are going into the theatres they'll have to be very short and very good. If national advertisers are going on the screen to sell their wares they'll have to clean out a lot of junk that's flashing around now in the name of screen advertising. A total of two shorts, two minutes each, about all any program can stand. Motion picture appeal is primarily to women. Shorts can't be technical of they'll miss with the women."

Arthur Kudner, Inc.—Screen advertising a matter of current discussion here. No motion picture department set up, but radio department collating material. Haven't made any commercial shorts yet except for sales meetings. Big fear is non-acceptance by audience. One film made for American Baseball League shown to district colleges and clubs, some theatres, but not under any perfected system of distribution.

Industry Executives Reply

Harry Royster, Paramount—Paramount has no individual policy. Showing of sponsored shorts is up to the individual exhibitors. They are being used only in the "B" and "C" houses.

Lionel Toll, I. T. O. A.—Independent exhibitors are not averse to showing commercially sponsored films if they are educational or entertaining provided the advertising is indirect and the exhibitors are paid for showing them.

Jack Cohn, president of Columbia—I believe we should keep our screens free for entertainment. Audiences do not go to the theatre to look at advertisements, but to be amused.

Charles Moskowitz, Loew's—We are against sponsored films. That has been our attitude in the past and we have not changed.

Friendly Gesture

Kansas City, April 27.—Fox Midwest Theatres, Inc., has presented Friends University, Wichita, the pipe organ at the Palace there. The organ, one of the finest in the state, was installed in 1916.

Roy Burford, city manager at Wichita, and H. E. Jameyson, district manager for Fox Midwest, made the presentation to Dr. David M. Edwards, president of the university.

Credit Keeps Customers

Kansas City, April 27.—Times weren't good for residents of the northeast section of the city last winter. Automobile plants and other factories were closed or operating part time. Many of the regular patrons of Bill Parsons' Aladdin failed to appear.

One night in December Bill put on his screen a trailer that read something like this: "During the past 10 years we have appreciated your patronage. Now that some of you are unemployed, we want you to know that we still appreciate that patronage. A good show is like a good meal; it gives you new spirit. See the manager as to how you can see the show now and pay when you go back to work."

He issued about 75 cards, each of which was good for $4 worth of credit at the box-office. Each admission called for a punch of the card. Some of the money is beginning to filter back in now, and about 10 per cent have repaid. Parsons expects 50 per cent eventually will pay, but even if he gets no more, he will be entirely satisfied.

Variety Club

Des Moines

DES MOINES, April 27.—The Variety Club members here plan to give up their club rooms May 1 and store the furniture until Sept. 1, when they will resume their business meetings. The recent stag party was a big success, and on April 29 they will hold a party with their wives and sweethearts as guests. They are beginning to practice for their annual golf tournament to be held early in July.

Hines Predicts Gain For G. T. E. on Sound

The sale of sound equipment manufactured by International Projector under Erpi and RCA licenses is expected to increase earnings of General Theatres Equipment Corp., the parent company, substantially, according to Earle G. Hines, president.

In the first quarter of 1938, G.T.E. earned $120,264 net income, equal to 20 cents a share on 601,092 capital shares, compared with $291,464, or 54 cents a share on 541,161 shares, in the same 1937 quarter.

Hines said that the decline in net profit was due in part to the expense of developing and introducing the new sound equipment.

Futter Sails to Do 2 Films in England

Walter A. Futter, producer, sailed yesterday on the Ile de France and said he planned to make one or two pictures at Pinewood studios near London. He refused to name the company for which they will be produced.

He said that he arranged for Monogram to handle physical distribution on "Jericho," which he made abroad last year. The film stars Paul Robeson. He said sales would be handled by his own representatives.

Jan Kiepura, Polish tenor, and his wife, Marta Eggerth, also sailed. He said he would be featured in a film, "Carnival in Rome," to be made in Italy and that he would also make a picture in Paris before returning here for the Metropolitan Opera season.

Morris Gest sailed for a vacation and also to make arrangements for a show which he said he would stage on Broadway in the fall.

Hollywood Previews

"Little Miss Thoroughbred"

(Warners)

Hollywood, April 27.—"Little Miss Thoroughbred" contains a lot of mass-appeal entertainment. Though the materials of which it is made are familiar, it tells a story that blends human interest, comedy and action in an oddly conceived romance. Its outstanding feature, one which has much future commercial importance, is five-year-old Janet Chapman, who has the poise and seems to possess the talents presaging future popularity. With all due respect to the contributions made by the other players, she is the star who holds the piece together and gives it punch and zip.

Straying from an orphanage, the little girl is injured in a traffic accident. The car in which she is rushed to a hospital clears a path for John Litel and Frank McHugh, gamblers en route to a racetrack. They are chased by Robert Homans, a policeman, and, when caught, Litel claims the child is his. In the hospital Janet calls him "daddy." Homans, taking the trio to Litel's apartment, meets Ann Sheridan, whom he thinks is Litel's wife, but, though she is in love with him, her affections are not returned. When Homans realizes the situation he makes the pair marry if for no other reason than so that the child shall be cared for.

With McHugh, Litel, Miss Sheridan and Janet fly to Los Angeles for a race meet. The child is a lucky charm, and the gamblers' fortune soars. Meanwhile news of the child's disappearance is broadcast, and other gamblers, suspicious, try to cut in, but Homans arrives to take the group back to New York. There, with Miss Chapman doing fine work, the jury renders a not guilty verdict and the little family looks forward to happy days.

Produced by Brian Foy and directed by John Farrow from a screenplay by Albert DeMond and George Bricker, "Little Miss Thoroughbred" may prove a surprise.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Knights of the Plains"

(Spectrum-Stan Laurel)

Hollywood, April 26.—Composed of those elements that give outdoor action pictures wide appeal to youngsters, not without plenty that are interesting to grownups, "Knights of the Plains" stacks up as one of those desirable Saturday afternoon attractions. In many cases it may serve to round out the regular weekly program.

The dual menace of land grabbers and cattle rustlers makes the settlers' future outlook dark. Then Fred Scott and Al. St. John take the trail. As St. John provides refreshing comedy, Scott rescues Marion Weldon from John Merton's unwanted attentions. Wounded in a skirmish, Scott is befriended by Lafe McKee and Emma Tansey. While recovering, Scott becomes suspicious of Frank LaRue, who, he feels, is trying to fleece the girl's father, Dick Cramer, out of his lands. Preceded by musical interludes which accentuate the romantic content, Scott and St. John are galvanized into action by rustler depredations. Picking up the trail, they round up the thieves and prevent the land-grabbing plot to the tune of much exciting riding and shooting.

Scott's stature as a western actor increases with succeeding films, St. John's comedy is a highlight and the work of Miss Weldon, McKee, Cramer, Merton, LaRue and Emma Tansey is of the expected standard. Sam Newfield's direction, which concentrates on action, is sharp and consistent and takes full advantage of the materials provided in Fred Myton's screenplay. Producer Jed Buell gave the production good mounting and used the Hal Tobis, Wolfe Gilbert and Lew Porter music numbers intelligently.

Running time, 57 minutes. "G."

ITOA "Independent' Blasts Double Bill

Agitation against double bills ha been started by the I.T.O.A., throug its organ, the Independent, althoug virtually all of the organization member theatres are double featur houses.

The publication, in the issue out to day, blames twin features "for th present low state of movie attendance, charging that the teaming of two ill assorted features drives away customers.

"Competition is blamed by exhibito for their overlong bills," says the publication. "That is bosh. All theatr men are convinced that double features are bad for the industry and sti very few of them will stop playin them and try to build their attendanc on a sound basis along showmanshi lines. Read what the Old Doc himself has to say

"Yes, sir, 'Doctor Rhythm' is the perfect panacea, the magic elixir to pep up Old Man Box Office. Of course I wouldn't want to lay it on too thick. But when it comes to comedy, 'Doctor Rhythm' has what it takes. Beatrice Lillie, England's gift to the gayety of nations, is, to coin a word, tremendous. Andy Devine gives out with that Devine foolishness of his. And your old friend, the Doc, manages to tear off a couple of dozen mild jests of his own. On the sentimental side, Mary Carlisle is a lovely little bundle of happiness. And the music, including 'On the Sentimental Side' sings mighty fine. Yes, sir, 'Doctor Rhythm' is what the doctor ordered."

Doc Crosby

Here's what Paramount's "DOCTOR RHYTHM" does . . .

BEFORE TAKING

"I was feeling awfully lousy. I had just been bitten by a seal and you know how that makes a guy feel. So the old Doc asks me to take a look at this 'Doctor Rhythm' and I actually laughed at myself . . . not to mention the rest of the swell cast of the funniest picture of the year. Now I feel fine."

lineup in meetings with home office officials.

Blumberg plans to return to the coast this weekend. His unexpected trip east brought John Joseph, advertising and publicity director, back to New York after he had travelled as far as Chicago on his way to the studio to confer with Blumberg. The Universal head's trip east was impelled by current home office business requiring his attention after an absence of more than two months at the studio, as well as the product conferences with William A. Scully, general sales manager, and Joseph Seidelman, foreign manager. The latter two will defer their planned coast trips indefinitely as a result of Blumberg's home office visit.

Plans for Universal's annual sales meetings may be set also during Blumberg's stay here.

G-Man Talks to RKO Staff on Bad Money

Cashiers from all the RKO theatres in New York and vicinity were tutored yesterday by Secret Service Agent Allan Murphy in quick detection of counterfeit bills. All the girls were invited to become unofficial Secret Service agents in the campaign now under way by the Treasury Department to mop up bogus money passers and makers.

Special Agent Harry Cooper, several managers and treasurers were present.

At the conclusion of the instruction, which was illustrated by gigantic five and ten dollar bills, real and phoney, enlarged many times for comparison, Pathe shot a sound newsreel, featuring Murphy and Ronny Keller, cashier at the RKO Palace.

Miss Keller was singled out because, by using the Treasury Department's counterfeit warning service bulletin, she had nailed a counterfeit $5 bill a few months ago. The innocent passer was released after questioning, but Miss Keller's alertness led to the eventual apprehension of the counterfeiter and a reward. The department has set up a special appropriation to reward cashiers and others giving information which leads to apprehension and conviction of counterfeiters.

Seldes Warns Against Flood Of Propaganda

stop going to the theatre if he finds ncealed propaganda on the screen. ou, as the audience, should know you can get the pictures you want by registering approval or disapproval. Your job, if you want good pictures, literate, sensible and dignified, is to make your wishes known by attending and supporting the good ones and staying away from those you don't like."

Seldes substituted for Pare Lorentz, who was called unexpectedly to Europe. This topic—"The Relationship Between Literature and the Movies" — was handled with honest appreciation of the demands of the screen, and without genuflection be-ore the lacerated sensibilities of many authors present whose works have been conveyed to the screen.

Demands "Atmosphere"

Literature will be found in films, he said, only when it doesn't interfere with the film.

"The motion picture, to be good, must convey atmosphere, as well as story, and do both chiefly by action, not text. Hollywood can make pic-ures from literary works and give hem character and feeling," he said, citing "Mutiny on the Bounty." This, n his opinion, as a motion picture was superior to the book.

Hollywood writers' services are overvalued, he said. "Most pictures are horribly overwritten. Words are practically useless in motion pictures. A good director can get along with almost any writer, and get a good picture.

He emphasized that films are a different medium from literature and hat the picture makers do not set out o give audiences literature on the creen, but motion pictures, and the more a picture moves, the better. Whatever is not done in movement n pictures is bad movies and won't rk."

Boost for Miss West

To Mae West he gave credit for irecting the attention of producers to ictorian works and putting on such ictures as "Romeo and Juliet," David Copperfield" and others. In nswer to the raised eyebrows in the udience he explained that Mae's sexy arly screen efforts shocked so many eople that boycotts threatened and the roducers went to a "respectable" ra, the Victorian era, for acceptable orks.

He concluded by quoting an exiled erman savant who said that if all e painting, sculpture, music and art n the world were destroyed only a ery small number of persons would now it, and only a fraction of that umber would care. But if motion ictures were destroyed there would e a revolution in a week.

ITO Planning Jersey Drive For Members

New Jersey should be represented in the I.T.O.A. because its problems so far as film buying and legislation are concerned are similar.

"It was recalled that when the I.T.O.A. was first organized Sidney Samuelson, then president of New Jersey Allied, asked that it refrain from making a drive for membership among New Jersey exhibitors. However, with Allied now in the process of organizing exhibitors in New York State and New York City, the I.T.O.A. feels that the original agreement has been abrogated by Allied. In addition, the I.T.O.A. officials are of the opinion that their organization can accomplish more for Jersey exhibitors than Allied is now doing.

"Several months ago a committee composed of Maurice Fleischman, David Weinstock, Julius Charnow and Leon Rosenblatt was appointed to meet with a committee of Allied to work out mutual problems. Two meetings were held and then, it was charged, Allied showed no disposition to continue the conferences.

"The same committee of the I.T.O.A. was given the duties of a membership committee with regard to Jersey exhibitors."

Meeting Set for May 3

Allied will hold a meeting here on May 3 to organize a New York State unit, claiming 100 metropolitan and Albany theatres will be included.

Harry Brandt, president, was renominated for another term. Other nominations are: David Weinstock, first vice-president; Stanley Lawton, second vice-president; Leon Rosenblatt, treasurer; Maurice Brown, secretary; Charles Goldreyer, sergeant-at-arms.

Nominations for directors were as follows: Maurice Fleischman, chairman; Bernard Barr, Ray Rhonheimer, Arthur Mayer, Otto Lederer, Leo Justin, Leo Brecher, A. Cohen, Julius Charnow, Hyman Rachmil, Frances Bregman, Walter Nolan, Bernard Brooks, Jack Hattem, Rudolph Sanders, Bernard Pear and Abraham Shenk.

All nomoninations were unanimous.

Brandt, as chairman of the theatre division in the Catholic Charities campaign, appealed for funds and membership responded 100 per cent, it was said.

"A Yank at Oxford," M-G-M film produced in England, today will enter its fifth week at the Empire in London, according to a cable received by the home office. It is expected to go additional weeks, in which event it will break the house record. In the last ten years only three films, all from M-G-M, have played five weeks at the Empire.

Snider Hopes for Australian Gains matters concerning his circuit, which operates 70 theatres, he also is an authorized spokesman for the New South Wales Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association. He conferred with the companies on trade relations in the latter capacity.

Chiefly, the exhibitors in Australia have been objecting to what they consider an "arbitrary" attitude on the part of distributors in contractual matters. They also have been protesting rentals.

Snider has expressed fears that because of the increasing complaints by exhibitors, the Australian Government may extend its control over the industry, which, he said, would be disastrous. In this connection, he has intimated that the New South Wales production quota was a result of the Government's attention focused on the industry.

Is Seeking Plays

The quota has not yet been enforced because of the distributors' protests. Snider said yesterday, however, that he expects the quota act will eventually be enforced by the Government "in some form." Its constitutionality has been challenged by the American companies.

Snider said he is making an effort to revitalize the legitimate and variety stage in Australia and was searching for stage productions to play some of his theatres. The only production he has booked, however, is "Who's Who," a revue produced on Broadway this season by Leonard Sillman.

Snider disclosed that National Theatres, a subsidiary of Snider-Dean, had closed a deal to acquire two Tasmanian theatres on a leasing basis from Great Union, on opposition circuit. The theatres are the Prince of Wales in Hobart and the Majestic in Launceston. National Theatres has a pooling arrangement with Hoyts in the capital cities.

He said he would survey the situation in London and expects to return here on June 27 for further conferences. He plans to sail for Sydney from the coast on Aug. 17.

CEA to Make Protest To All Distributors

unethical selling combine concerning the classification and offerings of product by the Kinematograph Renters Society are understood to be involved in the forthcoming utterance from the CEA, which represents more than 90 per cent of the screen theatres in the United Kingdom. The official protest of the association, it is understood, will be made in a manner that spreads it on the public record of the amusement industry, both in the United States and overseas.

Last Ampa Meet Today

U.A. to Offer Financing Aid For Selznick

arrangements can be worked out, United Artists officials are optimistic about the renewal of a distribution deal with Selznick because of the company's reduced world distribution charges and the new profit sharing plan for its affiliated producers.

With executive sessions of United Artists officers continuing throughout yesterday and more scheduled for today, Samuel Goldwyn will not depart for Hollywood until tomorrow. David Rose, vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., preceded the producer to Hollywood, arriving there by plane yesterday to prepare for immediate resumption of production. Goldwyn is scheduled to begin work next week on "Graustark." Silverstone may accompany Goldwyn to the coast if his conferences here are concluded in time. He is slated to discuss possible alliances of new producers with United Artists.

Regardless of the outcome of negotiations with other producers, United Artists has not changed its policy of releasing a limited number of pictures, it was stated. Even if new producers are added and a new deal with Selznick is negotiated, the total releases for the new season will be no more than from 24 to 28 pictures.

There has been no change in the stock ownership of United Artists as a result of the recent negotiations. No provision has been made for non-stock owning producers to acquire stock and no provision has been made for the issuance of an option to Goldwyn and Korda for the purchase of a controlling stock interest at a later date.

ANPA Radio Report Warns Against Political Control

Pointing to the manner in which radio has been made an instrumentality of dictatorship in the totalitarian countries, the radio committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association in a statement issued yesterday called upon America and the American press to guard against any encroachment upon American democracy by political organizations or individuals using radio as an instrument to gain their ends. Coordination for the purpose of providing opposition to all tendencies toward the misuse of radio was urged by the committee.

Other problems in relation to radio which the committee felt should properly come within the interest of the association are:

Laws and policies controlling radio facilities and broadcasts in America.

The question as to whether Freedom of the Press and Free Speech can be paralleled in "Freedom of the Air."

The influence of radio broadcasts upon the mental, moral and medical habits of the American people.

The many problems arising in connection with the broadcasting of news, including sponsorship of news on the air.

Newspaper ownership or control of radio facilities.

Property rights in news and piracy of news by radio.

The development of facsimile and television.

The Press-Radio Bureau as a medium of practical co-operation among newspapers, broadcasters and the press associations—and continuance of the Bureau as a public service to radio listeners.

The committee which prepared and submitted the report was composed of Howard M. Booth, Amon G. Carter, Norman Chandler, E. D. Corson, K. A. Engel, Edwin S. Friendly, J. L. Horne, Jr., J. R. Knowland, H. Ponting and O. S. Warden.

Hollywood, April 28.—Jesse Lasky last night issued a personal statement of his resignation as associate producer at RKO effective Saturday.

He disclosed that he will open offices in the Equitable Building here as his headquarters for film and radio activities.

The RKO studio maintained silence on the matter, making no reference to the conclusion of Lasky's contract. He had produced "Hitting a New High" and "Music for Madame" during his year with RKO.

Jersey Allied Calm Over ITOA Invasion

Allied of New Jersey officials yesterday expressed no concern over the intended membership campaign in that state by the I.T.O.A. in retaliation for Allied's invasion of New York.

Allied claims to have in its membership a majority of the independent theatres in New Jersey and says the I.T.O.A. will find its possibilities negligible. The Allied unit says that there are 400 theatres in the state, more than 100 of which are operated by affiliated circuits.

Arthur K. Howard, in charge of Allied States' expansion program and the organiaztion work here, also said that the I.T.O.A. threat was no cause of worry to his organization. He arrived yesterday from Boston.

Regarding the I.T.O.A. statement

Verlinsky Gets Key Post In Russian Film Shakeup

In a reorganization of the Russian film industry, Vladimir I. Verlinsky, for three and a half years president of Amkino here, has been given the key spot of head of the Soviet News and Documentary Film Trust in Moscow. This division is in charge of the production and distribution of newsreels and shorts, a large number of which are made annually.

The shakeup in the Soviet industry followed the removal of Boris Z. Shumiatsky, its head, on grounds of mismanagement and waste. Verlinsky was in Moscow at the time for a general meeting of industry executives. He left New York on Dec. 8 and until this week the local Amkino office had expected him to return. However, Verlinsky had planned to quit his New York post after the opening of the World's Fair in 1939 and to return to Moscow permanently. He is a Russian citizen.

The Russian industry's chief is now Simeon S. Dukelsky, appointed to head the Soviet Cinema Committee, which supersedes the Central Organization of the industry, of which Shumiatsky was the head.

Samson Kritsberg, vice-president of Intourist, Inc., the Soviet travel agency here, has been placed in nominal charge of Amkino, which is the Soviet film distributor for North and South America. N. Napoli, formerly assistant to Verlinsky, is handling detail as office manager.

Arnold States Government's Trust Policy

Results, Not Intent, Will Guide, He Declares

Results of industry policies rather than the intent with which they were adopted will be the guide line for the Department of Justice in the selection of cases to be prosecuted under the anti-trust statutes, it was disclosed last night by Thurman Arnold, Assistant Attorney General in charge of anti-trust work, speaking at the annual banquet of the Trade and Commerce Bar Association of New York at the Hotel Commodore.

His first public address since assuming the position vacated by Robert H. Jackson upon his appointment as Solicitor General of the United States, Arnold's talk has been awaited for some time by industry as possibly disclosing changes he proposes in Department of Justice policy.

Taking the Texas anti-trust suit as an example, the Assistant Attorney General expressed the belief that "in the selection of cases and also in the trial and presentation of cases selected we should formulate our standard in terms of the actual results and

Vol. 20, No. 66

Washington news, exemplified by Henry Ford's visit to the President and the assurances of cooperation for business recovery from the nation's outstanding industrial and financial leaders, are featured in this release. A wide variety of feature material, all having a high content of interest or entertainment, includes underground shots of the work on New York's $58,000,000 East River tunnel in the process of construction; styles in women's hats designed to provide publicity for New York's World Fair; Australia's youth in a pageant in observance of the country's 150th anniversary; model planes in a windy contest on Long Island, and shots of an active volcano in New Zealand.

The sport department, suffering from a seasonal lull, offers only University of Illinois tumblers, a Philadelphia dart blower and hunting dogs demonstrating the results of their training. Lew Lehr turns drama critic on the University of Chicago's Blackfriars' show for a laugh or two at the expense of the college chorus boys.

The material is in good variety, well edited and benefited by the customary high ranking production work of this reel. Running time, 9½ mins. K.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 264

(20th Century-Fox)

This is a good lively release, having plenty of subject variety and entertainment value. President Benes of Czechoslovakia directing defense preparations for his small republic in Europe's trouble spot has the lead position. Feature material includes views of Manhattan's Sixth Ave. "L" line, soon to be removed; of a Cossack demonstration of horsemanship in London; of new hat styles inspired by a N. Y. World's Fair publicity man and of a bathing suit wedding inspired by a Long Beach, Cal., publicity man.

In the news section are glimpses of Henry Ford paying a visit to the White House and of Vice-President Garner selecting his new spring headwear. In the sporting news is a California wrestling match, a deer hunt in France and a midget auto race in New Jersey with some spectacular crash shots. In all, a good reel for its full length. Running time, 9 mins. K.

Paramount News

Issue No. 77

(Paramount)

A neat arrangement of clips has been assembled in this issue to take advantage of the general interest in the approaching Kentucky Derby. War Admiral and Seabiscuit are shown in action, followed by shots of the arrival of Seabiscuit in New York and exercising of War Admiral. The subject closes with guesses on who will win. It's very well done.

A Chicago roller skating derby with girl skaters getting into a hair-pulling match furnishes some laughs. Another sport shot is furnished by the University of Illinois tumblers.

Henry Ford's arrival at the White House and his departure got plenty of attention from cameramen, both still and moving. Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Dr. Eckner discuss the helium problem briefly, and the present negotiations with Germany on the problem are dramatized by shots of falling observation balloons, workmen finishing the new Zeppelin at Friedrichshafen, and the burning of the Hindenburg at Lakehurst. These clips are combined in a way that lends new interest to old material. Running time, 9 mins. J.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 81

(RKO)

The material in this issue is varied and interesting. It also has a number of exceptional style shots whose chief appeal, aside from feminine interest, lies in the tasteful camera compositions. There is a good balance of sport, current events and action.

Henry Ford visits the White House for lunch with the President. National Chess Championship games are given interesting coverage. Hydroplan race at Miami Beach. Mrs. Roosevelt records her book, "This Is My Story," for the blind. Junior Birdmen of America fly their model planes at Farmingdale and the Army and Navy indulge in slambang fisticuffs. Running time, 8 mins. P.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 10, No. 622

Universal's editors have compiled a varied assortment of 13 clips, and thrown an added spark of liveliness into the subtitles and commentary where that was possible. The result is a reel which moves rapidly and offers interest and entertainment, if no striking significance.

Two foreign clips picture a parade of the international volunteer corps in Shanghai, and shorts of Eamon de Valera and Neville Chamberlain, relative to the signing of the Anglo-Irish pact in London. For the rest the reel skips about the country, with the material ranging from interesting pictures of a Greek Orthodox Easter parade and church service in Astoria, to a wrestling match in New York which is enlivened by the amusing antics of the grapplers and the entertaining commentary. A tailless plane, 13 bull pups hanging on the line after washing, John Garner getting himself a summer bonnet, Ford arriving at and leaving the White House, and the University of Illinois' expert tumblers are among the other shots. Running time, 9 mins. A.

Insiders' Outlook

An hour and forty minutes of watching "The Adventures of Robin Hood" unreel leaves the beholder with a profound admiration for the way in which the basic ingredients of film entertainment have been mixed to spread the appeal to all types of audiences.

Many directors have become lost in the pursuit of spectacle—especially in color. Michael Curtiz avoided this pitfall and others. He stuck to the old fashioned idea that what a motion picture needs is movement—movement for the swift development of a story and not merely for the sake of keeping the various actors in motion.

Love interest has been subordinated to action and dialogue has been used sparingly. Horsemanship that makes westerns seem tame, physical combats with swords, acrobatics reminiscent of Douglas Fairbanks' early days, sets of the kind that Cecil B. DeMille and Allan Dwan made famous years ago, and color compositions that will delight the eye of an artist have been supplied lavishly. The appeal is to juveniles and adults who can get along without subtlety.

But the outstanding quality of the production is the dashing charm of Errol Flynn's impersonation of the legendary Robin Hood. Here's the feminine appeal that completes the cycle of this picture's assets as a natural for exhibitors.

It is apparent that Warners set out to make one of the big money pictures of the year, and it certainly looks as though they had achieved this result in a remarkable way.

Dismiss Exceptions In Phila. Game Case

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Theatres and churches operating giveaway games got a swift setback late this afternoon when common pleas judges, sitting en banc, dismissed the exceptions brought by the Palm Theatre to Judge Harry S. McDevitt's original decision three weeks ago. At that time Judge McDevitt held that the games constituted a violation of the state lottery and gambling laws. Exceptions were heard Monday of this week before Judges McDevitt, Kun and Parry and decision was reserved until this afternoon.

Lawyers for both sides now have the right to request a final court decree before taking the case to the State Supreme Court. Since most games dealers are obligated to protect their customers in a law action, it is believed the court fight will be continued.

CEA Grading Protest Goes To Producers

ducers, under a caption, "A protest from your British market," says, "Your London distributors, by playing politics, are imposing yet another handicap on your product in foreign markets.

"At secret meetings in London the K.R.S. have set up a dictatorship to grade your features into two price classes. This secret 'grading' degrades a large percentage of product—your product—into the lower brackets. Were you consulted? Certainly the theatre owners of Britain were not.

"This 'grading' applies rigidly to all sections of the country regardless of variations in local conditions.

"We, the C.E.A., representing 4,350 picture theatres (95 per cent of the cinemas in the United Kingdom, your biggest foreign market), oppose this unethical selling combine because it decreases your share, decreases our share and decreases theatre attendance."

CEA to Issue New Appeal

London, April 28.—A new propaganda appeal will be issued to members of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association this weekend, advising them on methods of combating the grading plan of the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors). The C.E.A. pamphlet will contain a list of films allegedly graded "B," and exhibitors are urged to book them at rentals based on the lower K.R.S. grading.

Unofficially it is believed that the K.R.S. may retaliate by refusing to book any pictures in certain cases. The C.E.A. is of the opinion that the distributor group is embarrassed by the anti-grading attitude of 20th Century-Fox.

Ken Nyman, president of the C.E.A., and a representative of Gaumont British circuit, Arthur W. Jarratt, gave emphatic approval to the organization's fight against K.R.S. grading.

Five major houses in central London, including three Odeon houses, one Paramount and one G. B., this week are showing two "A" features. Exhibitors contend this exposes the alleged insincerity of the K.R.S. claim that the grading is aimed at the elimination of double bills of "A" films.

Condor Reorganizing Gets Time Extension

Los Angeles, April 28.—Federal Judge George Cosgrove today granted Clinton Miller, trustee of Condor Pictures, Inc., an extension of time until May 16 in which to file a reorganization plan for the company. Miller stated that he is sure that the firm, undergoing reorganization under 77B of the bankruptcy act, can be placed on a profitable basis.

At the same meeting a stipulation was filed by attorneys for the withdrawal of a motion to have Glenn Stephens, Condor ex-president, and Lester Cowan, general manager of Hollywood Pictures, Inc., a company formed to take over the Condor assets, give an accounting of $32,000 of Condor money.

that it would help the "small exhibitor" in New Jersey defeat the dog racing bill which, it said, was pending in the legislature, the Allied office pointed out that there is no such measure and that the I.T.O.A. probably referred to a bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting at horse racetracks, on which action is expected.

The New York group's intention to enter New Jersey may precipitate a three-cornered fight, since in addition to Allied, the U.M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware also is represented in the state. The Allied unit's strength is chiefly in northern New Jersey, which is serviced by New York exchanges, it is reported, although Allied says it has members throughout the state.

SMPE Concludes Washington Meet

Washington, April 27.—The annual spring convention of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, at the Wardman Park Hotel here, came to an end today with two sessions devoted to discussions of sound, one in the morning and the second during the afternoon.

Poster Awards Made At Luncheon of Ampa

Awards to Warner, United Artists, Columbia and Amkino were presented at the Ampa luncheon at the International Casino yesterday by F. LeMoyne Page, vice-president of Transit Advertisers, Inc., for prize-winning posters displayed in an exhibition sponsored by the company.

First and second awards in the theatrical division went to Warners for three-sheets on "Alcatraz" and "Marked Woman," respectively. Joseph Tisman, Warners' poster art director, accepted a plaque on behalf of the company. Plaques were also given to the Blaine Thompson advertising agency, accepted by Meyer Lesser, president, in connection with the Warner posters, and the Center Theatre.

The other film companies received honorable mention certificates, which were also presented to Max Gordon, Gilbert Miller, Alfred de Liagre, stage producers, the World's Fair and Donahue & Coe.

This was the last Ampa meeting of the season with the exception of a special luncheon to be held in May for the presentation of the Ampa advertising awards. Ralph Rolan, president, presided.

of $483,170.36, and 145 employes with executive duties, actors, technicians, etc., received an aggregate of $7,258,186.76.

The report showed that, as of March 1 of this year, the heaviest holders of 20th Century stocks were: Chase National Bank, 51.43 per cent of preferred and 13.98 per cent of common; White, Weld & Co., 20.73 per cent of preferred; Joseph M. Schenck, 10.84 per cent of common; William Goetz, 11.75 per cent of common, and General Theatre Equipment Corp., 10.65 per cent of common.

At the close of its fiscal year, on December 25 last, the company had options outstanding under which Sidney R. Kent was to get 10,000 shares of common annually for six years from August 22, 1935, at a price of not less than $10 per share, the price having been fixed at $18.24 per share, and 40,000 shares of common were reserved for issuance to officers and directors as part payment for services at not less than $10 per share.

Michel Contract Extended

Contracts entered into during the year extended for five years from November 1 the agreement with W. C. Michel, executive vice-president, at $1,000 per week; extended for five years from the same date the agreement with John D. Clark, general sales manager, who was to receive $1,500 a week for the first year, $1,600 the second year, $1,700 the third year and $1,750 the last two years; and provided for three years' service from June 14 by Truman Talley as vice-president, producer and editor-in-chief of Movietone News at $1,000 per week.

The balance sheet of the company for the year showed total income of $47,980,451.37, operating expenses of $9,702,741.20 and, after deduction of other charges, taxes, dividends, etc., an addition to surplus of $2,457,832.08. The paid in surplus at the close of the year was $9,537,356.41.

Creditor Dividend On Orpheum Likely

A 12½ per cent interim dividend to creditors of Orpheum Circuit, Inc., was indicated at a hearing before bankruptcy referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. None of the creditors opposed the granting of the dividend when Ehrhorn asked for objections.

Contention centered around the request by Marcus Heiman, Orpheum trustee, for $7,172 commissions, and by Beekman, Bogue, Leake, Stephens and Black, his attorneys, for an allowance of $50,000. Douglas M. Black contended that his firm had been instrumental in obtaining the $700,000 offer from Stadium Theatres, Inc., RKO subsidiary, for the sale of Orpheum's assets.

Will Rogers Week To Start Today

Will Rogers National Theatre Week will get under way today, with collections from the audience to be made in at least 5,000 theatres, it is estimated by A. P. Waxman, director of the campaign. Waxman said that a large number of pledges from theatres have been coming in daily.

Sarnoff Warns Against U.S. Radio Censor

forded by the Radio Law of 1934 which forbids direct Government censorship of radio programs. He pointed to the fact that Government licenses can be so worded as to leave the door open "for an indirect—and more insidious—censorship." Fear of disapproval, he said, can blue-pencil a dozen programs for every one to which an official censor might object.

Sarnoff pointed to the speed with which the industry has developed, and added that changes still impend. With sight as well as sound just in the offing, he said, broadcasting becomes more than ever a service of entertainment, culture and information. He asked that Federal control limit itself to the regulation of physical facilities and that such control be sufficiently flexible to permit continued development.

The exceptions are stations WLW and WHO, the former asking renewal of its present authority and the latter for an experimental license to use super-power, whose applications will be heard immediately after the close of the June hearings.

The June 6 hearings will be conducted by the committee appointed to make the super-power study, consisting of Commissioners Craven, Payne and Case, with Chairman McNinch as an ex-officio member.

use of legal privileges by groups in achieving domination of the market rather than their motive.

"I will illustrate by the case of Interstate Circuit, Inc., vs. United States recently argued before the Supreme Court of the United States," he told the bar association.

"A first run motion picture exhibitor controlling 75 per cent of the moving pictures in Texas had entered into practically identical contracts with the major motion picture distributors which prevent second run theatres from obtaining the best pictures except at higher admission prices than they had been accustomed to charge. Here was a typical use of a legal privilege (the copyright) in such a way as to restrict the outlets for moving pictures and actually to destroy competition. High admission prices were maintained and picture theatres put out of business.

Dividing Line Vague

"The moral question in the case was whether a conspiracy existed. To solve this it was necessary to see the shadowy line where a conspiracy ends and good fellowship and cooperation begins. Observe how the question proposed in another way admits a less theological answer. Is the use of the privilege given by the copyright laws by a group which actually dominates the market an effective suppression of competition regardless of whether a conspiracy is proved?

"The fact that picture houses have been closed and the distributing market has been narrowed by the use of this privilege on the part of a dominating group is certainly one of the most important factors in determining whether such a use of the copyright is illegal. It does not give a rule of thumb, but it is at least more susceptible of critical examination than whether the group is acting in an evil state of mind.

"The particular case has not been decided as this is written. However, these considerations were argued strenuously by the Solicitor General and they should be argued in future cases.

Results the Consideration

"The department does not of course control the decisions of the court, but in that area which it does control, that is, in the selection of the cases which are to be prosecuted out of a large number of complaints, only some of which is it even possible to investigate, actual monopoly results should be a more important consideration than motive."

In view of the fact that results rather than motive are the controlling factor and that evil results may be effected by policies adopted with good motives, Arnold declared the Department of Justice should give advice to business men as to the Government's position, so long as it would not be usable later to foreclose the Government from prosecutions.

This could be accomplished, he suggested, by an announcement setting forth how the department is going to apply anti-trust principles to a loc ized situation including a summ of conditions the department belie to exist in the particular indus which tended toward violation of anti-trust laws and created the nec sity of an investigation; the rea why the particular procedure, whet civil or criminal was chosen inst of some other kind or procedure; the results the department hopes obtain in the prosecution of a parti lar case.

"After such a report, any busir man connected with the industry co make an informed judgment about interpretation of the anti-trust l by the department in that partic area," he said.

REPORT GIANNINI TO RETIRE DENIED

Says Contract Has Three Years to Run — No Settlement Offer

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—Reports that the appointment of Maurice Silverstone as chairman of the executive committee of United Artists indicated the ultimate retirement of Dr. A. H. Giannini as president met with denial at the Hollywood offices of the company today.

The same source also declared that the failure to name Dr. Giannini to the executive committee did not presage his retirement from the company. It was pointed out that Dr. Giannini made the appointment of Silverstone and that he was chairman of the board of directors and a member of all committees.

Dr.. Giannini's contract has three years to run and he has no present intention of retiring. Asked whether an offer had been made to liquidate his contract, he said this report in common with most of the others which had developed after the New York meeting of owner-partners was inaccurate and largely at variance with the facts.

This leaves the situation confused in

Van Schmus Has An Archery Contest; Targets Undamaged

By J. M. JERAULD

W. G. Van Schmus' Sherwood Forest, which consists of a hedge, an expanse of green painted asphalt, three magnolia trees and some Chinese red benches on the roof of the Music Hall was the scene of an archery tournament yesterday. There were two targets, but only three arrows hit them. The spectators, including 20 newsreel cameramen and sound men, dodged the others.

It was probably one of the greatest exhibitions of dodging ever witnessed in Rockefeller Center. One arrow landed in front of a pedestrian on 50th St. He is still wondering what happened.

Hazel Flynn of the Music Hall publicity department, S. Charles Einfeld of Warners and Herbert Crooker and Sid Rechetnik arranged the thing after a conference. Russell Markert and Gus Eyssel and Willa Van and a few others were called in. They summoned Bert Noble, an archery champion, for technical advice, but he forgot to bring a suit of armor and dodged arrows with the rest.

After the preliminary practice with a half dozen ushers retrieving the arrows 35 Rockettes lined up in front of one target and 35 ballet girls lined up in front of another. Dorothy Meachen, whom everybody called "Toodles," speared the center of the

Zanuck Denies Rumor On N.L.R.B. Ruling

HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—A denial of a report that the studios will not resist the ruling of the National Labor Relations Board if that body votes in favor of the Screen Writers' Guild was issued here last night by Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president and director of production at 20th Century-Fox. The report is "completely without foundation," said Zanuck. Steps to be taken following such a decision have not been determined. Zanuck is chairman of the producers' labor contract committee.

The case of the Screen Writers' Guild against Screen Playwrights, Inc., in which the former seeks appointment as bargaining agent for writers, has been reopened for the introduction of additional evidence. Screen Playwrights, Inc., now holds a bargaining pact for writers. The delay in the case is holding up negotiations of about 15 other employe groups.

The primary question that will be answered by the board's decision is whether the film industry is in interstate commerce or not.

Lab Union to Start DeLuxe Talks Here

Viewing the negotiations as the key to the success of its demands for a closed shop, $25 minimum weekly wage, a 35-hour week and other conditions, the Motion Picture Laboratory Technicians Union, Local 702, on Monday will start discussions with De Luxe Laboratories, where it claims to have 340 members. The union has discarded original plans to deal with the laboratories en bloc and will negotiate individually.

The union has named a negotiating committee consisting of five members of the executive board and five employes of De Luxe. The board members participating are John H. Rugge, William Vermont, Murray Stern, Anthony Annunziato and William Alfano. Vito Marcantonio, the union's attorney, will sit in.

Union Officials Are Charged With Libel

LONDON, April 29.—Two officials of the Electrical Trades Union were summoned to the West London Police Court today for the alleged publication of a libel on the owners of the Kensington Theatre. The hearing was adjourned for one week.

To Discuss Exchange Union Terms Monday

Exchange operations heads of the major companies will meet with I.A.T.S.E. representatives at the Warner home office Monday afternoon to discuss final phases of the basic agreement covering exchange "back room" workers.

He plans to sail for England at the end of May to confer with British producers regarding the Canadian situation, with a view to booking more British product for next season. Also, he is expected to confer with Sam Smith of British Lion on that company's program. Nathanson has a substantial financial interest in the British Lion company.

Meanwhile, J. J. Fitzgibbons, vice-president of Famous Players Canadian, has gone to Hollywood to study the production situation preliminary to arranging schedules for his Canadian theatres, starting in September.

Council to Act on Omaha Censorship

OMAHA, April 29.—The City Council will act May 9 on the proposed ordinance which would give unusual censorship powers to the city welfare board recently appointed by Mayor Butler.

The law calls for an annual $1 permit for all theatres and amusements, whether a charge is made or not. The permit could be revoked at any time by the board without court action. The Omaha World-Herald said editorially:

"This (law) smacks of arbitrary censorship, with a vengeance. It would delegate to a little group the power of veto over many legitimate and lawful cultural activities."

Jules Levy in Seattle

SEATTLE, April 29.—In accordance with the schedule for their current trip, Jules Levy, general sales manager of RKO, and Walter Branson, captain of the Ned E. Depinet Drive, will arrive here tomorrow from Portland for a drive rally. They are accompanied by H. C. Cohen, western district manager.

"When Mozart Was Young," feature film dealing with the early struggles of the immortal composer, will have its Broadway debut shortly, according to Arthur Mayer and Joseph Burstyn, who will distribute in America for Associated British Film Distributors, the producer.

Mexican Exhibitors Must Close on May 1

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, April 29.—Exhibitors throughout Mexico are expected to be hit particularly hard on Sunday, May 1, Mexican Labor Day and the most rigidly observed holiday in this country. All theatres are compelled to close, thus losing revenue estimated at about $30,000, since Sunday is their best day.

Closing is mandatory in order to permit employes to participate in labor organization festivities. The closing is especially hard on those exhibitors who booked pictures that looked promising but turned out below expectation, since booking contracts demand that pictures must be exhibited on at least one Sunday. Thus it is necessary for the films to be held 12 days instead of six.

Trowbridge in New Post

Carroll S. Trowbridge has joined John E. Otterson, former head of Erpi and Paramount, as adviser and assistant, it was said yesterday. He will devote all his time to this connection, retaining his interest in Showmen's Trade Review as vice-president.

Van Schmus Has An Archery Contest; Targets Undamaged

Rockettes' target—maybe because it was her birthday. Marjory Matlin of the ballet corps did the same on the other. Van Schmus presented golden arrows to the winners.

Some of the cameramen photographed the presentation. Others sat down on the roof with their cameras on the asphalt and tried to get close-ups of 140 ankles on one ribbon of 35mm film. One ingenious operator of an eyemo camera laid on his back under a piece of plate glass and photographed an archer from that angle He wanted cloud effects.

When the girls were not chasing arrows they were pursuing green hats labeled "Adventures of Robin Hood." It was windy.

Herb Crooker leaned against a painted concrete flower box and got white powder all over the back of his coat. He asked Rechetnik to brush it off so Mrs. Crooker wouldn't get the wrong impression.

The official announcement following the London conferences that active producers would get 50 per cent of the profits confirmed this impression. Korda and Goldwyn as partners also share two-fifths of the remaining 50 per cent.

Producer Bad, Exhibitor "Lazy," He Declares, Explaining Slump

By IRENE KUHN

The motion picture recession is due more to internal faults and conditions than to general economic trends downward, Samuel Goldwyn said before leaving for the coast.

To prove his contention Goldwyn asserted that whereas department stores catering to mass buying groups reported a loss of only 10 per cent last year, the film industry is claimed by some to have had a greater drop.

Goldwyn included exhibitors in his gallery of censure where earlier he had charged Hollywood producers with responsibility for loss of business. The producing end is bad enough, he opined, but "we're a thousand times worse on the exhibiting side. The exhibitor has made no progress at all. He can only vision ahead a week at a time.

"The exhibitor has become lazy," he went on. "He's no longer the old time showman who used to get out himself and plug a good picture for all it was worth. Now everything is delivered to him in a can.

"Hollywood makes the picture, spends money to advertise it nationally, then goes into individual towns with its own men to help the theatres exploit it, and even gives prizes and bonuses to the theatre manager who

Neely Bill Attacked By Rochester Paper

ROCHESTER, May 1. — The Neely bill, if passed, would spell the ruin of many small exhibitors and producers, according to comment in the Rochester Democrat & Chronicle.

"It would mean the ruin of many small exhibitors and also many of the smaller producers and widespread unemployment in the industry," the paper says. "The Neely measure seems a bad bill, ill considered, not based on the full facts and well designed to bring disillusionment to the independent exhibitors and perhaps disaster to the industry."

N. Y. Critics Divided in "College Swing" Opinions

New York's daily newspaper reviewers expressed a difference of opinion in their criticisms of "College Swing." The highlights of their reviews follow:

Daily Mirror—"College Swing" is . . . a different college picture which will keep the truant officers on their toes . . . all rhythm, all comedy . . . departs from the banal college picture formula.

Daily News—There is little or no continuity. . . . The picture moves rhythmically, tunefully and sometimes comically through a series of vaudeville skits, gags, songs and dances.

Herald-Tribune — "College Swing" is a big, boisterous and generally boring screen musical . . . snatches . . . come under the head of hilarious entertainment, but lamentably few.

Journal-American—A gay and tuneful entertainment, "College Swing" is . . . a rhythmic musical show of amusing gags and exuberant song and dance numbers.

Post—(It) is the kind of oddity that will either delight or depress you. I should say that it is fodder for the very younger generation. . . .The production is smartly paced.

Sun— . . . With plenty of college, plenty of swing, and not much fun. . . . The cast is athletic, and the music fairly good.

Times—We can take nearly all of the ingredients of "College Swing" separately. But when (they are) together in one of those college musicals . . . (it) sends us right out of the theatre.

World-Telegram—The film has its moments of lively merriment. . . . But these merry moments come only after long stretches of feeble comedy. As a whole the film is pretty long winded and sprawling.

Final Philadelphia Game Decree Issued

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—The Common Pleas Court issued a final decree over the signature of President Judge Harry S. McDevitt yesterday banning Bank Night and other games from Philadelphia theatres, effective Monday. Superintendent of Police Hubbs issued orders yesterday that games must be stopped at once, ordering policemen to arrest theatre proprietors who violate the edict. While not specifically mentioned, the decree covers churches and organizations which also use games.

Davis S. Malis, counsel for the Palm Theatre, whose case brought about the order, stated he would file an appeal with the State Supreme Court for a writ to delay enforcement of the decree until the case is argued in the higher court. He said he expected John P. Connelly, counsel for other theatres managements (specifically those using Bonus game) to join him in the appeal.

The least an exhibitor can is to encourage fine pictures to play thout changing three times a week. ange once a week. Keep a good ture two or three weeks. There en't enough fine writers to supply the picture demand."

Has No Specific Advice

Goldwyn would offer no more spe- ic advice to exhibitors than this and e general observation he included in warning to producers that unless ollywood cleaned up, eliminated the fficient people there, produced more od pictures, fewer bad ones, and costs generally, the picture busi- ss would lose its supremacy.

"You know," he said, "the public ver gives any notice that it isn't ning to see a picture. When a ow's no good the people just don't me. I often wonder how the public n organize itself so fast to keep ay from bad pictures."

Goldwyn reiterated his warning that ench and English films may knock ollywood out of top place in picture king. He cited "The Grand Illu- n" directed by Renoir, son of the ench painter, and declared it was most brilliantly directed picture d seen for years. Walter Wanger remaking this for America.

Praises Foreign Pictures

Julian Duvivier's "Pepi de Moka" ne in for praise, as did "Un Carnet Bal," currently showing at the lmont as "Life Dances On." These ns he said cost around $70,000 to oduce, and added that the bulk of cost was for labor.

He has no intention, however, of ducing costs on the five pictures he ll make this year because he cannot, declared, put up a one-man fight ainst the practices of the rest of the ustry.

'I'll just go on making the best tures I can," he said, "and discover- and developing new personalities. st year in 'Hurricane' I had no box- ce names. Nobody had ever heard Jon Hall. But 'Hurricane' was the st successful picture in five years cept 'Snow White.' Give me good ries and I'll make stars."

Gay—Also Cheap

Lincoln, Neb., May 1.—More amusement conscious than any city of its size in the midwest is the rating of this 86,000 population spot. It has five dance halls, three of them averaging three nights weekly operation, nine theatres in the downtown area using 24 features each week, a tent stock company booked for the summer, an amusement park scheduled to open May 15, and three circuses aiming in for the season.

The oddest part of the whole setup is that $5 will see one person through the whole list available.

"Her Private Doctor," adapted by Roger Burford from the novel by Roland Pertwee. Cast to be announced.

"Man With 100 Faces," directed by Albert de Courville from the screenplay by Basil Mason. A. R. Rawlinson and Michael Pertwee. Noel Madison, Lilli Palmer and Tom Walls are featured.

"They Came By Night," starring Will Fyffe, from the stage play by Barre Lyndon.

Alfred Hitchcock's "Perjury," starring Nova Pilbeam.

Jessie Matthews in "Sparkle," with Jack Whiting. Screenplay by Lesser Samuels.

"A Girl Must Live," featuring Margaret Lockwood, Lilli Palmer, Renee Houston. Based on the novel by Emerys Bonnett.

"Death of a Ghost," cast and director to be announced.

"The Girl in the News," with Margaret Lockwood and Michael Redgrave. From the novel by Roy Vickers.

will take 49 per cent of the stock and will operate the exchanges.

Differences between the home office and Adilman gave rise to the offer. It is understood that Adilman is willing to sell. Edward Alperson, president of G. N., believes that the company would obtain greater representation and revenue in the Dominion under home office control.

Alperson and Ed Peskay, distribution head, are conducting the negotiations. Adilman's attorney was here recently to further the sale. As trustee in the reorganization, Alperson is empowered to make the deal, which will have to be submitted to the Federal court in Los Angeles for approval.

G. N. Meeting Postponed

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—Due to Edward Alperson's trip east on urgent business, the Grand National creditors' meeting scheduled here for Monday has been postponed to May 9. Loyd Wright, co-trustee, says that Alperson's conferences in the east are important.

Hammons Studying GN Company Status

E. W. Hammons, president of Educational, said over the weekend that he is conducting a survey of the status of Grand National, but from present appearances his chances of entering into that situation are negative.

He said he has two or three other deals on the fire and that G. N. is only one of the possibilities he is considering for a distribution affiliation. Should he become interested in that company, Hammons would become its head, he said.

Nat Levine recently conferred with Hammons on the G. N. situation, but how Levine would enter the picture is indefinite, as the entire matter is in a formulative stage, Hammons said. He plans a trip to the coast in two or three weeks.

"Robin Hood" to Get Three Big Openings

"The Adventures of Robin Hood" will be given simultaneous premieres at the Music Hall here and at the Hollywood and Downtown theatres in Los Angeles on May 12, according to present plans.

The Warner coast publicity department is arranging a typical Hollywood celebration for the twin openings there. Stars of the film are scheduled to attend, including Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Basil Rathbone and Claude Rains.

Ampa Seeking Fifty Judges for Awards

A committee of 50 or more circuit operators and individual exhibitors is being lined up by Ampa to judge the entries in this year's advertising awards competition, the results of which are to be announced this month.

Among those who have accepted to date are George Skouras, New York; John Balaban, Chicago; Dean Haskell, representing the far west; Ted Schlanger, Philadelphia; R. J. O'Donnell, Dallas; I. M. Rappaport, Baltimore, and J. J. Fitzgibbons, Ontario.

It is aimed to have a committee representing a cross-section of exhibition in the United States and Canada. Greater attention is being paid this year to the merit of the picture and the effectiveness of the local campaigns, rather than merely box-office returns, the Ampa committee said.

The affair is being staged to raise funds for the purchase of mobile motion picture equipment, which will be used to show current films to orphanages, hospitals, shutins, cripples and other youngsters who seldom have an opportunity to see a picture.

There is no charge to the institution at which pictures are shown, all expenses being borne by the club.

Over 5,250 Houses Join Rogers Drive

The number of theatres participating in the Will Rogers Memorial Week mounted to more than 5,250 Saturday, including the important houses in the key cities and 2,000 which are making individual contributions. Audience collections will continue through Thursday.

For the first time, a share of the collections will be contributed to local institutions for handicapped children, where merited, upon completion of a survey being conducted by the Will Rogers Memorial Commission.

All major Broadway houses are participating for the first time, said A. P. Waxman, director of the campaign. During the week theatres are showing "For Auld Lang Syne," 10-minute film made gratis by Warners, for which Eastman Kodak contributed 2,500,000 feet of raw stock. This contribution, made through Ted Curtis, vice-president of Eastman, is estimated by campaign headquarters to be equivalent to $25,000. Similar contributions were made by Du Pont and Agfa. The printing was done by several laboratories at actual cost.

As in the past, theatres may make contributions aside from the house collections. Waxman said the number of theatres participating is a record. B. & K. is taking collections at Loop houses in Chicago for the first time.

The chief beneficiary is the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at Saranac Lake, for members of the industry and the theatrical profession. L. E. Thompson of RKO is chairman of the drive.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 1.—Gordon C. Craddock, manager of the Universal exchange here, has charge of the Will Rogers National Theatre Week in Oregon. Theatres throughout the state are cooperating.

Hollywood Previews

"Sinners in Paradise"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—The paradise of the title is an island well off the Pacific travel lanes and the sinners who spend some time there and undergo certain character changes are not precisely the kind the title suggests to the tabloid public. Two are crooks, two are munitions salesmen, one is an Occidental fugitive from Oriental justice and the others are nice people. John Boles, Madge Evans, Bruce Cabot, Marion Martin, Gene Lockhart, Charlotte Wynters, Nana Bryant, Milburn Stone, Donald Barry, Morgan Conway and Willie Fung are the players. What they do is moderately entertaining and James Whale's presentation of the material is quite screenworthy.

Harold Buckley wrote the story and collaborated with Lester Cole and Louis Stevens on the screenplay. It places Boles and Ping, his servant, on a remote island to which the sea brings Miss Evans, nurse; Cabot, gangster; Miss Martin, also crooked; Lockhart, senator; Miss Wynters, rich girl; Stone and Barry, munitions salesmen, when their trans-Pacific plane cracks up. Boles makes them work for their sustenance. Cabot and Miss Martin reform. Lockhart doesn't change. The munitions salesmen steal the single boat, kill each other and Ping, who, before he dies, brings the boat back to take the others to China, where Boles, a doctor, is to face a charge of murder. He and Miss Evans are to wed after that's attended to.

The general idea has been used a number of times since Cecil DeMille filmed "The Admirable Crichton" under another title as a Thomas Meighan vehicle. It's always interesting. This time is no exception. James Whale directed. Ken Goldsmith is down as associate producer. Cabot has the fattest part. Boles doesn't get a chance to sing but plays the lead admirably. Miss Evans pleases.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Romance on the Run"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—A compactly made comic-melodramatic story of a private detective, an insurance company and jewel thieves is "Romance on the Run," which has Donald Woods, Patricia Ellis, Grace Bradley, Edward Brophy and William Demarest in the leading roles. Action, suspense, romance and comedy are the dramatic elements in the piece, directed by Gus Meins from the script by Jack Townley.

The culmination of the individual efforts, under associate producer Herman Schlom, is a neat entertainment loaf, properly leavened.

Woods, as a carefree private detective, is hired by an insurance man to effect the return of a diamond necklace. In doing the job, he is suspected of implication in the robbery, both by the police and the insurance agent's secretary. In the chase, punctuated by threats from the actual thieves, a switch of spurious gems for the real, a hilarious hillbilly comedy sequence, the gems are recovered and Woods gets the girl—the secretary.

Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

Charlotte Will Try Sunday Shows on Free Admissions

CHARLOTTE, May 1.—An organization, formed here for the purpose of giving Charlotte Sunday shows, numbers approximately 12,000 members. It is sponsoring free film shows starting today, with every theatre in town taking part.

The theatres participating are the Carolina, Imperial, Broadway, State, Charlotte, Tryon, Visulite and the negro houses.

There is no admission charge, no selling of programs, and no expenditure involved on the part of the patrons, with the shows to be shown from 3 P. M. until 5 P. M.

The aim is to show by practical demonstrations that a Sunday afternoon film will not disturb the public peace and disrupt the Sabbath, which the Charlotte Sunday "Blue Laws" prohibit in any form.

Decency Unit Joins International Group

The National Legion of Decency in this country has become a member of L'Office Catholique International due Cinematographe, with the approval of the Episcopal Committee on Motion Pictures and that of the general council of L'Office Catholique.

Short Subjects

"Why Not Live?"

(American Red Cross)

This annual reel sponsored by the organization in its drive for funds is an interesting and compelling document portraying the activities of the various units, which are far from dull. It may be obtained free from local Red Cross chapters. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Penny's Party"

(M-G-M)

Prudence Penny of national newspaper column fame again demonstrates her ingenious culinary talents while Pete Smith supplies the gags and appreciation. It's in Technicolor. There is a howl finish. It will hold the attention of the whole audience. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Out of the Inkwell"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

The amount of imagination that went into the production of this Betty Boop cartoon becomes immediately apparent and later offers a number of fairly entertaining moments. Betty uses hypnotism on a colored porter for humorous effect. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Crossroads of the Orient"

(Vitaphone)

Scenes in color of Singapore. There have been better films on this city but this manages to be interesting. It devotes a great deal of footage to native customs and industries. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"A Mountain Romance"

A fairly diverting cartoon that has to do with the time-honored feud between the McCoys and the Calhouns, hillbilly folk. The animation is all that is required. Running time, 6½ mins. "G."

"The Bike Parade"

(Paramount)

Ted Husing does a commendable job of narrating this interesting subject. The various aspects of the popular return to cycling for recreation are treated with humor and a good amount of photographic appeal. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Three Men in a Tub"

(Roach-M-G-M)

The "Gang" decides to aid Alfalfa in the pursuit of his "affair" by building him a boat so he can race his rival. With a great deal of childish enthusiasm the contest comes off and Alfalfa gets his girl back again. While the rival ponders his predicament, he is slowly sinking. Children will like it. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Dedicate KNX Studios With Day's Program

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—"Columbia Square is on the air." That jubilant cry from the voices of announcers of KNX in Hollywood greeted millions of Columbia listeners today as the new CBS headquarters officially opened for its first day of programs.

Fifteen programs, starting from 6 A. M., P. S. T., and continuing until 12:45 A. M., P. S T, Sunday, spread news from coast-to-coast that Columbia Square was on the air. Also on the network were greetings from various CBS stations throughout the country, but all ears were turned Hollywood-way, where the day of programs was climaxed by a two-hour broadcast from 8 to 10 P. M., P. S. T., in which dignitaries of city, country and state, and radio and film celebrities participated.

Darryl Zanuck Speaks

Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president of 20th Century-Fox, keynoting the films' greeting to radio, said that the new CBS center brings the screen and radio closer together. "Both are part of the same industry-entertainment," he said.

A bejeweled and formally dressed audience witnessed a two-hour program composed of a review of the week's programs. Searchlights lit the skies outside and traffic was jammed for blocks around as hundreds of autograph seekers and fans jammed Sunset and Gower Sts. to see celebrities.

Up in the air, riding through rain clouds, was Knox Manning in a Goodyear blimp, a volunteer to relay by short wave a description of the celebrities leaving the studio and the crowds gathered.

In the lobby of the Columbia Square Theatre was a roving microphone to do a rambling reporter style interview of visitors.

Universities Heard

Among the programs were remote controls from the California Institute of Technology, University of California, Los Angeles University and Southern California; dramatization of radio's news gathering; greetings by film producers to CBS direct from the lots; a tour of Columbia Square; a parade of champions in which Mark Kelly, noted sports writer, brought the past and present sports headliners to the mike, and a tour of Hollywood night clubs by remote.

Charles Vanda, program director, gets the credit for a two-hour program which reviewed the week's CBS shows. Written with script and rehearsed, it was considered one of the most difficult feats to bring order out of the chaos normally attendant upon such openings.

There was only one sad note about the opening. John Mather Dolph, assistant to Don Thornburgh, vice-president, didn't enjoy himself. It seems that there are less than 1,000 seats in the Columbia Square Theatre. Dolph ruefully explained from behind one of the pillars, where he was hiding, that he had had to make 150 apologies daily for the last three weeks to persons for whom he could not find seats.

WGAR Salutes CBS As Power Increases

CLEVELAND, May 1.—WGAR, the CBS outlet in this city, saluted the network today on the occasion of the installation of equipment enabling it to take advantage of the F. C. C. power increase grant. John F. Patt, vice-president and general manager of WGAR, was heard in a brief summary of the station's growth and achievements.

As a result of the F. C. C. ruling, WGAR today began to broadcast on 5,000 watts in the daytime and 1,000 at night, a respective increase of 4,000 and 500 watts.

A PERSPECTIVE OF WILLIAM S. PALEY

RADIO . . . "is of course a business. But for the most of us who are making it our life's work, it is much more than a great economic enterprise. We regard it likewise as a magnificent opportunity to help make people wiser and happier, whatever may be their station in life."

The words "magnificent opportunity" in this statement by William S. Paley, which was made during a talk in 1934 before the Federal Communications Commission, seem today like the perfect summary of their author. This opportunity is to be traced to September, 1928, when he became president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, then a network without a station of its own. The combination of prophetic vision and an enterprise which in anyone else would be called daring has enriched a career in a pioneer field that is scarcely less than unique.

Today Columbia is the world's largest single network with 113 stations from coast to coast linked to its New York key station. Its record of achievement runs parallel with Mr. Paley's life of crowded, progressive activity and of quick intellectual ripening. But, about the origin of that life:

Paley was born in Chicago September 28, 1901 and grew into a youth of average interests whom other North Shore youngsters knew they could depend on to bat out a few good ones on their sand-lot baseball diamonds.

He attended Chicago's public grammar schools and then went to the Western Military Academy in Alton, Ill., from which he was graduated in 1918. He served as a lieutenant brevet in the Illinois National Guard and that fall matriculated into the University of Chicago.

His father, Samuel, was president of the Congress Cigar Co., makers of La Palinas, and during summer vacations young William joined him. One year the junior Paley was sent to Cuba to study the foreign tobacco market.

At such a vacation time in 1919 he went to Philadelphia with his father to open a branch factory. Just as the plant was got under way Samuel Paley was called back to Chicago by his father's death. William was left behind, dramatically placed in full charge of a new tobacco factory.

That was his first real business experience. It thrust upon him a sudden and weighty responsibility relatively not unlike those into which he was deliberately to plunge himself in later years.

Paley then entered the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania. There he distinguished himself in school activities by managing the swimming team, and in his studies by earning the Bachelor of Science Degree in Economics with which he was graduated in 1922.

He returned to his father's business as production and advertising director. As advertising director he sponsored a radio program for his product, which gave him an opportunity to study the infant broadcasting industry and foresee its tremendous possibilities. When he learned that the interest of Jerome Louchheim, a family friend, in the Columbia Broadcasting System was for sale, the new career of William S. Paley was assured.

WILLIAM S. PALEY
President, Columbia Broadcasting System

His aims in buying it, however, amounted to what seem today like a paradox. He figured it as a job of reorganization that might take six months, after which it should be able to take care of itself. Twenty-one days later a different realization dawned on him.

"I was in radio about three weeks," he has said in reviewing the circumstances, "when I decided that that was my career. My imagination went wild over the possibilities of radio. But wild as it went, it didn't go wild enough to keep up with the realities."

Columbia under its new president began with two studios in Steinway Hall, offices in the Paramount Building, and a network of twelve leased stations. There was no key station until three months later, in December, 1928, when Mr. Paley purchased WABC from Alfred Grebe, the radio set manufacturer. The development of Columbia since then to a nationwide network of 113 stations is a separate story.

The intervening years have spelled for Paley a story of courageous ventures and startling innovations as he has watched for his "magnificent opportunities . . . to help make people wiser and happier." By far not the least of these was the revolutionary statement of new Columbia policy effected July 30, 1935. By this he reduced to a maximum of 10 percent of the broadcasting period sponsors' commercial announcements on programs after 6 P. M., and to a maximum of 15 percent during day time sponsored programs.

The second of three points in this pronouncement set a new standard in children's programs by prohibiting certain types of treatments unhealthful to juvenile minds and engaging a child psychologist, aided by an advisory board of qualified experts, to interpret this policy. The final point banished from Columbia all programs advertising products for the relief of human ailments not considered acceptable topics in social groups.

PIONEER IN ARTS

▣ Paley has been a radio pioneer in the arts by maintaining as a sustaining program the Sunday afternoon concerts of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, taking two good hours out of sale for the purpose in the early days of radio when the popular appetite for such fine things was a doubtful quantity. For eight years he has maintained these broadcasts and the public response is classic proof of mass capacity for good things as well as trivial ones.

Paley took another noteworthy step in the realm of fine music when Columbia endowed a group of prominent contemporary composers to write especially for radio.

A dozen young men have been seeking new forms in the art of dramatics in the Columbia Workshop, and for eight years millions of children have been finding history brought to life through the new artistic forms of Columbia's School of the Air.

In January, 1938, Paley named Lyman Bryson, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, chairman of the Adult Education Board which now has three separate weekly evening programs in process, embodying a new concept of learning for men and women through the medium of radio.

Personally, Paley has a gift for working and an equal skill in m[illegible]ing others work and enjoy it. [illegible] ability to drop things with amazing speed, however, gives him also the gift for playing. He likes travel, motoring, cameras, the theater, motion pictures music, and any number of novelties which appeal to him today and are abandoned tomorrow.

He has the executive's share of nervous energy and a knowledge of how to control it. Sometimes he is a farsighted planner; now and then he follows a hunch. When it turns out wrong, as many do, he is the first to realize it. His average, however, weighs heavy on the successful side.

He is an inexhaustible listener, even to things he knows all about. Because he likes to get the complete view of another man he will allow him to talk himself out on a subject and often never reveals that he was well acquainted with it in the beginning. He is an unusually fast thinker and a genius at figures. His aptitude for detecting flaws at a glance in long columns of numerals is almost uncanny.

His youthful appearance sometimes embarrasses him. He has been addressed as "son" by important clients who asked to see his father. Once a former college classmate, spying him in a restaurant, robustly slapped his back and invited him to share his passes to a Columbia broadcast.

Particularly humiliating was his interview, back in those pioneer days, with a dairy executive whose account he sought. After a long discourse, elaborately detailed with diagrams on a luncheon tablecloth, the dairy chief blandly inquired which network Mr. Paley represented, the red or the blue.

His office, in Columbia's present headquarters at 485 Madison Avenue, which he rarely leaves before seven o'clock, reflects the hand of an interior decorator in its pine panelling, its fireplace, its well-placed, deep-cushioned furniture. The recesses in the wall at either side of the fireplace were meant to hold books but he has filled them with the microphones of the original stations of the network.

The Beekman Place house where he lives with Mrs. Paley is one of Manhattan's finer residences. Among his more simple pleasures is entertaining friends there, seeing carefully to it that they are shown the only tree in that street, which is in his back yard.

Theoretically, he clings to the established rules of good living: early hours and a balanced diet. In practice, as do all men, he follows his own code.

At least in one instance even his own regulation has been violated. He had planned to retire at 35. Then he changed the deadline to 40.

He doesn't talk about that any more.

CBS EXPANSION A MAJOR MIRACLE OF U. S. INDUSTRY

Progresses from a chain of 16 small stations to a point where it now is the world's largest single network

By JACK BANNER

▣ The growth of the Columbia Broadcasting System in the 10 years of its existence is one of the major miracles of American industry. Since the September day it was founded in 1927 it has surged forward through a decade of roaring progress, expanding from a chain of 16 small stations east of the Mississippi to a point where it now is—and has been for some time past—the world's largest single network, with 113 stations linked to it from coast-to-coast.

Historians of radio have set down this period as the "CBS Decade."

In its first calendar year of operations in 1928, CBS had billings of $1,647,828. Last month CBS grossed $3,055,929—almost three times as much revenue for the single month as for the whole of the first year. Last month's figure, incidentally, marked the first time in the history of broadcasting that a monthly revenue on any single network has exceeded the $3,000,000 mark. To complete the comparison between the first year of operations and its last calendar year, CBS last December closed its books with a total business of $28,722,118.

A further contrast: In 1928, the gross expenditure per client was $48,278, while in 1937 the average expenditure per client had risen to $326,639.

Viewing Columbia's development from the point of station expansion, t started from scratch with 16 stations of the not-so-hot variety (NBC having gobbled up most of the better ones by virtue of the fact that t had about a year's head start). Today its 113 links make it the greatest single radio network. And the size and calibre of its stations have matched its expansion. In 1928 it had but four 5,000 watt stations, oday, 11. Stations of a 1,000 watts are the backbone of radio. When CBS opened operations it had but four of them. Today it boasts 46. Summing up the station statistics, the picture can best be conveyed in this fashion: In 1928, total night wattage of the CBS stations was 28,750, while today the total night wattage is 703,400.

SPONSOR LOYALTY

▣ Here are examples, pulling them out of a hat, of ways in which dvertisers have increased their loyalty to CBS. Carborundum Co. pent $33,000 for air time with CBS in 1930, $114,690 in 1937. Lever Bros. tried CBS in 1936 with $715,-19 of air time, last year $2,182,123. Pet Milk tried CBS originally with an expenditure of $161,054, in 1937 it spent almost five times that much with CBS. Now look at General Mills. In 1930, $271,809; 1937, $1,238,912.

The CBS monthly program book tells a story of loyalty of advertisers to CBS. Oldest consistent user of the network's facilities is General Baking Co.—over seven years. Here are a few picked at random: Wm. Wrigley Co., 305 weeks; R. J. Reynolds, 248 weeks, Liggett & Myers, 271 weeks, Gulf Oil, 230 weeks, Ford Motor Co., 217 weeks.

In the interim between 1928-1937 a lot of other things have happened, of course, but further statistics can wait until the more colorful events that preceded the actual launching of the network are considered. . . .

The story has its real beginning in the late fall of 1926, when Arthur Judson—then and now the friend and manager of the world's leading concert artists, met a salesman of street paving machinery named George A. Coats. An incongruous pair, one would say. A manager of concert artists, and a drummer in steamrollers. They did have something in common, however. Both had simultaneous itches to get into radio.

Judson was attracted to radio because in broadcasting he discerned a possible outlet for his clients. Shortly before, RCA had organized the National Broadcasting Co., with WJZ as the key station for the Blue network and WEAF as the foundation for the Red. Judson had set up the Judson Radio Program Corp. and had sought to sign an exclusive artists service contract with NBC, but they would have no part of his idea.

Coats owed his decision to forsake the selling of street fixing machinery for a fling in the fledgling field of radio to one of those seemingly unimportant accidents that so often prove to have far reaching consequences. A guest in a New York hotel during a convention of radio broadcasters, he had blundered into their meeting room, listened to the talk, asked a few questions, and decided forthwith that radio might be a good business to get into.

Just how Judson and Coats got together is one of those mysteries, but get together they did and their meetings resulted in the formation of the United Independent Broadcasters, Inc. Others who were taken into the corporation were Edward Erven and his mother, Mrs. Harold E. Yarnell, both working for Judson as co-managers with him of the Philadelphia and New York Philharmonic orchestras; and last but by no means least, Major J. Andrew White, who was a radio celebrity even in those early days of the business. It has never been revealed how much money was put into the corporation at the start, but whisperers have said it was about $7,500.

That was the beginning of the venture that has developed so spectacularly. That pipsqueek of a company for some time afterward had a difficult time keeping a step ahead of the sheriff, but it ultimately turned out to be the Columbia Broadcasting System, which last year earned a profit of a mere $4,297,600.

THE FIRST STEP

▣ Having formed a network on paper, Judson and his partners took their first real step toward turning it into a reality by contracting with WOR to serve as its key station. Thereafter Coats and Erven took off on a station signing expedition. When they returned to New York they bore contracts from 16 stations. Here are the original 16:

WCAU, Philadelphia; WGHP, Detroit; WADC, Akron; WOWO, Fort Wayne; WKRC, Cincinnati; KMOX, St. Louis; KOIL, Omaha; WNAC, Boston; WGAS, Pittsburgh; WFBO, Syracuse; WAIU, Columbus, and WMAQ, Chicago. WOR was the sixteenth.

As a lure for the station owners, however, Coats and Erven had guaranteed each one a weekly income of $500 from the United Independent Broadcasters, Inc., to be paid when network service started. That contract for a long time threatened to strangle United, as will be seen.

As a matter of fact, it will be seen sooner than expected. United, of course, had no such money in its treasury. Yet it could not begin network service until it was able to finance such a program. For a period it appeared that United would founder even before it sent out its first program, but an angel appeared along about this time in the form of Louis Sterling, head of the Columbia Gramophone Co. Alarmed by the increasing popularity of radio and by rumors that RCA was about to take over control of the Victor Talking Machine Co., Sterling purchased the controlling interest in United Independent Broadcasters.

An operating company called the Columbia Phonograph Broadcasting Co. was set up and on September 19 the new network made its debut.

In three months Louis Sterling gladly sold back (gave back might be the better word; United Independent returned to him about $10,000 and some air time on its network) the operating company to messrs. Judson, Coats, Erven et al. In his short experience as a network operator, Sterling lost an estimated $100,000 a month.

This time it was Judson who saved the apparently permanently ill-starred broadcasting company from collapse. One of the stations in the network was WCAU, and the owner of the station, Dr. Leon Levy, was a friend of Judson's. To Levy, the concert manager confided his troubles. Levy, in turn, went to his friend, Jerome H. Louchheim, a Philadelphia millionaire and sportsman, and by September of 1927 United Independent Broadcasters again was a solvent company, with about $150,000 of Louchheim's cash behind it.

Still threatening United's destruction, however, were the $500 a week station guarantees made by Coats and Erven. Realizing that something had to be done, Louchheim sent Major White out on the road with a new contract, which the Major induced every station to accept. Meanwhile, United Independent Broadcasters adopted the name of its operating company, dropping "phonograph" to become the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Enter, at this time, William S. Paley, he who was to chart a new and brilliant path not only for

CREATORS OF THE WORLD'S

Picturing executives and personnel who have contributed to Columbia's proud growth in its decade of operations and service

EDWARD KLAUBER
Executive Vice-President
. . . A medal awaits the biographer who can obtain his career data. Even his own press department lacks his biography. Served as city editor on New York Times. With Lennen & Mitchell before joining CBS in 1930.

HERBERT V. ACKERBERG
Vice-President, Station Relations
. . . A technician with the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Ackerberg worked closely with the network, joining as assistant Chief Engineer in 1929. Succeeded Sam Pickard to the present post when latter stepped out a year later.

FREDERIC A. WILLIS
Assistant to President
. . . Keeps the network functioning properly "in the public service" to the satisfaction of the Federal Communications Commission. Of social register stock, he joined CBS in his present capacity in 1930.

DONALD W. THORNBURGH
Vice-President, Pacific Coast
. . . A protege of H. Leslie Atlass, under whom he served as executive assistant in Chicago up to 1935. When CBS increased its activities in California in 1936 Thornburgh became head of coast operations.

PAUL W. KESTEN
Vice-President
. . . Quit college to join the Marines as buck private in 1917. Army hitch over, he entered the advertising field, and in 1930 joined CBS as Director of Sales Promotion. Elected vice-president in 1934.

H. LESLIE ATLASS
Vice-President, Chicago
. . . First contact with radio was in pre-war days when with a brother, Ralph, he built a ham "spark" station. In the 20's the brothers built WBBM, selling it to CBS in 1929. Brother Ralph now manages WJJD-WIND.

WILBUR B. LEWIS
Vice-President, Programs
. . . After two years of journalism, Lewis joined J. Walter Thompson as an apprentice. Coming to CBS in 1935 as Commercial Program director, he was elected to his present position the following year.

FRANK K. WHITE
Treasurer
. . . Was Business Manager of the publication News Week when Mefford R. Runyon decided to relinquish his CBS treasurership in order to devote all his time to general executive work. In 1937 White took over the post.

MEFFORD R. RUNYON
Vice-President, Board Director
A Jerseyite and Rutgers graduate, he went into accounting following shedding of cap and grown. While a public accountant acted as auditor for CBS and subsequently appointed treasurer, a post since relinquished to White.

HUGH K. BOYCE
Vice-President, Sales
. . . It is no exaggeration to label him one of the shrewdest sales directors in the country; his record with CBS attests to that. He joined the network in 1930 as Director of Sales, CBS taking him away from the agencies.

LAWRENCE W. LOMAN
Vice-President, Operations
. . . Since 1928 he has supervised special events, dramatic series, continuity, speakers, artists, educational features and mechanical problems. Started as a credit manager for a business house in his native city of Philadelphia.

HARRY C. BUTCHER
Vice-President, Washington, D.C.
. . . The Board of Directors elected him a vice-president in the winter of 1929 when he was managing the Washington office of the network and serving as President of the Old Dominion Broadcasting Corp. (WJSV).

A PROBLEM IN STAR MAKING:

HOW IT'S MET

HERBERT I. ROSENTHAL
Director, Artists Bureau

Talent does not arrive wrapped in cellophane—it's created. Through the medium of the Artists Bureau unknowns are unearthed and developed

This complex business of broadcasting consists of something more than the presentation of so many programs each day of the week. The talent with which these programs are peopled and the ideas serving these same shows as themes must be unearthed, developed and sold to trade and public. All of the foregoing is, of course, by way of saying that Columbia Artists, Incorporated, is an immeasurably important adjunct of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Columbia Artists came into being in January, 1929, a few brief months after the formation of the network, and through the course of the intervening near-decade, has kept proportionate pace with its parent in physical growth and increase of functions.

Measuring the stature of an organization like CAI, one examines first the roster of artists discovered and developed. On this point there need be but little discussion, for CBS has long been famed—and acclaimed—for the many outstanding personalities who have paraded before the public under its aegis. Of the Crosbys, the Boswells, the Street Singers, the Kate Smiths and the Mills Brothers of several years ago, we are all aware, while recent years have seen Jerry Cooper, Buddy Clark, Oliver Wakefield, Barry Wood, Al Pearce and his Gang, Virginia Verrill, Dan Seymour, Ralph Edwards and that highly personal impersonality, the Saturday Night Swing Club, come to the fore.

There was a time, and that not so long ago, when CAI auditioned regularly from 50 to 100 persons and ideas each day. It is an historical fact that the concert and variety worlds, now solidly allied and deeply involved with radio, were confusedly reluctant to enter the new field. While that state existed, it was the task—and a full-time one—of CAI to cast about incessantly for talent. Though the percentage of usable people and ideas was pathetically small, probably less than one of every hundred being worth a minimum of attention, it was from the ranks of these aspirants that most of the aforementioned stars were culled.

With radio an adult of impressive dimensions, auditioning methods have undergone a change. There is no longer a place on any major network for the amateur (excepting amateur programs), no matter how promising, and before the would-be broadcaster gets a hearing he must demonstrate certain qualifications. He is, however, in every instance, given an interview. Thus, with a degree of selectivity injected into the process of auditioning, there is a natural increase in the ratio of satisfactory auditioners.

This method of selective auditioning precludes the possibility of a recurrence of the situation which prevailed until a comparatively short time ago, when new personalities by the score each few months were introduced to network audiences—personalities whose talents were never of the very best, and who, for that very reason, quickly faded, to be replaced by another crop of similar calibre. By this new method the professional mortality rate in radio, once exceedingly high, has been lowered appreciably. Once established in radio today, the artist can be expected to continue on the air almost indefinitely.

Recent trends and developments within CAI stem from the appointment in October, 1937, of Herbert I. Rosenthal as Director. A network pioneer, having become affiliated with CBS immediately after graduating from New York University nearly nine years ago, Rosenthal arrived at his new post thoroughly prepared to put into effect a number of management reforms and innovations.

Connie Boswell and Buddy Clark are two among the many current favorite who owe their ether standing to the Artists Bureau. Buddy's stardom is recent development, while Connie is one of the Bureau's early discoverie

Chief among the Rosenthal introductions was the initiation of a policy of personal representation. In other years, artists entered the broadcasting field thoroughly schooled in the ways and pitfalls of show business, having served an apprenticeship in vaudeville, night clubs and other entertainment media. Not so today, however, with so many performers coming to the microphone str[illegible] from their homes.

Recognizing this, CAI now offer its clients the personal guidanc which is so necessary to thei careers, tells them which appearances aid and which appearance handicap their progress, attends t their legal problems, gives them ful publicity coverage, aids in the selection of their music and in genera bestows upon them the care and attention afforded in the past only b the individual and expensive personal representative. These advantages, coupled with the power an resources of a giant organizatio make for happy artists and a progressive CAI, which in turn ad up to better broadcasting.

If additional material is require to demonstrate the streamlining CAI, a glance at its personnel roster should provide the clincher.

The day of the old-time bookin agent, the chap who was prepare to sell artists of whom he kne little, for entertainment media which he knew less, has run i course. In its stead we have th moment of the specialist, the representative who is completely awar of the artist's capabilities and limitations and is in possession of detailed knowledge of at least one production field.

CAI, needless to say, is staffed b men of this latter type. Concentrating their efforts on radio are Mac Davis, Jimmy Appel, Ed Cashma Walter Smith and Dell Peters, whil Paul Ross is busied with vaudevil and club bookings, Albert Schneide functions as the motion picture contact and I. S. Becker is concerne only with the business managemer of the organization. Publicity fo the bureau and its clients—who, incidentally, number almost two hundred—is in the hands of Allan Melzer, a former newspaperman an publicist.

Reaching the Ears of the World's Listeners on the Short-Wave Bands

Columbia's international station W2XE today occupies a position well to the fore among the short-wave stations of the world

▣ The international short-wave division is today receiving more attention than any other non-commercial department in radio, thanks to a lesson taught American broadcasters by the European dictators, whose warped political philosophies have been carried to this continent, particularly the Latin Americas, by short-wave.

It was but a short time ago that American broadcasters belatedly began to do something about counteracting the flow of poisoned thought emanating from the antennas of the dictator nations. The antidote is now being administered in full measure, and it isn't being done with propaganda, but with programs of good music, news of worldwide and local interest, and broadcasts of general cultural and educational value.

Columbia's international short-wave station, W2XE, has made rapid strides since it became a distinct unit on May 2, 1937, and has forged ahead until today it occupies a position well to the fore among the short-wave stations of the world.

W2XE was established on May 20, 1929, mainly as a short-wave relay for programs of the Columbia network. But then a modern, high-power transmitter and directional antenna system were added to its equipment in 1937, and its existence as a unit began with a broadcast to Latin-America of the British Coronation ceremonies.

Two days later, a special broadcast to Latin-America was sent out. Miss Elizabeth Anne Tucker, formerly of the engineering department, was put in charge of the programs, and under her direction W2XE's schedule, which started with two programs a day, has been expanded so that CBS's international station averages several programs a day now, and frequently puts as many as ten a day on the air. W3XAU picks up and relays most of them.

Three foreign-language commentators were added to the staff for special broadcasts sent to Latin-America. On Fridays, A. Pinto-Tameiro speaks in Portuguese, from 7:00 to 7:15 P. P., EST, to Brazil. Alberto Zalamea, speaking Spanish, is heard every evening, Mondays through Fridays, from 6:45 to 7:00 P. M., and Americo Lugo-Romero, most recent addition to the staff, broadcasts a news program on Wednesdays from 7:45 to 8:00 P. M., EST, and on Saturdays and Sundays from 6:45 to 7:00 P. M., EST.

In addition, Senor Lugo-Romero makes the announcements in Spanish for the following programs: Wednesdays, Andre Kostelanetz's program; Thursdays, Victor Bay's Essays in Music; Fridays, Coca Cola's Song Shop; Saturdays, The Hit Parade, and Sundays, The Ford Sunday Evening Hour.

Broadcasts to Europe are given in English, but whenever the occasion calls for them, translations in French, German and Italian are also short-waved. A fortnight ago a Press Radio news and morning stock prices program was added, directed across the Atlantic every day, Mondays through Fridays, from 1:30 to 1:35 P. M., EST.

That W2XE's broadcasts are attracting an ever-increasing audience is testified to by the steadily growing volume of mail which keeps coming in to Miss Tucker. E. K. Cohan, director of general engineering for CBS, also got first handed evidence, on his recent trip to Europe, of the rapidly growing interest in W2XE's short wave news broadcasts.

Europeans and people in the Eastern Hemisphere are discovering, Cohan declared, that American short-wave news broadcasts are a medium whereby they can get world news uncensored and unflavored by nationalistic propaganda as it is in most of the foreign broadcasts and in the foreign press.

"When I left for Cairo," he said, "I had only the vaguest hope that I would be able to find someone in Egypt who listened to Columbia's international short-wave station.

"But, as it turned out, I had a real job to find someone who wasn't a constant listener to it, both in Cairo and throughout Europe, wherever I traveled.

"Because of my position, I was deluged with requests that Columbia increase the length and add to the number of its daily short-wave news broadcasts." Columbia's engineering chief reported that W2XE is heard clearly and powerfully at Cairo.

W2XE'S SIGNAL STRENGTH

▣ Cohan's findings corroborated the results of a six months' series of exhaustive tests completed several months ago by the Union Internationale de Radiodiffusion from its headquarters in Brussels. These tests, conducted by expert radio technicians to determine the relative increase or decrease of the intensities of a large number of short-wave stations when they switched to and from antennas directed toward Europe and other parts of the globe, while employing the same frequency band, definitely showed that W2XE's directional antenna systems were the most efficient of all.

The graphs of signal intensity drawn by the engineers in the tests disclosed that the CBS international station showed a greater increase at Brussels, when it switched from South American to European antennas, than did any other station cooperating.

The letters Miss Tucker gets from England, India, Tasmania, Australia, Brazil and many other parts of the world tell how avidly foreign audiences listen for the broadcasts short-waved them by W2XE and W3XAU.

W2XE's equipment incorporates the very latest developments in radio, developments which heretofore had been applied only to transmitters operating at conventional intermediate or low broadcast frequencies. These developments include such features as all A-C operation, high level modulation, elimination of fuses in all power and control circuits, substitution of ceramic coils in place of the rubber hose coils previously used for insulating the high power vacuum tubes from the water supply, and the elimination of all wood insulation from the equipment.

OPERATING PLANT

▣ The plant at Wayne has exceptional fidelity characteristics. The audio frequency characteristic of the transmitter is substantially flat between from 30 to 10,000 cps. the response is uniform within 1 db from 100 to 5,000 cps and with plus or minus 1.5 db from 30 to 10,000 cpbs. the r-m-s values of audio harmonic distortion, within the range of 50 to 7,500 cps, do not exceed 4 per cent for any single modulating frequency between 0 and 100 per cent modulation.

The unweighted overall noise level at this transmitter is more than 50 db below 100 per cent modulation. This low level is partially secured through A-C filament operation. Low level audio frequency amplifier tubes are provided with indirectly heated uni-potential cathodes. All radio [illegible] audio stages are connected in [illegible] pull, and an additional reduction in hum is obtained by connecting the tube filaments in the last radio stage on a two-phase supply, thus partially cancelling the hum. Hum compensating apparatus is employed which introduces into the audio stages 60 120 and 180 cps, 180 degrees out of phase, with similar frequencies generated by the transmitting equipment.

W2XE is primarily interested in serving Europe and Central and South America. To increase the field strength of this station in these directions, antennas were erected capable of giving an average gain of 10 per cent in desired areas.

European coverage, from direction antenna design standpoint, is not as difficult as South American coverage since the great circle paths from New York to most of the important cities in Europe lie within a relatively narrow angle; whereas coverage over the great part of South America requires antennas which have an appreciable gain over an angle of from 35 to 40 degrees. Non-directive and semi-directive antennas are also available for use when directivity is not required. Each of the antennas is fed by transmission lines which are matched and balanced.

These lines are connected to a unique rotary switch which permits a rapid selection of any one of six antennas now available.

Returning to the program aspect of short-wave broadcasting, there is every reason to believe that despite the present step-up in service, it will be further increased shortly. CBS has made no mention of what it is planning, but it is reported that its international department is due shortly for further acceleration.

Bob Bradley, Al Packard and Vern Taschner, members of the technical staff of W2XE, are pictured operating a transmitter during a recent broadcast. Columbia's short-wave station is located in Wayne, New Jersey.

Concert Management Arthur Judson, Inc.

▣ In accordance with long-established policy the combined list of Concert Management Arthur Judson, Inc., and the Wolfsohn Musical Bureau of New York, Inc., represents a judicious balance between established and rising artists, international celebrities and home-grown favorites. All in all, there are 57 artists including the pianist Vladimir Horowitz, who does not return until the season after next.

Under the Judson-Wolfsohn aegis for many seasons and announced again for 1938-39 are such personalities as soprano Lucrezia Bori, violinist Jascha Heifetz, baritone Nelson Eddy, pianist Jose Iturbi, violinist Joseph Szigeti, 'cellist Gregor Piatigorsky, pianist Robert Casadesus, contralto Kathryn Meisle, flutist Georges Barrere, and the duo-pianists Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson. Nelson Eddy will continue to divide his time between the cinema, radio and concert tours. Heifetz's fame will find a new public next year following his film debut. He makes his first picture for Samuel Goldwyn this summer. The motion pictures have also made offers to Iturbi and Piatigorsky but neither has as yet made a decision.

Another screen candidate is Bidu Sayao, the Brazilian lyric coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan. She has scored notably in such roles as Mimi, Manon, Violetta and Juliette and has had equal success in her first American concert tour. Another singer in the Judson list who next season goes to the Metropolitan for concerts is Rose Pauly.

Pride of the bureau is the group of young artists, each of whom, in his or her own way, has grown artistically during the past year. This circle includes the pianists Muriel Kerr and Eugene List, the violinists Iso Briselli, Marjorie Edwards, Joseph Knitzer and Stephan Hero, the sopranos Agnes Davis, Rosa Tentoni of the Metropolitan, Helen Marshall and Carolyn Urbanek, and the Metropolitan contralto Anna Kaskas.

New on the list are: Lucy Monroe, soprano; Edwina Eustis, mezzo-soprano; Eyvind Laholm, tenor; Lansing Hatfield, baritone; the pianists Daniel Ericourt, Reginald Stewart, Ida Krehm, Boris Golschmann and Julius Katchen; the 'cellist Joseph Schuster. Miss Monroe the past season has sung with the St. Louis Municipal Opera, the Metropolitan Opera Spring Season, with the Philadelphia Orchestra, in addition to considerable radio work. Miss Eustis is now engaged in concerts and opera in Europe. Laholm is the American born tenor of the Berlin State Opera who came back to his native land this past season after an absence of 14 years, to sing opposite Flagstad in "Lohengrin" and "Walkuere" with the Chicago Opera. Lansing Hatfield is a promising young southern baritone who played a leading role in the stage success "Virginia" in New York City last year.

Three American tenors of the Metropolitan continue to do active concert and radio work as well as on the dramatic stage: Frederick Jagel, Charles Hackett and Charles Kullman. The latter has made one American film, "The Goldwyn Follies." New to the Metropolitan this past season but familiar to concert audiences here and both the concert and opera public abroad is the Hungarian contralto of the Vienna Opera, Enid Szantho.

Among the younger sopranos who are scoring in both fields is Hilda Burke of the Metropolitan and Charlotte Boerner who made a great success with the San Francisco Opera last autumn. A young American contralto whose career, begun abroad, should awaken interest on her return next season is Rise Stevens.

The Judson-Wolfsohn list also contains Michael Bartlett, who sang the tenor lead in "Three Waltzes" this season, Lanny Ross, tenor of the air who has just returned from a winter in Hollywood followed by an extensive concert tour, and the tenor Edouard Grobe; British baritone Keith Falkner who has made several English pictures for Warner Brothers, the American baritones Wilbur Evans and Ray Middleton—the former has been singing weekly on the Vicks Hour with Jeanette MacDonald, and the latter, who was under contract to Paramount, is making a spring concert tour of the Coast.

Three pianists remain to be accounted for: Amparo Iturbi, Ernest Hutcheson, dean of the Juilliard Graduate School, and Jose Echaniz.

The Barrere Little Symphony, the unique Barrere-Britt "Concertino," the Coolidge String Quartet and the Gordon String Quartet, the solo dancers Lisa Parnova and Carola Gitana complete Judson-Wolfsohn's "57 Varieties."

Metropolitan Music Bureau

▣ Important new attractions are conspicuous on the list of the Metropolitan Musical Bureau for season 1938-39. Foremost among them is the transcontinental tour of Beniamino Gigli, who returns to America after an absence of several years, appearing in early October on the Pacific Coast with the San Francisco Opera Co., and later appearing with the Chicago City Opera Co., and in recital in many cities.

Also making her debut with the San Francisco Opera Co. in the fall will be the new lyric soprano from La Scala of Milan, the Royal Theatre of Rome and the Salzburg Festivals, Mafalda Favero.

In early November the Hungarian violinist, Robert Virovai, will make his American debut as soloist with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony, followed by an extensive tour.

The Spanish pianist, Eduardo del Pueyo, will make his American debut as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony next February.

After a successful New York debut on January 26th, the Mozart Boys Choir of Vienna will have its first transcontinental tour next season under Dr. Georg Gruber, conductor.

Starting next October, a new edition of the Mordkin Ballet will make a second transcontinental tour under the management of Columbia Concerts Corp. Among the new dancers in a company of 60 will be Patricia Bowman. Others who will have leading roles include Lucia Chase, Leon Varkas and Dimitri Romanoff. A special orchestra will be conducted by Mois Zlatin. Mikhail Mordkin will appear in every performance. The company has a repertoire of eight complete ballets for which the scenery and costumes have been designed by Serge Soudeikine. The repertoire includes the world premiere of "Trepak," the [illegible] creation of Mordkin to music specially written by Alexandre Tcherepnine.

The dancer, La Meri, whose "Dances of Many Lands" have won unanimous praise, will also make her first American tour next season.

Lily Pons, coloratura soprano, will again fill a crowded season of concert and radio, in addition to her appearances with the San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago and Metropolitan Opera Companies.

Richard Tauber, the Viennese tenor, will return for a two months' tour in February and March, 1939.

Grace Moore, favorite of opera, concert, cinema and radio, will again appear with the Metropolitan and Chicago Operas, also in concert and radio.

Lotte Lehmann, Lieder and opera singer of four continents will appear again in opera, with orchestras and in recital.

Sigrid Onegin, contralto, returns for a transcontinental tour in January, February and March, 1939.

Richard Bonelli, American baritone, will again appear in opera, concert and on the air; James Melton, American tenor, will have his first Coast to Coast recital tour.

Other singers who will divide their time between opera and concert are Joseph Bentonelli, tenor; Rosemarie Brancato, coloratura soprano; Helen Olheim, contralto; Chase Baromeo, bass. Messrs. Bentonelli and Baromeo, together with the Misses Josephine Antoine and Helen Olheim, all American-born members of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will join in a tour as the Metropolitan Operatic Quartet.

Important instrumentalists on this list available all season are Albert Spalding and Harold Bauer. Others who will spend a half-season are Gaspar Cassado, cellist; Andres Segovia, guitarist; Vronsky and Babin, duo-pianists; Simon Barer and Emile Baume, solo pianists, and Callimahos, the Greek-American flutist.

The fascinating personality Angna Enters, will have her fourteenth consecutive coast to coast tour in her program of episodes, based on contemporary and ancient life.

Community Concerts Association

Through the medium of the Community Concert Assocation plan, membership audiences have been organized in cities of all sizes throughout the entire United States and Canada. Over 400 cities are now operating concerts on a permanent basis with capacity audiences. This has created an unprecedented interest in musical celebrities, enhancing their value manyfold when they are engaged for radio or in motion pictures, having a prepared audience awaiting their performance on the radio and in motion pictures.

Evans and Salter

"Great musical artists of the opera and concert stages create the same public appeal in radio and motion pictures," is the conviction of Evans & Salter. "For a great personality registers always. Through the magic of radio, tens of millions, instead of tens of thousands, thrill to the performances of such artists as Tibbett, Menuhin, Martini, Jepson, Gorin, Bampton—to mention a few from our personal list.

"We believe that these artists and many others under the various managements have an even greater message to give through the medium of the motion pictures. Our experience has been that 75% of those transcendent qualities in an artist which make for great mass appeal in his personal appearances, are other than his singing or playing viz., his personality, magnetism, and that indefinable something called 'The Divine Spark.' We claim that the motion picture, even more than radio, is better able to portray to unlimited millions this combination of gifts that make up the musical genius.

"A glance at the Hollywood picture production record proves eloquently that a majority of the most successful pictures are those having a musical background.

"For instance, Yehudi Menuhin, who is now stirring England and the continent with his glorious playing, having drawn the other night in London's Albert Hall over $15,000 in a single performance at a $5.00 top, or Lawrence Tibbett, who is now sweeping vast audiences in Australia to unbounded demonstrations, or again Nino Martini, who is singing to sold-out auditoriums in America, will be able to appear in person in only a comparatively few of the major cities of these countries.

"It stirs the imagination to visualize the untold millions in the great cities throughout the world, and the many smaller cities, never visited by such artists, who would flock to see and to hear them through the medium of the motion pictures at a 75c top. But, such artists must be presented in the type of production which would portray their unique artistry and the individualism that has raised these artists to fame. That is the problem of motion picture production, insofar as great music on the screen is concerned, and undoubtedly the production genius of Hollywood will solve it. There certainly is a vast, eager market awaiting them. Who would have believed a short while ago that 'Snow White' could be successfully produced?"

Haensel and Jones

The roster of artists under the management of Haensel & Jones for the season 1938-39 comprises many distinguished in concert and opera, on the air and in pictures.

There are six sopranos. Natalie Bodanya is now making recital appearances; next season she will again devote herself to recital before and after her regular engagements with the Metropolitan Opera. She has appeared over the air as guest artist on the Kraft Hour and in a 13 weeks series over WJZ. Winifred Cecil, former prima donna of "Show Boat," this season on Lucky Strike and Coca Cola broadcasts, makes her debut in the current Gala Spring Season of the La Scala Opera in Milan, Italy; she returns to the United States next fall for concerts and radio. Elen Dosia, beautiful leading soprano of the Chicago City Opera, will be introduced to American concert audiences in January, 1939, in a tour of joint recitals with her husband, Andre Burdino. Jessica Dragonette, "America's Queen of the Air," who has supplemented radio with the success of her first concert tour, will continue to combine recital appearances with radio in 1938-39. Gunda Mordan's bookings embrace re-engagements and new appearances with Frederic Baer in their popular duet programs. Jeannette Vreeland, an established concert favorite, includes many appearances with major symphony orchestras and choral societies on her current schedule and for next year. She recently gave a recital over the Columbia network.

Bruna Castagna's contralto art is as popular on the radio as in recital and opera; within the present 12 months her engagements include appearances on the RCA-Magic Key,

GREAT MUSIC—and great artists—are the firm foundation of great entertainment everywhere. In motion pictures, the public demand for great music is swiftly increasing from day to day. In radio, the world's finest music is found in leading programs, which continue on the air year after year. Other forms of radio entertainment depend largely on material whose popularity is periodic. There are no cycles for great music. ¶ Columbia Management of California, Inc. is a major link in the world's most complete management service for musical (and other) stars of recognized brilliance. The quality of its talent is unequalled in every field of first-rank entertainment. ¶ Columbia Management represents its own artists—and all the artists of the Columbia Concerts Corporation and of Columbia Artists, Inc.—for motion pictures and radio on the Pacific Coast. In all Eastern engagements, Columbia Management clients and artists enjoy complete management service directly from the Columbia Concerts Corporation or Columbia Artists, Inc. ¶ These three great talent organizations span the world—wherever great music and great artists are heard.

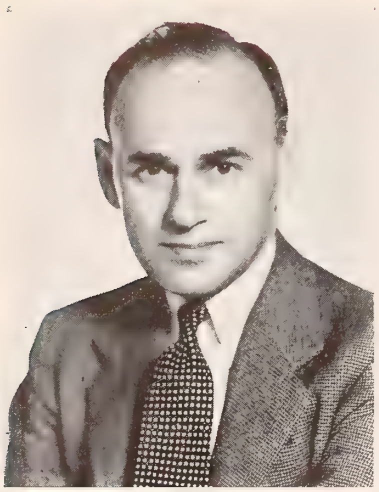
TELEVISION VEIL DRAWN BY SELDES

Gilbert Seldes, well-known author and critic and Columbia's television program head, describes television as it is today and its future possibilities



GILBERT SELDES
Television Program Director

Dr. PETER GOLDMARK
Chief Television Technician

Motion picture people will probably understand better than anyone else the exact position of the development of television. Every time a better camera was built, an improvement in programs became possible. Development of film, lenses—everything down to cutters' tools and drying racks, ultimately have an effect on what the public will see in the theatre. Satisfactory lighting made it possible to go indoors in the early days and process shots make it possible to extend the range of the camera without going out of doors nowadays. The two things—technical invention and program work—hang together.

The situation in television is this: the inventors are still at work and are convinced of two things—that they have got the basic problem of television solved and that a considerable amount of work remains still to be done before the instruments are perfected. Nearly everybody agrees that the way to create animated images to be sent through the air is by using a stream of electrons and that the best method so far developed is some form of the cathode ray tube. So much has been done in the few years since this method was discovered that the scientists and engineers are confident that they can make the picture you receive clearer and brighter or, if it is desirable, larger. The common size of a television receiving screen is about eight by ten inches; screens half this size have been made and at the same time screens double this size and even larger.

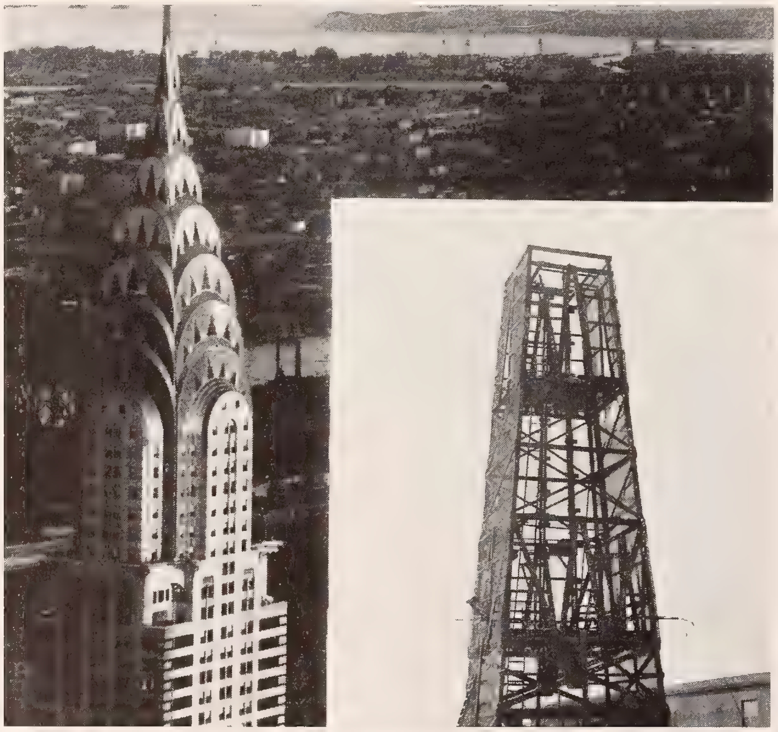
NEW DEVELOPMENTS

These developments affect the program department directly. If we were limited to the tiny four by five screen, we might not dare to put more than two people before the television camera at any one time—a third and fourth character might be nothing but a blur. If we have an 18 by 20 screen, we can probably populate the studio with a reasonable number of individuals—not a Hollywood mob scene, but five or six people of moderate size, moving freely without crowding one another. As the camera becomes more sensitive, our range again will increase and our handling of sets and costumes will become more effective. During the past year vast improvements have been made in vital respects. Cameras have increased sensitivity several times over and the method of projecting on to a large screen has reached a point of practical demonstration.

Programs are being constantly planned and transmitted in various parts of the world. In England they are done publicly and at public expense; the British Government levies a tax on every radio instrument and part of the receipts are used for television—about one and one-half million dollars a year. This has been going on for more than 18 months now and although there have been some spectacularly successful transmissions and the cost of receivers has been cut in half, the total number of individually owned sets in England has been, by their own reports, rather disappointing to the British. And their critics complain that the entertainment value so far offered them simply does not justify individuals in buying receivers.

In America the experiments are being done privately and at private expense. Programs are transmitted and for the most part are seen by those who are working on television. No one who has seen so much as a single transmission has any doubt of the ultimate place of television in the field of American entertainment, making a trio with radio and the movies, displacing neither of them, probably drawing from both of them, and certainly developing independent qualities. And similarly, we working in television for Columbia feel that you cannot offer the American people, with its very high standards of technical excellence and entertainment value, a new form of entertainment which is still imperfect and undeveloped. As it stands now, the sum total of engineering plus program experience does not quite add up to the requirements of popular entertainment. That is basically the reason, I think, why it has not been offered to the public—and it is a good reason. To hurry an immature television would be to put back the development of satisfactory television by many years.

Television is neither a novelty nor a toy, but a highly complicated enterprise which must proceed gradually to establish itself. At the present time the effective range of transmission is between 30 and 40 miles. There are various ways of increasing the coverage, but network television is an extremely expensive operation. Here again the relation between the engineers and the Program Department is very close. If a miracle should happen and network television should become possible overnight, we would still have problems to solve, but the enormous multiplication of our potential audience would make a vast difference for the future. We would still have to be sure that television was technically right—but if it was right, we would have the millions who live all over America to back us up instead of the far smaller number of millions who live around one of the three or four great centers in which television will probably make its beginnings.



Columbia's television transmitter when completed will be housed in the spire of the Chrysler Building. The inset is not an oil-well derrick. It is an exact "electrical reproduction" of the top of the New York skyscraper, erected for experimental purposes at Camden, N. J., where the transmitter is being built.

NO FILM RIVALRY

People keep inquiring how television will affect the movies and seem rather disappointed to hear that the chances are 10 to one against any sudden effect of any sort taking place. (Remember that 20 years after the motor car was invented there were still as many horses in the United States as there had been before the first man got under his car to find out why the darned thing didn't go.)

It is true that you can take any black and white film and put it in front of television scanner and transmit it with excellent results. We cannot yet satisfactorily transmit color film and the prospects of reception in color are very distant indeed. This is a fact of great importance to us because it means that when we need an outdoor scene connecting two studio sequences, we can have one made and insert it into a program as easily as a film cutter would do it with film alone. This practical possibility may lead to some interesting forms of collaboration between movies and television and if you want to look 100 years ahead, you may guess that theatres will cease to exist because every man will have a theatre in his own home. But I would not encourage that form of guesswork as a practical matter. The physical conditions of television make rivalry with film studios difficult and the financial differences make rivalry virtually impossible. I am not speaking of either the movies or television

FOCUSING THE SPOTLIGHT ON THE RADIO ENGINEERS

To keep the ether steadily bombarded with radio impulses 16 hours a day without interruption is a seeming miracle. The miracle is accomplished by the engineers

▣ Sixteen hours every day, anyone, anywhere in the United States, can sit down and enjoy a CBS broadcast. The engineering facilities which make possible this seeming miracle comprise the largest radio network in the world—113 stations joined together for better service to America and serving both Europe and South America through the powerful, international short-wave transmitter, W2XE.

Responsible for the perfect functioning of this vast communications organism is the CBS general engineering department operating under the direction of E. K. Cohan and A. B. Chamberlain.

The department falls into five divisions, charged respectively with the audio, radio, short-wave, station construction, and network operations aspects of broadcast engineering.

It is the department's collective duty to keep the ether steadily bombarded with a vast army of radio impulses, traveling 186,000 miles per second and succeeding one another at the rate of from 550,000 to 1,600,000 cycles per second.

To accomplish this, day in, day out, without a second's interruption. is one of the most complex and far-reaching tasks ever undertaken by any body of engineers. In terms of concrete activity, it means that CBS directly supervises the manifold engineering activities of the nine stations directly owned and operated by Columbia; renders a consulting service to the remaining 104 broadcast stations in the chain; operates international short-wave station W2XE on a daily program schedule to Europe and South America; supervises the operation of some two dozen short-wave and experimental transmitters throughout the country, and carries on un-remitting laboratory research to improve broadcast equipment and operating efficiency.

In addition, Columbia's engineering executives take an active part in co-operative efforts of broadcasters within the country and among the leading nations of the world.

The design, testing and installation of the audio equipment for the new Columbia-KNX broadcast center in Hollywood is one of the outstanding studio projects recently completed by CBS engineers.

Others are new audio facilities at the studios of WBBM, Chicago; WKRC, Cincinnati; KSFO, San Francisco; WCCO, Minneapolis; WJSV, Washington, and KMOX, St. Louis.

Some idea of the complexity of these installations may be gained from statistics on the new Hollywood projects. For the seven studios and radio auditorium, there are 50 microphones, 100 amplifiers, 250,000 feet of connecting wires and cables, over 1,000 tubes, indicating lights, and relays.

CBS INGENUITY SOLVES STUDIO PROBLEM

Lacking a centre such as Radio City to house the studio audience, CBS engineers convert three tenantless theatres in New York and two in Hollywood ▣ Fears of modern engineering ingenuity have been accomplished by CBS technicians in turning three New York and two Hollywood theaters into the Radio Playhouses used by Columbia for audience broadcasts.

Control rooms were carefully constructed where boxes had been before. Special listening rooms where the programs could be seen through glass windows and also heard just as they were going out over the air, were specially built—at the side of the stage if possible, or in the rear of the house as was necessary at Playhouse Number One, the former Golden Theater.

All three of the New York Playhouses—the former Golden, the Avon, and the Hammerstein—were chosen because of their excellent acoustical properties.

Acoustical excellence in a theatre is not judged by any haphazard method. For two days staff engineers are assigned to the prospective Playhouses to make tests.

Two or three engineers, armed with equipment, spend hours in the auditorium, checking on sound reverberation. They determine, by instruments, what the echo is likely to be. They listen, record, chart, and diagram.

One of the most difficult theaters to treat was the Hammerstein. A subway runs underground, elevated trains roar past the stage door, and there is an electric power plant nearby. All of these noises had to be eliminated in order to use the building for radio broadcasting.

They literally created a "floating" radio studio at the Hammerstein.

Under the original flooring they placed a layer of felt, a layer or wooden beams, another layer of felt and another layer of beams. The crevices were filled with rock wool. Next came a layer of asbestos, a wood floor, a third layer of felt and a final cover of linoleum. By this elaborate treatment, the stage was made completely free of vibration.

The wall next to the elevated was lined with pressed rock wool to offset the roar of the trains.

To combat the vibration and noise from the subway and the neighboring power plant, the beams upon which the interior of the house are built were rested on blocks of cork.

And to make completely sure that no outside noise could creep in, all exits were given double lead-lined rubbed sealed doors, known technically as "sound locks."

Huge modernistic baffleboards have been built over the stage to prevent any audible "kick back" into the microphones of noises from the auditorium.

About the only thing left intact were the seats and the high Moorish ceiling.

In the Hollywood playhouses, many of the same technical developments have been used. In the Music Box, on Hollywood Boulevard near Vine Street, the control room has been built seven feet above the stage to give increased visibility to the directors of the Radio Theater of the Air who use the Music Box every Monday night.

Columbia owns the CBS Radio Playhouse on Vine Street, from which Joe Penner, Edward A. Robinson, Al Jolson, and the Hollywood Hotel cast broadcast.

Sometimes supplementary playhouses are used—the Wilshire-Ebell on the Coast, for instance. And, in New York, the New Amsterdam, the Apollo, and the auditorium of the Barbizon Plaza Hotel.

A good-sized staff is necessary to operate these elaborate radio playhouses.

In Hollywood theatre operations are in the hands of George McCaughna. In New York, George Lehman has charge of all studios outside the CBS building. Lehman has three house managers—Thomas Malone in Number One, Jack Paige in Number Two, and John Wallam in Number Three.

Jack Page came to the managerial position from the regular CBS maintenance staff. John Wallam had a long background of managing legitimate theaters, for the Selywns, among others.

Besides the manager, each playhouse staff includes the following: three stage hands (a prop man, an electrician, and a carpenter), a stationary engineer and fireman, a page boy who acts as stage door man, and nine or ten additional pages to usher at the actual program.

Lehman has a list of about 36 college students on whom he calls for broadcast ushering. There are also two regular Playhous porters to each house, and a matron.

Lehman himself is a graduate architect who was in charge of construction at CBS before he took over the theater operations.

Lehman has found that managing a network of theaters brings up many problems that wouldn't occur to an architect right off.

Sometimes there will be two shows in one playhouse, each of them using a different stage set, on the same day. This means seeing that the stage hands understand which set belongs where and getting it up in plenty of time, without interfering with the program's orchestra or cast.

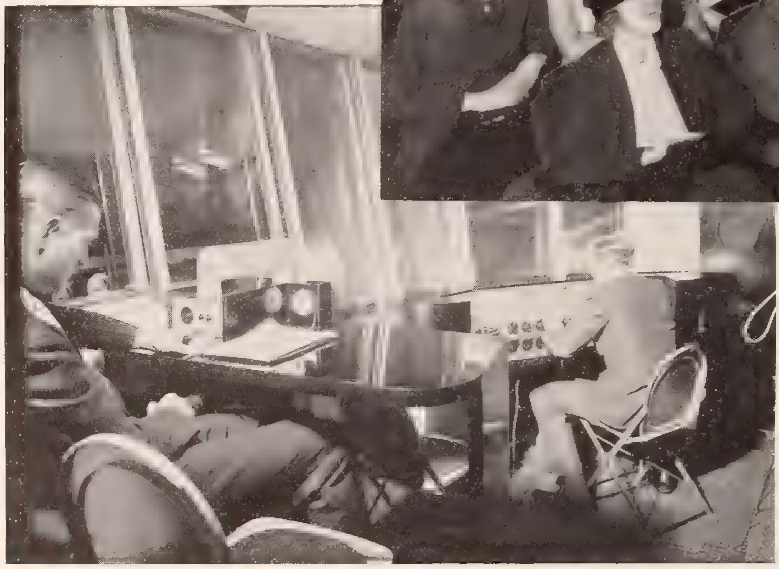
The radio playhouse idea grew o of two main considerations.

Columbia received many request from listeners who were much i terested in seeing a broadcast tak place. Before the setting up of th playhouses, these requests were im possible to take care of because mos studios were not big enough to han dle a large audience.

Then, too, many radio stars wer used to an audience. They foun it more stimulating to work in th presence of a number of peopl Comedians like Eddie Cantor, Be Bernie, Phil Baker, Joe Penner, A Jolson all say it's easier to get you stuff over when you can gauge i effect on an audience.

Today, many of the radio pro grams give performances for tw audiences. They have a pre-view the actual broadcast for an aud ence, and make extensive changes i their program on the basis of ho the pre-view audience has reacte

This, they feel, gives them a bett opportunity of sending out over th air a program that has been teste on real people.



The above vista of laughing faces was caught by the cameraman from the stage of the Hammerstein Theatre, now Playhouse No. 3, during a broadcast. One of the most difficult theatres to treat was the Hammerstein. A subway runs underground it, and elevated trains roll past its doors. To eliminate these noises the engineers literally created a "floating" studio. Shown at left is a control room.

COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM AT 'COLUMBIA SQUARE' HOLLYWOOD

KNX AT COLUMBIA SQUARE HAS SUPERLATIVE NEW HOME

First major construction in the land of motion pictures ordains radio the brother of the cinema in the entertainment world

By VANCE KING

Columbia has built for the present—and the future—of Hollywood as a point of emanation of transcontinental radio programs.

From the 100 foot square copper matting imbedded far underground to the penthouse gymnasium on the fifth floor of the main structure, the group of buildings at Columbia Square is as modern as tonight's "bulldog" edition of tomorrow's newspaper.

Yet they were planned for the future, as was the entire layout of Columbia Square.

The present group of buildings occupies only a portion of the tract of ground, but the foundations have been so strengthened as to permit the addition of other structures as time and necessity may demand.

Equipment of the most modern type—$750,000 worth, in fact—has been installed, but room has been left for short wave and television experiments.

A little more than a year ago, ground was broken by Columbia Broadcasting System for the new building. It signalized the first major network construction program in Hollywood, thereby unofficially ordaining the community long upheld as the land of motion pictures as one of the most important centers in radio broadcasting—brother of the cinema in the entertainment world.

The principal building is a five-story structure at Sunset Boulevard and El Centro Street which houses seven studios, two audition rooms, and many offices. Set back the width of it, in the center of the tract, is a theatre seating 1050 persons, with a balcony. On the Gower Street corner is a two story building which will house offices of the Columbia Concerts Corp. and Columbia Artists, Inc., and, on the ground floor, a branch of the Bank of America, and the Radio Center restaurant.

First step in the construction was the burying of a 100 foot square copper matting to serve as an electrical ground. In the basement above that, space was set aside for the power and heating equipment and maintenance work and storage rooms.

The entire set of buildings is built of reinforced concrete insulated against shock, sound-proofed, and air-conditioned, utilizing the latest methods devised by expert technicians and consulting engineers.

Most modern, too, is the use of a color scheme planned to avoid unconscious loss of nervous energy, under a theory once laughed at but now recognized by industry as an axiom of employe comfort and efficiency values. Even the furniture is is sympathy with the general color scheme, in which grays, blues, and yellows predominate.

Approach to the main entrance of Columbia Square is via a walk and driveway through a patio already abloom with flowers and shrubs. After passing through one of the many glass doors, the visitor can see the glass-enclosed master control room, with its plugs, lights, switches, wire, dials, and interstudio communications system.

The control room, located on the ground level, is visible from the patio and the street sidewalk.

An information booth and public telephones are near the two elevator doors on the first floor, and reception rooms for the four studios, as well as dressing rooms for performers, are also on the ground level. So is a radio equipment workshop at the rear of the building.

Two of the studios in the main building are two stories high. These will seat 250 spectators on the same level with the entertainers. The second floor allows windowed rooms for sponsors to watch the broadcast in progress beneath them.

Three smaller studios are on the second floor, adjoined by offices.

The largest of the broadcast theatres has its entrances on the ground level to the right of the master control room. The entire ground floor of the auditorium is covered with rose-peach carpet on which are placed 610 orchestra chairs, wider and deeper than usual seats and with longer arm rests. In the balcony, which extends quite close to the stage, 308 similar chairs are in rows between carpeted aisles.

THE STAGE

The stage opening is 50 feet wide by 27 feet high, draped by a grey curtain upon which blue letters spell CBS and KNX. Noticeable is the absence of footlights, which eliminates the difficulty some actors have in reading their scripts in the glare of the light shining upward. Besides standard lights in the wings, the set is lit by three overhead borders, the one nearest the audience being also equipped with spotlights for principals in each radio company as well as a series of white, amber, red, and blue lights which are controlled on a separate electrical circuit. Spotlights over the two booths—one on each side of the stage and above portions of the audience—provide additional illumination.

The booth on the left hand side is used by technicians operating controls of the broadcasting apparatus and the booth on the right is intended for sponsors.

Each booth is glass enclosed, with the glass set at an angle from the perpendicular so as to prevent distracting reflection of light and to eliminate possible sound distortion as well. Each window consists of two panes a few inches apart so that the space between them can serve as sound insulation and the double glass is joined without mouldings to interrupt vision.

All lights are controlled from a switch room on a backstage mezzanine.

On the floor of the stage are placed the microphone outlets. Connections are available for 10 microphones, a number far in excess of any normal quantity required to broadcast a show.

At the rear of the ground floor, a narrow window, at eye height, permits late comers to watch proceedings on the stage without disturbing the audience or performers bv entering the theatre. The glass is double with sound insulating air space between. Overhead are loud speakers.

The standing room is in itself a sound lock. A wall separates this narrow space from the general foyer of the theatre, making it possible to admit the tardy to rear seats without admitting street noises to the theatre studio.

On the fifth floor are the offices of Donald Wayne Thornburgh, CBS vice president in charge of Pacific Coast operations, and those of his assistant, John Mather Dolph, reception rooms and two audition rooms.

Atop this floor is the penthouse gymnasium, to be in charge of Dick Kline, former Paramount studio physical conditioner, who will eliminate jaded executive paunches, stenographers' flattened hips, and publicity men's "morning afters." Rowing machines, stationary bicycles, exercising devices, rubbing tables, table tennis, and showers are included among the equipment. A space has been set aside for sun bathing.

In the basement is a curious room "full of nothing." It is called a reverberation chamber, to be used exclusively for creating echo effects. When a script calls for a speaker to address a crowd in a large auditorium, his voice will be reproduced in the chamber and picked up again by a microphone there. On the air, the hollow tones suggest vast space.

William Lescaze, one of the most distinguished of contemporary architects, designed the Hollywood buildings, incorporating in them may advanced ideas. First to introduce from Europe the use of glass brick in American building, Lescaze has made the east wall of the five-story building bright with lateral continuous windows. All offices have horizontal windows.

Walls of all studios are "floating." That is to say the walls are not attached rigidly to the floor and ceiling of the building. In this way jolting of street traffic will not set up wall vibrations to affect the sound of programs being broadcast from the studios.

Calling in Dr. Vern O. Knudsen, professor of acoustical engineering at the University of California at Los Ageles, as consultant for the project, Lescaze made a startling innovation. None of the walls of any studio are parellel with the opposite wall. Even the window of the monitor room is set at a single angle. Sound reflected from any of these surfaces is thereby diverted away from the mircophone and interfering echoes are eliminated. Sound proofing material of the newest design also is used throughout each studio.

The walls slant inward from floor to ceiling. The angle at which they are slanted is scientifically determined to neutralize "flutter," even that attendant upon sudden, loud noises.

ACCOUSTICS

The studios are built with "live" ends, where sound is reflected, and "dead" ends, where much of the sound is absorbed. Sound absorbent curtains are arranged at the live ends to permit easy modification of the studio's acoustical properties in accordance with program requirements.

Studio walls and floors are double, the outer surface being "floated" on the inner. In some instances walls are built of glass brick, each unit of which contains a vacuum pocket to deaden all noises and vibration. The glass brick walls also serve the added function of admitting a soft, even light.

In the lighting, the studios have been designed to save the eye from the strain of constant re-adjustment over the wide range of light intensities characterizing ordinary illumination. Indirect light sources are built into the walls and ceilings to produce an even, shadowless distribution of illumination.

The color scheme has been figured scientifically. Pale hues take away the sense of a closed in, windowless space; while the use of two or more colors for the wall of the same studio gives a feeling of greater space. Lightest colors are used where the most reflection is required.

The huge air conditioning machines needed for their extensive job are on the third floor, which is otherwise devoted to additional office space. Sharing the fourth floor are the sales force and the CBS photographic gallery and portrait studio.

In use now and perhaps years ahead of general architectural developments are the buildings and equipment of CBS's new Hollywood buildings.

When changes do come, Columbia is prepared.

There still remains a huge portion of ground, now used as a parking lot for CBS employes and visitors, on which new structures can be built.

When the layman thinks of radio, he thinks of personalities—famous names. But ask the broadcast engineer, who the REAL performers are.

He'll give you great names, but not of entertainers. He'll mention names like Cornell-Dubilier. He'll talk of the solid, in-built dependability of C-D's. And should you ask him, "Why always Cornell-Dubilier condensers?", he'll tell you that in radio there is no substitute for a reputation built on engineering experience.

When radio men specify C-D's you know they are thinking of the twenty-eight years Cornell-Dubilier has devoted exclusively to the building of condensers and of the world-wide reputation those years have won for the product behind the C-D emblem.

. . . instruments engineered to the job guard volume level at KNX

Volume Level Indicators in the new Hollywood Studio of C.B.S. have been specially designed by WESTON engineers working in collaboration with Columbia's technical staff.

Precise monitoring of programs is a vital element in assuring a high standard of signal quality, and these specially-designed WESTONS go a long way to aid the monitoring operator at this critical point. The instruments have a speed of response rapid enough to show modulation peaks, but at the same time sufficiently under control to reduce fluttering to a minimum, and forestall eye-fatigue on the part of the operator.

WESTON Volume Level Indicators are available in more than a dozen standard types, with characteristics closely attuned to the needs of broadcasting and other communications work. In addition, the WESTON engineering staff has an unexcelled background of experience in meeting other instrument requirements in radio, motion picture work and allied fields. OLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM AT 'COLUMBIA SQUARE' HOLLYWOOD

HE'LL "SELL" NEW STUDIOS

D. W. THORNBURGH, Vice-President in charge of Pacific Coast Operations

By VANCE KING

Most of Donald Wayne Thornburgh's life has been linked with salesmanship.

Now, as vice president and general manager of Columbia Broadcasting System's Pacific Coast operations, he is faced with the greatest selling task of his career.

He is going to "sell" the public a knowledge of the inside workings of broadcasting.

For the first time in the history of radio broadcasting, an effort will be made to place a comprehensive idea of the inner machinations of this portion of show business, by explaining the production of programs from idea through technical details to receiver, in the hands of the general public.

This will be done at the new $2,000,000 building housing CBS' new Hollywood home, Columbia Square, where visitors will be shown about the offices and stages, participate in a specially prepared broadcasting script and hear themselves on the microphones and on records, hear technical details explained, see and take part in sound effects demonstrations, watch the effect of their voices on an oscillograph, and generally have unveiled for them the "mysteries" of the airlanes.

"We're going to 'sell' radio to the public, and thereby create a greater bond between network and listener," Thornburgh explains.

"Radio has been too much of a mystery to listeners. They turn on their sets, hear a program, and turn them off. They know nothing, or little, of the production, the writing, the preparations, the technical details, the sound effects.

Thornburgh, who in 1930 "got into radio by accident" and in seven years was promoted to one of the highest posts in the Columbia system, goes about things directly.

"We have found by a series of experiments of our own and those conducted by guide services that the success of holding tours of any kind depends on the number of stops which permit the visitors to participate in some phase of the activities.

"Therefore we have prepared a script which the visitors will enact for their own amusement. A director in a sound booth will supervise the program. The visitors, who will be taken about in parties totalling not more than 15 in a group, will see their voices registered on the oscillograph.

"The insulation of the air conditioning ducts which lead from studio to studio will be illustrated by actual practice. In the sound effects room, another script will be enacted, with a complete demonstration of all the sound effects instruments being made.

"Then the final microphone appearances of the visitors will be recorded, and the platters given the visitors to take home."

Another innovation in radio circles will be the establishment of an information bureau on the second floor. There from eight o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night will sit a staff of operators, to answer every conceivable question about radio. A huge filing system containing information of stars, producers, writers, free gift offers made on the air, down to final copies of the scripts of radio show will be kept there to aid the operators in replying to the queries.

Thornburgh disclaims personal credit for the project. In characteristic modesty he describes it as "a conglomeration of ideas of the staff which just grew into something big."

Thornburgh's entry into broadcasting came, he says, as an "accident." Identified with selling and advertising since 1915, except for a two-year period during which he served in the United States Army during the World War, Thornburgh was recommended to the officers of the old Cosmos Broadcasting Co. in Chicago in 1930 by a friend.

He took the job proferred him—a combination of selling radio time and arranging programs.

"I never had any idea of getting into radio, but this job looked interesting," he said. "The Cosmos organization was closely allied with Columbia Broadcasting in that it purchased two hours of time, and then resold it.

"Then Columbia offered me a job, and in April, 1931, I went to work for CBS."

Several years later, he became assistant manager to Leslie Atlas, western manager of Columbia, and last July was sent to California as vice president in charge of Columbia's activities on the Pacific Coast.

Now 44 years old, Thornburgh, a former captain of the field artillery of the Army, is a very quiet person whose placidness belies his forceful personality. Under his direction, the Columbia network has greatly expanded its Pacific Coast activities and the Hollywood studios have become one of the most important points in the network's structure.

But despite his many duties as Columbia's Pacific Coast head, he still remains a master salesman.

He has arranged for merchandising displays of products being advertised on CBS programs and the displays will be placed along the routes taken by visitors on the conducted tours through the studios.

SOME NOTES ON ART RUSH

By WILLIAM R. WEAVER

"Tall, dark and handsome" is Hollywood's phrase for men who look like Arthur Rush. "Big" is its word for men who do his kind of job. He is 31 and down 16 pounds, to a 170 that would do for ringside, as we meet him on his first day at work after 10 in hospital. Affairs of the Columbia Management Corp., which include the Pacific Coast affairs of some 300 artists under contract to Columbia Concerts Corp. and Columbia Artists, Inc., must have knotted at least a few minor snarls while the surgeons were having their way with the managing director, but his desk is clear and his brow's uncreased.

Art Rush is young, but not boyish. He is big, not bulky. Handling a temperamental tenor would be easier for him than most. He handled big men and little, temperamental and just plain beefy, at Bethany College in West Virginia, which he left a four letter man, to go to the University of Chicago in 1925. He learned more about all kinds of men, big and little, inside and out, at that institution's Rush School of Medicine, founded by one of his forebears and a sort of scholastic home-sweet-home to this descendant.

Radio looked good to the graduate from the day he was handed his sheepskin and strolled down the Midway to find out what the world was like down there past Lorado Taft's slightly discouraging Procession of Time. A lot of young men who became great writers had strolled down this Midway before him. Most of them—Ben Hecht, Theodore Dreiser, Carl Sandburg and such—had settled down in the neighborhood foregathering nightly in one or another of the dingey World's Fair, and launched a mail attack on the world of literature. Art Rush went to Buffalo later to Shreveport, writing, directing and producing radio shows, any kind, place or time, and all this devotion led, of all places, to a Hollywood motion picture studio—a big one—and a post in the production department thereof.

In 1934 Art Rush took charge of Victor recordings and electrical transcriptions on the Pacific Coast. Electrical transcriptions were not then a vital item in the Victor scheme of things. He made it one. Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy and a host of varied talents came under his direction, for recordings. Many or most of them are under his direction in Columbia Management Corp., which he established in September of 1937 with a staff of one secretary and operates today with an office personnel of 10. With removal of the offices from the Equitable Building at Hollywood and Vine to new and larger quarters in Columbia Square, the staff will grow some more.

Back of Art Rush's broad right shoulder as he sits at an unlittered desk two pictures challenge notice. One is an enlarged closeup of a particularly happy baby's face. That is Junior, aged 19 months. The other is of Junior's mamma, although an uninquisitive visitor might go away with the impression she is an actress. She is. She was Mary Jo Matthews before she became Mrs. Art Rush and the happy baby's mother.

The Rush family lives in Beverly Hills. He keeps that physique Bethany used to root for in track trim by golfing some and riding somewhat more. He's a Mason and something of a joiner, dividing his social activities between the Uplifters Club of Santa Monica, the Los Angeles Advertising Club and (for this is, after all, California) the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

ARTHUR RUSH, manager of Artists Bureau and Col. Concerts, Pacific Coast

Art Rush has ideas about what's to become of radio. And motion pictures. He thinks they're going to experience, whether, by plan or force of mutual interest, a gradual but impressive and ultimately congenial fusion of identity. He thinks screen talent will be used more rather than less in radio as time passes and regards the present tapering off of radio commitments as a not disproportionate manifestation of the general business trend. His brow is as uncreased, saying this, as when we came in. We leave and a blond soprano with trouble in her eye takes our chair. We don't think she'll ruffle him much.

CBS GROWTH

Columbia, but for the entire radio industry.

One of radio's earliest commercial successes was the "La Palina" Hour, which in 26 weeks of broadcasting on CBS increased the sale of the product from 400,000 to 600,000 units a day. The Congress Cigar Co. was owned by Samuel Paley and Paley's son, William, was the company's advertising manager.

The success of the "La Palina" hour caught the eye of Young Paley, and this interest led him to a consideration of the commercial possibilities of radio. An added reason for his interest in radio was the fact that Dr. Leon Levy, whose station WCAU had been the very first one to join the United Independent Broadcasters, Inc., had become his brother-in-law. By this time Dr. Levy had given up his dental practice to devote his full time to the now profitable business of broadcasting.

PALEY BUYS CBS

Accordingly, when Louchheim indicated his willingness to dispose of the bulk of his holdings, the Paleys, Junior and Senior, and the two Levy brothers, took them over. The price has never been divulged. In September, 1928 a short time after he acquired control, Paley was elected President of United Broadcasters. Three months later Paley made the network a definite and vigorous broadcasting and advertising factor by expanding the network to a chain of 49 stations. At the close of the year he combined United and Columbia into one corporation under the name of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and in January of 1929 he became president of the network.

A volume the size of "Gone With the Wind" could easily be filled if one wanted to do complete justice to Columbia statistically. However, a chart on page three of this section will give a clear idea of how prodigious the network's development has been.

Organizations in Affiliation with Columbia Concerts Corporation

Shell Chateau, Standard Brands, Lucky Strike and Ford broadcasts. Elizabeth Wysor, who has been heard over the Columbia system and other networks, will give her third New York recital next fall.

Among the tenors, Paul Althouse, is a member of the Metropolitan Opera Association, a recitalist, and in radio. Andre Burdino, tenor of the Chicago City Opera, will share with his wife, Elen Dosia, in their initial concerts here next January. Richard Crooks, of opera, concert and radio, long associated with the Firestone Hour and other major networks programs will sing in all three of these mediums next year. In the summer of 1939 the tenor goes to Australia for his second tour there. Santo Di Primo, new young dramatic tenor, has demonstrated in his frequent appearances this season that there is a need in the American music field for his particular type of voice. Allan Jones continues his career in motion pictures and in radio. Because of his Hollywood commitments, he is available for only a limited number of concerts. Ernest McChesney has made steady progress as one of the important young tenors.

The baritone category holds five singers. Edgar Allan is now active on the Pacific Coast, where he is appearing on the radio and negotiating with motion pictures. Frederic Baer, prominent for recital and appearances in oratorio and with orchestra, has a full schedule next year, besides his duet recitals with Gunda Mordan. John Brownlee, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Association, has signed a contract with Haensel & Jones. He will appear in recital and concert and over the air next year, as well as with the opera. Norman Cordon is one of the most promising and frequently heard of the younger Metropolitan Opera artists in recital and on the radio. Julius Huehn, heard in major roles at the Metropolitan Opera all winter and spring, goes to Europe this summer for concert engagements. Huehn has sung over the radio on the Ford Hour and other high-ranking programs.

The Haensel & Jones list of pianists holds Guiomar Novaes, Brazilian artist; Serge Prokofieff, the Russian composer-pianist-conductor, and Ezra Rachlin, young American keyboardist. Mme. Novaes' tour here this winter, which included recitals and appearances with orchestra, was over-subscribed, and so she will lengthen her stay here next season from October to December 15 and from February 15 until late in the spring. Prokofieff, now concertizing in Europe after an extensive American concert tour, returns here next February. Rachlin, who won successes abroad last fall, has followed this up with a full schedule of American appearances. The Canadian two-piano team of Malcolm and Godden are among the most popular of concert attractions in their own country and in the States.

Violinists under this management include Mischa Elman, known to music lovers the world over for his concert and radio triumphs. Elman will spend the first half of next season in Europe, and his subsequent schedule in America is a crowded one. Toscha Seidel will divide his time between the two continents, first in Europe and later in America. His radio calendar for 1937-38 included the Kraft Music Hall. Patricia Travers, phenomenal nine-year-old violinist, is soon to make her debut under special auspices.

Marcel Hubert, 'cellist, who gave a successful New York recital in Town Hall in January, will devote 1938-39 to a tour in solo programs. Hubert is known to the radio public through appearances on CBS and over WOR as soloist with Alfred Wallenstein and symphony orchestra.

TELEVISION

from the point of view of profit, but from the point of view of balance between cost and result. If you spend one hundred or one million dollars to make a movie, you can afterward make one hundred or theoretically even one million prints, and show them at any time; whereas a television program cannot be duplicate and once it is off the air, it is gon

It is clear that television will have to develop to a great extent along its own lines and its real connection with the movies is that we can learn a great deal about the art of production from the pictures and then adapt what we learn to a different medium. One thing to remember is that the movies have never stood still but have changed and progressed year after year, sometimes by gradual development and sometimes—as when sound came in—by startling and revolutionary changes. After twenty-five years of being an enthusiast about moving pictures, I see no reason to think now that they will suddenly stagnate. So that if television manages in a generation to absorb all the knowledge that the movies have now, the movies will again be working on new material, with new methods, and exploring new fields.

new type of volume indicator for more accurate monitoring of programs being transmitted; devices for readily determining transmitter performance; and a new, high-speed, semi-automatic recorder for measuring the acoustical characteristics of studios and studio equipment.

Many new designs are turned over each year to manufacturers—thus made available to the entire industry. A number of CBS-designed units are now standard equipment in all U. S. broadcast stations.

In others of Columbia's research fields, advances were made in developing new types of portable low-power relay and high-frequency broadcasting equipment.

Too Many Seniors

Lincoln, May 1.—Mention of the word "senior" almost drives KFAB's chief announcer, Chuck Miller, out of his mind.

The reason is that he's interviewed 900 so far this spring from 40 high schools while in Lincoln on their annual senior sneak days. It's a station good will idea.

KVSO Sales Jump 100%

FCC Widens Scope Of Power Hearings

WASHINGTON, May 1.—In suspending the hearing on rules governing the possible increase in the present power maximum for clear-channel stations, the Federal Communications Commission has broadened the scope of the hearing to include all of the new regulations which have been drafted for broadcasting stations relative to power in excess of 50,000 watts.

The Commission's action was taken as a result of petitions of NBC, General Electric and a number of clear-channel stations for delay in the hearings to give them time to correlate information which they will present.

"The action is intended to conserve expense and time on the part of both applicants and other participants interested in the question of powers in excess of 50 kilowatts, as well as to facilitate progress in the industry as a whole," it was explained. "Inasmuch as practically all stations are interested in the question of 500 kilowatts as well as in new regulations, and inasmuch as many issues of an economic character are inherent in both the new regulations as well as in the question of power in excess of 50 kilowatts, the Commission felt that unnecessary effort on the part of all concerned could be avoided by adoption of the course it has taken."

FCC Sets Week's Hearings

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Federal Communications Commission has disclosed its calendar of broadcasting hearings for the current week as follows:

May 3, before an examiner: Applications of Nathan Frank for a 1,500-kilocycle, 100-watt station at New Bern, N. C., and Greenville Broadcasting Co. for a 1,500-kilocycle, 250-watt daytime station at Greenville, N. C.

May 4, before an examiner: Application of United States Broadcasting Co. for a 1,310-kilocycle, 100-watt station at Washington.

May 5, before the commission: Applications of Floyd A. Parton for a 1,170-kilocycle, 250-watt daytime station at San Jose, Cal.; WMFR, High Point, N. C., for increase of time from day to unlimited; Madison Broadcasting Co. for a 1,450-kilocycle, 250-watt station at Madison, and KWOS, Jefferson City, Mo., for increase of time from day to unlimited and increase of day power from 100 to 250 watts.

Strikes Now Unpatriotic, Boycott Mexican Theatres

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—A new angle has developed in Mexican film industry labor relations, as a result of the Government's recent expropriation of the previously foreign-owned and operated petroleum industry.

The point is that in view of the necessity of everyone backing the Government in its attempt to operate the privately-owned industry, it is considered unpatriotic to strike.

The result is that the boycott has replaced the strike—at least for the time being. Labor unionists in Puebla City have invoked a boycott against the company headed by Manuel Espinosa Iglesias, which will be maintained unless the firm makes new contracts embodying higher wages and other economic benefits.

The boycott may have the effect of closing two theatres which the company operates in Puebla City, and may be extended to houses also controlled by the company in Oaxaca and Tlaxcala, nearby. The Federal Cinematographic Workers' Union has been asked to support the Puebla group.

Universal Adjourns Talks on Product

Universal officials yesterday adjourned home office conferences on the company's new season production schedule with plans for renewing them at the studio within a week. Nate J. Blumberg, president, who arrived from the studio last Thursday, plans to return there today.

The discussions here were participated in by W. A. Scully, Joseph Seidelman, Marshall Grant and John Joseph, who are expected to follow Blumberg to the studio within the next few days.

The new season schedule, which is expected to be comprised of 40 feautres, 12 westerns and four serials, was fairly well set in general prior to the departure of Blumberg from the studio last week after lengthy conferences with Charles R. Rogers. The conferences here, however, were on titles, cast and directorial problems which remain undetermined.

The home office discussions also considered whether Universal will

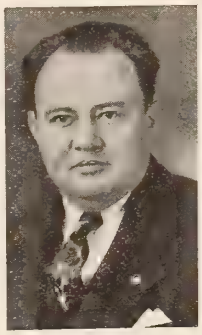
Ross Says Grosses Are Now Holding Up

Box-office receipts are holding up "to a marked degree" despite adverse business conditions generally, and this is due to the superior product being released, yesterday declared Densmore A. Ross, vice-president of Ross Federal Service, who has returned from an eight-week survey of conditions in the east, midwest and south.

As a theatre checking service, Ross Federal is in a position to gather information on the status of theatre business throughout the country. The field survey made by Ross covered 23 key cities located in states east of the Mississippi.

"Were it not for the large number of outstanding films, the industry undoubtedly would find itself in a serious economic condition," Ross reported. "Actually what is happening is that the industry is holding off the recession better than most industries due to the high quality of its productions. There is no doubt that the studios have their fingers very closely on the public pulse."

SHOWMAN IS MAYOR THIRD TIME



The townspeople of Oxford, Miss., have selected Robert X. Williams as their mayor for the third successive term. His constituents gave him a very comfortable majority over his two opponents in the race.

Williams is the president of the M.P.T.O. of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee, affiliated with the M.P.T.O., of which he is a member of the board, and is president of the Mississippi Theatre Owners.

In Oxford since 1917, when he arrived as owner and manager of the Lyric, Williams holds a law degree. He was a delegate to the last national Democratic Convention, is collector of funds for the Second Congressional District for the Democratic Party and is a member of the national advisory committee for Mississippi for the World's Fair in New York in 1939, among other things. In between, he manages to keep the Lyric operating smoothly.

Dembow Asks High Quality Summer Films

Says Theatre Conditions Make Them Necessary

The quality of product to come from Hollywood in the next three or four months will determine theatre conditions this summer, and once the seasonal slump is weathered, the fall will show a marked upturn, declared Sam Dembow, Jr., vice-president of Fanchon & Marco, on his return yesterday from the midwest.

Dembow was in St. Louis for a survey of F. & M. theatres and stopped off in Chicago en route east. He said he found theatre operators in the midwest hoping that the studios will deliver films of box-office potentialities to help them overcome conditions this summer.

In this connection he recalled that in the summer of 1932, at the depth of the depression, the studios came through with pictures which proved good box-office attractions and which helped many exhibitors stay in business. Dembow at that time was in

North Dakota Test Trial Starts June 1

Paramount attorneys here were advised yesterday that the trial of the company's action to test the constitutionality of North Dakota's affiliated theatre divorcement law will get under way on June 1 before a Federal statutory court of three judges in Fargo. Indications are that the trial will consume 10 days or two weeks. A decision from the court is not expected before fall.

A conference among attorneys for both sides and a representative of the court in Minneapolis yesterday resulted in the decision to start the trial on June 1. Meanwhile, an injunction restraining North Dakota officials from enforcing the divorcement law continues in effect.

Technicolor, Inc., and its subsidiary, Technicolor Motion Picture Corp., showed a net profit of $468,169.36 for 1937, after deduction of all charges, according to the report of Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president.

The profit for the combined companies, before depreciation, amortization, Federal taxes and life insurance premiums on a $1,000,000 policy taken out by the company on Dr. Kalmus, amounted to $930,284.58, compared with a corresponding profit for 1936 of $880,650.59.

Provision for depreciation of plant and equipment, amortization of the research and development account and patent costs for the year totaled $299,565.96, resulting in a net profit before Federal taxes and life insurance premiums for the combined companies of $630,718.62 for 1937, compared with a 1936 profit of $591,585.23. The net profit is arrived at by deducting $59,322.70 premiums paid for insurance on the life of Dr. Kalmus, Federal income taxes of $102,750.15 and undistributed profits tax of $476.41.

Net sales for 1937 amounted to $3,133,266.84, a record since the company started operations in 1934. Contracts with major producers here and abroad currently on the company's books constitute the largest volume in the company's history, Dr. Kalmus reported.

Decision for UA in Hart Case Is Upheld

United Artists Corp. won a victory in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday when the high court upheld a decision of District Judge John W. Clancy, dismissing the complaint of William S. Hart and Mary Hart in their $185,000 damage suit against United Artists. The decision of the Circuit Court, which was unanimous, was rendered without an opinion.

The Harts had brought suit claiming that after United Artists had entered a written contract with them to distribute their picture, "Tumbleweeds," it had distributed the picture at prices calculated to bring in returns to the Harts of far less than the $300,000 which they were allegedly spending to produce "Tumbleweeds."

Would Examine Col. Books

Y. Supreme Court. Justice Julius Miller will hear argument of the application before him today. The inspection plea is based upon charges that Jack and Harry Cohn and Joseph Brandt, original incorporators, mismanaged the affairs of the corporation. At the same time Columbia filed answering papers in which it was claimed that Miss Davis was not a bona fide stockholder and had no power to institute suit.

To Offer N.Y. Betting Bill

Albany, May 2.—The sixth proposal to loosen New York State's anti-gambling laws is seen in the statement that Senator John J. Dunnigan will offer a pari-mutuel bill in the constitutional convention sessions drafted along the same lines as his legislative resolution. It is scheduled to become the center of much discussion.

On March 18, Senator Dunnigan was able to squeeze a pari-mutuel bill through both the Senate and the Assembly. However, if enacted in the constitutional convention, a year's time would be saved, as the other bill has to go through two successive houses, elected in different years.

General Loses Appeal in Old Patent Action

. T. & T., had no license to sell nplifiers for use in talking picture uipment and, knowing its restric[illegible]s, infringed the patents. But, the t added, General Talking Pictures orp., "having with knowledge of the cts bought at sales constituting iningement, did itself infringe the patts embodied in the amplifiers when leased them for use as talking picre equipment in theatres."

In his dissent, Associate Justice lack pointed out that "the area of e patent monopoly is expanded by e holding that the exclusive right anted an inventor to 'make, use and nd' his patented commercial device, ermits the inventor's corporate asgnee (and other 'patent pool' parcipants) to control how and where e device can be used by a purchaser ho bought it in the open market."

Associate Justices Roberts, Cardozo ıd Reed took no part in the consideron or decision of the case.

Philadelphia Game Hearing Due Today

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—The hearings on a writ to delay enforcement of the ban on Bank Night and other games, scheduled for today in the State Supreme Court, was postponed until tomorrow. Meanwhile, the police department, acting on instructions received from headquarters, are planning to proceed tonight against all theatres using games.

Assistant City Solicitor Ryan stated that all paraphenalia and prize money will be seized at the theatres, which number about 30, both independent and units in the Warner circuit. It is not believed that any houses will attempt to oppose the law by using games.

Keating Leaves on Bank Night Appeal

John M. Keating, attorney for Affiliated Enterprises, left last night for Washington with the intention of filing an application with the Postoffice Department for a rehearing of the action in which Bank Night was declared a lottery and the copyright owners in Denver denied use of the mails.

Keating said that the papers would be put in final form in Washington at a conference with Myron Blaylock of Marshall, Tex., who has been retained by Affiliated Enterprises as associate counsel in the case.

The appeal, Keating said, will contend that the Postoffice Department solicitor erred in his conclusions and will cite court cases to show that Bank Night is within the law.

Among the court decisions incorporated in the appeal is expected to be one given by Judge Brennan in the Essex County Court of Special Sessions at Newark in a case brought against the American Theatre, Newark, and Walter Horn, manager. The county charged the defendants with operating a lottery in conducting Bank Night. Judge Brennan held the game was not a lottery and dismissed the charge.

Extends Duals' Use After Ban on Games

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 2.—The Circle, Standard Theatres' suburban house, which went to double bills for the first time a month ago when Bank Night was banned, and then ran duals on Wednesdays and Thursdays, has extended the policy to the full seven days resulting in full houses during the weekends.

Double bills, which are slow to come to Oklahoma City are now at their peak, with all of Standard's neighborhood second run theatres using them. Of the downtown first run houses only the Liberty runs double bills. The downtown Warner, running second run pictures, is on a dual policy. The Tower, first run suburban house, has retained singles.

Conciliation by KRS Expected on Grading

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, May 2.—Exhibitors here expect conciliatory action by the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) as a result of the vigorous campaign waged by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association against the K.R.S. plan to grade features.

It is considered likely that the distributor organization may issue a statement shortly relative to the exhibitor campaign, and a K.R.S. meeting is expected to be held this week. D. E. Griffith, president of the K.R.S., and Sam Eckman of M-G-M will meet Arthur Jarratt of the G.B. circuit, at an informal luncheon tomorrow. Jarratt has been an outspoken supporter of the C.E.A. in its opposition to the grading plan.

charge of Paramount theatre operations. The same situation, though to a lesser extent, holds true today, he said.

"If the distributors this summer deliver superior pictures with great boxoffice appeal, the exhibitors will have little to worry about," he said. "The main problem will be getting over the warm weather conditions, for I look for a decided upturn beginning in September.

"The four billion dollar spending program by Government agencies will have no immediate effect, if past experience is a criterion, but as soon as this vast expenditure filters into public channels it will be translated immediately into buying power and the theatres will be the first to benefit. Business did not feel the effect of the previous large spending program until two or three months after it was launched. Therefore, by early fall conditions should be much improved."

Britain's Non-Commercial Stations Not Too Popular

Those radio editors and listeners who have long criticized the whole structure of American broadcasting under which radio entertainment is a medium for advertising the product of sponsors, have just had a favorite prop knocked from under them by a poll taken by the Philco Radio and Television Corp. to determine the British listeners' favorite station.

Whenever a listener or radio writer rebelled at over-long commercials on programs here, he would point with envy to the system in Great Britain, where the British Broadcasting Corp. controls all broadcasting stations, and where an absolute ban on all commercial programs is in effect.

But the results of the poll show that the British are far from satisfied with their own type of broadcasting. This poll covered 5,000 radio dealers and their customers in all parts of Britain as well as the general public, with approximately 500,000 reached in the poll. The station which placed first, drawing 95.6 per cent of the votes as favorite station was Luxembourg. Radio Luxembourg is not in Britain or affiliated with the BBC, but is located on the Continent across the English Channel and broadcasts sponsored programs in American style.

Second was Athlone, located in the Irish Free State, and also a broadcaster of commercially sponsored programs. Britain's own premier station, Droitwich, ranked no better than third in popularity, with other Continental commercial stations taking the great majority of places among the first 10.

Ford Acknowledges Debt to Father of Courtland Smith

Syndicated throughout the country last week, brought to millions of readers, was an interview by Boston reporter John Bradford Main with Henry Ford in which the industrialist acknowledged the greatest influence in his life to have been a book written by Orlando J. Smith.

The author of "A Short View of Great Questions" was the father of Courtland Smith of the film industry

Courtland Smith succeeded his father in the American Press Association which the elder founded. He left that to go with Will Hays in Washington and in the Association of Motion Picture Producers and Exhibitors. Following that he developed sound on film and created and developed Fox Movietone News, established the first newsreel theatre in the world, the Embassy, and today is continuing research in the further development of pictures.

Smith was not aware until he read Henry Ford's recent statement that his late father had been such a profound influence in the motor magnate's life. He has yet to meet Ford, who said of the elder Smith's book: "It gave me the answer I was seeking. It changed my whole life. From emptiness and uselessness it changed my outlook upon life to purpose and meaning."

Return Exhibitor Rights, Says Allied Head

Allied States does not intend to cooperate with the major distributors in a conciliation move or further such a program unless it receives concrete proof from the companies that they will "restore the independent exhibitors' rights," Nathan Yamins, president of national Allied, declared here yesterday.

"It is not only sufficient that they give us assurances for the future, but that they restore to us everything in the way of rights that they have taken from us in the past," he said.

Yamins, here for the organization meeting of Allied Theatre Owners of New York, was referring to a statement made by William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M, at a banquet of the Independent Exhibitors in Boston last week. Rodgers urged conciliation in the place of Government intervention.

"We are interested in substance, not in form," Yamins said. "It makes no difference to us whether we attain our aim through conciliation, litigation or forces under them will attend the sessions, which will be conducted by home office sales executives.

All four sessions will be presided over by Montague, and, in addition, Rube Jackter, Louis Astor, Louis Weinberg and Max Weisfeldt will attend the New York and Chicago meetings. Jack Cohn, vice-president, and all other home office executives will attend the New York meeting, at which the company's new season production schedule will be announced first. Heading the New York sales delegation will be Nat Cohn, New York division manager, and Sam Galanty, mid-east division manager. Phil Dunas, mid-central division manager, and Carl Shalit, central division manager, will head the Chicago delegation. Sam Moscow, southern division manager, will head the sales forces attending the Dallas meeting, and Jerome Safron, west coast division manager, those attending the San Francisco meeting.

Serials for Studios

Simultaneously, Columbia announced that its own studio would produce the company's serials for new season release, four of which have been set. They are: "The Spider," "Mandrake, the Magician," "Adventures of Kit Carson" and "Flying G-Men." The first serial to be produced by the studio, instead of by outside producers as heretofore, will be "Wild Bill Hickok," to be released in June. The company asserts that production values will be increased through the casting of top-line players in the serials, and the assignment of the company's better directors and writers to the productions.

"Rousing Drama"

London, May 3.—London Films' "The Challenge," press-previewed here today, is a rousing human drama of the 19th Century conquest of the Matterhorn.

The production is notable for its thrilling mountain climbing sequences against a background of almost breath-taking ruggedness. The story, strongly told, is of the Italo-British rivalry for the conquest of the peak. A highlight performance is that of Luis Trenker as a guide, while the characterizations of Robert Douglas and Ivan Gardner are good. Gunther Stapenhorst directed and Trenker collaborated on the Alpine episodes.

It is unusual and arresting entertainment.

Lab Union to Meet On De Luxe Contract

Refusal of Alan Freedman, president of De Luxe Laboratories, to accede to salary increases demanded by Motion Picture Laboratory Technicians' Union, Local 702, will be discussed at a meeting of De Luxe employes at the Piccadilly Hotel tonight.

The union said that a decision on "further action" will be made. A meeting between Freedman and the union's negotiating committee on Monday resulted in a statement by the union that Freedman's refusal to meet salary demands "made strike action inevitable." Such action would have to be approved by the I.A.T.S.E. About 350 workers would be affected.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 67

(20th Century-Fox)

A group of personalities in the news, shown in quick succession, opens the reel in interesting fashion. They include: President Roosevelt starting on a fishing trip, Governor La Follette of Wisconsin launching the new Progressive Party, War Minister Hore-Belisha of England reviewing French troops on a visit of importance, Admiral Byrd crowning the Virginia apple Queen, the King, Queen and Princesses of England reviewing a Boy Scout Troop, Col. Robert Olds, U. S. Air Corps flight leader, receiving a medal, and the Texas poetess who has been selected the "American Mother" of 1938.

The fashions this time are for elderly women, and the clip is executed in expert style. The fleet arrives on the coast to a chorus of feminine squeals from the dock, a huge blast takes the side out of a quarry in Virginia, Lew Lehr opens a pet zoo in Philadelphia for youngsters in amusing fashion, and the sporting division shows the highlights of the Penn Relays at Philadelphia, a Des Moines track meet, and Sea Biscuit and War Admiral warming up for that Decoration Day sprint with $100,000 hanging on the wire. Running time, 10 mins. A.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 265

(M-G-M)

There is historical importance in the opening clip as Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin is pictured launching the new Progressive Party in a vigorous speech. A man-sized quarry blast makes a striking newsreel bit when the whole side of a quarry is blown to pieces.

Other covering includes the New York World's Fair preview parade, the opening of a pet zoo in Philadelphia, the recently selected "American Mother" of the year, Eamon de Valera arriving in London for the signing of the Irish-English treaty, the return of the U. S. fleet to San Diego and the sailors scrambling for shore leave, the opening of a dirt track in New Jersey, with its thrills, and the highlights of the Penn Relays in Philadelphia.

The coverage on the parade "happened" to catch a background sign on Broadway advertising "Test Pilot" and the Loew float, featured by a "Girl of the Golden West" ad.

A striking and impressive clip pictures the French "Legion of Broken Faces," scarred war veterans, at the funeral of their commander in Paris. Running time, 10 mins. A.

Paramount News

(Paramount)

This is a good collection of clips, moving at a fast pace, highlighted by Gov. Phil LaFollette's call to the new Progressive party in which the sound track proves him a forceful speaker. There is realism in the camera work showing the results of a twister in the Nebraska dust bowl, inclusion of details adding to the drama.

Other subjects include the World's Fair Motorcade and a "preview" of the big show; President Roosevelt waving goodbye as he sails on a fishing cruise; children playing with harmless young animals in a "kiddie zoo," which is cute. Four of the nine subjects are devoted to sports, including auto racing at Hohokus, N. J., a "race" of antiquated cars, which is well gagged up, a sailing regatta at Cambridge, Mass., which is a fine piece and the Pennsylvania Relays. Running time, 9½ mins. J.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 82

(RKO)

Timely subjects of straight news interest coupled with high grade production and makeup form an excellent newsreel in this release.

The launching of Governor LaFollette's new liberal party, coupled with excellent recording of the dramatic LaFollette oratory, makes a distinctive subject and earns the lead position in the reel. Some good shots of President Roosevelt's departure for a rest cruise aboard the new cruiser Philadelphia, the opening ceremonies—indoors and out — for the new CBS Hollywood broadcasting studio, George Bernard Shaw's address at the dedication of the National Theatre commemorating Shakespeare, out-of-court views of Jackie Coogan and his bride, and shots of the New York World's Fair motor parade run to routine coverage but are aided significantly by good narration and skillful editing.

The coverage of the Norman Thomas welcome to Jersey City and an interview, thereafter, with Thomas are highly interesting and splendid examples of newsreel reporting. The coverage of the Penn relay carnival at Philadelphia also is high-grade newsreel reporting and editing. Running time, 8½ mins.

Universal News

Vol. 10; No. 663

(Universal)

Two numbers are outstanding in an assortment of 11 subjects in this issue of Universal News. One is a race of pre-war automobiles over rough terrain by college boys at Fresno. It is dizzy and good for plenty of laughs. The other is an automobile race on a dirt track at Hohokus, N. J. The cars may not be going more than 40 miles an hour, but the way they kick up dirt and skid and run off the course is exciting.

An odd shot shows men rebuilding the wooden honeymoon bridge at the foot of Niagara Falls. The World's Fair parade is intended to be impressive, but falls short of the mark.

There is human interest in the return of the U. S. Navy to San Pedro. The cameraman—Alley—caught a variety of angles. Other subjects show President Roosevelt leaving on his cruise, Spanish soldiers marching through mountain terrain, the dedication of a town on the Pontine Marsh, a Colonial fete at Cannes, France; the Penn relay games, and a race meet at Jamaica. Running time, 9½ mins. J.

All Erpi Activities Now Are Downtown

The removal of the last of the Erpi departments from the offices at 250 West 57th St., which the company has occupied almost from the time of its inception and entry into the theatre and recording equipment business, was completed yesterday. The new Erpi headquarters are located in the A. T. & T. Bldg. at 195 Broadway.

Most of the company's administrative departments were moved downtown at the first of the year when its theatre service business was turned over to Altec Service Corp. and its sales department was disbanded with the licensing of International Projector and Motiograph to manufacture the former Western Electric equipment.

Malcolm Browne Will Release First July 1

"Reasonable people can always get together on a reasonable basis. But the trouble with the big companies is that they have forgotten how to live by the Golden Rule."

Midwest MPTO Unit Endorses Neely Bill

OMAHA, May 3.—Members of the M.P.T.O. of Nebraska and Western Iowa, meeting here today, place their stamp of approval on the Neely bill because "it would mean the exhibitor could serve his patrons better."

The organization also adopted a resolution "against actors and actresses broadcasting during theatre hours."

Exhibitors told MOTION PICTURE DAILY they did not want to see Governmental regulation of the industry but believed in the Neely bill type of booking. Distributors, they said, apparently are reluctant to rectify certain conditions which have caused difficulties to indepedent exhibitors.

Under the Neely bill, exhibitors could satisfy their communities better through better selection of product, said President Charles E. Williams, who presided at the meeting.

Kansas Citians Here

A $500,000 libel suit was filed yesterday in the N. Y. Supreme Court against 20th Century-Fox by National Confectioners Corp. of the United States in behalf of 325 of its members. The plaintiff sought in addition to damages an injunction restraining the exhibition of the picture, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," or a court order eliminating an alleged libelous conversation in the picture.

The National Confectioners allege that the picture portrays Shirley Temple as Rebecca returning to her home and telling her Aunt Miranda that she has had a candy bar for supper. Aunt Miranda then replied, the plaintiff complained, "Take the child to the kitchen and get her something decent to eat." Plan Extension of Canada Short-Wave

OTTAWA, May 3.—A project for branching out in short-wave broadcasting in Canada, placing this country on a par in that line with other countries is under consideration by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

The evolution of the scheme depends upon securing the necessary short-wave bands and also the money required from the high powered broadcasters. This is one of the reasons why interest was taken here in the recent International Radio Conference at Cairo from which most of the Canadian delegates have just returned. The delegation was headed by Laurent Beaudry of the External Affairs Department.

The conclusion will be formally set forth after the "minutes" have been circulated among the different delegations.

At the regional conference in Havana last winter additional channels were assigned to Canada but this arrangement has yet to be sanctioned by the United States, Mexico and this country. Cuba has ratified the action. The Cairo conference was the sequel of the one in Havana for the Americas. In the light of the discussions there are hopes of Canada receiving the bands essential to the establishment of a high powered system of short-wave broadcasting.

Philadelphia Duals Ruling To Be Fought

Majors Decide to Take Case to High Court

Attorneys for major distributors, after conferences here yesterday, decided to move for an appeal to the Supreme Court of the U. S. Court of Appeals decision holding anti-double feature clauses in exhibition contracts to be illegal.

Morris Wolfe, Philadelphia attorney for the distributors, will begin immediate preparation of a writ of certiorari asking the high court to review the case, it was stated. The distributor defendants have until June 9 to complete and file their appeal papers.

The anti-dual clause in exhibition contracts has been in litigation for more than three years, the first decision in the so-called Perelman case attacking the enforcement of the clause having been handed down in January, 1935, by the U. S. District Court at Philadelphia. Distributors appealed and the C. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia first affirmed the lower court decision and then granted a rehearing. After the second hearing the lower court ruling

SOME assorted motives are behind the Independent Theatre Owners' Association blast against Hollywood star salaries which appeared on the front page of the last issue of The Independent and was reproduced as a page advertisement in the Hollywood Reporter. The principal wire services picked it up yesterday.

The Independent is the official paper of the I. T. O. A. Its paid circulation numbers all the members and others outside the organization. Recently it opened a Hollywood office to extend its activities. It may be just a coincidence that this article printed in red and headed "Wake Up!" appeared at this time. Having failed to stir a ripple as an editorial, it was reproduced as an advertisement a few days later.

Producers are fuming, the Actors Guild membership is burning, the Hollywood syndicate correspondents are cheering.

In New York other reactions are taking place. There happens to be a lively feud on between Allied and the I. T. O. A. which began some weeks back when Allied leaders turned down Harry Brandt's efforts to get Allied cooperation in an effort to revive a movement for conciliation of industry disputes. Soon after Brandt began to shoot editorial fireworks at Allied that organization revived efforts to organize a New York unit and held an organization meeting here the day the Hollywood advertisement appeared.

In the meantime the I. T. O. A. has announced that it intends to invade New Jersey, long an Allied stronghold. For a long time Brandt has cherished the hope of forming a new national exhibitor organization. He contends Allied's legislative program can't accomplish anything worthwhile for exhibitors.

It may be just possible there is competition for exhibitor attention.

$2,500 in its final four days at the Rivoli, finishing the 11-day run with about $8,500. "Law of the Underworld" gave the Rialto $7,700.

M-G-M reports that "Test Pilot" is a nationwide record-breaker, being held over in Richmond, Seattle, San Francisco and Portland, Ore. It set an all-time gross record for the Woods theatres in Columbia, Mo.

A date for the "Marie Antoinette" roadshow at the Astor is indefinite and depends on completion of the film. M-G-M has extended its lease on the house.

"Invisible Enemy" will open at the Criterion tomorrow.

"Moonlight Sonata" will open at the Little Carnegie on Monday.

meetings of local exhibitor groups this week, as part of the opposition campaign. Meetings have been held already in Plymouth, Portsmouth and Preston, and others are scheduled for later in the week. At the three sessions held, the members attending all unanimously backed the C.E.A. campaign.

The statement from the C.E.A., again addressed to American producers, declare in part: ". . . your London distributing agents are putting your feature films into two quality and prices classes labeled 'A' and 'B'. Already 155 of your feature films have been de-graded into the 'B' class—the lower brackets. Your best foreign market is being tangled up by your London distributors playing amateur politics through the medium of their Kinematograph Renters' Society.

The statement points out that 20th Century-Fox and Universal have not joined the K.R.S. in the grading plan, and declares the two companies are "able to book their films to British exhibitors free from the 'help' of the rival distributors represented by the Kinematograph Renters Society selling combine."

British production chief, will be continued in London, he said.

Asher, who sailed with Korda, said that he expected the deal with him to be closed in a week following their arrival, after Korda confers on the matter with his financial backers. They are continuing discussions during the passage.

Korda said London Films, which he heads, will make 16 films during the coming year, eight of which will be budgeted at a total of $7,500,000 or 8,000,000 and aimed at the American as well as world market. The other eight will be smaller pictures. London Films has contracted for five Technicolor features in the next two years, two of which have already been completed.

Production will be resumed immediately by Samuel Goldwyn and himself and will continue at high gear to make up for the inactivity of recent weeks during which the new profit-sharing plan was worked out, Korda said.

Interview Broadcast

"I am happy that the bargaining is over and that all differences have been straightened out," Korda declared in a ship-side interview by Martin Starr over WMCA. He said that an extensive interchange of talent is planned between the company's affiliated producers in Hollywood and England and intimated that U. A. is prepared to spend large sums to encourage the addition of new producers. He said that his production program would prevent his coming here again this year and that he did not expect to be in America for another 12 months.

He said he concurred with Goldwyn "to some extent" that many writers, directors and actors are overpaid and he also agreed that production costs are too high. In England, he said, production costs "follow the trend." He gave it as his opinion that the elimination of "B" films would be beneficial to the industry.

Leon Leonidoff, senior producer at the Music Hall, sailed on his annual European trip, during which he will combine business with a vacation, and return in about six weeks. He expects to attend the Venice film exposition and will inspect shows in London and on the Continent.

Madeleine Carroll sailed for a vacation with her husband at their Spanish castle. There is a possibility that she may make a picture for Columbia and another for Selznick International, on loan from Walter Wanger.

Spanish revolution broke, the broadcasting stations were seized before a gun was fired, while the first action of the Japanese in their invasion of China was to destroy the RCA shortwave transmitter at Shanghai, and the building of the Austrian Broadcasting Co. was taken over by the German authorities last month almost immediately upon their crossing of the border.

Because of the protests which inevitably follow the presentation of controversial issues, he disclosed, NBC seeks to follow a policy of restricting such discussions to sustaining time, but it is believed that, with the gradual development of a broader understanding of the aim of broadcasters in presenting such material, it may not be necessary to apply such restrictions in the future.

Denny Wins Annual Award For "Town Meeting" on Air

The Women's National Radio Committee yesterday presented George V. Denny, Jr., conductor of the program, and "America's Town Meeting of the Air," NBC sustaining program, its single award for "one of the outstanding achievements of the year in radio." The presentation was made at the annual luncheon held yesterday at the St. Regis Hotel, with network officials, a member of the F.C.C. and the award winner as speakers. Mme. Yolanda Mero-Irion, founder and chairman of the committee, presided.

The network officials were David Sarnoff, president of RCA; Paul Keston, CBS vice-president, and Alfred J. McCosker, president of WOR and chairman of the board of the Mutual network. T. A. M. Craven represented the F.C.C. The network officials spoke in defense of the American system of broadcasting and Commissioner Craven discussed the social implications of radio.

While the committee this year made but a single award, other programs won commendation. They follow:

Best programs of serious music commercially sponsored were the Ford "Sunday Evening Hour" (CBS); the Philadelphia Orchestra on the bank-sponsored series (NBC); Sealtest "Rising Musical Stars (NBC), and the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts (NBC). The best sustaining programs of serious music were the New York Philharmonic (CBS), the NBC Symphony under Toscanini, and Sinfonietta, (WOR-Mutual). The best dramatic program was the Lux "Radio Theatre" (CBS), with the "Columbia Workshop (CBS), second. "One Man's Family" (NBC) was proclaimed the best serial dramatic program.

America's System

Paul Kesten, CBS vice-president, one of the speakers at the Women's National Radio Committte award luncheon yesterday, summed up the American system of broadcasting in this striking fashion:

"It is better to listen to Charlie McCarthy voluntarily than to Adolph Hitler by compulsion."

Damrosch Broadcasts Cited

Best variety program was the M-G-M-Maxwell House Coffee program. Irene Wicker (NBC) won first place for children's programs, with "Let's Pretend" (CBS) second. Three programs of educational value for children were commended: "Cavalcade of America" (CBS), "Epic of America" (Mutual), and "Music for Fun" (CBS). Special mentions were accorded to the Walter Damrosch broadcasts over NBC and CBS' "School of the Air."

Because the awards committee felt that radio commentators are developing an editorial complex, the committee refrained from mentioning any of them, but gave laurels to Trans-Radio Press News Service for its "unbiased presentation of the news of the day." "March of Time" also was commended in this classification. Edgar Bergen's "Charlie McCarthy" was named the best radio comedian, while Fred Allen drew first among the flesh and blood comedians. Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone were voted the best comedy team; Don Ameche the most popular "em cee." First place for good taste in advertising went to Jell-O, and second to du Pont on the "Cavalcade of America" program.

Damon Runyon's

. . . The Brighter Side

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

We caught up with a little picture in a town outside New York recently that filled our idea of an evening's entertainment without fire, flood, or sudden death. This picture is quiet, and gentle, and as plain as an old shoe, and Hollywood will not heave any of those bronze statuettes at it, but we hope it makes money for the producers. That would encourage them to turn out more pictures pitched in a slightly lower key than a loud scream.

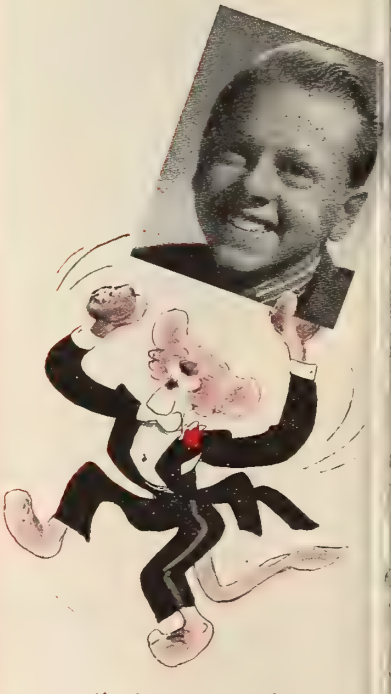
The picture is called "Judge Hardy's Children." The story is nothing spectacular, but it suffices, and the characters are familiar to nearly all Americans. It is a tale of American home life and the customer can sit back with his knees comfortably propped against the seat in front of him, and gnaw on his peanut brittle in the calm assurance that on one is going to get murdered under harrowing circumstances, and that none of the actors are likely to go into the violent gesticulations that are characteristic of our major productions.

In this little picture you see one of the finest old actors of screen and stage, Lewis Stone, giving one of his good performances. Stone never gives a bad performance. He is a real actor, and we have never seen him reveal a trace of pig's hips, commonly known as ham. He is "Judge Hardy" of the title, and with a somewhat similar role to handle, he is as good as George Cohan was in "Ah, Wilderness" of the stage.

A youngster named Mickey Rooney steals the picture with his depiction of an American boy. It was the first time we had seen Mickey in a picture in quite a spell, because when he was younger he was one of our pet abominations. We would carefully avoid any movie emporium in which he was apt to pop out on the screen.

However, Mickey was no exception in our book. We are not especially partial to child actors. Some of them are all right, but most of them are a pain in the neck. If they are childish sweetness and light, they are too much so, and if they are childish orneriness, they are too much again.

As a matter of fact, we would not have thought of seeing "Judge Hardy's Children" after noting Mickey's name on the marquee, except that the picture was like the crooked Faro Bank game—it was the only one in town. To our great surprise we found Mickey has half grown up to be an excellent actor. He is the realest American boy of any kid actor ever in the business, with the possible exception of a long now forgotten and unfortunate lad of the days of the silents, Jack Pickford.



"Oh Mickey, this nice piece appears in papers from Coast to Coast. Thanks Mr. Runyon!"

Majority on U.A. Board Will Prevail on Product

Decision Makes Possible An Evenly Balanced Film Program

HOLLYWOOD, May 5.—The bylaws of United Artists Corp. were amended at a directors' meeting here today to provide for acceptance of product for release on approval by a simple majority vote. Today's revision is regarded as of far reaching significance with respect to future program policy of the company in view of recurrent reports last year that Samuel Goldwyn's lone insistence upon a policy of releasing major budget project, exclusively, had prevented the acceptance for distribution of other types of films felt desirable by other members as a means of rounding out the release schedule and utilizing the full capacity of the distributing organization.

The resistance to arguments favoring this line of procedure was widely understood to be a factor in the temporary abandonment early this year of negotiations for a renewal of the Selznick International releasing contract

Neely Insists on Booking Bill Vote, But It Is Shelved Again

Washington, May 5.—Members of the Senate were warned today by Senator Neely (Dem., W. Va.) that they must make up their minds next week whether they will permit the block booking measure to be made the unfinished business or deal with it as a rider or amendment to some other legislation.

Determination to bring about a "showdown" on the bill was voiced by the Senator when, on the objection of Senator Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) the Senate, for the third time this session, refused to consider the bill when it was reached on the calendar.

An identical bill was reported out in the last Congress and frozen on the calendar because of one or two objections offered every time it was reached, the Senator declared angrily as he announced that he would use every available means to secure a vote on the measure.

Declaring that a large number of organizations which he named have urged enactment of the bill, Neely said, "I do not know of a single religious or civic organization that does not favor its passage."

"The people interested in this bill have a right to have it considered," he declared.

autonomy from the Authors' League of America when Alfred Wright, attorney for 20th Century-Fox opened a drive to force Goodrich to produce his membership rolls. The point in question was whether members of the Screen Writers' Guild of the Authors' League of America, which organization originally brought the petition for the election before the board, are now all members of the new organization incorporated in California.. However, Trial Examiner Alvin J. Rockwell ruled that inasmuch as the guild requested the election it is not necessary to produce membership rolls.

The only other witness was Charles Brackett, first vice-president of the guild.

The hearing, which lasted only a few hours, was marked by the nonappearance of Neil S. McCarthy, attorney for Screen Playwrights, Inc., which the guild is attempting to displace as the writers' bargaining agency, and who declared from his office, "I do not think it necessary for my clients to go to any further expense in this matter."

Testimony was air mailed tonight to the National Labor Relations Board, whose decision on the petition has been held up by the need for added information.

Adopt Union Cinemas Financial Statement

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, May 5.—The financial report of Union Cinemas was adopted today at a stockholders' meeting of the company, but only after protracted discussion. Certain of the shareholders challenged the valuation placed on properties acquired by the circuit by the directors of Associated British Cinemas.

Despite an amendment calling for a postponement of action to adopt the financial statement, John Maxwell, head of Associated British Cinemas, obtained approval and adoption of the statement. Maxwell described the Union Cinemas situation as a "really deplorable state of affairs." Maxwell's A.B.C. now has a controlling interest in Union Cinemas. He asked the shareholders' approval of his desire to carry on for another year to ascertain the real earning power of the company. Fred Bernard, who retired as a director of Union, accused Maxwell of unfairness in not giving the details of the charges made against himself and others.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 68
(20th Century-Fox)

The cameras roamed the world for interesting material, and the result is an issue noteworthy for pictorial effect. The reel opens on the departure of Grover Whalen's World Fair motor cavalcade.

A timely clip, made up of stock shots, is that of Prince Louis Ferdinand and Grand Duchess Kira and the former Kaiser, in connection with the wedding of the young couple. California's Dr. Estes and his family of 11 are shown and the doctor tells how he stays young by living close to nature; how wool for export is transported by primitive means in Australia is a revelation. In the "feminine world," clips show bathing beauties festooning a Florida garden; Wellesley seniors in their historic hoop race, and Honolulu co-eds in the surf.

Lew Lehr goes ga-ga over freak fish, and, in the sports division, there are sailboating in Australia, ski racing on Mt. Rainier and Jimmy Braddock refereeing a youngsters' boxing match. Running time, 9½ mins. F.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 266
(M-G-M)

Against the background of the Congressional debate on the appropriation for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, this newsreel presents a forceful, well-rounded picture of G-Men's activities under J. Edgar Hoover. This has been done before, but it is a topic that's always interesting. The record closes with G-Men surrounding a house and peppering it with a fusillade, ending on an exciting note.

Beautiful shots of yachts against the clouds off the California coast; a gag race of antique automobiles; Charley Peterson, billiard champ, in an exhibition at a Santa Monica high school, and good looking models wearing June brides' apparel, are interesting. The "sporting page" includes two very young kids in a slugfest with Jimmy Braddock as referee, trophy ski racing at Mt. Rainier, and a rousing "preview" of England's Epsom Downs Derby. Running time, 8½ mins. F.

Paramount News
No. 79
(Paramount)

About the most interesting subject in this issue is a demonstration of how the Navy trains sailors to escape from submarines under water. The experiments are done in a steel tank 100 feet high. Even the cameraman dons a helmet and enters a diving bell with his camera.

Varied shots of the new Dutch liner Nieuw Amsterdam give a clear impression of her graceful lines and luxurious modernistic interiors.

In the names and events in the headlines section Grover Whalen is shown before a microphone just before the departure of the World's Fair motorcade; "Grandma" Skinner, 99 years old, and some of her 285 descendants who are celebrating her birthday, and Japanese girls are shown getting permanent waves—something quite new in Japan, it seems. Assorted camera angles present details of the Cloisters, medieval building erected in Fort Tryon Park by John D. Rockefeller.

A touch of humor is provided in the form of hats made out of vegetables, mixing bowls, candles and candy boxes. Running time, 9 mins. J.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 83
(RKO)

Perhaps the highlight, from a news standpoint, in this issue of the reel, is the clip picturing George Davis, U. S. Chamber of Commerce president, arguing the "con," and John L. Lewis of the C.I.O. and William Green of the A. F. of L. arguing the "pro" of President Roosevelt's "spending for recovery" program. There are also good shots of the results of Japanese bombing of Canton, and of the awarding of the reportorial Pulitzer Prizes to Ray Sprigle and Arthur Krock.

There is beauty in the picturing of the Cloisters, new upper New York museum, and timely filming of J. P. Morgan arriving for the Whitney quiz by an S.E.C. examiner, and a few celebrities sailing for Europe. The reel is completed with pictures of a new, small locomotive which runs either on the road or on railroad tracks, and a calesthenics exhibition of the graduating class of the Stalin Physical Culture Institute in Moscow. Running time, 8 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 664
(Universal)

Good makeup and editorial treatment make an entertaining release of the more or less routine material in this issue. The lead position goes to the start of a good will motor tour, representing every state in the Union, to exploit the New York World's Fair.

Other subjects are Mexico City tributes to the country's war veterans; plane stunts at a French aviation show; King Carol of Roumania on a "mercy visit" to a village virtually destroyed by fire; the return to Gloucester, Mass., of the yacht, Yankee, from an 18-month cruise; the annual hoop race of Wellesley College girls; fire drills employing new rescue devices in Portland, Ore.; a Cuban beauty contest; a wrestling match at New York's Hippodrome; California high school students being taught three-cushion billiards, and juvenile boxing bouts in New York.

The bulk of the material is of average entertainment quality, although lacking in spot news values. Running time, 9 mins. K.

Col. Plans New Shorts

Two new series of single reel subjects will be added to Columbia's short subject production schedule for next season, the company stated yesterday. The first, "Great Moments of History," will picture outstanding events in American history while the second, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," will deal with governmental functions.

Levy Enthuses Over British Television

Arthur Levy, special representative of Monogram Pictures in London, paused in New York before hopping off for the Monogram convention and Hollywood to discuss Monogram foreign business briefly and the future of television in Great Britain enthusiastically and at length.

Levy, a New Yorker who's been 20 years in England, is Monogram's contact with Pathe's nine exchanges in the British Isles. He reported that the English box-office is booming, that John Maxwell's one-man organization now controls 557 theatres against the 320 Gaumont British houses, and that Maxwell is the number one film man in England today.

Prefer American Films

Monogram, he pointed out, has a substantial distribution in England through Pathe and is getting quota product through local studios. The quota presages no great production boom in England, he said, because the British must get finances to take advantage of it.

American pictures, despite Sam Goldwyn's pessimistic views, are infinitely preferred.

Britishers stay away from home made cinemas in droves, he said. American gangster pictures are still tops with the customers, and after them, the "whodunits," and American drawing room-society pictures.

Television Principal Factor

But television is Levy's main preoccupation. He has invested heavily in it for eight years and his company, Scophony, has sold 3,000 sets with a reception range of 70 miles. The sets carry a viewing screen built into the radio, and pick up the two-hour daily broadcast from BBC.

Resentful theatre exhibitors are now beginning concerted action, he said, for television sets may be set up in pubs and elsewhere provided no admission charge is made. English pubs are already installing a thousand of these sets which are in competition with picture shows.

Ask IA Aid to End Lab Union Deadlock

Assistance of the I.A.T.S.E. to help break the deadlock in the negotiations with De Luxe Laboratories has been asked by the Motion Picture Laboratory Technicians' Union, Local 702. Lou Krouse, assistant president of the I.A., and Dick Walsh, vice-president, are to confer with the local's officials.

Veiled threats of a strike are being made by the union. De Luxe employes have voted to convert the negotiations committee into an "action committee," with authorization to "take action when it sees fit." It was said, however, that the local "will exhaust every available means to arrive at an amicable settlement of the differences.

The deadlock occurred when Allan Freedman, president of the company, rejected the union's demands for wage increases as excessive in view of the fact the laboratory is operating part time.

Delegates Go Social

Players who will be starred in forthcoming product were introduced to the conventioneers this afternoon, after which a formal dinner dance followed at the Roosevelt Hotel in the evening.

Tomorrow franchise holders will hold final conferences on product and sales and will discuss the 25 per cent rental increase on the Jubilee Specials.

Saal in his talk emphasized the fact that all new product will feature action and that two musicals are scheduled. They are "Stand Up and Cheer" and "Hit Parade of 1939." There are no color features planned, he said.

A new Republic dubbing and scoring stage on the studio property will be built, the convention was told, and a new sound stage will be constructed on a leased plot adjoining the present studio.

Rearrange P. & G. Programs on NBC

The Procter & Gamble programs on NBC will be rearranged beginning May 30, and the new schedule will show a loss to NBC of two current P. & G. shows, and the return to NBC of another, currently on CBS. The show returning to NBC is "Kitty Keene," and the programs that are going off are "Gospel Singer" and the "Vic and Sade" show on the Red. CBS, however, will be compensated for the loss of "Kitty Keene" by the acquisition of "The Gospel Singer."

The schedule changes will be as follows: On the Red, "Road of Life" from 4:45 P. M. to 11:45 A. M.; "Pepper Young's Family" from its present spot, 3 P. M., to 3:30 P. M.; "Story of Mary Marlin" from 4:15 P. M. to 3 P. M.; "Ma Perkins" from 3:15 on the Red to 10:45 A. M. on the Blue. The new alignment will give P. & G. a solid hour on the Red, save for the quarter-hour split at 3:15. This open spot will be filled with another P. & G. show soon, it is to be presumed.

On the Blue, "Pepper Young" will switch time with "Vic and Sade," with the former going from 11:15 A. M. to 11:30 A. M., and the latter changing from 11:30 A. M. to 11:15 A. M.

TORONTO, May 5.—Immediately after announcement by J. Under the terms of the lease, it is claimed the entire plant was to have been kept modern, in good repair and in operating condition, but the allegation is that the lessee converted and removed property and equipment for its own use elsewhere. Specific performance of the lease is asked in addition to damages. The wave length formerly operated by the plaintiffs as CKGW is now occupied by CBL, new super-station of CBC.

RKO Obtains Extension on Note Payment

Move Averts Clash with Debentures Holders

RKO has negotiated a four-month extension with the Bank of America National Association of the maturities on the final $200,000 of secured gold notes held by the bank, it was stated officially yesterday.

The extension of the payments appears to avert an immediate clash with holders of RKO debentures over the disputed question of whether or not the company's debentures will continue to have a secured position after the gold notes are paid. The gold notes are secured by virtually all of the going assets of RKO, including studio properties, while the debentures have a second lien on the same assets. Attorneys have raised the question as to whether or not the debentures will continue to have the same secured position when the gold notes have been retired.

The secured or unsecured position of the debentures vitally affects the company's reorganization plan, now in process of redrafting.

Under the original retirement plan

Roach May Be First to Join New UA Setup

Discussions Under Way On the Coast

Hollywood, May 6.—Hal Roach may be the first independent producer to be added to the United Artists lineup if discussions under way result in the working out of arrangements satisfactory to all parties. A factor in the negotiations, which have been largely informal so far, is the completion or adjustment of the existing Roach deal with M-G-M, which is understood to have eight months to go.

M-G-M is believed to be satisfied with the Roach relationship of long standing. Production of "Our Gang" comedies recently was transferred to the M-G-M lot.

The recent readjustment of U. A. policy with respect to contributing producers' participation in profits and yesterday's amendment to the bylaws is believed here to make the Roach shift likely. It is known that Roach wants to concentrate on the production of high budget pictures.

Recently he developed plans to make 10 to 12 pictures annually with

New Color Process Claims Economy of Regular Stock

By J. M. JERAULD

A new color process—Cosmocolor—was given a demonstration by means of a two-reel short, "A Western Welcome," in the RKO projection room yesterday. Advantages claimed for it are that it is photographed on a regular black and white standard negative, that "rushes" in color can be seen by the director the following morning, and that the prints projected in theatres cost only two and one-half cents per foot more than the standard black and white stock.

The results on the screen are excellent. The picture was projected first without color. The difference was surprising when the color film started. It seemed to have a stereoscopic effect by contrast. The colors were sharply defined and no bleeding of tints was apparent to a non-technical observer, although there was some variation of tones in the whites. The picture was produced by Bert Gilroy, RKO shorts producer, and was photographed by Roy Hunt.

"Numbered Woman"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, May 6.—The combination of a sound story in which progressive suspense is a constructive influence, capable acting, sane direction and worthy production establishes "Numbered Woman" as an interesting attraction. Unadorned by distinctive marquee names, the film, however, offers a company of players who know what to do with the ball when they get it and the manner in which they work should cause audiences to forget personal identities as they become absorbed in the experiences and adventures of the characters.

The plot has to do with the efforts of a private nurse to bring to justice a gang of crooks, who through trickery have connected her brother with a bond stealing crime. Associating herself, under an alias, with the convalescing master mind, she gradually gathers incriminating evidence and is the force which leads to the recovery of the loot as the principals kill each other and their minions are arrested.

Basically melodramatic, the picture includes considerable comedy while the romantic content is sufficient to give the story the necessary love interest quality. Delineation of the theme is mainly in the hands of Sally Blane and Clay Clement, both of whom give realistic performances. As the romance concerns Lloyd Hughes and Miss Blane, the comedy which Mayo Methot contributes serves to lighten the tension. Other principals are Morgan Wallace, Robert Fiske and Ralph Dunn, crooks, and J. Farrell MacDonald and Oscar O'Shea, policemen, and John Arledge, who has a brief but good bit as the heroine's brother.

The original screenplay by John T. Neville is logical and understandable and Karl Brown's direction is pointed to permit melodramatic suspense to dominate. Produced by E. B. Derr, "Numbered Woman" should prove a satisfactory general attraction in the houses in which it will play and should be of particular interest to women.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Critics Here Disagree in "Joy of Living" Reviews

A definite difference of opinion relative to "Joy of Living" was embodied in the reviews of New York's critics. Excerpts follow:

Daily Mirror— . . . another exhilarating light comedy. (Irene Dunne) Gay and sparkling. . . . A delightful cast supports her.

Daily News—Irene Dunne is a most persuasive and ingratiating comedienne . . . ably assisted by Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and a group of comedians. . . . The screenplay is amusing and solidly built.

Herald-Tribune—Some . . . is extremely funny, but the main narrative has been ineptly plotted and projected. . . . The show is stuttering more often than it is sprightly. . . . I would settle for the Jerome Kern score.

Journal-American—Light and gay, "Joy of Living" stacks up well in the list of madcap comedies to which Hollywood has become so devoted . . . handsome sets and a lively tempo.

Post—It's not so terribly funny, and its message does not startle, but it serves to pass an amiable hour.

Sun—(Irene Dunne's) soft, clear voice and graceful comedy, along with some Jerome Kern melodies, are about all the feature has to offer.

Times— . . . I found it a rather tiresome business generally. . . . The saving grace is the Jerome Kern score.

World-Telegram—Irene Dunne and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., employ their engaging sense of comedy in a pleasant manner in the brisk and amusing sophisticated farce.

RKO Obtains Extension on Note Payment

for the secured gold notes, RKO was to have made a final payment to the Bank of America on Monday. Presumably, this would have called for an immediate determination of whether or not the debentures continued to have a secured position. Under the agreement extending the maturities of the final $200,000 of the notes, however, the question will not be an issue, presumably, until after Sept. 1. The extensions called for the payment last Monday of $50,000 on the secured notes, a June payment is omitted and the final $150,000 is payable in three equal installments on July 1, Aug. 1 and Sept. 1.

Ban Is Retained on Philadelphia Games

from the Common Pleas Court ban on games has been regularly listed for argument in the week of the fourth Monday in November.

The petitions for supercedeas were presented before the court. Assistant City Solicitor James F. Ryan, in answer to the petitions, said:

"It is admitted that the operation of moving pictures in the city is a large industry. If, however, the business cannot be conducted without making a motion picture theatre a gambling hall on one or more nights a week, there is additional reason in public policy for the order of the Court of Common Pleas."

The court delivered no opinion in the case, merely returning the petitions with "supercedeas refused" written across the faces.

New Color Process Claims Economy of Regular Stock

Cosmocolor Productions, Inc., explained that the photography required the fastening of a special lens on a regulation Mitchell camea. He said filters imbedded the color into the black and white negative and that by means of a special projection device "rushes" could be projected in color from the black and white prints. When the color prints are finally made for theatres they have emulsion on both sides, but no special device is required on a projector.

Blankenhorn said RKO had experimented with the durability of the positive prints by running one of them through a machine 300 times without developing any scratches on the film.

At present the laboratory facilities are confined to one plant on the west coast.

Under this process, Blankenhorn stated, the regular camera crews operate the cameras without special training except on makeup tests and light mixing. The same amount of light is used for this process as is employed for black and white work, it is claimed.

Experimental work has been in progress for several years, it was stated, and the patents include a number controlled by A. T. & T., Western Electric and Erpi.

Arthur Lee, vice-president of G. B., was reported to have conferred in Los Angeles this weekend with Loyd Wright and Edward Alperson, Grand National trustees, after concluding G. B.'s final regional sales meeting in Denver on Friday. Although the results of the conference are unknown here, Alperson and Phil Goldstone asserted recently that Grand National has no intention of "selling out" and is confident that it can reorganize and resume normal operations within a reasonable time. The statement, however, does not reject the possibility of Gaumont British financial aid for Grand National which, perhaps, would give the British company a substantial interest in the American organization.

G. B.'s physical distribution deal through 20th Century-Fox, although approved already for the 1938-'39 season, continues on a year-to-year basis. It is pointed out that any arrangement which offered G. B. a more extended or permanent distribution outlet than that would undoubtedly be regarded with interest by the British company.

Lee will arrive from the coast by plane late today or tomorrow.

"Four Men and Prayer" Is Approved by N. Y. Critics

"Four Men and a Prayer" received a general verdict of approval from the reviewers of New York's dailies. Excerpts from their criticisms follow:

Daily Mirror—"Four Men and a Prayer" is an exciting melodrama (with) an unusually interesting cast . . . (an) adroit story.

Daily News— . . . Entertaining action film . . . (a) direct and potent answer to the independent theatre owners' prayer. The production and the players have what it takes to draw patrons into the theatre.

Herald-Tribune — John Ford has put the stamp of brilliant direction on (the film), but (it) leaves a good deal to be desired as persuasive entertainment. Individual sequences are topnotch, but the show as a whole is likely to leave you a bit confused.

Journal-American— . . . entertaining melodrama, skillfully directed by John Ford; handsomely turned out.

Post—("Four Men and a Prayer" affords) continuous amusement, excitement, suspense and pleasure. The credit goes to Director John Ford.

Sun—"Four Men and a Prayer" is a melodrama (and) a good-looking production. . . . The story is a complicated action tale. (The film) rattles on at great speed, without ever seeming to get anywhere.

Times— . . . a globe-trotting melodrama . . . it has been energetically told, compactly presented. . . . The players are uniformly in excellent fettle.

World-Telegram—Hollywood spins another superior story of English tradition in the thrilling and engrossing romantic melodrama, "Four Men and a Prayer." Under John Ford's superb direction it moves along with smoothness, finish and speed.

Predict Delay in RKO Plan Pending Revival of Market and asserted that the negotiations with principal creditors to obtain consents to revised treatment of their claims against the company were continuing in the hope of producing definite developments to report to Federal Judge William Bondy at the hearing scheduled for next Monday.

Representatives of the major creditors' groups, without whose consents to the proposed changes in the plan no final revisions could be made, replied to this with the definite statement that they had approved nothing to date. They pointed out, as well, that the proponent of the plan had estimated the new cash requirements for reorganization at $6,000,000 and was not hopeful itself of being able to dispose of new securities in anything like this amount under existing market conditions. Even with the abandonment of the earlier proposal of making provision for raising $3,000,000 which would be earmarked for purchase of M. J. Meehan's preferred stock holdings in Keith-Albee-Orpheum, the creditors' representatives said they see little possibility of progress being made on the reorganization without a definite improvement occurring in the financial market.

It was pointed out that, in view of this, Atlas Corp., either next Monday or subsequently, is expected to acquaint the court with the hazards of an immediate reorganization and urge an indefinite delay pending either a market upturn or some other favorable trade recovery.

Marshall Grant, story editor, for the studio, it was learned on Saturday.

Under the plan, the move is slated to be made within the next few weeks. Joseph will establish headquarters at the studio and spend eight to 10 months of every year there. All major publicity, advertising and exploitation functions, with the exception of trade paper advertising, will be conducted on the coast. It will involve the removal of the publicity department under David Lipton and the exploitation department under Harry Ormiston to the studio. Lou Pollock will continue in New York in charge of trade paper advertising and, in addition, will handle New York publicity. Press books will be handled on the coast, as will art work, under Joseph's direction.

The concentration of the departments at the studio is expected to result in a reduction of personnel, the extent of which has not yet been determined.

production requirements here but that a decision would be made soon.

On the company's production schedule for 1938-'39 will be seven "supers" budgeted at approximately $1,000,000 each. In the group are at least two from Capra, his first, "You Can't Take It With You," being already in work and his second vehicle, to start immediately after, now being sought. "Holiday," with Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant, a third in this group, is also in work with George Cukor directing. A fourth will be "This Thing Called Love," with Irene Dunne. The remaining three are Clifford Odet's "Golden Boy," with Jean Arthur; a second starring vehicle for Miss Arthur, and a "Warrior for Richard," which Gregory LaCava may direct with Carole Lombard in the feminine lead.

The schedule will include two with Edward G. Robinson, and "Murder in Massachusetts," to be directed by Rouben Mamoulian. The balance of the program will be announced at Columbia's first regional sales meeting, which will open in New York next weekend.

Columbia is expected to announce 22 westerns, four serials and approximately 100 short subjects, in addition.

Lumber Short the Latest

Another commercially sponsored film, "Men and Trees," is about to hit the nation's theatres, a gift from the Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. to any exhibitor who wants it.

Designed to offset bad propaganda that the timber barons are devastating a most important natural resource, much of the film is devoted to the reiteration that timber is a "crop" and that ripe trees must be harvested or they will become useless and that provision must be made for cut areas to reseed themselves.

Produced by Dowling & Brownell, Hollywood, this 10-minute short is distributed by the Modern Talking Picture Service which is soliciting theatre bookings in 30 cities.

Quebec Group Asks Surtax Elimination sit in the city of Quebec May 12 and 13.

The brief of the theatres was submitted by Henry H. Chauvin, William Lester, J. A. DeSeves, E. N. Tabah and D. A. Murray, representing Quebec Allied Theatrical Industries, United Amusement Corp., Ltd., and the theatres Cartier, Victoria and Limited. They claim that the surtax was originally imposed as a temporary measure by the Taschereau regime.

All taxes now total about 25 per cent of gross revenues or about 80 per cent of the net income, they contend. If the surtax were repealed it would go into their profits, they said, and would not be passed on to the public through reduced prices.

As a secondary consideration they asked readjustment of the present tax breakdown which has been so defined that a theatre cannot charge even-money admissions in some cases. For instance, the 35-cent admission is impossible because the tax is so applied that the house must charge 34 or 36.

They ask to be allowed to set a 31 cent admission charge and have the tax dropped from five to four cents.

Ontario Makes Drive On Uncensored Films

TORONTO, May 8.—Chairman O. Silverthorne of the Ontario Board of Motion Picture Censors and Gen. Victor Williams, head of the Ontario Provincial Police have launched a united drive to confiscate uncensored 16 mm. films which have flooded Ontario in recent months for stag parties and traveling shows of the one-night stand variety. Five-reel sex pictures and other salacious themes as well as propaganda films are to be rounded up, it is stated. These are imported largely from Europe or smuggled from the United States, according to Silverthorne, and have not been passed by the censor board. A number contain anti-Semitic, Communistic or Nazi material intended for the spread of European nationalistic policies. Provincial Police have been authorized to seize all uncensored films and place charges against those in possession of them.

NDERELLA OF 1938. One secret of the amazing glamour of motion ctures is that they are a never-failing source of romantic success stories.

One year ago, director H. Bruce Humberstone saw a little Irish girl om Pueblo, Colorado, manicuring in a Hollywood barber shop and per- aded her to come to the 20th Century-Fox studio for a screen test. hen the test was shown to Darryl F. Zanuck, he immediately placed er under long-term contract. Within twenty-four hours, the test had eated a studio sensation.

Wise in the ways of building stars, Darryl Zanuck did not put her directly into a picture. Until she, herself, was ready, and until the proper role for her debut arose, he kept her in the studio drama school. Then she was cast as the feminine lead in one of the company's most important productions.

Hollywood Previews

"Vivacious Lady"

(RKO)

Hollywood, May 8.—There is the type of farce comedy which often sizzles spicily in "Vivacious Lady." It looks like an attraction capable of drawing generous general patronage. It takes liberal license with features that were considered taboo for several years, withal doing so in an intelligent style. Many incidents in the film—dialogue and action—might be considered too significant for impressionable adolescents, yet the preview audience at the Village Theatre, partly composed of collegians from the nearby university but mostly of general run-of-the-mill patronage from adjacent Beverly Hills, Santa Monica and Westwood, found the picture interesting and amusing.

The giddy action is sometimes threatened with submerging in a welter of excessive dialogue, but it makes a wide departure from the recent round of rowdy comedies. The basis of the story concerns the return of a young college professor and his night club bride to a dignified, tradition-encrusted university and precedent-worshipping parents. Where most pictures end with an engagement and wedding this one begins with a breezy flirtation, a whirlwind marriage and builds up through many complications, some slightly risque, to a startling finale.

It is handled with a broadness which apparently the production staff deemed compatible with the problems besetting typical modern newlyweds where the difference in social and professional strata are so marked. The plot and its ramifications stem from the hesitancy of the groom to break the news to his family. To the excitement of the family problem is added that of the enforced association of the bride and the husband's playboy cousin who would like to take more than a platonic interest in her.

Ginger Rogers and James Stewart, the leads, are presented in roles calling for both to be on their toes all the time. James Ellison finds himself in a part that demands he be a romantic menace with a pollyanna complex. The trio give the production zip and zest while Charles Coburn skillfully and with dexterity enacts the part of a would-be puritanical father who cannot hold back the tide that is smashing all his dignified ideals. Beulah Bondi, Franklin Pangborn and Frances Mercer provide much amusement.

The story was adapted from an I. A. R. Wylie yarn. The screenplay is credited to P. J. Wolfson and Ernest Pagano. Producer-Director George Stevens may have invited lightning, yet the picture bears Production Code Certificate No. 3,330.

Running time, 90 minutes. "A."

"Kentucky Moonshine"

(20th Century-Fox)

Hollywood, May 8.—The Ritz Brothers have a great reputation as comedy artists in vaudeville and films. This is upheld in "Kentucky Moonshine," 20th Century-Fox's latest effort in the musical film field, which is laid against a background of burlesque hillbillyism and radio broadcasting. The chief assets of the picture, the Ritz Brothers, hold up their end so well that the story sags when they are off the screen. And they are off the screen for about half of the 85 minutes running time.

A screamingly funny highlight of the film is the Ritzes, as mad as ever, in a burlesque of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" for the finale. There is a loosely cemented story on which five writers—Art Arthur and M. M. Musselman on the screenplay, Musselman and Jack Lait, Jr., on the original, and Sid Kuller and Ray Golden on the additional dialogue and story—worked. It serves as a framework for a series of vaudeville acts by the three brothers. Other items worthy of consideration by showmen are Tony Martin and Marjorie Weaver supplying the love interest and singing, and Wally Vernon and Slim Summerville, John Carradine and Eddie Collins furnish some of the comedy. David Butler directed and Kenneth MacGowan produced.

The Ritz Brothers and Miss Weaver are actors who are trying to crash radio. They go to the hills of Kentucky when they learn that Martin and Vernon are going there to look for hillbilly talent for Martin's program. They sell themselves as real hillbillies and are brought to New York for the program. Blackmailed by a former associate, the Ritzes and Miss Weaver finally break down and confess the scheme. Miss Weaver, meanwhile, attempts to leave town. Martin dashes after her while the Ritzes put on an impromptu program. All ends well with Miss Weaver and Martin.

The story starts slowly with Martin singing "Swinging I Pagliacci." Various song numbers including three by Lew Pollack and Sidney D. Mitchell—"Moonshine Over Kentucky," "Reuben, Reuben, I've Been Swinging" and "Sing a Song of Harvest"—are interspersed.

The most vociferous in the preview audience was the studio section.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

Hollywood Previews

"Crime School"

(First National-Warners)

Hollywood, May 8.—It was inevitable that someone should build a picture around Humphrey Bogart and the seven youngsters Samuel Goldwyn cast with him in the production that won them group fame as "The Dead End Kids." It was by no means inevitable that the picture so built would be a good one, especially if it dealt with similar subject matter. Yet, "Crime School" is a good picture in the commercial sense at conservative least, and it presents the kids as the same incorrigibles in the same setting. It is different in that it presents Bogart as a champion of reformatory reform and the kids as duly reformed by fadeout time. Before it gets this small miracle accomplished it gives them plenty of scope for exercise of their well-grooved talents and piles up a number of situations more than likely to give a majority of theatregoers a stimulating evening.

Bryan Foy, rapidly becoming known as something of a box-office wizard, is down as associate producer. Crane Wilbur is credited with the original story and Vincent Sherman collaborated with him on the screenplay. Probably no censure should accrue to them from a striking similarity of the apex plot situation to that of last year's "San Quentin," since that was a property of the same company and there's no law against doing a good trick twice. This situation follows this time upon the incarceration of the boys in an ill-managed reformatory and their regeneration under Special Deputy Bogart's enlightened supervision. A venal guard induces one of the kids to tell another that Bogart's kindness to him is due to an improper interest in the boy's pretty sister. The kids set out to wreak armed vengeance, but Bogart convinces them his interest in the girl is orthodox and gets them back into school in time to foil the scheming guard. The kids are all gentlemen in a final sequence dated somewhat later.

Gale Page plays the girl, the only feminine role save bits by various character players. Lewis Seiler directed in a manner to give the kids plenty of camera at some small expense to the adult phases of the story. Deeds of youthful violence such as the theft of various items from cookies to bathtubs and the bludgeoning of an ungenerous junk dealer are portrayed graphically but unattractively and shown not to be so much fun. The film argues, in sum, that reform schools are schools, not prisons, and should be operated as such. Nobody is likely to argue that this is not so.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"Torchy Blane in Panama"

(Warners)

Hollywood, May 8.—With Lola Lane and Paul Kelly taking over the leading roles, "Torchy Blane in Panama" is another number in the series which was begun by Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane. Illogical in many ways as it treats the practical methods of crime solution and news gathering, it, nevertheless, is interesting and exciting. A melodrama, combative romance, comedy, action and those elements common to the hue and cry of mystery crime solutions are blended and production detail gives the film a sort of travelogue background. It is womanly intuition and not science that leads to the murdering crook's capture.

During the convention parade Anthony Averill kills as he robs a bank and loses himself among the marching delegates. Kelly is baffled. A rival reporter, Larry Williams, ridicules the police, Miss Lane deduces that the criminal would try to pass himself off as one of the visiting fraternity. Centering her suspicions upon Averill, despite Kelly's ridiculing objections, the girl follows him aboard ship as Kelly assigns Tom Kennedy to go along as her protector. In Panama, where Kelly eventually arrives, suspense and excitement are maintained and romance and comedy have their innings as pursued and pursuers play hide and seek. But Miss Blane, finally getting the evidence, also finds herself in danger. She is rescued, once again to demonstrate that a woman's guesswork is far more efficient than a man's scientific or practical methods.

For an average feature, the piece is well mounted and played in such style that it makes one forget the things accomplished are improbable and incredible. Anthony Coldeway wrote the original and George Bricker adapted it. They and William Clemens, who directed, concentrated on making the picture a bit of amusement rather than a lesson in the correct methods of crime solution.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Private Life of Mussolini"

(Hullenger Productions)

This was produced by Edwin Ware Hullenger, with the cooperation of Italian authorities in Rome. About half of the footage is old newsreel shots combined with new material in which Mussolini posed with his children and his wife.

Scenes showing the birthplace of Il Duce and his war activities are made from still pictures with some of the wartime footage of battlefront and behind the lines.

Its chief appeal should be to Italian audiences. The editing is excellent, but the condition of the old negative makes the prints grainy. It is the first of a series of screen biographies which Hullenger intends to produce. Distribution will be through state rights. Running time, 29 mins.

"Wynken, Blynken and Nod"

(Disney-RKO)

Eugene Field's familiar nursery poem has been made into the sort of Disney fantasy that makes delightful entertainment, especially suited for the younger audience but which also should be appreciated by their elders. The subject is ingenious and cleverly executed, aided by the color. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Music Made Simple"

(M-G-M)

This is one of the funnier Robert Benchley films. He gets himself into a dither while doing a guest spot on a radio program—commenting on classical music. The script utilizes a number of tongue-in-cheek musical titles and the gags remind one of Ed Wynn's librettos. Entirely too short Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Blue Monday"

(M-G-M)

This second number of "The Captain and the Kids" cartoon series is not as good as the initial films. The action falls into routine channels and follows familiar lines to the end. It is fair. The producers should follow the comic strip more closely. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

Observers Predict Neely Bill Vote in Senate in Day or Two

Washington, May 9.—Indications here are that the Neely bill will be brought up again in the Senate on Tuesday or Wednesday and will be put to a vote. Some political observers give the measure a 50-50 chance of passing, but most predict its defeat.

The defeat of the bill during this session would mean that its backers, if they are inclined to champion an anti-block booking measure again, would have to have it reintroduced as a new bill at the next session and public hearings on it would have to be held.

Monogram to Set Goal at 7,000 Sales

CINCINNATI, May 9.—Monogram sales forces will have a goal of 7,000 exhibitor accounts next season, or an increase of 2,000 over the current season, W. Ray Johnston, president, indicated today in addressing the company's national sales convention which opened at the Netherland Plaza here today.

Johnston said that the company's sales quota for the new season had been fixed at $6,345,000, or an advance of $2,000,000 over the current year. He said the advance was accounted for by increases in production budgets on the company's two Jackie Cooper pictures, the four Boris Karloffs and the three with Movita and John Carroll. Johnston said the first Cooper

Warners Start Convention With a Tremendous Bang

By C. S. AARONSON

They opened the Warner eastern sales convention at the Hotel Roosevelt yesterday morning with a bang—literally.

Although they were too modern to admit it, the idea was an Einfeld-Rechetnik "special," without a doubt. It's a good thing somebody had enough forethought to tip off Commissioner Valentine's flat—pardon, policemen, or they might have carted away the whole Warner crowd in patrol wagons.

The whole idea was that action was to be demonstrated for the boys, and if a sales manager told them they were on the firing line, they had no choice but to believe it.

Signs, spotlights and et ceteras indicated to the sales gang before they entered the meeting room that action was going to be the backbone of Warner product in 1938-'39, or something along that general line.

The men filed in and took their seats, when Gradwell Sears called, "Well, boys, come and get it." The dais chairs were filled, all to the tune of the Riff Song from "The Desert

Exchange Pact Bars Strikes Before Talks

IATSE Agrees to Help Perform Contracts

Industrial peace is provided in contracts signed by the major distributors with the I.A.T.S.E., covering 3,000 exchange employes in 31 distribution centers.

Local agreements, ratified by George E. Browne, president of the I.A.T.S.E., bar any stoppage of work for any cause prior to submission of the grievance to a board of conciliation, to be made up of three distribution executives and three officers of the union.

These are the only I.A.T.S.E. contracts in the industry to provide for settlement of disputes by arbitration, with the exception of the Local 306 operators' agreement in New York. The clause in the latter pact was the inspiration for the provision in the exchange unions' contracts, it was said.

Should the conciliation board fail to reach an agreement, the I.A.T.S.E. machinery provides for an international representative to step in. The agreements bind the parent union to "take the necessary steps" to have the locals

NLRB Avoids Row of Producers, Directors

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—The National Labor Relations Board today advised Dr. Towne Nylander, regional director, to adopt a hands off policy in the current war of words being waged between producers and the Screen Directors Guild. Hollywood, May 9.—Paramount and W. C. Fields have parted company as a result of the comedian's dissatisfaction with the material given him.

His last picture was "The Big Broadcast," and the next film for which he was scheduled, "Mr. Bumpus Goes to London," was shelved following his protest last week.

KRS Refutes Claim Grading Ups Rents

London, May 9.—The Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) met in full council session today on the troublesome feature grading problem and, refuting the contention of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association that the plan was designed to increase rentals, reaffirmed the object of the plan.

The organization insisted that the scheme was aimed at the elimination of excessively long theatre programs. The distributors declared there never was any intention at collusion among members, and offered to submit to independent arbitration the question of whether grading was intended to increase rentals. It was indicated that the judgment of the Board of Trade in the matter would be accepted.

The K.R.S. declaration is expected to affect the deliberations of the General Council of the C.E.A. on Wednesday. At a London meeting of the C.E.A. today, which was heavily attended, the C.E.A. opposition to the grading plan was endorsed and support to Ken Nyman, president, was pledged. He advised members to ignore any K.R.S. attempts at conciliation and to await the council's report after Wednesday's meeting.

Submit Nominations For English Council

London, May 9.—The New Films Council, as required under the terms of the recently enacted Films Act of 1938, is expected to include the following representatives, in addition to Sir Frederick White, who is expected to be named president of the council.

The list, unofficial but from authoritative sources, includes: Sam Smith, head of British Lion; George Smith, independent; Norman Loudon, chief of Sound City, and one other, from which the Board of Trade will select two, for the producers; Arthur Jarratt, G. B.; Theodore Fligelstone, independent; Charles Metcalfe, ex-president of the C.E.A., and Alex King, Scotch representative, for exhibitors. The Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) has submitted an entire panel asking the Board of Trade to select two. Labor nominees are Tom O'Brien and George Elvin.

(An Advertisement for Paramount's "Cocoanut Grove")

• Recently there has been widespread criticism in the trade of "clambake musicals" "Clambake musicals" are big vaudeville shows with lots of music, lots of girls, lots of gags... but practically no human interest, no heart punch, no real story. What this industry has been demanding, needing, is a new formula for motion picture musicals. And Paramount, ever a pioneer in picture enterprise, has succeeded in discovering that formula, creating that kind of picture.

Paramount's "COCOANUT GROVE" has music, a good share of it among the finest tunes turned out by Hollywood's musical colony in the past two years. "Says My Heart" and "You Leave Me Breathless" will definitely rank with such hits as "Thanks for the Memory." "COCOANUT GROVE" has a strong marquee lineup: Fred MacMurray, Harriet Hilliard, one of the top names of radio, the Yacht Club Boys, Ben Blue, Rufe Davis, Billy Lee, Eve Arden. "COCOANUT GROVE" has the necessary elements for a big time musical picture.

But "COCOANUT GROVE" is more than a musical picture. "COCOANUT GROVE" has story, one of the finest human interest stories the screen has seen this year ... the true-to-life adventures of a swing band, a kid they adopt, and the girl who adopts them. From start to finish, "COCOANUT GROVE" holds your interest by the heart tugging story itself. The dances, the tunes, the music are not just tossed in. They are natural parts of the plot itself. At no time does any song or act seem unreal or "just stuck in" to pep up the show.

We have screened "COCOANUT GROVE" for hardboiled exhibitors, many of whom have been frankly skeptical about the possibility of creating a new and more successful musical motion picture formula. To a man, they have praised "COCOANUT GROVE". Audiences at public previews have said the same.

"COCOANUT GROVE" marks the beginning of a new era in the musical motion picture. Book it and you'll soon see why.

COCOANUT GROVE

Film Daily May 9th

One band that DOESN'T sound a FALSE NOTE!

We'll admit that in a lot of "clambake musicals" swing bands, not to mention symphony orchestras, just sort of drop into the picture from nowhere in particular and begin to play. Yes, and we'll admit they very often, no matter how good they are, bust up the continuity, knock the plot for a loop...sound a very definitely false note. Not so the band in Paramount's "Cocoanut Grove".

When FRED MacMURRAY steps up in front of his band boys and gives them the go signal on the hit tune "Says My Heart", it's the natural thing to do. For Fred and his band are the very center of the picture. Their playing has been carefully fitted into the plot structure. You believe in them. And their music, instead of breaking the plot structure, carries it forward, strengthens it. We mention this here because we believe this is one of the many reasons why exhibitors who have seen "Cocoanut Grove" claim it is the answer to their demand for a musical comedy romance formula with story-sell in it. "Cocoanut Grove" has hit tunes. It has gags, and terrific ones. It has dancing, and swell dancing. But the tunes, the gags, the dances are so cleverly woven into the plot that they pack the wallop of heart interest, of natural character development, of dramatic build-up which make pictures sell—and sell big.

For a complete sales analysis of this new kind of musical picture see special press book on "Cocoanut Grove", obtainable at your nearest Paramount Exchange.

G. B. Studies Own Exchange System Here

Gaumont British is considering setting up its own distribution system in this country, and continuance of its physical distribution arrangement through 20th Century-Fox is indefinite, it was learned yesterday with the arrival from England of Jeffrey Bernerd, general manager of Gaumont British Distributors, Ltd.

When S. R. Kent, 20th Century-Fox president, left for Europe three weeks ago, he said: "G. B. are our allies. There's no reason for discontinuing the arrangement."

Bernerd was informed of this statement yesterday. "We may have something to say about that," he declared.

He professed to know little or nothing about the negotiations by Arthur A. Lee, G. B. vice-president, to take over the Grand National exchanges, but said this development was "not being taken very seriously in London."

G.N. Liquidation Expected

It is understood that Lee proposes to take over the G. N. distribution machinery and liquidate the company, which is chiefly a distributing organization, thereafter to have a national system of exchanges for G. B. This is aside from the deal which E. W. Hammons, president of Educational, is shaping up for a possible purchase of an interest in G. N. However, G. N. principals have said repeatedly that they do not intend to give up control.

Bernerd said that contrary to the impression here, G. B. has not discontinued production, and that although its Shepherd's Bush studios have been closed for many months, the company has sponsored production elsewhere. A larger program is being planned for the new season, including the usual Jessie Matthews' films, he said.

This is Bernerd's first visit here in about two years. He expects to stay a month, and will devote his time chiefly to conferences with Lee and a survey of prospects for the new season.

Lee Back in New York

Arthur Lee returned to New York from the coast by plane yesterday but declined to comment on the prospect of a G. B. tiein with Grand National.

"Nothing concrete has developed," Lee said, "so obviously there is nothing to be said."

It was reported from Hollywood, however, that Lee conferred at length over the weekend with Lloyd Wright and Edward Alperson, Grand National trustees, and would make his report on the situation to Bernerd immediately upon his arrival in New York. Lee and Bernerd conferred here yesterday and indications are that further developments may be expected within the next few days.

"Daughters" Retitled

HOLLYWOOD, May 9. — Title of "Wayward Daughters," Progressive, has been changed to "Rebellious Daughters."

In the Money

Motion pictures bought the oats for the Kentucky Derby winner and the "show" horse, Herb Woolf's Lawrin and Myron Selznick's Can't Wait, respectively. Woolf, a Kansas City chain clothing store owner, is associated with M. B. Shanberg, now of Miami Beach, in the Loew's Midland property in Kansas City. They formerly owned the Midland circuit, now the property of National Theatres. Selznick, of course, is a Hollywood agent. His horse was backed by Joseph M. Schenck.

Korda Will Start Shortly on Eight For U. S. Release

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, May 9.—Alexander Korda, head of London Films, arrived here today from the conferences in the United States which resulted in a realignment of the United Artists setup, to disclose that he will resume production within a month. He plans eight high-budget pictures, he indicated, designed for release in the United States.

In addition, he plans other smaller pictures and French versions, with French directors on certain films. It is anticipated that the contract under which Irving Asher, former head of Warner English production, will produce for Korda, will be signed in a few days.

Lubitsch May Direct

It is believed that among the players and directors who will come to England during the year to make pictures for Korda will be Ernst Lubitsch, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, and Paulette Goddard.

Among the pictures planned by Korda are: "Four Feathers," "Prison Without Bars," "Calcutta," in color; "Lawrence," directed by Brian Desmond Hurst; "Paris," in color. Directors will include Michael Powell, Marc Allegret and others. Korda may direct certain of the pictures himself, he indicated.

The publishers claim that the expense of filing hundreds of thousands of titles and making monthly changes, as required by law, would result in such expense as to make copyrights worthless.

The court held that the society is a non-profit organization and that it was not shown that any person having a pecuniary interest had the jurisdiction amount of $3,000 involved. An appeal direct to the U. S. Supreme Court is expected.
